No Hearing Date Set on Barnes Incident Barnes, Union Officials Refuse to Comment on Charges He Interfered With Policy

By George Bidermann

Grievances filed against Public Safety Director Gary Barnes by Local 1792, which represents Public Safety officers, will be addressed by Union President Jack Emmit in the coming weeks in a meeting to be held among union representatives, Public Safety officers, and Barnes. No exact date has been set.

Emmit decided last week to pursue the grievances, which stem from an incident involving a Stony Brook staff member who had been arrested by Public Safety officers, after a meeting with Tony Katsur, a Public Safety officer, who is also chairman of the Stony Brook chapter of the union. According to sources, Emmit also agreed with Barnes to make no comments on the case until after the meeting.

The charges stem from an Oct. 20 incident involving the arrest of Edgar Stroke, who is an assistant technical director at the Fine Arts Center. Stroke was arrested, police say, after he allegedly tried to interfere with the towing of his car, which was uninspected and parked illegally in the Union service road.

Barnes became involved when Terence Netter, the director of the Fine Arts Center, called him to ask that Stroke could be released so he could return to the center to supervise a performance by the Eleo Dance Company, which Stroke was helping to produce.

Barnes then called police headquarters and ordered the arresting officer, Sue Fantel, to release Stroke on an appearance ticket.

Stroke has said he intends to file legal charges against the Public Safety Department in connection with his arrest and treatment by the officers.

The "no comment" agreement between the union and Barnes' office was announced by Barnes on Friday. Barnes and Katsur did not return phone calls last night.

The six grievances question Barnes' authority as director to intervene in the arrest procedure of a person charged with resisting arrest, as Stroke was. Standard procedure calls for the arrested person to be taken to Suffolk County's 6th precinct in Coram, where he is to be formally charged and then required to post bail.

The grievances raise the point that such intervention discriminates against arrested persons who are not faculty or staff members, and don't have administration officials who could intervene in such a situation.

Both Netter and Stroke have said they appreciated Barnes' quick action in getting Stroke released, after being given an appearance ticket, so that he could be at the performance that evening.

Grad Hiring on Rise, According to Survey

By The College Press Service

Bethlehem, PA--Job prospects for this year's college grads look great, the national association of campus placement offices says.

In its annual survey of Fortune 500 companies, the College Placement won't dampen spirits, according to CPC spokesman Judith Kayser. "1985 will be a better year to be coming out of college than 1984," she said. "We're expecting the expansion to continue. We think the slowdown is healthy, and the economy will begin to accelerate again at the beginning of 1985."

While 1984's spring campus recruitment showed healthy gains over 1983, the worst recruitment season in 25 years, career and placement advisors are delighted with the predicted hiring upswing.

"It's good news," Victor Lindquist, Northwestern University's director of placement said. "It's almost like a return to the days of old. Like five years ago, anyway."

Lindquist, author of the annual Endicott report, another survey of graduate employment opportunities, noted Northwestern's recruitment calendar is booked far into spring, 1985. "Companies heavily into recruiting are showing up with more recruiters," he added.

"Recruitment is definitely up," agreed Gerry Taneuf, the University of Nebraska's career placement director. "It's not so much in the number of companies, but in the number of positions being offered."

The best opportunities exist in computer science, accounting, and electrical and mechanical engineering, where hiring should increase seven percent according to the CPC survey. Science, math, and other business and technical categories should increase as well, the survey showed. "Engineering and technology were hit last by the downturn, but were the first to recover," Kayser expected.

Retail and service industries also expect to increase hiring significantly. But firms in the banking, finance and insurance industries say they'll hire five percent fewer grads, while electrical machinery and equipment firms expect hiring to drop nine percent, the report found.

Though job prospects in the South recently have been better than in the rest of the nation, Liz Hill of Manpower, Inc's quarterly Job Outlook Survey said "it's no longer head and shoulders above the rest." People in the Northwest, hardest hit by the recession, can expect a 25 percent hiring increase this quarter, she added.

"Small business will provide expanding opportunities for liberal arts students," Kayser observed. "Almost all new jobs in the last few years were created by small business, compared to the millions of jobs lost by Fortune 500 companies."

The CPC survey predicted a one percent small business hiring decrease, but Kayser noted only a few are represented in the survey. There are clouds in the hopeful economic outlook, however, Lindquist warned. "Optimism about next year is cautious, not unbridled," he stressed. "Many major firms are doing little recruitment. Instead, they're trying to protect their old staffs and are expressing some concern about the second half of 1985."

Lindquist noted the large federal debt discourages most experts from predicting what will happen to money markets or, ultimately, employment.

Students remain cautious, too, according to Laura Paul of Drew University. "They've seen their older brothers and sisters going through hard times in the past few years," she says. "So they're better preparing themselves to look for jobs."

It's almost like a return to the days of old. Like five years ago, anyway.

—Victor Lindquist.

Council found the firms plan to hire eight percent more new grads than they did last year. Sixty-five percent of the companies anticipate more economic growth in 1985.

Even the current economic slowdown

Israel Ready to Negotiate,
But Won't Release Shiites

Jerusalem-Israel signaled yesterday that it would consider a truce with Shiite Moslem militiamen in southern Lebanon, but refused to release four Shiite leaders as a condition for resuming negotiations over troop withdrawals.

Talks on the withdrawal of Israeli troops, who have occupied southern Lebanon since June 1982, opened on Thursday. They were due to resume today, but Lebanese Prime Minister Rashid Karami suspended them after Israel arrested 13 members of the Shiite Amal militia in south Lebanon on the talks' opening day.

The arrests came one day after an Israeli soldier was killed in an attack blamed on the Amal militia. Nine of the 13 men arrested were later released.

Karami said Saturday that Lebanon would not return to the negotiating table until Israel freed the remaining four militiamen, including Mahmoud Fakhri, the Amal commander in the region.

"We are not going to release the prisoners in order to continue the discussions," a senior Israeli official said after a meeting of Prime Minister Shimon Peres' Cabinet.

But the official, speaking on the condition he not be identified, said. "We are not being passive" in trying to resolve the dispute and restart the talks. Other sources said Israeli negotiators were holding discussions with United Nations representatives serving as hosts for the talks at their southern Lebanon headquarters in Naqoura.

An Israeli Defense Ministry statement indicated that Israel might stop its anti-guerilla sweeps against Amal if the militia stopped ambushing Israeli soldiers.

Police Disperse March
By Solidarity Supporters

Warsaw, Poland—Helmeted riot police peacefully dispersed a march by about 4,000 Solidarity supporters last night after a Roman Catholic Mass marking Poland's pre-World War II independence day.

The crowd, chanting "There is no freedom without Solidarity" and the name of slain pro-Solidarity priest Jerzy Popieluszko, was dispersed in the middle of its mile-long march from St. John's Cathedral to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The police, standing in a column across the street, blocked most of the marchers from continuing. However, about 100 people were allowed to carry a wreath honoring the pre-war national day to the monument.

A banner across the wreath read: "For the Homeland-Independence."

When police using loudspeakers asked the crowd to disperse, the marchers began chanting, "Don't beat your brother for money!" and threw coins at the police. The crowd then broke into chants of "Solidarity," "Popieluszko" and "Gestapo" before obeying the calls to disperse.

Earlier in the day, Communist authorities held separate observances of the 66th anniversary of Poland's independence after 123 years of partition by Russia, Prussia and Austria.

About 1,500 people attended the ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

In the Baltic port of Gdansk, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa led several thousand worshippers at two Masses marking the day. No demonstrations were reported.

Baby Fae Shows Signs Of Rejecting Ape Heart

Loma Linda, Calif.—The month-old infant known as Baby Fae has shown signs of rejecting the baboon's heart transplanted into her chest, but was responding well to treatment, her pediatric cardiologist said yesterday.

"Yes, we have diagnosed an episode of rejection and have already started treating her, and she is showing a good response to treatment," said Dr. Robin Doroshov. She said the baby's condition was "not at all" critical.

Medical center spokeswoman Jayne McGill said yesterday that Baby Fae still was listed in serious but stable condition, as she has since the week following surgery.

"Over the past 48 hours, we have diagnosed an initial brief rejection episode which is showing a favorable response to appropriate anti-rejection treatment," said Ms. McGill, reading from a prepared statement. "Baby Fae continues to do well clinically, feeding well, behaving normally and showing normal heart functions. As of this morning, Baby Fae showed no new signs of rejection," the statement said. "She shows no signs of infection and antibiotics have been discontinued."

Loma Linda doctors have said they expected episodes of rejection in which the infant's disease-fighting immune system tries to attack the baboon heart as foreign tissue—but that they hoped to manage such episodes successfully with drugs.

Other doctors, including American Heart Association President Antonio Gotto, have said total rejection is inevitable and that another transplant will be needed. Loma Linda officials, while holding out hope that the baboon heart transplant will be permanent, have said they will seek a human heart before another baboon heart of a second transplant is required.

Moms and Dads Visit SB on 'Parents Day'

By Jeff Leibowitz

An unidentified Stony Brook student opens his mailbox. Hoping to find a check from his parents, he instead discovers a notice from the Alumni Association. His expression changes from one of anticipation to one of disbelief. He is overtaken by fear, anxiety, panic. His complexion turns pale, his body trembles.

He runs back to his room and starts to throw papers all over his desk in a frantic attempt to make it appear used. He grabs a six pack out of the refrigerator and proceeds to throw it out. At this point his roommate asks, "What's going on?"

In a desperate gasp for breath he responds, "Our parents are coming!"

This type of thing has been happening all over campus ever since the Office of Alumni and the Office for Campus Affairs decided to sponsor PARENTS

DAY '84. This year's event started Saturday with a brunch in the Union ballroom and was followed by various activities throughout the day.

University President John Marburger was among the administration officials attending the brunch. In his welcoming speech, Marburger called Stony Brook "a challenging campus," and encouraged parents to take a university-sponsored tour of the campus, in order to better understand the size and diversity of Stony Brook.

Marburger then introduced Dr. Fred Preston, vice president of Student Affairs, who spoke about the university's efforts to make Stony Brook a "second home" for students. "We (the Office of Student Affairs) have an obligation to know and care about the experiences, feelings and concerns of students," Preston said. He called the brunch "relaxing, comforting and filling."

Parents in attendance seemed pleased with the atmosphere. Each family was provided with individual tables to eat the Daka-provided food.

Arthur Young, Sophomore Eileen Young's father, called Parents Day "a very good idea. Parents get too involved in their own lives. Parents Day gives them more of a spirit."

Mr. Young pointed out however, the sound system did not function well. Referring to Preston's speech, Young said, "You could not get his message." Eileen called it "a beautiful day," but felt more conversation among the various tables should have been encouraged.

Cecil Gilbert, Freshman Jacklyn Gilbert's father, agreed that Parents Day is a good idea. He said, "Parents should come see where students are living and the type of activities students are involved in." However, the Gilberts felt that the activities planned were too sports oriented.

Parents also complained about the scheduling of events. Almost all of the parents spoken to expressed interest in attending the Fine Arts Center Performance "We Remember Basie," but many found it inconvenient because the performance started at 8:00 PM while the brunch ended at 1:00 PM.

Intermittent events were mainly sporting contests, one of which was the football game, where halftime performance was dedicated to the attending parents. It included the introduction of the Homecoming King, Eric Levine, and Queen, Jackie Delaney, as well as a kickline performance by the "Patriettes."

Sophomore Andrew Stroelzoff, who was seen brunching with his mother, said the event was "great," adding, "I hope they do it again. I like it, and it gives her (his mother) something to do."

Air Band Night Attracts Would-be Rockers

By Bill Flugrath

With their broomsticks on key and their tennis rackets in perfect pitch, twelve "air bands" performed their favorite songs last Friday night at Tabler Cafeteria hoping to win the first prize of $100.

Senior Ken Ginsberg, campus Budweiser representative, organized the event for Anheiser Busch along with the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and Douglass College. "A total of $1200 was raised," said Ginsberg. "Half the proceeds will go to the MDA and the other half will go to Douglass College."

For those unaware, air jamming is a pretend performance of a real song. All you need is a good knowledge of how the song should be performed. On Wednesday night, auditions were held in Whitman Pub. The judges, Ginsberg, and Kenny Myers from Anheiser Busch, decided to let all the bands who auditioned perform on Friday.

At 10:30 p. m., the Boys from Irving C-1 opened with "We're Not Gonna Take It" by Twisted Sister. In the middle of the act, all stage power was suddenly out. "It was just a circuit breaker," said Chief Fire Marshall Bill Schultz who was there to make sure that all exits were clear and no overcrowding occurred.

Twelve bands played with a 45 minute break after the first six. During the break, spectators drank Budweiser and Bud Light which was donated by Anheiser Busch, and danced to music played by Fingers, a WBAB Disc Jockey. "I'll come over and party with people from Stony Brook any time, any place," said Fingers who was MC for the event.

"It's a good way to have a good time because it's not the same old party scene," said student Janice Coleman.

"It's interesting, but pretty foolish," said student Harriet Cohen. "I guess it's more different than anything else that goes on on campus."

Many groups showed imagination in their performances. One band, Master Cylinder, shot flames and smoke up into the air as they jammed behind makeup and long-haired wigs to the tune of "Detroit Rock City" by Kiss. The Electroglides greased their hair back, wore Hawaiian shirts and performed the Elvis tune "Teddy Bear". One of the members of a Blues Brothers routine doused himself with a can of Budweiser beer and gyrated about the stage with a youthful energy that even the late John Belushi would have envied.

There were girl air bands too. Pink Steele performed "Panama", a song from Van Halen's new album 1984. There was also an oldies number, of "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," and Up Squared performed a top forties number, "So Many Men" with a Solid Gold dancer style routine.

A man dressed in a red costume cap and blue cape, known as the Bud Man, danced on stage while students threw beer at each other. "I'm having a lot of fun. Nobody's against each other and we don't care if we win or lose," said Gina Barbato of Pink Steele. "I'm so psyched that the money is going to the MDA." The contest was judged in four areas; costumes, showmanship, lip syncing, and audience applause. First prize was $100, second prize was $50, and third prize was merchandise from Anheiser Busch.

After the second set of six bands, four finalists were chosen. Each performed a song while audience applause was calculated.

Paul Garex of "The Five Seasons" lip-syncs the old Motown hit "My Girl" during the Air Band Contest on Friday night. His "group" won the $100 first prize.

The heavy metal band Master Cylinder, won fourth place. Coming in third was the Blues Brothers. Last years winners, Metal Storm placed second in the competition.

The winning band, "The Five Seasons" from Douglass College, had performed "My Girl" by the Temptations. Paul Garex performed the lead, and his four friends, Mark Goercke, Scott Rockower, Tony Coles and Bron Babialy did the background vocals, along with a smoothly executed dance routine.

Those who missed the event shouldn't worry. It was videotaped and will be shown at the End of the Bridge in the near future.

Religious Conference to Center on Issues

By Stephanie Hyde

Approximately 300 religious leaders and scholars will participate in a special conference on "Religion, the Economy and Social Justice," November 14-15 in the Student Union at Stony Brook.

Sponsored by the Economics Department, the Interfaith Center and numerous other academic and administrative units at Stony Brook, the conference will bring together members of various religious denominations who have paid special attention to economic matters: economists, philosophers and other scholars whose expertise can shed light on the questions at hand and activists in the labor movement and from community organizations who confront on a daily basis the realities which have given rise to ethical concerns about the economy.

Conference coordinator, Michael Zweig from the Economics Department has said the conference will consider "vital ethical questions as well as technical problems related to enduring poverty, overwhelming inequality in the distribution of income, unemployment and great disparities in personal freedom arising from disparities in economic power, all of which clearly are major causes of social unrest and war."

Conference speakers will include Brett Silverstein, former Stony Brook professor, now at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. The conference has been scheduled to coincide with the publication of a first draft pastoral letter on the economy by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops. Provost Homer Neal and Sociology Department Chairman, Norm Goodman are among the numerous sponsors noted earlier from Stony Brook.

Registration fees at the door will be $7 for Wednesday only, $25 for Thursday, and $30 for both days. Students with current ID will be charged $5 for Wednesday and $10 for Thursday.

The conference will open Wednesday evening at 7:30 with Gregory Baum, a Catholic theologian, Bill Tabb, an economist, and Amy Niehouse, a representative from the United Mine Workers of America. Workshops being held on Thursday will begin at 9:30 a.m., ending at 5:30 p.m.

Juniors! Seniors! If you're a math, engineering or physical sciences major, you might qualify to get a check for more than $1,000 every month.

It's part of the Navy's Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate Program. And the nearly $27,000 you can earn while still in school is just the start.

When you successfully complete your studies and become a Naval officer, you receive an additional $6,000 bonus. On top of that you receive a year of graduate-level training you can't get anywhere else at any price.

As an officer in today's Nuclear Navy you have a career advantage no civilian job can offer. The Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. The early responsibility and unequalled experience you get as a member of the nuclear propulsion officer team place you among the nation's most respected professionals in one of the world's fastest growing fields.

In addition to the professional advantages, as a nuclear-trained officer, after four years with regular promotions and pay increases you can be earning as much as $42,000. That's an addition to a full benefits package.

Inquiries on Tubs Make Them 'Hot' Item

By Patricia Hall

Picture yourself sitting in a nice, warm hot tub, sipping champagne with the person or people of your choice. Is this a promo for a new Playboy Club? No. But it could be the newest fad on Northeastern college campuses.

The Hot Tub fad, which began on the West Coast in the 1970's, now seems to be making its way to the Northeast. On October 19th, Stony Brook's own Tokyo Joe's held a Hot Tub party which was very successful according to Ira Levy, SAB Concerts Chairman. It was a sold-out event with 500 people attending and, of those 500, approximately 250 took advantage of the three hot tubs provided.

"Hofstra and C.W. Post have called about the Hot Tub party," said Levy. "I guess you can consider it a trend. Now that it's brought out, people will think it's a good idea and 'why don't we try it?'" said Levy.

The idea to have a Hot Tub party at Tokyo Joe's came when David Glickman of Good Times Hot Tubs gave a demonstration to Levy and Frank Janusewski, manager of Tokyo Joe's. According to Levy, Glickman said that other schools were thinking about it, but Stony Brook would be the first to actually have one. "Stony Brook has started a lot of trends and we like to be the first," said Levy.

So, how wild is a Hot Tub party? "Just the idea of sipping champagne in a hot tub is pretty wild in the middle of October," said Levy. "There were some people who took off articles of clothing. One girl had no top on and one of the guys took his pants down." Of those who didn't go in the hot tubs, most said next time they would come prepared, according to Levy.

Besides Hofstra and C.W. Post, many Stony Brook dorms have also asked Levy about where they could get a hot tub.

"I think it will start a trend in the spring," said Levy. "Right now it's cold out. I think a lot of colleges will try to throw a party like this. We're going to try to top it — maybe fill them with champagne next semester."

Then get in on the ground floor in our undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start planning on a career like the men in this ad have. And also have some great advantages like:

■ Earning $100 a month during the school year

■ As a freshman or sophomore, you could complete your basic training during two six-week summer sessions and earn more than $1100 during each session

■ Juniors earn more than $1900 during one ten-week summer session

■ You can take free civilian flying lessons

■ You're commissioned upon graduation

If you're looking to move up quickly, look into the Marine Corps undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could start off making more than $17,000 a year.

We're looking for a few good men.

Senate Should Amend Holiday Schedule

About three years ago, the University Senate, acting with support from student leaders, voted to lengthen a 13-week semester to 15 weeks. The move was obviously faulty because last week the Senate voted to shorten the 15 week semester by a week starting next fall.

While in the process of changing the academic calendar, we would like to urge the Senate — and student leaders — to take this initiative one step further and alter some vacation dates.

First and foremost, classes should be cancelled on Election Day from this day forth. Such a motion was approached by the Senate's Executive Committee in 1982, but it was never passed because the subject was first broached too close to Election Day. It was said at the time that further discussion on cancelling Election Day classes would be undertaken. But, two years later, in a Presidential Election year, we still had classes on Election Day.

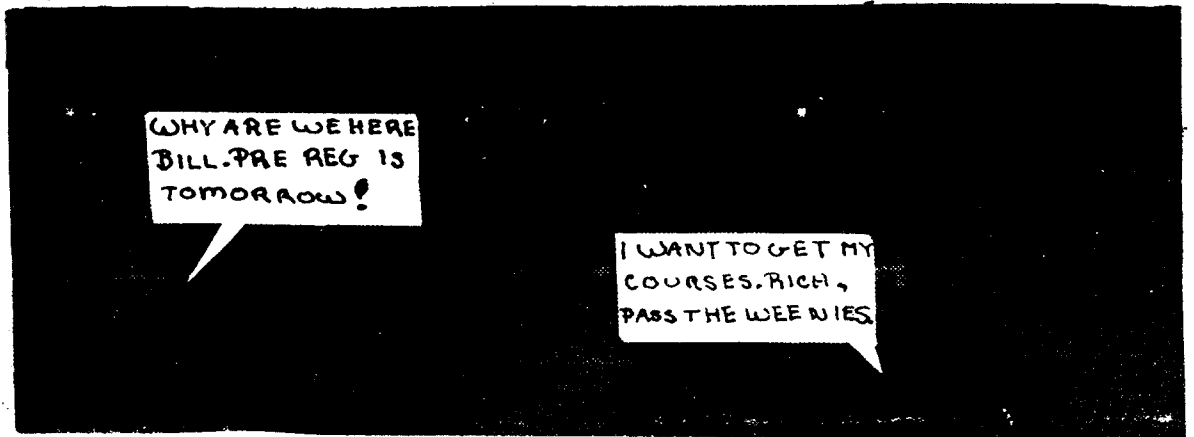

The reasons for cancelling Election Day classes are obvious: To get as many people out to the polls as possible. Students and staff members often encounter problems traveling to their home districts and still attending classes. Memos have been sent out by University President John Marburger urging faculty members to avoid giving exams on that date, but there are always a few exceptions in which necessary assignments or exams are given on that date.

Another matter that bothered many people last year and is sure to bother them again this year is the scheduling of the spring break in the middle of winter. Vacation time at Stony Brook is slotted for March 8 to 15. There are no holidays in that time span. On the contrary, we do have classes scheduled on Good Friday, Passover, and the day after Easter. We feel that it is very possible to re-schedule our vacation to accommodate these very religious holidays, which more than half of our students and staff members celebrate. Most other schools schedule spring breaks in spring during these holidays. Why do we have to be different?

—Letters—

Dear Mr. Reagan

(The following letter is an open letter to the President of the United States)

Dear Ronald Reagan:

Mr. President, I am a Democrat. I voted for your opponent, Walter Mondale, and if the election were held today I would vote for him again. But the people chose otherwise, which is their right, and that is what makes our country great. You are our President, and I accept that, and I wish you all the success in running the country better than it has ever been run before. Congratulations, Mr. President.

But Mr. President, I have learned something in this election. Being a college student, I am still very impressionable. I can be swayed by logical thinking, and reasonable judgement. Mr. President, this election has opened my eyes. I would like to thank you for that, but the real lesson came from your opponent, Walter Mondale.

As I watched you crush him in virtually every state I felt a deep disappointment. Knowing that I had failed in my first attempt in politics. But Walter Mondale gave me hope, speaking to the young voter of the failures that must come in order to achieve success. As I sat teary eyed during his concession speech, he showed me that it was not a time of grief, and sadness. Instead, he claimed it was a time for strength, and hope, and preparation to succeed the next time. Mondale has taught me the value of determination, of not looking back at failure, but looking forward to success.

I guess what I'm trying to say, Mr. President, is that I look at the world differently now from this experience. I can now accept failure, and actually be stronger. I now have the courage to say, "Congratulations, Mr. President, and may you be a fine one, but don't write us off. I promise you, we will be back. We will be stronger than ever. That, Mr. President, you can be t on.

Mitchell Rosenberg
Grenada Concern

To the Editor:

As one of the medical students in Grenada at this time last year, I am deeply concerned about the so-called "Student Liberation Days" being organized on college campuses by right-wing groups, purportedly to celebrate the United States invasion of Grenada.

Whether my life and those of my fellow medical students were endangered by the coup that overthrew Maurice Bishop is very much open to question. It is clear, however, that our "liberation" by the Reagan Administration came at a terrible cost: dozens of young American, Cuban and Grenadian lives.

That is a fact that the people organizing "Student Liberation Day" may not want you to know. Nor may they want you to know the course they'd like to see our nation follow in other parts of Latin America, namely such places as Nicaragua, El Salvador and Honduras.

If American troops are sent to those countries as some would like, they won't be facing a few hundred glorified policemen and Cuban construction workers as they did in Grenada. They won't be fighting on a sunny tropical island, as they did in Grenada.

If American troops are sent to Central America, it's more likely they will fight thousands of well-trained soldiers and guerillas willing to give everything to defend their homelands and their ideals.

As in Viet Nam, American soldiers will face the uncertainty of whether the peasants in the village before them are friend or foe. They will battle again in scorching heat, dense and hilly terrain and unfamiliar territory.

Polls show that most students, as well as the majority of Americans, want peace in Central America through political and diplomatic means, not more bloodshed through clumsy and misguided American intervention. If the organizers behind "Student Liberation Day" mean to suggest through their mindless celebration of the invasion of Grenada that students support military adventures on behalf of unpopular and repressive dictators in Central America, I suggest they ask students first.

Instead of celebrating the liberation of students, their actions only encourage the decimation of students. The publicity from their rallies, if not countered immediately, encourages the worst tendencies of our government to believe it will be politically acceptable to send us off to war.

They should recognize, as El Salvadoran President Jose Napoleon Duarte has, that hundreds of years of poverty, exploitation and despair are at the roots of the conflict in Central America, not the struggle between foreign ideologies. They should recognize, as most students do, that it only hurts the prospects for peace when our government supports those who have the most to gain by continued bloodshed: the Contras in Nicaragua and the government-tolerated death squads in El Salvador and elsewhere.

There still is time to act before our government sends us on a hopeless mission in Central America. Regardless of the foolishness of these right-wing "Student Liberation Days," let us ensure that our country not repeat the mistakes of the past by getting involved in an endless war on the wrong side of the battle.

Alumni Celebrate Patriot Day of Hoopla

By Jim Passano

The third annual Hoopla festivities were held this past Saturday to commemorate the opening of the 1984-85 Stony Brook basketball season. All three teams see some changes and look ready for a good season.

To start Hoopla off, a team of Stony Brook's alumni challenged the J.V. squad. And for the fifth consecutive year, alumni have shown Stony Brook that they still "have it" — they beat J.V.

Keith Martin, former Patriot captain and member of the 100 point club took to the floor. From the class of 1981, Joe Grandolfo and Paul Santoli suited up. Grandolfo, like Martin, is a member of the 100 point club and was a starting guard for the Patriots. Santoli was on a Stony Brook NCAA team. Also on hand was Ron Hollie, from the class of 1972. Hollie was a member of the First Stony Brook NCAA team.

From the class of 1983, someone present Stony Brook students would recognize, Greg Angrum, played his first alumni game. Angrum is credited with having the most rebounds in a Patriot game. Dave Dikman, also of 1983, had been named ECAC player of the week. Craig Flucker from Stony Brook's class of 1982 was on the last Stony Brook NCAA team.

Jack Guarnari, '68, coached the alumni team. Guarnari is the president of the Very Important Patriots Booster Club and is vice president of the Alumni Association.

During the actual contest, the alumni jumped out to an early lead with a few quick baskets. The alumni squad was tight and looked like it was ready to play ball against any varsity team.

The alumni squad held a fair lead over the J.V. squad during most of the contest and at the half had a 30-19 lead. Everybody had a good time and got to play with the alumni squad eventually winning, 86-65, over the J.V.

Also in the spirit of alumni tradition, a team of Stony Brook's alumnae challenged the women's varsity team. The alumnae squad was coached by Sandy Weeden the women's athletic director, who was responsible for the creation of the women's basketball program at Stony Brook. She also coached the team for 13 years back when the team was known as "the Big Red One." The alumnae did not fair as well as the alumni, as they lost, but they had a good time and met several old buddies. This was indeed an alumnae team as it cut across all the eras of the Stony Brook basketball program.

Such notables to return were Cordella Hill, the all-time leading Patriot scorer with over 1,300 points. Sue Fairman, know more often as "Sue Manager" was there. Sue Tobachnic from the class of 1975, the oldest class present, was on hand. From the class of 1976 Lorraine "Woolie" Chase, Donna Groman, and Stony Brook's "High Top Kid" Patty Germano, made it.

The "mother of the group" Rosie Huss Youino was present with her husband, sister, and youngson Philip cheering on. Carmen Martinez was present to represent the class of 1979. Vanessa Norman represented the class of 1980 and Ellen Arocho was from the class of 1981. Barbara Bischoff and Agnes Ferro from the class of 1982 came from California. The classes of 1983 and 1984 sent several reps including Detra "Sure Hands" Sarris and Jill Seage, who showed the hustle that brought Stony Brook the respectability as a top-notch Division III program.

The game started out with the Pats taking an early lead, with the help of some strong outside shooting courtesy of Lisa White. At the half, the alumnae were down by a nine-point 34-25 margin. They came back strong in the early second half, attempting to run the primarily rookie Patriots into the ground. Despite some effective steals from Sarris, the Pats were unable to overcome the varsity squad. When the final buzzer went off, the score was 69-46, varsity.

Ferro was the high-scorer for the alumnae squad with 11 points, and Groman was the high rebounder. What was noticeable was the fact that the inexperienced varsity squad committed several fouls that could affect their play this season. Without the help of Michele White, there are only two veterans on the '84-'85 squad. True, Stony Brook does possess quite a bit of height this season, but it won't do much good if their opponents are doing all of their shooting from the line.

Maybe the Pats just needed one game to loosen up. We'll be able to tell when Stony Brook plays its first regular season game against Ithaca College this coming Saturday in the Stony Brook Invitational.

Soccer Loses Playoff Game in 3-2 Shoot-out

Statesman, Robby Schwach

Stony Brook's soccer squad in action.

The Stony Brook men's soccer team completed their season with a playoff loss to William Paterson College at Wayne, N. J. last week. The game was a defensive struggle that went into overtime and then a shoot-out before Paterson was declared the victor.

William Paterson opened the scoring in this closely contested match, at 59:07 when Chris Snack put a low hard shot past Patriot goalkeeper Matt McDade, who played the entire game in net. Snack was assisted in the score by Alexis Garcia. The teams were playing on a bumpy field that resembled a football field; it suited the Paterson kick and run style of play.

Stony Brook tied up the score at one late in the game, when Mike Bellerio scored his 11th goal on a header off the cross. He was assisted by fellow Patriot Andre Montazon. William Paterson's goalie John Rennar did manage to get a hand on the ball but didn't quite save it.

After regulation play was completed, the score was tied 1-1. Again, another defensive battle ensued during overtime, forcing the contest into a five-shot shoot-out. Ed Lee took the first shot for Stony Brook, but it hit the post. The shot taken by William Paterson did the same thing.

Tony Mazze scored for the Patriots on the second shot, and William Paterson returned the shot in kind. On the third shot both McDade and Rennar made saves, keeping the shoot-out score at 1-1. On the fourth shot Steve Meyers scored for William Paterson, but Stony Brook did not score.

Down 2-1 in the shoot-out, Stony Brook was ready for their last shot, taken by Paul Nasta. Nasta scored to tie the score up, but William Paterson had one shot remaining. Bob Ebert's line drive goal to McDade's right clinched the contest for William Paterson.

William Paterson went on to play King's Point yesterday to see who would win the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference's Metro N. Y. Championship.

With all the stats totalled, William Paterson outshot the Patriots 17 to 12 and had more shots on goal, 10 to 5, but Stony Brook played a tough game and proved that they are indeed a fierce contender. In addition, McDade had nine saves, while Rennar had four.

Stony Brook ends their season, but should do so with a lot of pride. They have accomplished several records this season, including their impressive season record, 9-6-1.

Football Tops Fitchburg State

25-20 Win Caps 4-5 Season For the Stony Brook Patriots

By Jimmy Gilligan

The Stony Brook Patriots closed out their 1984 season Saturday with a 25-20 win over the Fitchburg State Falcons. The victory, the Patriots' fourth in their last five games, brought their season record to 4-5.

Saturday's game capped a winning second half of the season for Stony Brook, who started the season off at 0-4. Head Coach Sam Kornhauser commented after the game, "It's a great thing to end so strong. The kids could have quit half-way through (the season), and it was a great gesture that they hung with it. We're real excited and it's a great feeling to have them finish so strong."

The game showcased the talents of three of the Patriots' graduating seniors, for whom this game was their last. Quarterback Ray McKenna passed for a record-breaking 298 yards. He broke Jim McTigue's five-year-old record of 291 for most yards passed in one game. McKenna completed seven of fifteen passes, including three touchdowns.

Eric Knechtel, another senior, caught four passes for a total of 207 yards and Chris Brown, the last of the trio, rushed for 113 yards.

Although the Patriots possessed the ball for only three minutes in the first quarter, they dominated the Falcons, who managed three impressive drives which turned up fruitless. On the Patriots' first possession, it took them only three plays to put themselves on the scoreboard. On third down and five, McKenna threw the first of his three touchdown passes to Knechtel. It was an 85 yard reception that put the score at 7-0 at 5:34 into the game.

After the Falcons had the ball for five and a half minutes, Paul Emmanuel broke up what probably would have been a successful scoring drive by the Falcons with an interception.

Once again, the Patriots used only three plays to put them across the goal line. On an almost identical play as the one which enabled Stony Brook to score the first time, McKenna unleashed a pass to Knechtel, who ran it 79 yards for a second touchdown. When the two-point conversion attempt failed, the score was 13-0.

After receiving the ball, Fitchburg finally got an opportunity to consummate their scoring drive. The Falcons scored on a thirteen play, 70-yard drive which saw the game into the second quarter. The touchdown was scored on a one-yard pass from Tim Fitzgibbons to Jim Iarribino. Fitzgibbons kicked the extra point to bring the score to 13-7, in favor of the Patriots.

A series of unproductive possessions followed for both teams until Stony Brook got the ball with 3:41 left in the half. On the first play from scrimmage, McKenna threw another touchdown pass. This time it was a 71-yard reception for John Ragimierski. Kicker John Buonora missed the extra point and the score was now 19-7.

However, with only 50 seconds left in the second quarter, Fitzgibbons reciprocated with a 22-yard scoring pass to his brother, Mike. The extra point was blocked by the Patriots and, at half-time, the score stood at 19-13.

The Patriots capitalized on their first possession of the second half. A series of runs by McKenna, Brown, and Jorge Taylor catapulted the Patriots downfield to the three-yard line. McKenna ran this one in himself, putting the score at 25-13.

But, as they had been providing all game, the Falcons were not going to give up. They came right back with a touchdown of their own, scored on a 35-yard toss from Fitzgibbons to Chris Cronin. The score was a very close 25-20 with more than a quarter left to play.

The Falcons lodged a serious threat late in the fourth quarter. Fitzgibbons, continuing his aerial circus, was foiled, however, by Chuck Downey when Downey executed what looked like a game-saving interception.

The real game-saver, though, came a couple of minutes later after the Falcons had regained the ball. Fitchburg had been building momentum and the game seemed like it was in jeopardy when Paul Emmanuel pulled off his second interception to secure the game for Stony Brook.

Not only did the game prove the ability of the Patriots, but it also proved their ability to play exciting football. Each of the Patriots' last three games have been decided by less than a touchdown — their 17-14 loss to Ramapo, last week's 23-21 victory over Brockport, and Saturday's 25-20 victory.

In addition to promising a bright future for Division III football at Stony Brook, the Patriots have also lived up their 1984 slogan — "We're talkin' excitement!"

B-Ball Beats Canadian Squad

By Jeff Eisenhart

Basketball is back at Stony Brook. Before a home crowd on Saturday night, the men's varsity basketball team opened their 1984-85 season with a convincing 81-62 win over Canada's Maisonneuve College. Remarkably it was only with half a squad.

Six members of the team—Frank Prantil, Dave Burda, Kurt Abrams, Tab Borbon, Brian Reed, and Maurice Gainey — received two game suspensions from the NCAA. The six allegedly played basketball in an on campus intramural tournament last year. Under NCAA rules, no one is allowed to compete in varsity and intramural competition of the same sport. The suspension will last into next weekend's Plattsburgh Tournament, where again the Patriots will not be at full strength. Three players are scheduled to sit out Friday's game, and three other players will sit out on Saturday.

Patriot Ken Hess puts up one of the baskets that put Stony Brook over the Maisonneuve Vikings, 81-62, garnering new Coach Joe Castiglia his first win.

The seven Patriots who did play put on a fine performance. "The difference was conditioning," said Dexter Cummings. Cummings was the game high scorer with 19 points. But Cummings got a lot of support from his backcourt partners Scott Walker, Eljay Scott, and Ray Rath. Walker who was the key figure in the second half spurt netted 18 points, while Scott and Rath chipped in with 16 and 13 points respectively. Robert Dufort was the high man for Maisonneuve with 18 points.

The Patriots took control of the game from the onset, as they built an early 13-7 lead. But after a couple of Stony Brook turnovers and missed shots, Maisonneuve proceeded to take a 15-14 lead when Richard Gagne sunk two free throws at the 13-10 mark of the first half. Another basket put the Patriots behind by three points at 17-14, but that was the last lead for the visiting Canadiens.

With 8:12 remaining in the first half, Dan Lowell put the Patriots ahead 20-19 for good, when he followed up on a missed shot. The game remained close until halftime when the Patriots held a 36-33 margin. The second half belonged to the Patriots backcourt. Walker, Scott and Cummings ignited the Stony Brook offense with a dazzling fast break. Walker scored 15 second half points while Scott and Cummings combined for 17 points. "We were more relaxed on offense and defense," Scott said.

Walker opened up the second half scoring with seven quick points in a 9-2 spurt that gave Stony Brook a 45-35 bulge. After that, Maisonneuve couldn't pull any closer than five points. The game became a runaway in the last five minutes of play as the Patriots turned their nine-point lead into a 19 point win.

What was the reason behind the second half surge? A pleased Coach Joe Castiglia offered, "We reduced the turnovers on the break and we hit the boards well." Cummings added, "We played well and were able to control the tempo." The Patriots will be away when they open their regular season on Friday in the Plattsburgh tournament.
