Weekend Downpour Drenches SB Fall Fest

Polity to Determine Event Losses Today After Carnival/Concert Near Wash-Out

By Barry Wenig

It had never rained during other Fall Fests, Pam Laventer said, and yet the rains came. A rain-soaked weekend curtailed beer sales, caused the cancellation of bands and movies, and finally, forced a last-minute rental of the gymnasium so the rock band The Ramones would be able to play. As the sky cleared up yesterday, the realization came that the student government Polity may end up having to cover a loss of several thousand dollars for Fall Fest.

"I'm feeling like fifty different things," said Laventer, the producer of Fall Fest, who serves as president of SCOOP. "The whole five months I was worried that it was going to rain and then it did. We're exhausted, we're disappointed. But I think the people who came had a good time."

Laventer, and assistant producers Kaliope Poulianos, Brian Kohn, and Karen Nicholson had spent five months setting up the athletic field event, planning the carnival, signing the bands, and arranging the security. According to Laventer, Polity contributed $7,000 for Fall Fest, the Student Activities Board (SAB) came up with $7,000 to pay for the bands, the Faculty-Student Association (FSA) contributed $3,000 and COCA gave $1,100. Laventer said that Fall Fest will wind up costing between $30,000 and $35,000. Usually, beer sales help to partially recoup the cost of Fall Fest, but the weekend weather made that idea impractical.

Joanne Young, executive director of Fall Fest, and a veteran of many annual fests, said, "On a good Fall Fest, you may have to order 100 kegs on one day, and then another 25 to 50 the next day." According to Young, who supervised the beer for this year's fest, the total keg count came to 38, with five of those provided free for bands and clean-up people.

"We counted money all of Saturday night until we couldn't see anymore, and we did the same tonight [yesterday]," said Young, "but we're certainly not going to know anything until Virginia (the Polity bookkeeper) comes in tomorrow [today]."

The downpour that began Friday night not only dampened the scene, but made it impossible for all but one band to play at all. After the band Full House made a rain-shortened appearance during Friday afternoon, they returned in early evening to try it again as another downpour began to fall. The headline group of the evening, Blotto, couldn't play in the rain for fear of electrocution. Despite the weather, the Carnival remained open and food and beer were sold.

(Laventer said Blotto is being rescheduled. Also being rescheduled are the two movies which were to be shown on Friday outside the Fest. Dan Hank, movie co-ordinator for Fall Fest, and Director of Finance and Operations for COCA, said the movies "This is Spinal Tap" and "Blazing Saddles" will be shown in the near future.)

Saturday brought the most decision-making, according to Laventer. Continual downpours made it necessary to postpone fireworks by Grucci until this evening.

The carnival, scheduled to open at 1 p.m., opened instead at 6 p.m. Hasty arrangements were made to move "An American Werewolf in London" and "Monty Python and the Holy Grail", supplied by COCA, to the Union Auditorium, but it took day-long phone calls to arrange rental of the gymnasium. According to Laventer, The Ramones and the scheduled warm-up band, The Detonators, had to set up their equipment as a woman's basketball clinic was coming to an end.

"It was an hour by hour thing," said Laventer about the decision to move The Ramones inside. "It's very hard to book a rain date for something like this, but we're trying to reschedule as many bands as we can."

"I think if people are disappointed, they have only an inkling of how the people who set it up and worked on it felt," said Polity President Rory "Hawkeye" Aylward of the nearly 400 who worked to bring about Fall Fest.

Aylward, who had been scheduled to make a parachute jump down to the rain-drenched athletic fields Saturday, said that Polity will wait until the exact loss is determined before it acts on the matter.

"We'll see how big the losses are," said Aylward, "and then we'll see where the money will come from."

Stranded in Siberia

Anchorage, Alaska—Five Americans whose supply ship vanished near Soviet territory remained in detention yesterday at a hotel in Siberia, authorities said, but a Soviet official predicted the incident would be resolved "very rapidly."

Curtis Kamman, charge d'affaires at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, said yesterday the crewmen were being detained in a hotel in Provideniya, a port city on the southeast tip of the Chukotski Peninsula about 250 miles west of Nome, Alaska.

An embassy spokesman told the Associated Press that inquiries about the Americans were being made to the Foreign Ministry in Moscow, which would not immediately "confirm the circumstances of their coming into Soviet hands." The flat-bottom supply ship Frieda K., on its way back to Nome after delivering supplies to an Eskimo village, failed to show up Wednesday as scheduled. Its route would have taken it past the Seward Peninsula, which is only about 25 miles from Siberia territory. The National Weather Service in Anchorage said yesterday the weather was calm in the area where the vessel disappeared last week.

A State Department spokesman in Washington, Joseph Reap, said yesterday efforts were being made to contact the Americans. "It just takes time," he said, noting their remote location. He said Soviet authorities were not stalling but were cooperating under a consular convention for dealing with such incidents. Stanislav Menshikov, an adviser to the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee, said yesterday he expected a resolution "very quickly."

Baby Makes Four

London—Smiling to a cheering crowd, Princess Diana took home from the hospital yesterday her one-day-old second son, Henry Charles Albert David. The baby, third in line to the British throne, will be known to his family simply as Harry.

Diana, 23, wore a red coat and cradled the infant swathed in a white shawl as she left the hospital 22 hours after a routine birth. Her husband Prince Charles, 35, accompanied Diana and their new son home to their London residence, Kensington Palace.

year-old Prince William, visited his mother and baby brother for 15 minutes earlier. William, looking confused by the phalanx of photographers, arrived with Charles, but left holding the hand of his nanny Barbara Barnes. He gave three small waves to a delighted crowd.

The baby, taken home in a three-car motorcade at the start of a life a wealth, privilege, and constant publicity, bears the name of England's famed Henry VIII, who broke with Rome in 1534 because the Vatican would not sanction his divorce.

The princess blushed as the crowd of about 1,000 people, some of whom waited through the night outside London's St. Mary's Hospital, waved Union Jacks and called out "Hurrah, Harry."

The royal couple's first child, two-

"They chose the name Henry simply because they both like it and also because there is no other member of the royal family at present with that name," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman. "The other names all have family connections."

To Meet Gromyko

Washington—Walter Mondale, announcing that he will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko one day before President Reagan, said yesterday that the Soviets have "nothing to gain" by delaying negotiations past the November election because "I'm tough and I know I'm strong."

Vice-president Bush, meanwhile, defended the Reagan-Gromyko meeting against charges of election-year politics, saying, "It takes two to meet...let's just be glad they are meeting."

The Democratic Presidential nominee said he will emphasize that the Soviets shouldn't delay negotiations in hopes of getting a better deal from him.

"The Soviet Union has nothing to gain from delay," Mondale said in his weekly paid radio speech. He went on to say, "If I am elected president, I will drive a tough bargain and I will not sign any agreement that fails to protect American security."

To underscore his point, Mondale said in a CBS News interview, "They won't be able to use me; I'm tough and I know what I'm doing."

Mondale and Gromyko will meet in New York on September 27. The next day Gromyko will travel to Washington to confer with Reagan. Mondale has tried to make arms control and foreign policy the centerpiece of his campaign to win the White House, repeatedly criticizing the chill in U.S.-Soviet relations since Reagan took office in 1981.

Forecast

Expect sunny skies all-day Monday and milder temperatures. The highs will be between 65 and 70 degrees.

The forecast for Tuesday calls for more sunshine and warmer temperatures, according to the National Weather Service. Lows for Tuesday will be in the low to mid 70's.

Wednesday should be breezy and cool again, with a chance of showers. Temperatures should be in the mid 60's.

Committee To Review Campus Cops Is Eyed

By Patricia Hall

At a meeting last Monday, the University Senate announced plans to form a committee to review Public Safety, according to Senate President Joel Rosenthal. Although no final decisions have been made on the specifics regarding the committee, Rosenthal said it would be formed by mid-year.

The purpose of the committee would be to review complaints brought against Public Safety and to improve relations between Public Safety and other campus constituencies, such as students, according to Rosenthal.

Rosenthal, a professor of history, said that any complaints that were brought to the committee would be dealt with complete confidentiality. He also said that the purpose of the committee was not to "superintend" Public Safety or to publicize complaints or problems with Public Safety.

"The purpose of the committee will be to help them (Public Safety) collect information from other constituencies so they can better evaluate themselves," said Rosenthal.

No specific rules or guidelines have been set up for the committee as of yet, but Rosenthal said that the committee should be formed so that it includes representation from different sectors of the university community. One idea being considered would be to set up a four or five-person committee that included representatives from administration, Public Safety, faculty, students (undergraduate and graduate), and a local citizen or professional. Among these representatives, Rosenthal said he would like to see a member of a minority.

The committee would report to President John Marburger and to Robert Francis, vice-president of Campus Operations. It would not be under the direct control of the University Senate, according to Rosenthal. The committee would be established by the Senate but would set up its own rules and procedures.

Rosenthal stated that this committee did not grow out of the recent decision to arm Public Safety officers with mace. He said that the idea to form the committee began before that decision was made. The main purpose of the committee, according to Rosenthal, is to prevent a crisis or problem that could occur and to improve Public Safety's relationship with students.

According to Polity President Rory "Hawkeye" Aylward, the proposed committee is not the only one on campus dealing with Public Safety. There is presently a Public Safety Advisory Board on campus, which is composed of faculty and students. Aylward, who said he had not been approached by Rosenthal on the new committee, said he expects to.

"Certainly any review board ought to have members from Polity or GSO (Graduate Student Organization)," said Aylward.

Doug Little, spokesman for Public Safety, said that he had heard of the committee, but knew no details. According to Aylward, Polity had discussed the idea of setting up "a civilian review board" to evaluate Public Safety, but decided against it when Gary Barnes, director of the department, asked them to wait and see if the advisory board met their needs this semester.

U Florida Says 'Beat It' To Mixed Company

By College Press Service

Gainesville, Fla.—University of Florida students soon may find their indoor nocturnal activities curtailed by a ban on members of the opposite sex spending the night with them in residence halls and fraternity houses. And if Florida and other colleges are an indication, students everywhere may soon be facing tough new restrictions on what they can do in campus housing.

Florida decided to think seriously about joining the growing number of colleges that restrict visiting hours when a university task force suggested the changes in July. Student reaction was mixed.

The 13-member task force, made up of faculty, students and community representatives, was reacting to an alleged rape at a fraternity house and a campus hearing into a student's complaint about being disturbed by late-night visitors, says Hugh Cunningham, director of university information. "Currently, overnight visitation is not permitted," Cunningham notes. "But 24-hour visitation is, so obviously overnight visitation exists."

Among the suggestions were in-house monitoring by students and staff of individual residence halls, and live-in adult supervision in fraternity houses.

Most fraternity members reacted

"very well" to the recommendations, reports Tom Dougan, campus fraternity advisor, though many feel they have been singled out because of the alleged rape this spring. "In the coming year we'll start staffing the fraternities with grad students or house mothers," Dougan says. "But most fraternities don't feel the presence of a house mother would have prevented what allegedly occurred."

Last week, a 16-year-old girl visiting UF claimed she was raped at a pre-rush party at Sigma Alpha Epsilon, which does not have a resident adult supervisor. UF police are still investigating the incident.

Some fraternity members also say they can't afford the $15,000 a year to hire a house mother. Student reaction to the suggestions was minimal because of the summer release of the task force's report, but Cunningham expects more feedback as students return to campus this fall.

Florida is one of number of colleges that have changed overnight visitor policies recently. While sign in/sign out sheets and curfews are outdated, restricted guest hours are replacing the more liberal policies promoted in the sixties and seventies on many campuses.

In 1980, the University of Pittsburgh revised its 24-hour visitation policy and now restricts overnight guests to the same sex. Kent State, Kansas, and Alabama, among others, soon followed suit. The changes at Pitt and Kent State were prompted by dormitory murders. Administrators there and at other schools cite security as the reason for the changes.

Students themselves are the ones asking for the stricter housing policies, claims Paul Jahr, research committee chairman of the American Association of College and University Housing Officers (ACUHO). "The nature of college students in general is changing," he explains. "They are making an economic decision to go to college and they want to make the best use of their time."

Dorm visiting policies were a question "way back when," Jahr adds, but as society has changed in the past two decades, so have students. "Most students now were born after Kennedy was assassinated," he says. "They've grown up in a more permissive society and the question of visitation hours just isn't that big an issue to them."

Some students, however, are unhappy with college administrators' attempts to regulate visiting hours regardless of security or social reasons. Western Illinois University student Pat Botterman and ex-student Craig Roberts are suing WIU over its attempts to end a 14-year open-door policy. WIU wants to ban co-ed visits after midnight on weeknights and after 2 a.m. on weekends, with the curfew ending at 8 a.m.

Botterman claims the change violates the student constitution, approved by the university's Board of Governors, which specifies that students will be consulted in every level of policymaking.

"The administration brought out the policy with no debate," he says. "The students protested. The current policy has been in effect since about 1969 and dorm residents vote by floor on visitation hours."

Botterman and Roberts actually will file two suits. One alleging violation of the student constitution, may be settled by the university's Board of Governors in September, Botterman hopes. The other, protesting the proposed policy changes, will probably require court settlement.

Visitation rules also have been challenged at Alcorn State University in Lorman, Mississippi. A female student sued the university for extending her one-semester suspension to two for violating the policy. The student claims the college has conflicting policies for punishing violators. An Alcorn State spokesman refused to comment on the lawsuit.

It Wasn't Easy

We all know how rain can change the most happily anticipated plans. We've all been through the disappointments of rained-out picnics, ballgames, and pool parties. Even though it got us down, sometimes rained an entire day, we bounced back, and even made more exciting plans for the following week than we had originally made.

Well, there is no following week for Fall Fest, only next year. The most popular, anxiously awaited weekend of the year has come and gone, and left a trail of soggy sneakers behind it.

There was no time to talk of rescheduling the carnival or the weekend's biggest attraction, The Ramones. There was only time for fast thinking and fast thinkers. A group of Stony Brook students helped pull off Fall Fest with the help of Pam Laventer, the Fest producer, and assistant producers Kaliope Poulianos, Brian Kohn, and Karen Nicholson. They ultimately save some of your student activity dollars and your freezing tootsies.

Only fast thinking and a lot of finagling got the Fall Fest committee the right to use the gym for the Ramones Saturday night. And Dan Hank deserves kudos for being able to move the movies inside to the Union Auditorium.

The point is simply this: while there are those who gripe about waiting on line to get in the gym to see the Ramones or about rain-splattered zeppoles at the carnival, there are a group of people who are pretty bummed out because of the way the weekend turned out.

Tonight, while you watch the Grucci fireworks that the Fall Fest committee quickly rescheduled, remember that there are people hanging out in the Polity office that wish the word "rain" could be stricken from the English language.

For all of us...thanks.

Stop Printing Mr. Cohen's Diatribes

To the Editor:

This is appeal to the editors on behalf of all those Stony Brook students who are just plain bored from reading Mr. Cohen's seemingly weekly diatribes about how the "right" is telling all us students so many lies, and about how the "left," in which he includes himself, is so great. The absolute last straw has come in his latest communique entitled "U.S. Lied About Invasion of Grenada," where he actually warns us that this is only the beginning, and that in the next few "articles" he will telling us more.

Whats he trying to do, wear us down? I give up, uncle, anything (Well, almost anything, I'll never believe a word Mr. Cohen writes till he cites a source) please don't publish any more.

I have an idea, what if next week I write down all the various and sundry ingredients in junk food, do you think Statesman could publish that instead. It's bound to contain more substantiated facts than just about anything Mr. Cohen has written.

In closing, does Statesman have any sort of real editorial policy concerning viewpoints or is it really first-come, first served? I acknowledge that first-come, first-served is a valid policy, but does it work? If my Aunt Tillie, who came to Stony Brook as a transfer student in 1964, spends all her time writing "articles" about alien life forms living in the basement of the Computer Center will you publish her letter?

Please inform Mr. Cohen that he really wants to perform a public service to everyone at Stony Brook he will write a VIEWPOINT telling us he has found something better to do than waste space that could be used better by publishing the fingerprinting of small children.

Brian Patrick Ford

(Note: Brian Ford hopes to graduate Stony Brook in December and can often be spotted studying in the Library.)

SB Women Suffer Second Setback Via Skidmore

The Stony Brook women's tennis team dropped their second straight match, 6-2 at home Friday. Although they won two of the six singles competitions, they dropped the remaining four singles and all three doubles matches after being blanked on Thursday.

The Pats suffered in both matches from the absence of Deidre Ettus, their starting singles player, who is still recovering from foot injuries.

For the match against Skidmore College the women played what Coach Rich L'Hommedieu called a "ten game pro set". In this type of competition the first singles player to win ten games wins their set and match.

In the first singles match, second player Chrissy Goodman challenged Pam Thompson. Despite what L'Hommedieu described as "good playing", Thompson won their match 10-1. Lisa Pisano followed Goodman in singles with competition against Roxy Felton. Unfortunately, Pisano lost as well by a 10-2 margin.

The Patriots evened up the match score with victories in the third and fourth singles competitions. Ericka Iten defeated Sallie Livingston in a 15 game battle, 10-5, and Sharon Marcus finished out on top of Barb Neulinger in the longest match of the afternoon, 10-8.

Unfortunately for the Patriots, Marcus got the last win for them. In the fifth singles match, Lisa Treyz lost to Carolyn Spellman in an eleven game match, 10-1. Debbie Gruskin, despite a lead of three games to one, lost to Barbara Schwartz in a 10-4 final.

Stony Brook dropped all three matches in the doubles competitions. Goodman and Pisano lost the first match, 8-3, and Iten and Marcus, the two singles' winners, lost 8-1. In the last set, Treyz and Gruskin dropped another match, 8-1.

Stony Brook will have another shot at victory Tuesday when they travel to Wagner College for a match at 4 P.M.

Sports Digest Compiled From Associated Press Reports Jets, Mets Earn Victory

East Rutherford, N.J.-Freeman McNeil scored two touchdowns and Pat Leahy kicked a career-high five field goals as the ball-hawking New York Jets whipped the Cincinnati Bengals 43-23 with 30 second-half points in a National Football League game held yesterday.

Burned by a 80-yard touchdown bomb by Ken Anderson at the start of the third period, the Jets defense turned things around later in the second half when they intercepted three passes by Anderson and recovered a fumble, turning all four turnovers into scores. The Jets also intercepted an Anderson pass in the first half.

After a 32-yard field goal by Leahy that tied the score 16-16, defensive back Darrol Ray intercepted a pass by Anderson to set up a 10-yard toss from Pat Ryan to Mickey Schuler. Leahy's 36-yard field goal in the fourth quarter gave the Jets a 26-16 lead and then a pass interception by Johnny Ray set up McNeil's 32-yard touchdown burst that put the game out of the Bengal's reach.

Leahy kicked a 29-yard field goal followed an interception by Greg Buttle and Bruce Harper's 9-yard scoring run after Mark Gastineau's third sack of the day and a fumble by Anderson closed out the scoring as the Jets scored 30 straight points against the baffled Cincinnati defense.

McNeil finished the day with 150 yards rushing on 26 carries. Before Sunday's game, Anderson had only been intercepted once. Leahy's first field goal of the game came in the first period, but five minutes later the Bengals tied it on Jim Breech's 21-yarder.

Leahy kicked a 39-yarder in the first period, but the Bengals came back to take a 9-6 lead later in the quarter when Anderson threw a 3-yard touchdown pass to James Brooks, his first scoring pass of the season.

The Jets then scored their first rushing touchdown of the year when McNeil went 15 yards in the second quarter for a 13-9 New York lead at the half.

Chicago-Darryl Strawberry had three hits, including a homer, and knocked in five runs to pace the New York Mets to a 9-3 victory over the National League East leading Chicago Cubs yesterday.

Bruce Berenyi, 12-13, limited Chicago to two hits, struck out seven and walked seven over seven innings. Ed Lynch pitched the final two innings, giving up an RBI double to Leon Durham in the ninth. Steve Trout, 12-7, pitched five and one-third innings, giving up ten hits and six earned runs.

The Mets opened scoring in the first. Mookie Wilson singled, stole second, and scored on Kelvin Chapman's single. Chicago took a 2-1 lead in the third inning. Trout and Bob Dernier walked, and Thad Bosley singled. Durham's single scored Trout and Dernier. Strawberry, Ray Knight, and Mike Fitzgerald singled to start the fifth as the Mets took a 3-2 lead.

Strawberry scored when he tried for third on Knight's single, and left fielder Bosley threw wildly past the base. Fitzgerald knocked in Knight from third.

In the Met's sixth, Keith Hernandez and George Foster singled and both scored on Strawberry's single, which chased Trout for Rich Bordi.

Ron Meredith pitched in the seventh for Chicago. He walked Chapman. Hubie Brooks reached on Ryne Sandberg's error before Strawberry homered.

Hofstra Pours on Pats' Season Opener

By Jim Passano

Despite high hopes for a quick start on a successful season, a rain-drenched Stony Brook Patriot football squad was defeated Friday by the Hofstra Flying Dutchmen at the Hofstra field in Hempstead. "We made a lot of mistakes, which will disappear in time" said Paul Scott, a team member. "In the first game of the season you always have these problems."

The Patriots went into the game with two disadvantages. First, Hofstra, had the home field to play on and Hofstra's Dutchmen already had one big win from the week before against Iona under their belts. But the Patriots biggest problem was their lack of depth, which was evident when both teams lined up on the opposite side of the field for the National Anthem. Flying Dutchmen players lined their side of the field from one 20-yard line to the other. The Patriot squad was stretched out between the two 35-yard lines.

Those who were not impressed by looks, began to see the difference as the game progressed. The Patriot defense held strong through the first quarter, and fairly well during the second. In the first 15 minutes Stony Brook held Hofstra scoreless and then in the 2nd quarter gave up two touchdowns as the offense was thrown for a safety, giving Hofstra a 16-0 lead.

Stony Brook was unable to generate an offense during any part of the game. Although they possessed the ball most of the time during the first quarter, the farthest they got was to the Hofstra 42-yard line. The Dutchmen didn't put much pressure toward the goal line in the first 15 minutes as they made it only to the Stony Brook 41.

In the second quarter Hofstra scored 16 points as Stony Brook remained scoreless. The Dutchmen's first score was the result of a 16-play, 80-yard scoring drive that gave Hofstra possession for nearly seven minutes.

The Dutchmen then kicked off to Stony Brook, and the Pats started with the ball on their own 20. On the first play, Dutchmen Mike Forst and Ed Aimbinder threw quarterback Ray McKenna on the ground for a loss of seven yards. Next, Chris Brown was sent up the middle on a draw play, but was thrown for a one-yard loss. With 3rd and 18-yard to go, Brown went up the middle again; this time for a gain of 10 yards. Patriot kicker John Buonora's punt was blocked, giving the Flying Dutchmen a two-point safety.

Buonora again punted to the Hofstra 42, where the Dutchmen took over. Hofstra quarterback Tom McLaughlin came back on. On the first play he himself ran a sweep to gain two yards. On the second play, Jerry Magallenes was thrown for a loss of two. McLaughlin again tried to run with the ball but was put back for a one-yard loss. With fourth down and 11 yards to go, Peter Murphy came on the field to kick a 59-yard punt.

Stony Brook took over on their own 20, with McKenna running up the middle on the first play for a gain of 27 yards. The ball was moved back to the 37 when a Patriot player was charged with holding. There was an illegal procedure call against Stony Brook and the penalty was another five yards. On second down, McKenna completed a pass to Eric Knechtel, but lost three yards on the play. With third down and 21 yards to go, McKenna connected on nine-yard pass to Brown. It was not enough, however, as Stony Brook was then forced to punt. Buonora's kick was returned 28 yards for a touchdown, and the extra point was good: Hofstra 16, Stony Brook, 0.

At the beginning of the third quarter, Buonora kicked off to Anthony Woods, who returned the ball to his own twenty-two. In three plays Hofstra only managed to get out to their own twenty, so Murphy came out again. He kicked one for 34 yards, which was recovered on a Patriot fumble.

On an eight-play scoring drive, McLaughlin marched Hofstra from the Patriot's 49 to the 17-yard line. He then hit Emil Wolgemouth for a 17-yard touchdown to give Hofstra a 23-0 lead. The Dutchmen again got the ball when they recovered an onside kick at the Stony Brook 42. They lost possession when on a four-and-18 Scott sacked McLaughlin for a loss of three yards.

On the second play Stony Brook fumbled and Hofstra came up with the ball. After four plays, Phil Kuzniar put up a 40-yard field goal.

Stony Brook again got possession, but had to have Buonora come in and punt. Luck went against the Pats as the Dutchmen returned Buonora's 34-yarder, for a 61-yard score. The extra point was good as well and the score was Hofstra, 33-0.

Hofstra scored twice more during the fourth quarter. The first came with a Kuzniar 28-yard field goal from inside the 10. The next one came when the Dutchmen took over on their own 42 yard line. On the first play, Andrew Metz ran up the middle for 52 yards, being stopped at the Patriot six. Metz, two plays later, ran the ball in on a 5-yard run, making the score 43-0. With under two minutes left in the game, Hofstra sacked Patriot John Murphy for a safety, making the final score 45-0.

Despite Stony Brook's loss, the players tried to put their problems into perspective. "They [the Dutchmen] were a good team with a strong defensive. We made some mistakes and they were able to capitalize on the, but we were unable to do the same," said Scott. "We didn't scrimmage other teams before the season started and that hurt us."

Women's Soccer Blanks St. Johns, 3-0

By Jim Passano

After two unsuccessful matches so far this season, the women's soccer team bounced back to win over St. John's on Saturday. Stony Brook blanked the Redmen, 3-0.

The Patriots had taken 20 shots to St. John's nine during the match, under the guidance of Terry Febrey, the new women's soccer coach this season.

Stony Brook scored two of their three goals in the first half of the game. The first was scored by sophomore Celest Rice with twenty minutes elapsed. The second goal was delivered by Barbara Fee, a junior with a math major. Their final score came at the twenty minutes mark, but in the second period. This one was scored by Janet Mazziotti, a senior playing midfield. None of the goals came with any assists.

Fee attributed the win to the good play on the part of the entire team. "We played well and kept control of the ball. The defense played really well although we haven't played together that long," Fee said.

Anna Lago, the Patriot goalkeeper, was credited with five saves in Saturday's game and a total of 41 in the team's two previous games, which were held Sept. 7th and 8th at the Manhattanville Fall Fields Festival.

On Sept. 7th the Patriots took on Kean College, and lost by a 9-0 margin. They played a close match against Manhattanville College in their Sept. 8th competition, but lost that one as well, 2-1.

The Patriots will be playing their next match at Southampton College on Sept. 18th, where they will hopefully be able to even out their record.
