"Differential Opinions" On Differential Tuition

By ALEXANDRA CRUZ
Statesman Editor

The state is currently considering whether the SUNY system should be run on a system that would allow each individual campus to charge tuition based on the programs that it offers. Under this plan, each campus in the SUNY system would allow each campus to become autonomous from SUNY Central.

"Differential tuition would be an opportunity for the president of a SUNY campus to set tuition for students above or below what it's current level is within some guidelines that would be determined by the Trustees and presumably the legislature," Provost Rollin Richmond said.

"First you have to understand that [differential tuition] is not an unusual situation," Richmond said. "In fact New York's situation is more unusual in the United States than others."

Richmond said that Stony Brook would benefit under differential tuition because students would have more access to those who make the decisions.

Students, however, disagree.

"There are certain fundamental issues of differential tuition that I am against," said Polity President Keren Zolotov. "People are going to have to choose a campus based on their financial situation." Zolotov said this went against the SUNY mission statement because students should be choosing a campus based on what it offers instead of what it costs.

"We can't just raise tuition to whatever level we want if we want to have students here," Richmond said. "We need to maintain and hopefully to increase the number of undergraduate students that we have at this institution. The way in which you do that is to strike a balance between the kind of financial aid that you have to offer students and the tuition that you ask of them and the attractiveness of the institution to students."

"There's an issue of accountability," said Zolotov.

Currently students go to Albany to lobby their legislators for any changes in the SUNY system. Since they are elected to represent their constituents, Zolotov said it makes them more accountable. She said Administration should be accountable to students but added "I don't know if that same process exists for students and administrators."

Richmond said "The chances of you talking to the people [in Albany] who are going to be really involved in making the decisions is really small." With differential tuition "you'll have a clear relationship of what you're being asked to do and what the consequences will be," he said. "Now you have no such relationship and very little control over it."

"Now we won't always agree with you about what is best in your interest short or long term, but I think one of the advantages of differential tuition is that you've got an administration that will listen to you and you've got direct access to" Richmond said. "I think that you have an administration in place for the first time that really cares fundamentally about what it is that the institutions does for undergraduates and want to do our very best to serve their needs."

Zolotov said "I'm not saying President [Shirley Strum] Kenny is going to [raise tuition] because we don't know if that's going to happen, but how do we know she won't." Zolotov said that if this system is put in place we don't know what another president might do. "That president will have the leeway to raise the tuition then [Stony Brook] might as well be private."

Zolotov said that students should act proactively and lobby in Albany. She said Pataki's budget includes a raise SUNY tuition and cuts to TAP.

"I don't think this president here will be making those kinds of recommendations," said Richmond. "I think you'd find the president here knows more about what her students are capable of paying, has a better sense of what students are able to do and has a better sense of what the money would be used for." □

Student Activity Center Opens For Business

By RYAN HEIKATA
Statesman Staff

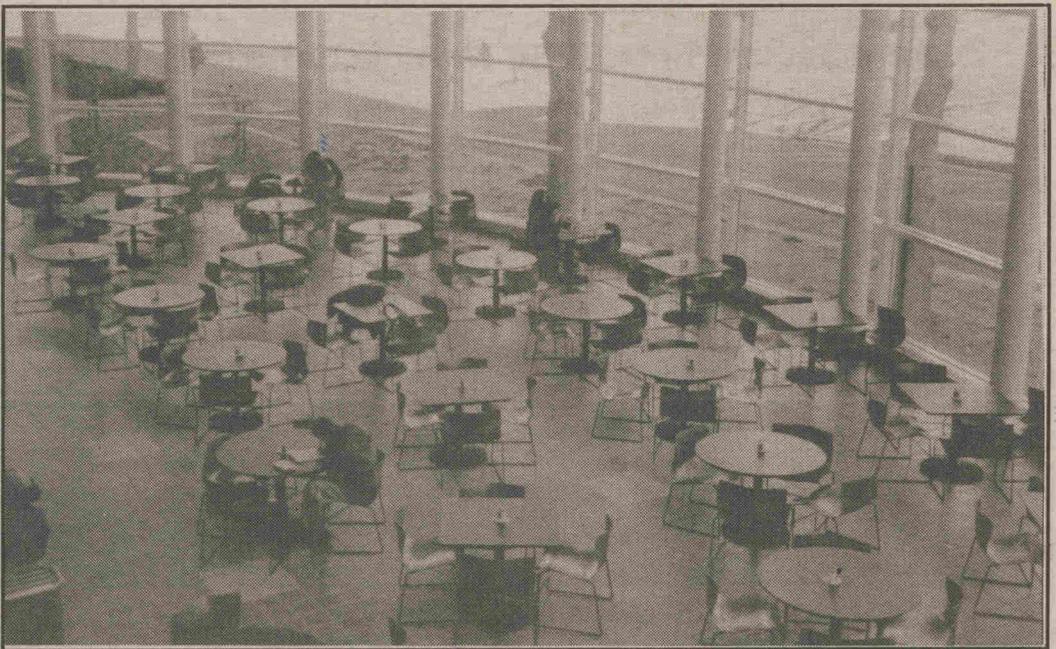

The long wait is over - well not exactly. The new Student Activities Center on Center Drive opened its doors and made available its food facilities to the campus this week. The main level will also open a Seawolves themed convenience store and a snack kiosk in the main entrance lobby (west side facing Earth Space Science) in the coming weeks. But don't expect the building to be in full operation anytime soon.

The revamped building once known as Central Hall before it underwent its reconstruction — years ago, is currently still under construction that will transform the former lecture hall into a center for student social activities. The center, meant to replace the old Student Union in function, features student lounges and rooms for club use. It also contains new dining facilities, a small theater, a fitness center, banking service and sinc sites. The second phase will see an entirely new structure built adjacent to the current one, but the current one still needs to be finished. Nevertheless, hundreds of people were allowed to pass through the main level yesterday to try out the food services, provided by Aramark, and eat in the extravagant glass enclosed Dining Hall.

Once in the kitchen, it is the familiar open space with various different kinds of servers that at first seem to be common Aramark fare. However aside from the gratuitous pizza and grill there are slight interesting twists.

The crescent shaped glass enclosed Dining Hall seats a few couple hundred, provides a full length view of Melville Library, and is pleasantly illuminated by glass filtered sun light. The atmosphere is very pleasant as expressed by the visitors.

Said one student, "Stony Brook finally has a pleasant place where you can just sit and enjoy your surroundings. This place couldn't be more beautiful."

Another student noted "Already this is my favorite place to be."

As for the rest of the building, it remains to be seen if it turns out as well as the eating place.

The lower level rooms, which were to have contained a Sinc Site, a banking site, a health wellness center, lower level of the commuter lounge have yet to be furnished. It will take some time to establish these facilities. It has yet to be determined whether the second floor will contain a coffee bar. The administrative offices and club rooms also on the second level; the third floor of nine meeting rooms and another lounge, on the other hand will be easier to furnish and should be opening soon.

According to Keren Zolotov, Polity president, Polity which is in charge of most of the clubs that will inhabit the building will not itself be moving in this term. Instead they will wait out the end of the spring semester in the old union offices and move in during the summer.

Zolotov said that because the proposed opening was delayed, it was impossible to move their base of operations before the beginning of the semester. "[Now] we can't shut down all our computers and things right in the middle of the semester," she said. "We have clubs and many things to run. We have to wait until the end of the semester to move." The distance between Polity and the clubs could pose a degree of inconvenience.

Zolotov and Brad

Hausman, vice president of the Commuter Student Association isolated several other complaints about the overall administration and construction of the new center. Hausman's assessments were harsh. "There was very poor thought that went into the decision processes and we're stuck with the consequences," he said.

Zolotov was concerned that many students were upset that they were left out in the decision making processes. Zolotov was especially concerned about the dining service's "cash only" policy.

"The building's administration is at fault here. FSA (the Faculty Student Administration) and Aramark (the university's meal plan vendor) couldn't offer the service on the meal plan because it would raise their overhead expenses," she said. "But they didn't know they were going to be responsible for the place until halfway into last fall. It was the administration's job to inform them so they before the fall semester so they could factor the costs into the plans."

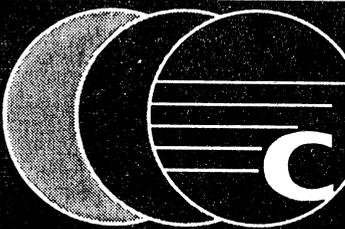

Another major feature of the SAC that students might not be enjoying anytime soon is the new Commuter Lounge. The lounge, which occupies some space on the main level and extends into a connecting room in the lower level needs fixing up before it can be put to use. According to Hausman who is directly involved in running the place, "It just can't open up until we've made the necessary renovations. We were originally hoping to budget about $1000 of CSA money to refurbish the place. Now that we've seen the situation we are looking about two to 3,000 dollars of our 5,000 dollar budget. The basement has exposed piping on the ceiling that we have to cover up. The piping is just not a good thing especially in a supposedly relaxing lounge atmosphere. And there is no carpeting in the basement. We will have to buy a new rug. We will not be able to open up until we get all these things fixed up." Hausman also explained that the lounge's construction presents certain logistical problems that will need to be solved. Until then, students will be left without a major feature of the new center for part of this term.

"There is tremendous security problems for our lounge," he said "Our lounge is poorly designed. The original design had the main staircases for the only way for moving up and down, but now the staircase inside our lounge is the major way of moving up and down.

There is no way we can keep that even decently secure, with all the traffic going through there. We may need two individuals, stationed upstairs and downstairs to look over things which is very difficult. It all could mean shorter hours of operation."

Carmen Vazquez, dean of students and director of Student Union and Activities could not be reached for comment. □

Three Bio-chem Majors Arrested for Burglary Spree

By KEVIN BAUGHAL
Special to The Statesman

Friday the 13th proved to be an unlucky day for three Bio-chemistry majors whom police believe are responsible for stealing nearly $10,000 in cash, stamps and money orders during three burglaries on campus last semester.

Doug Little, assistant director of University Police for community and traffic affair, said Christopher Rumore, 22, a senior from Bayside, N.Y.; Henry Lishnoff, 21, a senior from Florida, N.Y.; and Dionisio Trejo, 19, a sophomore from Brooklyn, N.Y., were taken into custody following questioning on Friday, December 13.

Rumore and Lishnoff were both charged with three counts of third degree burglary and Trejo was charged with one count of third degree burglary, Little said. He added that all three students have been suspended from the University.

The burglary spree began on September 29 when the cash box from the Administration Building Debitex machine, containing $1,900 in cash, was ripped from the wall, police said.

Then on October 6, burglars broke into the University Post Office in the basement of Frank Melville, Jr. Memorial Library. Little said about $7,000 in postage stamps, cash and money orders were stolen.

The burglars struck again at the library on October 24, stealing another $800 from the cash box of the Debitex machine across from the post office.

Little said police got a break when the surveillance camera at the Administration Building captured the first burglary on film. The film was shown on area Crimestopper advertisements, both on campus and in news media off-campus.

The calls police received from the Crimestopper spots, along with the police investigation led police in the direction of the men later taken into custody, Little said.

On December 13, the students turned themselves in and after questioning, were charged with the burglaries, Little said. They appeared in Suffolk County First District Court in Central Islip the next day.

Little said all three men lived on campus and were roommates, adding that police believe Trejo was only involved in one of the burglaries. None of the men had previous records, he said.

Little declined to comment on what the men were using the money for or on any comments they made in their statements to police.

Little praised the investigative work of the police but said the Crimestoppers tips were the key to solving the crimes. Stony Brook has been a part of the Crimestoppers program for about two years. Little said it is one of only four or five universities in the country that participate in Crimestoppers and is the only university in New York State currently participating.

"This program really works," Little said. "It works in the outside community and it works inside the University community." □

Kelly Cafeteria to Close for Renovations, Fannie Brice to Take its Place

By NADIA PERSAUD
Statesman Editor

Kelly Cafeteria will be closed for renovations during Spring Break. The Faculty Student Association and ARAMARK will inform students of a switch over to Fannie Brice, which will be the temporary dining facility. Included in the renovation plans for the Kelly Residence Halls, which is currently under progress, will be a total reconstruction of the Kelly Cafeteria. According to Kevin Kelly, executive director of FSA, the project will comprise of modifications that will modernize the current dining facility into one that is more efficient.

All of the facilities located on the first floor of Kelly Cafeteria, the Quad Office, the Fitness Center, and the Mail Room, will be moved out, leaving it empty. The next step, said Kelly, "would be to take the trapezoid shaped Mail Room and turn it into a center service area for a counter that would face where the two existing stairs are now." The center service area would have a sandwich counter, a Taco Bell and a bakery. The conference room area will be made into a convenience store. Also, to boost efficiency and meet student demands, there will be a 24-hour food service in the center service area.

In addition, the second floor will also undergo changes. The seating area will be cut down dramatically. The kitchen will be modernized and there will only be one food line. Initially, the plan will be for the kitchen to be open for dinner hours only when there will be enough students. Also, meeting room will be available upstairs for use by clubs. The reason for this was so that organizations can use meal cards to cater events.

"There is a cost associated with transporting food and keeping it warm. This would eliminate those needs. We would like to build a new facility, so that we can inexpensively change the cafeteria setup accordingly with the changing times," said Kelly.

At present, the facilities cannot be modified so easily. An example is the Taco Bell. The set up has to be done a certain way in order to fully access utilities. Walls cannot be taken down due to asbestos. The grounds around Kelly will be resurfaced and an elevator will be rehabilitated. Basically, according to Kelly, "there is no reason to renovate them the way they are." The renewal process will take at least six months.

"The challenge is the funding issue," said Kelly.

According to Kelly, it will be a multimillion dollar project. The objective is for SUNY to float bonds to cover the cost. The campus, through FSA, would pay one-third and the state would pay two-thirds of the cost.

"That was estimated in that right now, the Student Meal Plan rate pays for all the service equipment and food services. In theory, the state takes care of the shell of the buildings which it has not done, that's why it is in the shape it is. We should be able to manage it in the budget without increasing meal price because in our perspective we're just doing the things we've been doing anyway," said Kelly.

The temporary dining facility will be located in Fannie Brice, on the second floor. The Graduate Student Lounge, "The Spot", is also on the second floor.

"We had a meeting with some representatives from the Graduate Student Organization regarding 'The Spot' and the temporary dining facilities, but I don't think it should hinder 'The Spot'," said Naala Royale, marketing director for Dining Services.

"On mid-semester, students will be switching gears by eating in a different location," said Royale. "But it will be a definite benefit for students. What is going to happen is that they are going to have a really awesome new facility in Kelly simultaneously when the dorms open." □

Tentative Agreement Reached by GSEU and New York State

By SCOTT WEST
Special to The Statesman

After 20 months without a contract and nearly 2 years of negotiations, the Graduate Student Employees Union reached a tentative agreement with the State of New York about a second contract.

The proposed agreement offers substantial improvements in wages, health insurance, the grievance procedure, and in other areas. Ratification will be determined by a vote of the signed membership of the union. The GSEU represents almost 4,000 T.A.'s and G.A.'s in the SUNY system, including over 850 who work at Stony Brook.

Signed members will be mailed a ballot in the last week of January. A general membership meeting will be held on the first week of February on the proposed changes. A date will be set at this Thursday's Steering Committee meeting in the Javits Room at the Melville Library on 1 p.m.

T.A.'s and G.A.'s will receive a $275 dollar bonus this semester, a $350 bonus and a 3.5% wage increase in Spring 1998, and another 3.5% wage increase in the Spring of 1999 in the proposed new contract.

Improved health insurance benefits would include a choice of gatekeeper which would enable T.A.'s and G.A.'s to choose a primary care physician and not be compelled to visit the campus health center.

The GSEU can be reached at 2-7729 or SBS 404N. Office Hours are Tuesday and Thursday from 10 - 1. □

If you would like your event to appear in our Campus Calendar, please write a description of the event along with the date and time. Submissions must be typed. You can either drop it off in Room 057 of the Student Union or send it via e-mail to statesmn@ic.sunysb.edu.

Second WUSB 90.1 FM Four Day Marathon Reggae Weekend Held

Nearly 60 guest hosts and reggae artists gathered at the WUSB 90.1 FM studios to partake and contribute to the non-stop, non-commercial programming reggae music for the 2nd WUSB 90.1 four-day marathon. The event lasted for five days from 7 p.m., Thursday, December 26 straight through 12:40 a.m., Monday, December 30, 1996.

The 4DMRW was introduced in 1996 through the World Wide Web on the CLAPPERS website at <http://lister.ultrakohl.com>. An on-line worldwide conferencing network was specifically designed for the event. Information and updates were immediately posted on the site.

"We actually needed more time on the air to accommodate all the guests who wanted to participate," said event coordinator Kibret Neguse.

"All of the available time slots filled up quickly, and some persons never got a chance to contribute. That's why it's imperative we have a seven day reggae marathon in December 1997," said Kibret.

According to 4DMRW producer Lister Hewan-Lowe, "We received calls from all over the place . . . Long Island, Queens, Brooklyn, Connecticut, and even upstate New York. Everyone was so excited about hearing all this reggae music being played. We gotta go 24 - 7 and start a full time reggae radio station in New York."

Artists who attended were Grammy and Tamika nominee Sister Carol, Winston Irie, Major Danger, and Tamika Award nominee Lupa. Shabba Ranks called in during a panel discussion of the state of reggae concert of Third World produced by WUSB-FM on November 23, 1980 in the Stony Brook University gym.

For more information, contact Kibret or Lister at reggae@wusb.org or call (516) 467-4861. Kibret can be heard on WUSB weekly, Thursdays 10 p.m. - 12 a.m., and Fridays 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. Lister's Saturdays A Party on WUSB can be heard from noon - 3 p.m. Or, visit the CLAPPER website for more details. □

Staller Presents It's Spring Movie Line-Up

BY MARC NARDIN
Statesman Staff

With the beginning of a new semester upon us, why not kick it off big by escaping to the cinema in Staller's main auditorium. "There's is no better way to watch a movie than with Stonybrook students," said Alan Inkles, Staller's Director of Programming.

In addition to their 40 foot screen and digitally prepared dolby sound system blasting upwards of 10,000 watts through their 5 clusters of speakers, there is an air of communal excitement and anticipation when viewing a film with students. Thus lending an almost nostalgic excitement to going to the movies" that is all but lost in today's multiplex.

To make the movie experience more varied and enjoyable for students and non-students alike a few changes were made for this semester. One of the main sources of confusion and controversy last semester was with the other major movie exhibitor on campus, COCA. Given the conflicting schedules, repetitive showings and competitive sales, Inkles met with the student representative of COCA, Edward Quinones to smooth out differences.

COCA and Staller now jointly share costs, profits and programming selections for Friday evenings, thus community. Though ticket prices at The Staller Center are $3, where COCA's are only $1 the difference is readily explainable. "At Staller we solicit the film distributors for the 35mm prints which are standard cinema projected onto a 40 foot screen, while COCA uses 16mm," explained Inkles. "There is also a labor cost of 4 hours and a handful of students for each showing for setting up and equipment maintenance. Our goal is to break even and to provide excellent entertainment," Inkles stated.

Corporate sponsors also contribute to the cost of a semester's showings thus keeping ticket prices at reasonably low $3, compared to that of the standard multiplex. Other changes include sneak previews for main line cinema releases, the first of which was done with the Tom Cruise film Jerry Maguire. Sneak Previews should become a part of Staller's regular format by late February which will also include student giveaways for posters and other memorabilia.

"Surround sound for Staller is currently in progress and should be in place by this summer," said Inkles. Movies for upcoming Friday night showings include: Romeo and Juliet (Jan 31-9 PM), Get on the Bus (by Spike Lee Feb 7-9PM), Ransom (Feb 14-9PM), Doom Generation (Feb 28-9PM) and Space Jam (Mar 14-9PM).

a semester movie pass good for all 22 Friday evening showings which must be purchased by this Thursday, January 23 at the box office.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Social activities include friends and co-workers. Later in the week, turn your attention toward romance. Singles, especially, find their love lives heating up over the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You're at odds with a friend early in the week. However, this is resolved as the week wanes. You find, though, that you have to do a bit of compromising. The weekend is favored for great social times.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Couples set aside special time to be with each other, even as they go about from chore to chore. This isn't the time to be overly concerned about a career matter. Feel free, instead, to get together with friends, especially over the weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Stick with the tried and true when it comes to dealing with difficult family members this week. The accent later in the week is on romantic pursuits. Plan a special outing for just the two of you this weekend.

Dear Diary:

I started dating a really great guy.
We have a lot in common...
except for one important thing...
religion.

We may not appear to be the same as some of the people we meet, but if we look more closely, we might find that we agree on many spiritual issues and that we can become enriched by learning about beliefs that are different from our own.

Natasha's Stars

Although you have a minor tiff with you significant other early in the week, a new closeness is likely result from this. Travel is favored this week, be it for business or pleasure. This weekend, then to finances.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You want to get out and about early in the week, but some routine chores beckon. Once these are out of the way, feel free to enjoy yourself. Couples share quality time together this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Those on the road could face some unexpected expenditures. However, that won't stand in the way of good times you'd planned to have with friends. A romantic interest becomes more important over the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Something you thought was so easy to do turns out to pose quite a problem this week. Swallow your pride and ask for help from that certain co-worker who has the expertise in this field. The weekend is favored for entertaining guests.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're not thrilled with the stubbornness of a friend who is not about to relent anytime soon. Past run-ins should give you a clue. It's best to try to go your own way. A social contact becomes a help to you in business.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) As the week begins, you can't understand why those around you are sniping at each other so much. Don't let these people get you down. You have too much to do to get involved with this. As the week goes on, all is resolved.

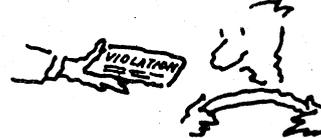

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You won't find the solution to problem on the job easily. Put it aside for now and come back to it later. Happiness in romance makes a wonderful weekend for you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Interests this week center around the family and special dinner party. Since you know well how to graciously entertain, the party turns out to be a smashing success.

Depression.

A flaw in chemistry,
not character.

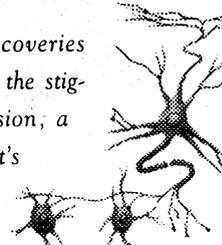

People with cancer aren't expected to heal themselves. People with diabetes can't will themselves out of needing insulin. And yet you probably think, like millions of people do, that you or someone you know should be able to overcome another debilitating disease, depression, through sheer fortitude.

He had succeeded in freeing millions of repressed, impoverished slaves. For anyone, the accomplishment of a lifetime. Still, Lincoln battled depression, the cloud that would follow him always.

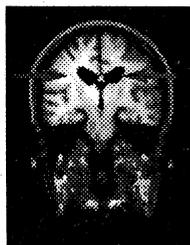

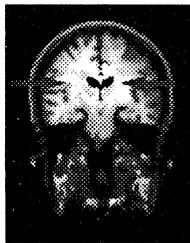

The fact is, in the last decade we've learned that simply snapping out of a depression would be a physical impossibility. Because new medical research has taught us that depression is frequently biological in origin, caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain. This is good news because it reclassifies depression as a physical disease instead of a mental illness.

While these recent discoveries should help relieve some of the stigma associated with depression, a look at history also helps. It's a well documented fact that Abraham Lincoln was depressed for most of his adolescent and adult life.

©1993 by Scientific American Library from Molecules And Mental Illness. Permission of W.H. Freeman and Co.

The keys to happiness. A few of the thousands of synapses that have the power to make any given day one filled with joy or despair. All based on whether these channels for neurotransmission can properly send certain signals to the brain.

Depression is caused when an insufficient level of the neurotransmitter serotonin is passed through the synapses of the brain.

Below: Brain abnormality found in many severe cases of depression or manic-depression.

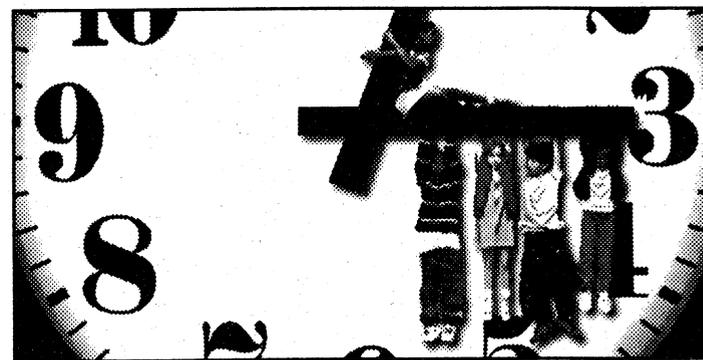

You see, depression doesn't discriminate. Anyone can get it. And today you can find books written about admitted sufferers Mike Wallace, Joan Rivers, Dick Cavett, and Kitty Dukakis just to name a few.

Please call 1-800-717-3111 if you or someone you know needs help. With this better understanding of depression and a 80% success rate with treatment, we hope you'll see that the only shame would be not calling.

If you have any brains at all, you'll be aware of the danger of depression.

Depression is a suppression of brain activity that can strike anyone. It's powerful, it's constant, and it makes life unbearable. It's also readily, medically, treatable. And that's something everyone should know.

If you haven't told your family you're an organ and tissue donor, you're not.

To be an organ and tissue donor, even if you've signed something, you must tell your family now so they can carry out your decision later. For a free brochure on how to talk to your family, call 1-800-355-SHARE.

Organ & Tissue DONATION
Share your life. Share your decision.

Coalition on Donation

Guess what Johnny's bringing for Show and Tell today.

Every day, thousands of kids bring guns to school. Find out how to help get guns out of the hands of children.
