Dedication

Great educators are fond of calling higher education the College Experience, which immediately brings to mind a type of environment in which the richest of cultural opportunity and awesome tradition are spread at the eager freshman's feet, which, of course, are standing on lush, rolling green lawns flanked on all sides by stately elms and ivy-covered mansions. This is not the environment of the College Experience that we, the Class of 1966, have been exposed to. It was our choice as freshmen to stand with our feet precariously sinking into the mud and be awed by the bleak and misty expanse of tractor tracks, flanked on all sides by stately cranes and pink brick.

It is true that the campus with which we were bestowed did not smile and say "Drink of my beauty and ye shall become beautiful." This campus taught us more in our quest for creativity and productivity than we could have imagined. Here we could learn to give of ourselves, to build castles given only the barest foundations, to climb mountains given only the raw iron with which to fashion pickaxes, to write symphonies given only a kazoo and a reed-pipe. This was our College Experience, that of novice mothers and fathers experiencing the trials of unplanned parenthood.

After an exhausting but very proud four years, the Class of 1966 delights in presenting this coming-out party. We dedicate this publication to the young, but ever-growing Stony Brook campus.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

With the fall came the shedding of the trees, the fading of tans, and inevitably, the start of a new school year. Goals were high, and the past was pushed into a world of retrospect, while the future was ideally anticipated. Old friends were happily welcomed back, and new ones were enthusiastically made.

Suddenly, then, it started. The tedia of registration—the long lines—the confusion—the push home to academia—and everything that went with it.

Freshmen were given one of the most vital introductions to the school—a Saga picnic. They ate, they discussed, and they reacted.

They danced. But most of all, their week was spent in listening to the wisdom of those who had trod the path before.

The semester started picking up speed. A lively competition was held, the Soph-Frosh Challenge, and the sophomore class emerged as the proved victor, the score standing at 240 to 160. The surprise of the day, however, was not only the superlative talent exhibited by the Frosh in the talent competition, but the wisdom and insights incorporated into it.

In the chaotic spirit Stony Brook is famous for, yearbooks were distributed. Upperclassmen united in the feeling of nostalgia that hung heavily in the air, and oblivious to anything else, searched for their own faces and those of friends, laughed together at the good times and the silly times, and, as they relived it all, were like children looking at it for the first time.

Before anyone knew it, midsemester exams arrived. And in this, the first frantic period, . . . what happened? Impossible, we said, not now! Please, not now! Characteristically, most exams were not cancelled. Many decided to take advantage of the phenomena that hit one half of the East Coast.

Two nights later, the University Theatre Group opened the theater season with "Circenzes" an evening of three one-act plays. Under the direction of John Newfield, Chairman of the Fine Arts department, "Sweeney Agonistes", by T. S. Eliot, "Shakes vs. Shav," by George Bernard Shaw, and "The Love of Don Perlimplin and Belisa in the Garden", by Garcia Lorca were presented.

Almost simultaneously, music filled the air with the SAB "Spectrum of Folk" concert featuring the Charles River Valley Boys, the Reverend Gary Davis and Jackie Washington. Three separate approaches to folk music were presented with imagination and success.

After a four day break for Thanksgiving, no one had the energy to study, but there was plenty to relax and enjoy, enjoy. The New Campus Theatre Group presented its first offering of the season, "A Child's Christmas in Wales", an adaptation of the short story by Dylan Thomas. The key word to this production was warmth, and this was felt in the language of Thomas directed by John Herr, the rich harmony of the Christmas Carolers, led by William Godfrey, and the crackling fire lit in each of the seven lounges that the group toured at.

Christmas was on its way, even though it didn't look as if it were to be a white one. Improvised Nicholases didn't seem to mind the weight of the "little girls" on their laps, and everything that had a branch was dressed in the finery of this happiest of seasons.

More music, but this time the beat of Dave Brubeck and his group, and then . . .

... finally it happened. This is what everyone had been waiting for. The snow fell like giant mothballs and covered the parking lot, the people, and happily the buildings and the ditches.

The creative instinct caught hold like the plague. This, while a lovely tribute to womanhood, did not even begin to compare with other unique, but unfortunately unprintable art objects.

The problem was that it came, as did the blackout, at the wrong time: final exams, and the frenzied attempt to pack knowledge into a hitherto unwilling recipient of a mind. We took our books and studied in any free and private spot we could find. For some, it turned out well; for others—well, anyway, intersession, that precious week of nothing to do, was here.

The first thing after intercession was the second offering of the New Campus Theatre Group, "Shadow of a Gunman," by Sean O'Casey, and directed by John Herr.

This tale of tenement people torn by the Irish rebellion was followed up quickly by Irish tales of another kind—those sung by the popular Clancy Brothers.

The very next night, the Jazz Forum, the University's group of student and faculty musicians gave their first concert.

The semester was racing along now like Spring semesters always manage to do. This may look like a junior summit conference, but in actuality, it is the final competition of the Trivia Contest, made famous by JS, C-3 in their ever-driving search for true knowledge.

Spring fever hits hard, and as they do each year, the JSO gave the girls the chance to hook the man of their choice in the Annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. It is always interesting to note that this dance is the only semi-formal that is a guaranteed sell-out.

Activity bustled. There were dances, both planned and impromptu. There was political screaming and bickering, much of it manifested in a publication called the UNIVERSITY JOURNAL brought out to rival the STATESMAN. Unfortunately, its tongue was so firmly in its cheek that it just about was swallowed.

And there was more entertainment. The University Theatre presented Pirandello's "Henry IV".

And the SAB presented the Fugs, a singing group whose material is as controversial as its talent is debatable.

But the SAB made up for it with Simon and Garfunkel and Paul Butterfield's Blue's Band, whose talent happily enough is unquestionable.

After Easter, the first buds of Spring popped out of their little shells, and looked down on something that was as fresh and as new as they were. April 16th was the day for the University to take a President, and John S. Toll was inaugurated with the traditional and beautiful ceremony befitting his office.

And then came the first weekend in May. Books were slapped closed and shoved away. Phone calls were made frantically. Faces glowed. Mysterious things were going on in the Gym Parking Lot as vagabonds and gypsies hammered away at tents flapping in the breeze. Lights were hung from the ceiling of the basketball courts. Inside the University Playhouse students ran back and forth with not a faculty member to be seen. Feverishly H Cafeteria was being transformed into a casino. Paint splashed everywhere, especially on cars, posters, and people. This was Spring Weekend. It opened with a production that set a precedent at Stony Brook theatre. A merger between the Fine Arts Department and the New Campus Theatre Group. An evening of total student theatre was presented. "The Marriage Proposal" directed by Judith Brickel and Neil Louison, "The Case of the Crushed Petunias" directed by Katharine Howath, "The Nine O'Clock Mail" directed by Norman Golden, and "The Zoo Story", directed by Elaine Cress, marked the start of student direction and production. The evening spanned from farce to fantasy and finally, to tragedy in a completely professional atmosphere.

Night life brought a whole new world to Stony Brook. Laughter and joy whirled around in a kaleidoscope of activity, color, and flashing lights.

The Casino Mood made "Lady Luck" look like an amateur chorus girl as everyday type people turned into debonair gambling gentlemen and ladies. Money flowed like wine from table to table. The losses might have been frequent, but the gains were worth it all.

Carnival gave people more than cotton candy and a ride on a ferris wheel—it was a trip into youth—real youth, and dreamed of fantasy. One could scan the world from the top of the ferris wheel, or prove he was the strongest man in the world, or get married to the girl of his dreams.

On Saturday night, the humor of Dick Gregory and the music of Mongo Santamaria excited and moved the audience—and Sunday? Everyone was too tired and happily exhausted to move.

But plans for something were in the air. Shortly after Spring Weekend we marched for five hours in front of the Library, in protest of an impending disaster—tripling. Well-organized and taken seriously, the demonstration brought publicity and the attention of Albany to a crisis we did not consider a laughing matter: all the disadvantages of a large university with none of the advantages.

And then, another impending disaster—final exams. All memories of the hectic glow of Spring Semester were pushed aside as studying took over. And, as a climax, the last event, the Spring Formal played host to a group of tired and relieved people.

So it ends, a year at Stony Brook. There has been hardship and unhappiness and lonely moments for everyone, but it has been a good year, too, and one in which we came just a bit closer to everything we have strived for. The silence of these halls, the lonely wastepaper baskets, the dim lights—all of these have seen a full spectrum of a very full year. Stony Brook '66 ends.

ATHLETICS

Soccer

Basketball

Last season the Varsity Basketball Team compiled a record of 5 wins and 14 losses. Although the team did not play up to par, the losses can somewhat be accounted for by the quality of the opposition. In addition, two star players played only half a season. Joel Pitagorsky played only the first half, but despite this, "Pitt" scored 197 points and made the Knickerbocker Conference second team, the first SUSB player so honored. Jack Mandel missed the first half of the season, but came back to spark the team with 167 points including a record 28 vs. Ft. Schuyler and 57 assists.

Freshman starter Bill Stokes, the team's Most Valuable Player, proved to be invaluable with his consistency. Another starter, Jeff Kagel, also a freshman, led the team in rebounding while playing solid all around ball. High scorer (240 points) Ted Eppenstein was voted the Most Improved Player by his teammates and was an indispensable scorer and rebounder.

Captain Larry Hirschenbaum sparked the team with his hustle and defense as he played clutch basketball in the last five games. Dave Schiffer provided needed scoring in the second half of the year including three twenty point performances. Mike Leahy, Dave Burstein, and Larry Neuschaefer all added depth to the team with clutch performances.

Next year's prospects for Coach Herb Brown's squad look good since seven returnees scored over 100 points.

The team's best performances were in their last three games. In their best display of teamwork to that point the Warriors routed Fort Schuyler 89-65! Following that, the Warriors handily defeated favored Brooklyn College 85-67 with a balanced attack. In the season's last game against New York Institute of Technology, the Warriors determinedly fought back from a 15 point half-time deficit with a 55 point second half to lose by only 4 points, 84-80, getting twenty point performances from Jack Mandel, Ted Eppenstein, and Larry Hirschenbaum.

After winning their first three games, the Junior Varsity Basketball Team lost eleven of the last twelve. These were not due to poor performance but rather to the fact that there were many injuries and changes. Ricky Firestone and Pat Garahan were both unable to play for most of the season as a result of severe injuries. At the same time, a top player Frank Bass was moved up to the Varsity squad, causing a shortage of men for the Junior Varsity. After all these difficulties, the team could not get back on the winning track and ended with a disappointing season.

The leading scorer was Mike Santoli, pouring in 157 points for a 13-1 average. Close behind was Pat Garahan with 153 points. The biggest surprise on the team was Alan Epstein who did not start at the beginning of the season but developed rapidly into the third highest scorer and the leading rebounder. Alan had the best game of the season scoring 25 points and getting over 20 rebounds against Brooklyn College.

Special mention must be given Coach Lenny Ginsberg who did a great job in leading the Junior Varsity Team despite all the unforeseen problems they encountered.

The 1965-66 season was the first year of active intercollegiate competition for the Stony Brook Judo Team. The team competed in matches against Grumman Aircraft Company, Fort Schuyler, Colombia, Princeton, and West Point. The highlight of the season was participation in the Eastern Collegiate Judo Association Championship. The team had a 2-3 record for the year, defeating Grumman and Colombia and losing two very close matches, one to West Point and the other to Princeton.

The team was fortunate in having Mr. Richard Dunlavey serve as coach and advisor, and Mr. Mas Hisataka, a fourth degree black belt, as instructor.

This year's Cross-Country Team posted an impressive (9-6) record after an expanded season that saw Stony Brook go against fifteen opponents. For the boys on the team, the season was highlighted by an overnight trip to New Paltz State College that saw the Harriers place seven men in the first nine to insure victory.

The A.A.L.I.C. Championship Meet held at hilly VanCourtland Park resulted in a third place finish for Stony Brook, with Ray Gutoski placing second, Jack Esposito, eighth, and Dave Riccobano, fourteenth. Coach Snider is looking forward to an even more promising year with all but one of the team returning.

First row: J. Chingos, J. Jones, B. Konkel, D. Heath. Second row: Coach Snider, R. Fuessler, D. Riccobono, R. Gutoski.

Wrestling

Making its debut on the Stony Brook sports program, this past winter, State's Wrestling Team started a new era in intercollegiate competition. Under the direction of Coach John Ramsey, the team realized triumph, defeat, and more importantly a growing enthusiasm for true athletic competition.

Although many personal accomplishments were to be found this year, as a whole, due to lack of experience and sufficient organization, the team fell short of a winning season having a record of 1-2-1. However, along with Coach Ramsey, the team is looking forward to the return next season of men like Doug Happ, Jack Esposito, Fred Goodstein, Richard Moss, Bob Flor, and many others.

Many a spectator, and of course all non-followers of wrestling itself fail to realize that the actual match represents a very very small fraction of the time involved in this sport. What stands to be shown is that wrestling involves 15 to 20 team hours of practice a week, but even more, a strong personal dedication and respect for individual practice, and for controlling weight. It is here in these unseen areas that a wrestler is most clearly portrayed.

Bowling

Under the guidance of a new coach, Mr. Stephen Goodwin, the Stony Brook keglers finished a disappointing year with a one and four won-lost record. Led by Captain George Robbins, the keglers finished fourth in the A.A.L.I.C. tournament which Stony Brook hosts each season. Although they had a rough season due to key injuries, some bright spots were had. Freshman Mike Herman had a high individual average and was named the team's Most Valuable Player. Prospects for the future appear good with five of six lettermen slated to return. Next year should also see the formation of a new Long Island College League proposed by Mr. VonMechow, Stony Brook's Director of Athletics.

First row: M. Herman, C. Searle, D. Bronz. Second row: S. Goodwin, Coach, M. Low, G. Robbins, Captain, R. Cohn.

Gymnastics

Swimming

Swimming is an art as well as a sport, involving strength, endurance, coordination, and precision. The boys on the Swimming Team devote much of their time, their energy, and enthusiasm mastering these skills. Under the direction of Coach Ken Lee and Captains Paul Epstein and John Robertson the boys "worked out" pushing themselves to the point of exhaustion. The team was composed of Paul Epstein, John Robertson, Arnold Polver, Ken Peters, Jim Welling, Rocky Cohen, Fred Lifshy, Fred Brustein, Ken Shapiro, Marc Rothstein, Elliot Cohn, Howard Strauss, Hank Levy, Mike Levinson, and Sam Swanson. While not largely victorious this year, the boys became men and these men became a team. In addition to speed, style, and team spirit, each man had to develop self confidence.

From the moment the gun sounds until he touches the finish line the swimmer is alone. The reward for all his effort and devotion is victory; more than that, it is a deep sense of accomplishment and satisfaction.

A.A.L.I.C. Championships Queens 67½, Stony Brook 58, Kings Point 44, Post 41, Adelphi 31½, Hofstra 28

The 1966 Track and Field Team finished their season with a record of seven wins and four losses. They highlighted the year's work with a close second place finish behind Queens in the A.A.L.I.C. Championship Meet at C.W. Post.

The harriers, who were accepted as members of the College Track Conference this year, entered the C.T.C. Championships with only four varsity members and four freshman members, but scored twelve points in the varsity division and nine in the freshman division.

Under the coaching of Bob Snider, the team, dominated by freshmen and sophomores, broke eleven school records. Co-Captain Ed Weiss won the Most Valuable Player Award and dominated the team in total points scored with 149. He broke the old record of 60½ by a wide margin as did other members of the team.

Distance runner Jack Esposito was also honored. He received the "Statesman Award" for the Top Athlete in the school. Jack won the award for his participation in four sports including Track. Jack also holds the school record in the two mile.

Crew

Crew is a sport that requires strength, a good sense of timing, and a lot of dedication. This year's Varsity Crew has all of these qualities, especially dedication. It takes something extra to go through a season without a coach, put out of action by sickness, putting everything you have into a sport, and never know whether or not you are improving.

Everyone in the Varsity boat put a lot of time and effort into keeping the team going throughout the past season, but one person, not on the team, has done more than anyone else to keep Crew alive. He is Myron E. Doucette, Assistant to the President for Scientific and Technical Equipment. The Crew Team has been rowing from his property for the last three years, and if it were not for his generosity, Crew at S.U.S.B. might have ended three years ago.

This year saw the beginning of women's intercollegiate sports, and despite a few set-backs, the women's teams have proved themselves strong and have set an enviable precedent. Although the Girl's Softball Team met with weather problems, they were victors of the one game they played, defeating C. W. Post 33-7. The Women's Intercollegiate Volleyball Team participated in two play-days, with Adelphi-Suffolk College and Suffolk Community College. This proved to be a highly successful first season, defeating both teams at Adelphi-Suffolk in Oakdale. On home courts, against Adelphi, the first team won, although the second team was defeated by the visitors.

The coach for both these teams, Miss Mildred Wehrly, has promised an expanded and active schedule for next year. A successful season is anticipated for 1966-

Varsity Cheerleaders

Starting in September and on through the season these girls have the double responsibility of boosting the morale of the team and spectators, and drowning out their reactions after a point has been scored by the other team. This year, they proved their ability in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Cheerleading Competition by taking fourth place and earning the distinction of being the first school group to win an award sponsored by a non-Stony Brook organization. Plans are now being made to hold this Competition here at S.U.S.B. next year.

SPECULA is the student yearbook, a kaleidoscope of activity and reaction in which the personality of the University is captured and recorded with creativity and feeling. It is a full year's work of watching, waiting and pouncing on the right mood, the unique expression, and at the end, gathering all of it into a meaningful and imaginative work. In addition, it points to concerts, plays, athletics, dances, clubs and depicts each of these as a direction of University Community activity.

WUSB is the University's own radio station, operating on 820 kilocycles on the A.M. dial. It provides 24 hours of listening pleasure, most of which is presented by the students and consists of music from rock-and-roll to opera, campus and world news, and "The Stony Brook Round Table", a discussion of campus events, in addition to occasional specials such as documentary productions. Plans for the future include a move to the Student Union Building after its construction, improved equipment and extended broadcasting throughout Suffolk County.

Abounding in talent and energy, the New Campus Theatre Group is one of the most popular sources of entertainment on campus. This year, the groups presented "A Child's Christmas in Wales," "Shadow of a Gunman," and, concurrent with Spring Weekend, four one-act plays directed by students themselves. Since these were such a success, plans for the future involve more student-directed productions, as well as a musical.

JAZZ FORUM: J. Chesnoff, Chairman, P. Ratener, T. Hickey, D. Harris, G. Sheck, C. Krieger, R. Rolston, Dr. Petrinovich, Advisor.

This is a truly well-named group, for the Forum has explored thoroughly all aspects of jazz, from the beat of a quartet to the sound of a big band. What started out as student jam-sessions has evolved into student-faculty harmony under the baton of Clem Derosa. This year, the Forum demonstrated their successful Second Annual Concert.

The Jewish Student Organization is the campus group devoted to serving the spiritual, social, and intellectual needs of the Jewish students. To meet this goal, it has sponsored a full calendar of activities. The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance was once again a sell-out. The popular series of Bagels and Lox Breakfasts featured guest speakers representing Orthodox, Conservative, Reconstructionist, and Reform Judaism. Also on this year's program were a lecture series on the Talmud, an Israeli Hootenanny, a swim party, Channuka party, and a drive for UNICEF.

Rabbi Elliott Spar, chaplain, has spent many hours on campus working with the organization, leading programs, and providing individual counseling.

The J.S.O. is now in the process of affiliating with the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations.

The History of the Class of 1966—or

The Making of Tradition at Stony Brook—or

The Story of Polydeuces

NOW that one thinks back, it was only proper that Stony Brook's virginity be violated by the 400 some members of the Class of 1966. This happened on a Sunday in mid-September 1962
as the first Stony Brook orientation began. The upperclassmen, present, could be counted on two pairs of hands. Yes, it was truly our campus. Tours of the campus were constantly going on all week, equipped with handbooks during the day and blankets at night. The upperclassmen's image was introduced to us in the form of Alex Censor, Polity
Moderator. We elected a four man
"Freshman Advisory Board" and it functioned until October elections.

Dr. Goldberg, I still say that "The Love Song of J. Alfred Proof-rock" is about a house of prostitution.

Bio 101-102 in the Chem building and breaking in at midnight to isolate the virgin fruitflies (Looking back on it, we were probably the last Freshman class to actually do the fruitfly experiment. They have been fudged ever since!!) Math 111-112 with Mr. Fox and his target practice, as well as his fantastic lecture on the History of Rock and Roll, equipped with old

By October one member swore never to go near politics again, the second soon flunked out with a 0.00 average, the third wore orange socks—constantly, and the fourth required two and one-half years to realize what school politics was really like. During Orientation week some nicknames were quickly established: "Jared the Toe", "Lennie the Lush", "Fats", "The Hick," "The Super Hick", "Legs Forbes", "Chief."

Ahh—we loved the school. School!—You mean Hotel St. Tilley. Who will ever forget games like "Oh Hell"? We soon learned that a steamroller does not require a key to start, as well as learning how easily some signs and a particular machine gun could be relocated—say in G-cafeteria. We were the last Freshman class to have a fairly large percentage over 18 years old so that the "Corners" and the "Cave" were soon thoroughly investigated. In fact, for the students under 18, an evening's entertainment consisted of sitting in G lobby and watching the drunks come back. We were soon exposed to those immortal words that every class is exposed to: It's Hoppy! Yes, this certainly was OUR campus.

If It Couldn't be found in the Hum or Chem building or G Dorm—it didn't exist.

Then, invaders. Upperclassmen, they lacked self-assurance. Of course, they too were FRESHMEN at Stony Brook. Therefore, we proceeded to come to their rescue, helped them get settled and conducted tours for the upperclassmen. This simple gesture seemed to set the tone for the entire year—one of close harmony and understanding between the classes. But there was still a Freshman class, and we were determined to make ourselves known. We quickly banded together, be it because of our common curriculum or just due to our numbers. Stan Levin was President that year and Steve Zornetzer our Representative. D. Gerber became notorious because of . . . well . . . he . . . you name it . . . he did it. Who else could make R. Lawrence famous?

The Smithtown bull was finally painted. "Hey Red, what color was it again?" Thank the Lord for the SnackBar that year to get us past Slader food. Together, the class of '66 toiled through Soc. 101-102 (Mr. Prouty's sections were subtitled—Sex in Soc. 101-102), English 101-102.

records, sideburns, and red shorts. The good times when Becker's Raiders of C-wing and the B-wing Bombers both were against the notorious A-wing. Time and time again they tried to break their unity—but always failing. Who else but A-wing sponsored "The Donkey Serenade Nite", the "A-1st Marithon shirt", and the C-wing in fairy shirts. Hal Holzman once said, "Stop calling us C-wingers fairies and we will take the bricks out of our pocket-books. We were exposed to our first big-time concert, the Art Farmer Quartet, a sell out crowd of 175 in ABC lounge. That same night Mrs. B. entered the dorm.

Blackouts and fire alarms were "in" that year. The year ended on a very high note. We won the inter-class track meet and set the first of several traditions, an off-campus Spring Formal that was successful. Who will ever forget the famous upperclassmen's proverb—"Look to your left, one of you will not be here next year." Who ever heard of a 50% drop-out rate? Everyone's summer was occupied with explaining to our friends how we were NOT a branch of Post or L.I.U., or no longer SUNYLICUS—simply the State University of New York at Stony Brook, not Stoney Brook!

First Annual Spring Weekend became a reality. Crew was truth. And then there was the construction. On Monday they cemented a walk and on Wednesday they ripped it up to install pipes and wires. We left for morning classes and returned to find all the trees gone from the back of A-B wings of G-dorm. "Hey Mr. Constructionman, why did you knock down those trees?" "Because South Hall is going to be built here fellows." "Oh, South Hall, what a funny name for a dorm. Why doesn't someone name the buildings?" And when it rained, those wooden planks sure came in handy—whoever heard of a roller coaster for a sidewalk. The little grass we had, was cut the day before construction was started for a new building on that same site.

Half in Numbers but doubled in spirit, we started our Sophomore year. Immediately we sponsored "Sophomore Saturday" A basketball victory over Harpur by one point set the day's mood. George Krasilovsky, coordinated the day with Nancy Panagokos directing the best talent show ever presented at this school—songs, love scenes, and the famous Stony-brookettes. A bonfire afterwards with the Sophs and Juniors challenging the Frosh and Seniors to a tug-o-war. We were winning but the rope broke. Finally—wrecking the piano in record time for Stony Brook: 18 minutes and 42 seconds. Zorn and O'Connor were our class officers. There was plenty of snow that year. "Sladers Sliding" reached its peak in popularity. Christmas was the most beautiful ever, and the "Bird" was the word. Moral Censure Day came into existence as C-wing again tried to prove they were not fairies.

D. Gerber Day was also celebrated marking the day of the famous jump. Soon fellows were jumping from the third floor minus their B.V.D.'s. If none of the above interested you, you could always take a blinking red light out to Nichol Road, and wait, and wait. The 1st annual I.B.M. Dance was a success because no one knew what it was. The Engineering Party was the last Beer Bash until our Senior Year due to the flooding conditions in the V.W. Hall. The Coach House opened and we decided their hangovers were more elegant because of the atmosphere. The lack of a boathouse marked the decline of crew. This was also the year of knifing everyone in, as well as the first organized party raid. Secrecy was of the utmost importance. Target time was one minute after midnight with Whitey leading the first assault. However, at 7:30 P.M., a student leader received a phone call—"Hello — —, this is Dean Tilley."

I Understand You are going to have a panty raid tonight and I would appreciate . . ." All plans were abandoned and it was every man for himself, or should we say—for the panties. To quote the "I": "Boys will be boys."

The S.M.O. was organized that year, leaving their emblem on the library and in the foundation of South Hall. South Hall needed a student crew to get it into shape. Construction on the gym proceeded according to schedule—seven months behind. The unfinished pool was christened one evening by a group of seven brave males. Bob's key collection increased as more and more buildings were opened. Security was minus a bubble, besides being under heavy attack one evening. Under Hal Holzman, the J.S.O. members ran the Sadie Hawkins Dance, making it the most successful dance of the University's short history. Second Annual Spring Weekend went very smoothly, highlighted by the First Annual Carnival—a Sophomore class endeavor coordinated by George Krasilovsky. R. Meltzer was instrumental in our obtaining "Monk" in concert. Stony Brook was looking like a college more and more every day. The SAB was organized to make sure Stony Brook had a social life its students could boast of when talking to friends. Almost 80% of the Board were members of the class of '66 and Joel Kleinberg became its chairman in September, 1964.

In the Academics we remember D. Lieberman and his colored chalk, Dr. Peguigney, the best of the Humanities teachers, we were still sneaking into the Biology labs to isolate virgin flies. Math at 8:00 A.M. with "Flash"—Playboy pictures on Dr. Pond's sliding blackboards—Dr. Alexander and his non-New England drawl.

Our saddest recollection is the tragic death of President Kennedy in November. His love of life and his beliefs influenced many students that weekend in many types of personal meditation as a unifying hush fell over the campus and the nation.

Our Junior Year saw the last of the "undecided" become "decided". Many '66'ers were in active and important positions in student government, the residential halls, and the various departmental offices.

Frosh-Soph Challenge almost wrecked the school—Second Annual Sophomore Saturday was highlighted by assorted kidnappings. The Second Annual IBM Dance was successful because a large number of Froshes thought it was a required activity. Several feeble attempts were made by the males to acquire feminine apparel, but they were foiled everytime by the ever-alert RA's (who were also last year's panty raid leaders and who knew all the tricks). Josh White Jr. was excellent in concert, as was Max Roach—Crew, still without a boathouse, ran a successful Yuletide Ball from which Santa was kidnapped. The New Campus Theater Group was created by Elaine Cress under the guidance of Dean Herr. Many enjoyed themselves at Grossinger's that intersession. Gene Tinnee broke the school's basketball scoring record. With the permission of F.J.H., Stony Brook females executed the First Annual Jock Raid and much to the embarrassment of the males—succeeded!

The Junior Class set another tradition by sponsoring a concert—a standing room only crowd saw the Chad Mitchell Trio. As a result, we became the first class to have a bank account before our Senior Year. The concert's success was due to the efforts and leadership exhibited by our class officers, Nancy Panagakos and Paul Levine.

The gym was christened by Count Basie and his Orchestra as they raised the roof from the gymnasium. President Gould of the State University system spoke at that year's commencement exercises. Nancy Panagakos and Karl Boughn were honored by the Faculty Wives as the two outstanding Juniors. In the academics, we remember Mickey Mouse Physics, how many of us finally succumbed to our foreign language requirements—the Experimental Psychology class, not understanding how Skinner got his rats to work for him—Engineering majors and their 6 or 7 courses—all the pool hustlers signing up for Dr. Polsky's courses—additional words to our vocabulary—Graduate Students—all topped by the realization that after surviving finals—we were Seniors.

And in the winter, go the spoils. But in our Senior year we also felt the greatest pressures of our four years—decisions, applications, G.R.E.'s, was there to be no end?

Meanwhile, the Third Annual IBM Dance was another success because there seemed to be a large number of cute freshman girls, there was the usual number of unsuccessful panty raids, and the Gold Coast became the place for about five weeks. The big fall concerts were "Folk Spectrum" and the Dave Brubeck Quartet, and the big dance was H-Quad's Christmas Party.

Many enjoyed intercession at Grossinger's as the Senior Class' bankbook was increased (thanks to Susan Brasser).

One freshman became known to all: President John S. Toll, a man who very quickly gained the respect and admiration of the University Community. Seniors participated in President Toll's Inauguration and the Campus dedication, an occasion we were all very pleased to see before we left, now knowing that the university was left in the best of hands.

The Senior Class Concert was under the direction of April Starke and Clem Crea; Dick Gregory and Mongo Santamaria in concert. Unfortunately, many were not that impressed by the names of the performers, but the feedback from those who did attend caused many to be sorry that they had not attended. Mongo had a sound and beat that brought down the roof, especially with his "Watermelon Man" and "Yeah, Yeah".

Dick Gregory had the audience laughing for over an hour.

In the Second Annual Senior-Faculty Basketball Game and Beer Bash, organized by Krasil and Zorn, we had a score to settle, as last year's seniors had lost. A capacity crowd saw an eight squad senior team encounter twelve determined faculty members. Each senior squad had its own costume (even the Nursery School was represented). No casualties occurred due to the efficient Senior Medical Team.

"Dear Mom, you will receive the bill very shortly."

The Seniors were able to maintain the lead during the first half, but lost it in the second half. With one minute to go, the '66er's team of ringers came in—our Cheerleaders! Persistence and cheating enabled the cheerleaders to score three baskets, ending the game in a tie: Seniors 70, Faculty 70.

The evening festivities were not over, as 150 seniors and faculty members turned toward the Coach House to participate in the most successful Beer Bash in the university's history. Tony and his guitar blasted out "Woolie Boolie" and Richie sang "I'm saved" and "Hoochie Koochie Man". All in all, a total of four half-kegs were consumed, a record that will probably stand for many a year.

The Final stretch was highlighted by the banquet at the Hauppague Country Club. President Toll spoke to the group and offered a Champagne Toast. Many thanks to Gerry Zynczak for her organization of the affair; an evening of reminiscing, dancing, drinking, laugh-and drinking.

Then commencement practice. "Please fill out page 5 of Form B after filling out a Placement Questionnaire." . . . "Oh, Smith, how do you pronounce your name?" . . . "Reach, don't grab with your left hand . . .

Well, we'd made it. That was really us wearing those caps and gowns. And there we sat, hearing Supreme Court Justice White, applauding the first PHD candidate, Ray McKay, marching across the platform moving our tassels to the left side of our caps. We were graduates of the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

And so we leave Stony Brook, taking with us thoughts and experiences accumulated over a momentous four year period, and leaving behind a foundation of beliefs and traditions which future classes will strengthen.

Justice White

Editor's Note

July, 1966

In this edition of SPECULA we have attempted to represent the essence of not one, but four years at Stony Brook. These four years have witnessed the first stages in the growth of a soon-to-be-great university.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those people who, although not on the SPECULA staff, have made valuable contributions to this publication.

Thanks go to George Krasilovsky for single-handedly taking upon the task of writing the senior class history.

I am deeply grateful to Elaine Cress for writing the copy in the "Events" section and for editing most of the other copy in the book.

I would also like to extend my appreciation to Mr. Bernard Friedman and Mr. Aaron Jarit, for their aid, patience, and cooperation. The fine quality of their portraits and group shots is in every way indicative of the type of work done at Carol Studios.

Most of all, I would like to thank Mr. George Olsen and Mr. Jim Simmonds of Taylor Publishing Company for the many hours they spent with us in the yearbook office working on this publication. Without their assistance, this book might still be in the planning stages.
