Kenny Reveals Her Little Secret

BY THE PLAYWRIGHT
Statesman Something

In a crowded press conference held yesterday at H Cafeteria, University President Shirley Strum Kenny announced her plans to convert the first floor of the Melville Library into a mini-mall, or as she phrased it, a "Campus Village."

"I call it the Campus Village to pay tribute to Stony Brook Village," Kenny stated. "Stony Brook Village — Campus Village. Get it? I think it will represent and unify the University community more because everyone shops. The Campus Village will truly get us centered, instead of that screwed up SAC. It'll be a place of gathering where everyone can just chill."

Among the top-name merchandisers that are slated to be part of the "Village" are GAP, the Disney Store, Planet Comics, Cinnabon, and Sam Goody. Victoria's Secret and Tiffany's are also included at Kenny's request. A multiplex is yet to be finalized.

"The purpose of the Campus Village is for student convenience especially since college students generally have a lot of money to spend," said Kenny. "Instead of going to the Smith Haven Mall and spending three dollars back and forth for bus fare, they can just walk over to the library. And it's not just for students. Everyone shops."

The choice of stores was determined by a committee appointed by Kenny. The committee spent six months conducting surveys and research.

"Lots of trips to the mall," said Vice-President for Student Affairs Fred Preston, who headed the Campus Village committee. "Exhausting. Very exhausting. We ran into a lot of difficulties, such as dealing with mallrats. . . . As to what kind of stores we wanted to put into the Village in addition to what President Kenny wanted, we asked students, staff, and faculty which stores in the mall they go to a lot. The resulting top stores are what's in the Village."

Victoria's Secret and Tiffany's were two stores Kenny wanted to put in the Village from the beginning. "I love Tiffany's and Victoria's Secret," Kenny commented. "I wear them all the time." To prove her point, Kenny stripped down to her red negligee and flashed her 24 K pendant to the delight of those who were present.

The sole opponent to the plan, Joseph Branin, dean of libraries, voiced out his opinion at the press conference.

"This plan is preposterous," Branin remarked to Kenny. "It makes a mockery of education. And you — to have the guts to install it inside a library. It's ridiculous." Branin subsequently stormed out of the conference.

Kenny responded to Branin's

Reverend Charges SAC with Blasphemy

BY GUESS WHO?
You'll never know.

The Reverend David M. Ewalt of the Stony Brook Press, has been seen handing out bibles and crosses outside of the new SAC Brothel House. Ewalt claims that all those who visit the SAC are sinners bound for hell.

"This is a disgrace against all that is pure and morally sound," Ewalt said. "It is appalling to witness such a deterioration of our society." Ewalt has been standing in front of the building since last Sunday. "We must try to show these sinners the errors of their ways," Ewalt said. "I only pray that the Lord above will show them the light to salvation."

Roll On Into the SAC

BY THE PLAYWRIGHT AND THE MADAM
Statesman's Heads

Wondering what's the hottest thing on campus besides Shirley in a Victoria's Secret negligee? Believe it or not, it's the Student Activities Center. Although it may not appear as so on the outside at daytime, the Statesman has uncovered it to be a sizzling, orgy-infested brothel on the inside at night time.

The SAC, as it is affectionately being called, will live up to its name.

As evident from the various titillating pick-up lines floating around such as "Come on, baby, let's hit the SAC" and "SAC it to me, baby," the SAC has elevated its reputation from a one-star joint to a million-star hoe-down worthy of Kenny's own starry logo.

The brothel is apparently manned (or womanned) by Dean of Students Carmen Vazquez, simply referred to as the Madam. Donning her full, regal black leather attire, she roams around the SAC making sure customers are happy and that her employees are clean.

In addition to being a brothel, the SAC has been doing double business by functioning as a motel. The SAC has been welcoming resident students who wanted to have sex with their significant others without their annoying roommates. Commuters have been customers, too.

The extraordinary operation was uncovered when anger and suspicions arose over its mismanagement. Intended for students, SAC has not housed one student organization since its opening this January. The SAC being open yet not able to accommodate students sounded fishy. It stank more than the sewage that erupted from its lower depths.

No wonder Vazquez was the first to move into her new office at the SAC — so as to see over the brothel business day and night.

The SAC has prided itself with well-trained, efficient employees, whose lifestyle evolve around the SAC itself. Their morning routine includes work-outs at the gym in the basement and yoga meditations. Luxuriously dining in the exclusive, glass-encased dining hall is one of the perks.

Customers can choose the pleasures they prefer: whips, leather, handcuffs, oral, anal, and of course, regular among other things. They can treat themselves to the S & M room, ruled by the one and only Polity President Keren Zolotov cracking her own whip here, too.

In one of our undercover visits, customers seen roaming the halls of the SAC included Athletics Director Richard Laskowski, Provost Rollin Richmond, and Vice President for Student Affairs Fred Preston.

Floor shows also take place in the auditorium. The special guest star entertaining the crowd in our visit was none other than President Shirley Strum Kenny herself, gyrating to the tune of the "Macarena" in her red Victoria's Secret negligee.

During the day, classes will be taught in the SAC in order to "open students to new things," and to "bridge the gap between commuter and resident students."

A Tribute to Outgoing Polity President Keren Zolotov

Paid for by Zolotov supporters

Our once disjointed student body bids farewell to the healer, the fixer-upper, the medicine-woman, the Mary Poppins who gave us a spoonful of bullshit to make Polity go down. Keren Zolotov, the surgeon who tediously spent hours implanting organs into our lifeless body has completed her task. So she puts down her scalpel, takes off her mask and picks up the big ass check we owe her for the operation. One part is thankful and watery-eyed for we can only bless the hands that heal, deal and conceal. The other side questions our faith in the savior. We ask ourselves the all important basic question, "Did she wash her hands before she entered the operation room?"

Regardless of the dilemma, the Edward Scissorhands who prettied-up the hedges of politics on the Stony Brook campus has dulled her last blades. The future is fearful for Polity's cuckoo's nest. So, in her remaining days, our hunchback of Stony Brook climbs atop the towers of Polity to ring the last bells. We shall only listen to the melody in silence.

(JUMP, KEREN, JUMP!)

Undergrad turns into lump of sod after reading Statesman

Ryu Teen a sociology major reportedly picked up a recent edition of the campus newspaper and was reading it on his dorm bed just after watching Hercules on TV. According to his roommate Bongo Bill, Ryu picked up an issue that was delivered to the room and proceeded to read it from start to finish. He then turned into an uninspired lump of sod.

"It was the most extraordinary sight I've ever seen, I mean him reading the Statesman that is," said Mr. Bill. "I mean Ryu was always a loser but you have to be really bored to force yourself to do that. On page two I could see him really straining, I snuck a peak at him when he was halfway through and his shirt was drenched with sweat. What really gets me is that someone would do something like that to themselves." Mr. Bill reported hearing Mr. Teen emitting high pitched whimpering sounds and then a sharp pop sound. "The next thing I knew, there was a lump of sod where Ryu was."

A Statesman advertising person commented "Watching Hercules and reading Statesman back to back could do that to a person. I know I've tried it."

Mr. Teen's parents do not blame or hold the Statesman responsible for what happened to their son. For the moment they are more concerned about a legal battle to take possession of Teen's remains which Mr. Bill, the roommate, has claimed for himself because he is growing hemp in them.

Campus Police rushed to the scene after it was reported that food had been stolen from the H Quad Cafeteria.

opinions, saying that "he [Branin] does not realize that some of the profit from this venture will eventually end up in him so he can update this crummy library. He's just blind."

"It's not right," Branin later said after the conference. "She's stepping into my territory and I don't appreciate her attitude when she doesn't even know anything about the library. She doesn't understand the repercussions at all. Where will all the books go? Where can we put them now?"

The campus community was ecstatic of the announcement.

"I think it's a great idea," said one student. "It's like a one-stop shop thing. You can study and shop at the same time."

A few students believe that maybe the Village will be the salvation of the campus community, lifting it out of its depression.

"It's a good thing for this depressing campus," said one student. Maybe shopping will cure us out of this depression."

Another student added, "After studying for hours in the library and then realizing that education is worth nothing because the world is absurd and we're all going to die, maybe shopping can all cheer us up. Maybe it'll teach us that not everything in life sucks."

As to a multiplex in the Village, Kenny said, "We're looking to add the basement into the plan to accommodate a multiplex. We might kick out Wallace's. Students don't like them anyway. Besides, Borders is better. The students want new movies, not those ancient movies COCA shows or those unheard of movies Staller shows. I think the students would appreciate it more."

Reconstruction is scheduled to begin on May 19. The village is expected to open in full service this fall, with a rumored opening ceremony to be attended by Kenny's rumored new lover, Governor George Pataki.

"Hell no, I'm not giving him back," says Mr. Bill, "It was just before spring break when this happened and when I saw what happened to Ryu, I just tossed a few seeds on him. When I got back from spring break I saw these beautiful plants on him. His parents should be happy, he's being more useful now than he ever was when he was a human."

Statesman Editors declined comment and refused to recall the issue responsible.

Rash of Campus Burglaries Hit Cafeteria

The H Quad cafeteria was broken into last Saturday and several food items were tampered with. According to Doogie Little, spokesmodel for campus police, the perpetrators broke in sometime overnight and removed some preprepared food items from the refrigerator and were found just outside the door from which they entered.

"It's really odd," Doogie said "Judging by the trail of food droppings leading to the nearby parking lot, it appears the perpetrators broke in sometime late last night, took the food, but then later returned it."

At first, the campus police lab determined that the food content was tampered with, but when a proper control sample was acquired, the decision was reversed.

New courses to be offered include HUM 29988, "I like touching myself," taught by Paul Reubens, a.k.a. Pee Wee Herman, and PSY 76439, "Ride me baby," taught by former Senator Bob Packwood. "Extra credit in the classroom now has new meaning, and will help teach students to advance in the workplace," said Vazquez.

In the meantime, the Polity suite will finally serve of some actual use as it will provide condoms, liquor, and mint breath spray to all undergraduate students. "I know where my money goes," said freshman April Phillips, as she proudly clutches her bottle of Georgi Vodka, as she leaves the suite. "I'm so glad they're finally doing something for students."

Polity President Keren Zolotov sighed in agreement. "It feels really good to finally be doing something that will make Stony Brook the party school it once was. It's about time we live up to that reputation." She implored all students to join her in her goal to get drunk by the end of the afternoon, and added "I've installed a trapeze in my office. If anyone is interested they know where to reach me."

The Commuter Student Association will also take part in the festivities as it will be running a seminar for commuters on automobile maintenance. Topics include, "How to get that stick shift in gear," "How to avoid a flat tire," and "Where to go to get really good auto care."

CSA Vice-President Brad Hausman said, "We'd thought it would be a nice thing to do for commuters. It's important for commuters to keep their cars in top form since they are constantly coming in and out of the campus."

When confronted about the brothel operation at the SAC, Vazquez confessed to her part of running its daily operations. "I had to do it," Vazquez said. "I had no choice. We promised this to students and since we had no money left, we began to think of ideas on how to generate money to finance the SAC's completion. Everyone had a true, well-proven idea: sex sells. I did it for the students."

"That's why we've neglected to do anything in Polity," commented Zolotov. "The SAC was more important to finish. The sex stuff takes up a lot of time, but the perks are worth it. But after we get the money we need, we're going to stop the brothel business and finish the SAC. It's all for the students."

Vazquez and Zolotov urged students to participate in the SAC to help finance its completion. As Vazquez puts it, "Let's all get centered."

Reverend Sees The Light

"You will be damned to hell," cried Ewalt as those entering the SAC, brushed by him. "Why, dear Lord? Why?" repeated Ewalt as he continually looked up to the heavenly skies above him. "I will stay here until the SAC is closed and made into something decent and clean," he said. "We do not attend this University in order to put up with this kind of blasphemy against our Lord." He added, "For this, I would have stayed in Washington, D.C."

Ewalt said he plans to make his case before the Polity Senate. "Something must be done. I cannot be the only one in search for goodness in mankind."

"I tried turning to Administration for help," Ewalt said. "They laughed at me and gave me a free pass. They said 'It's not too bad. You'll like it.'" Ewalt admits to having in fact taken advantage of the pass, but added, "Those whips just weren't for me."

On-lookers laughed at Ewalt as he continued his "mission." Junior Patrick Grass, said "He should get over it. We're only trying to have some fun."

Ewalt said he has vowed to see the end of the Brothel House at the SAC. "It is my mission. God has willed it so."

WE LOVE USB!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Aren't you glad you decided to come Stony Brook? Aren't you glad you couldn't afford that private school you really wanted to go to in the first place? Stony Brook is the best place on earth. No other school in the who galaxy could compare to the wonder that is Stony Brook.

With all the wonderful advances this school has made, it's light years away from the competition. With a monorail(Thanks, Martha) to take you anywhere on campus, a catering company that is fit for kings and queens, valet parking, entry level courses with only 8 people in each class and tuition that just goes down every year, who could complain.

As you walk across campus, you just can't help but notice the beautiful gardens that surround the campus. The weather here at Stony Brook is spectacular, it's always a Spring Day. Can't you just smellllll the roses?

We should be thankful to be at such a wonderful place. Our student government cares, everyone gets along and we always cheer the Seawolves at every game.

No wonder some people take five years to graduate; who in their right mind would want to leave this incredible place?

It is a haven of tranquility, where everyone has a good day and it never rains. Stony Brook the land where everyone gets a laptop computer in order to help them in their studies. All the professors really care about us. It's not like at Harvard or Yale, where professors hate to teach all the undergraduates. Here at Stony Brook, every faculty member takes pride in and actually knows what they're doing.

Where else can you get any drug you could possibly imagine and not get caught? All of the RA's turn the other way and all is good as they party hard with their residents.

Commuters don't have it pretty bad either. They get to go have some fun over at the SAC. What they can't get on their own they can come get at Stony Brook. After all, isn't that what higher education is all about?

Aren't you glad you decided to chose a public university. Not only did you choose to go to a public university you decided to go to this one out of all the other ones in the entire United States. People from all over the world come to Stony Brook, and it's no wonder.

Soon we'll all be able to shop in the library and go study in the cafeterias. The University will begin to give free giveaways to students who spend over $500 on useless shit that they buy at GAP and at The Limited. I mean, spending $500 is worth getting a .99 cent mug(aren't they the cutest).

Everyone here at Stony Brook abides by the honor system, and what a system it is . If not for it people would steal from the deli, paint graffiti all over campus, throw garbage on the floor, not recycle, respect their roommates, steal other people's clothing while they were washing it and would rip down posters of their opponents in Polity election races.

Gosh, what would we do, if we didn't live in such a perfect society. And that is it. Aren't you glad you decided to come to Stony Brook. USB: Universal Social Bliss. Gosh, our diplomas are sure going to be worth a lot when we graduate. Gosh, they're already knocking on our doors to hire us. Don't you hear the knocking?

Can you guess what his problem is?

- a) He's got glandular problems.
- b) He's acting really, really weird.
- c) He had his testosterone levels increased.
- d) His balls are just getting a little too big.

Rock Me, Baby!!!

To the Editor:

I feel I must take this time to compliment President Shirley Strum Kenny and Supervisor Robert Gaffney, and everyone else involved in the beautification of the campus, and especially in the removal of the eyesore near the South Entrance known as the Graffiti Rock.

First, President Kenny and her assistants replaced grassy areas on campus with attractive rocks. So much nicer than ugly weed infested grass, or nasty allergy inducing wildflowers! Grass just encouraged students to sit under the trees, giving USB the appearance of an actual student friendly university. I mean, what is this, New England, or some drippy Andy Hardy movie?

The best act, though, has to be sandblasting years of accumulated paint off the big rock. That rock has been sitting peacefully since the glacier receded, its only function to hold messages from students and to appear as a landmark in high school texts about Long Island history as the "Graffiti Rock." Now it sits in the middle of white stones (bought at Frank's Nursery and Crafts?) looking like any other big hunk of stone. No longer will we have to be embarrassed by colorful messages, or signs that this is a University populated by young people. It finally has the dignity it deserves. Money well spent!

I must ask our officials, please, continue to plant rocks and gravel. Don't plant low maintenance wildflowers, which can only continue to grow and become eyesores. Let everyone say, Stony Brook rocks!

F. Flintstone

Parking is Just Wonderful at SB

Dear Editor:

Are you as sick of everyone bitching about the parking on campus as I am? What a bunch of whiners!

Don't they realize what a great situation we have here? By placing commuter parking a mile off campus, the air quality around the academic buildings is kept pure from carbon monoxide fumes, creating a healthier academic environment. And what a stroke of genius, to give valet parking to faculty and staff! After all, who deserves it more?

Also, think of the health benefits from having to walk miles from our cars to the buildings. By the end of four years, the average student is in great cardiovascular shape (especially when you consider that he/she has been eating the highly nutritious, low cost food available from ARA.)

The parking meters are another stroke of genius. Why shouldn't anyone who wants to park closer to work or classes pay extra? You have to pay extra for the best seats at a theater or ball park. Imagine the revenue generated by the meters, combined with the fines when the meters run out. The funds generated have been channeled into hiring more faculty, opening more sections of popular classes, fixing the dorms, or even cleaning the buildings.

So, I have to say to all the whiners, "Quityerbitchin'!"

Bessie Mae Mucho

Must Warn Others...

To the Editor:

I am writing to inform you of an imminent danger everyone at Stony Brook will be facing. Soon the month of April will be over and May will be upon us. Many fear this month because many are aware of their certain doom: failure. It can't be stopped, no matter what you do. It just seems that everything you do to correct the situation only works against you.

Admin has appeased us by extending their withdrawal period to April 25. They thought they would be comforting us by giving us a chance to bail out at the last minute. I'm here to tell you: YOU ALL HAVE BEEN HAD. Everything done at Stony Brook is done in the best interest of the University and not of the students. We've all seen it before, the SAC, the new parking lots, everything that has been done has been done for not for our own good. It is the University's master plan...

[Ed. Note: This letter was slipped under our door with a note attached to it which read, "Must Warn Others..." We don't know who's the psycho behind it, but when we find out we'll be sure not to tell you.]

Got something to say? Well keep it to yourself. We really don't care what anyone on this campus has to say. If you do send us a submission we will use for our own uses of entertainment, so be forewarned. If you sound like a idiot it's not our problem.

Disclaimer:(Just in case you missed the others): This is our annual April Fool's issue. EVERYTHING EXCEPT ADVERTISING IS FICTIONAL. It is intended to be funny, satirical, comical, etc., and is NOT meant to hurt, maim, dismay, or otherwise upset anyone (although we do know we will still get someone mad). We work long nights all year long, and this is our one opportunity to let loose. Hopefully you'll have as much fun reading it as we did in creating it. Enjoy!

ARTS, ENTERTAINMENT & STUDENT LIFE

Tuesday, April 1, 1997

According to Eve , "You can play with me and pay me anytime, Senator D'Amato"

by Broke Donuthin'

Recently, Governor George Pataki and Lieutenant Governor Betsy McCaughey Ross have been involved in cross fire once again. Pataki kicked McCaughey Ross' staff out of their Albany dwelling, and replaced it with his own. Sources say it may be because Betsy is looking to take funds from her newly suggested HMO bill and give it to individual SUNY students that Betsy "thinks are cool." McCaughey Ross commented, "Almost all Stony Brook students need additional financial aid throughout the duration of their academic career. However, the state can't afford to give money to everyone. I think we should just offer funds to students that I have developed a certain affinity for."

Pataki disagrees with the Lieutenant Governor's logic. "That's ludicrous. You can't just allocate money on a whim to people you like." When asked where he thought any additional funds should be allocated to he mumbled something about a new BMW and walked off.

President Shirley Strum Kenny also had ideas of where New York State money should go. "Well, my friends from Texas would like to live closer to me. Oh, your tape recorder is on. I believe the students need better housing and food services on campus."

Back in November, the nation's first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton made a startling appearance at the Staller Center to endorse her husband and Nora Bredes for office. Behind closed doors Clinton admitted her thoughts regarding the Lieutenant Governor. "I don't think she's that good looking. I don't know why everyone makes such a big deal about her. Besides, she tore apart my health care plan. I'd like to see her do a better job. I don't care what the bitch thinks."

Senator Al D'Amato didn't have input regarding funds, but did have input regarding community beautification efforts. "That McCaughey Ross is one hot babe. She can lay across my desk anytime."

McCaughey Ross also admitted that she wanted her new bill on HMO coverage to encompass hangovers and sunburn. "We can't only worry about AIDS and cancer. Summer is coming."

One GOP insider commented that McCaughey Ross was a publicity hound and would do anything for attention. This seems like an unrealistic comment for the Columbia Ph.D. graduate. However, the Lieutenant Governor couldn't be reached for comment regarding this quote because she was too busy tonguing the camera of Channel 4 and News 12. Reporter, H.G. Perez looked very happy.

Provost Rollin Richmond agreed that the campus could use beautification tactics. "Those chess pieces are atrocious. Whose idea was it to put them in the middle of campus?"

D'Amato suggested that McCaughey Ross could sit on top of one of the chess pieces. "Students who need additional financial aid can contact my office for additional financial assistance. But they must be female, attractive, and have at least a C cup size. Perhaps they can make me an offer I can't refuse."

Perhaps money could be allocated to Stony Brook for concerts, being that the campus hasn't had a decent one since U2 played here before hitting it big. Both Joan Osborne and The Smashing Pumpkins were rumored to grace the state school with their presence. They both declined offers based on the looks of the campus and former Polity Vice President, Nicole Rosner's lack of appearance.

Osborne admitted, "those chess pieces are scary. I felt like I was in Alice in Wonderland." One of the Pumpkins also confided, "The scaffolding looks like crap. You can't even get people to go to a football game, you think they're going to go to a concert?"

Hopefully the New York State legislator can decide where funds should be allocated since billions of dollars have been taken out of the budget. Perhaps Stony Brook could donate money to a relief fund to the surviving members of the cult in California that killed themselves so they could be saved by aliens.

"Maybe we should give the money to that Gillian Anderson. She's pretty cute," said D'Amato. □

Lo is High as Next 007 Girl

By MARC NARDIN
Papparazzi

James Bond, an international cinematic phenomenon consisting of climactic confrontations, villainous wrongdoers, and most importantly exquisitely beautiful women, touches upon our very own Stony Brook for the heroine of the next Bond sequel, alas Statesman's own Associate Editor Laura Lo.

Last November, Eon Productions sent scouts across the globe in search of the next "Bond Girl." It wasn't until Lo was spotted at her part-time job at Smithhaven Mall as she cheerfully was handling a problem customer at her bookstore counter where she was threatened with a face full of mace for an overcharged item.

"After considering such famed stars such as Roseanne, Fran Drescher, and Tanya Harding we knew we needed a fresh face tempered with a not so fresh mouth," said Wally "The Werewolf" Wesselheimer, head of Eon Productions Talent Assessment Staff. "We knew Laura was our lady when she didn't flinch in the face of impending mace."

Given her courage and grit we may be able to save on the expense of a stunt double for various scenes consisting of being thrown through stained glass, submersion in a vat full of mayonnaise at a Hellmann's plant, and the finale where the heroine is dragged at 90 mph by a good humor truck across the George Washington bridge."

The Bond film, being filmed in various international locales including Greenland, Newark, N.J., and outer Mongolia is still presently under production. Along with the publicity of being in an original James Bond motion picture, other fringe benefits for the esteemed Lo include a VIP card for Lane Bryant and a lifetime Diners Club membership honored at any Denny's franchise in the continental United States.

The film also boasts a long list of stars including Seinfeld's Jason Alexander (a.k.a. George Costanza) who portrays the fiendish Dr. Lebowitz, whose plan to poison the world's supply of cheap vodka is of key interest to Bond, his maritnis and the rest of the lounge drunks around the world. Bond's superior M is portrayed by none other than Mr. Leonard of New York's Z-100, whose distinctive voice is a constant whining nag to Bond to get the job done and save some of the hot chicks so he can score at the end of the movie as well.

"Lo's quasi-exotic looks, joyful demeanor, and especially her Long Island accent will all add up to give Bond's feminine foil an essence of banal realism. We hope Pierce [Brosnan] as Bond will appreciate the change from his typically nefarious and statuesque co-stars," said Wesselheimer.

Lo, who is still on location with the cast and crew is currently unavailable for comment. "I'm looking forward to this even more than my journalism internship at the National Enquirer," said Lo upon departing late last year to commence shooting. The movie is due to be released in the summer of 1998. It will be the follow-up to the previous film "Goldeneye" and is rumored to be under the working title of "Pinkeye". With any Laura Lo, named as the new Bond babe, will join the ranks of Xenia Onatopp and Pussy Galore.

luck Laura Lo's fame with "Pinkeye" won't interfere with her career aspirations in the field of tabloid journalism. □

Announcing the New COCA and Staller Movie Line-ups

The Committee on Cinematic Arts (COCA) recently released a new movie line-up to replace the ones originally scheduled. The new line-up will begin this Wednesday night with Secret Seductions. The following is the new schedule: (Times, Schedules, & Dates are subject to change without notice. Please refer to 632-6472 for information.)

The Humpback of Notre Dame — 4/4 - 4/6

The Beauty and the Big One — 4/9

Tit-tanic — 4/11-4/13

Cherry Maguire — 4/16

Ghosts Are Giving Hickeys — 4/18-4/20

Fierce Crotches — 4/26-4/27

The Preacher's Wife — 4/25

Hard Attacks! — 5/2

To compete with COCA, Staller will also hold a film weekend beginning this Friday, catering to the art-house and independent tastes. The line-up features the special edition re-releases of classics such as Deep Throat and Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. It will also include: Scream, The English Prostitute, The Legend of Snowy River, Eve Does Mendelsohn, and Hung Blade.

Since the announcement of the new Staller movie line-up, long lines circling around the Staller Pit have formed to obtain movie tickets. As a result, management has launched a website for customers as an alternative to purchasing tickets. From the apparent popularity of the movies, Staller Acting Director Alan Inkles vowed to show more of these "culturally enriching, artistic visions."

LAYA SUCKS!

By LAYA HYMEN

as told to the Sexy Sports Swami Statesman Ass

Hi everybody, my name is Laya Hymen and I play (somewhat) on the women's basketball team. If you're wondering why that name is not familiar to you, it's probably because I don't get to play much (pretty bad considering our team had a stinky record of 10-17). Every time I look at the boxscore at the end of one of our games, I always see three letters, DNP (did not play) next to my name. It has become so bad that I include it in my name when I introduce myself or when I sign my name anywhere. Here is a poem I wrote about what I go through week in and week out. It is dedicated to all the benchwarmers of the world.

LAYA HYMEN DNP

*I look at the final boxscore and it's always the same Three capital letters DNP are next to my name
We were never close and lost by a whopping twenty-three Why I did not get to play is quite puzzling to me
So I go to Coach Bev Francis's office and make a desperate plea
"All I want are half the minutes of a Donna Fennessey"
She answers by saying I'm only good enough to play garbage time You'll only get on the court if the team is losing by forty-nine I'm sick and tired of practicing all week only to sit Maybe it's time I concentrated on my studies and quit
But I'll never do that because I've never been a quitter
Someday my hard work will pay off and I won't be a bench warmer
Then when I look at the final boxscore, I will not see My name with three capital letters
next to it spelled DNP*

SAMI AHMED . . . STATESMAN SPORTS WRITER . . . ATTACKED!

FREE BONUS PIN-UP!

Witnesses said it was one of the worst cases of brutality they had ever seen on this campus. Sami Ahmed, controversial sportswriter for The Statesman, was beaten attacked and beaten by a big, white dude in front of the Old Chemistry Building.

It happened as Mr. Ahmed was getting out of his class at 4:30 p.m. on Monday. Witnesses say a big bulky man jumped out of the bushes and attacked him with a rolled up newspaper. The man kept shouting F+, F+, F+ every time he beat Ahmed over the head with the paper. After he was knocked unconscious, he was carried away by the assailant.

The great staff of the Statesman has learned that the assailant was none other than Cryin "Slim" McKermit, 6-7 190 pound men's basketball team player. We immediately tried to interview him at his place of residence.

"He deserved it. That son of a bitch," said a now 6-9 300 pound McKermit as soon as a reporter entered the door. When asked why he attacked Ahmed, he said that Ahmed had written an article on the men's basketball team in The Statesman in which he gave him a grade of F+ for his season's work. "I was so embarrassed with having a big F+ next to my name. Everybody knew who I was and people mocked me on a daily basis. I couldn't show my face around campus without some wise-ass making the "L" sign as I passed them identifying me as a loser. It was then I saw an article in a bodybuilding mag for a testosterone clinic. It stated that through getting an increased dosage of testosterone in your blood every two weeks you could gain at least fifty pounds of muscle in a month. I then started to plot my revenge."

McKermit described the painful regimen he had to go through. One needle filled with testosterone was injected in each testicle and another up his asshole. He then had to exercise with the needles stuck in him. Five hours later, they would be removed. "Every time I felt pain I just asked the doctor to put a copy of the article in front of my face and I would be able to forgo any pain. I think it was because of the article I was able to take this treatment four times a week instead of the prescribed two. I grew two inches and 110 pounds in only one month! I was ready to kick some ass."

When asked what he did with Sami Ahmed, he answered in a cocky attitude, "I ain't telling. You'll never find him." University Police (We Specialize in Tickets) broke down the door and arrested McKermit on the spot. He was taken to headquarters for questioning.

As of this moment Sami Ahmed is still missing. If anyone has information on his whereabouts call UPD at 444-3333. Any person who gives tips leading to the finding of Mr. Ahmed will receive a reward of 1 million dollars. You won't receive any tickets. Please help us find him. We need someone to cover baseball.

Matt Senk to Resign at Season's End . . . ROY HOBBS, NY KNIGHTS "MAN FROM NOWHERE" TO TAKE OVER AS COACH!

BY MIKE JERKOFF
Statesman Idiot

Matt Senk has announced his resignation as baseball coach to be effective at the end of the 1997 season. Senk was unable to be reached for comment but Dean of athletics Dr. Richard Laskowski talked with Senk before he left the Indoor Sports Complex following the stunning news. "Senk has expressed to me that he felt its time to leave baseball," Laskowski said.

The Seawolves baseball team, which was eliminated in the first round of last year's ECAC playoffs, will look to new leadership. That leadership will come from Roy Hobbs, the man most remembered for his game winning homer in the one game playoff for the National League pennant in 1927 that shocked the Pittsburgh Pirates and the rest of the baseball world. Hobbs played right field for the now defunct N.Y.

Knights. Laskowski announced at 3:00 EST yesterday that Hobbs will become the men's baseball coach starting next season. Hobbs, now 103, is in peak shape. "He has not aged a bit since 1927, its unbelievable!" said Laskowski yesterday. When asked where he found Hobbs, Laskowski replied "I have no fucking clue, he just came from nowhere." This kind of strikes a note of familiarity. Hobbs walked onto the Knights roster in 1927 from nowhere as well. Nobody knew where the fuck this guy came from. The now late Pop Fisher, Hobbs' manager for the Knights, didn't play him until his regular right fielder Bump Bailey crashed through the centerfield wall in pursuit of a fly ball and died instantly. Hobbs entered the lineup and began shooting out homers like they were rabbit babies. "We hope this kind of thing happens for us" Laskowski said.

Laskowski feels that this 103 year old coach can instill some baseball wisdom into the kids. "He almost became the next Babe Ruth if that bitch didn't shoot him in the hotel room when he was just 21!" said the Dean. Laskowski was referring to the incident in Chicago back in 1911 when Hobbs tried out for the Chicago Cubs. Hobbs never made that tryout. Some bitch who stalked him on the train ride there seduced him, got him to come to her hotel room and shot him in the stomach. He didn't die obviously, but it took 16 years to come back from his injury. They left the silver bullet in his gut and it haunted him in the closing days of the "27 season when doctors told him he couldn't ever play baseball again.

What is going to happen to Senk after his baseball days are done next year? Laskowski said that Senk decided he wants to move to Nebraska and become a farmer. Senk said that "he loves chickens, he loves pigs, and he's kinda fond of nanny goats."

HOLY COW!
