

When I began here
the campus was A comrade of mine -

And we grew together

For ## it was as new and untried as I was.

With no memories of the atmosphere of Oyster Bay . . .

We were compelled to make this a place where we wanted to live -

The campus and $I$

Out of a mutual need to overcome
our apprehensions.

And through your labor

. . . Which
on occasion brought us reward

or at other times the subtle assurance that we had taken the first step forward

The beauty lay in the fertile ground of Choice

So many possibilities so many ways to stretch to maturity

An end or a beginning?
we had found our sense of Pride.

Dedication

Great educators are fond of calling higher education the College Experience, which immediately brings to mind a type of environment in which the richest of cultural opportunity and awesome tradition are spread at the eager freshman's feet, which, of course, are standing on lush, rolling green lawns flanked on all sides by stately elms and ivy-covered mansions. This is not the environment of the College Experience that we, the Class of 1966, have been exposed to. It was our choice as freshmen to stand with our feet precariously sinking into the mud and be awed by the bleak and misty expanse of tractor tracks, flanked on all sides by stately cranes and pink brick.

It is true that the campus with which we were bestowed did not smile and say "Drink of my beauty and ye shall become beautiful." This campus taught us more in our quest for creativity and productivity than we could have imagined. Here we could learn to give of ourselves, to build castles given only the barest foundations, to climb mountains given only the raw iron with which to fashion pickaxes, to write symphonies given only a kazoo and a reedpipe. This was our College Experience, that of novice mothers and fathers experiencing the trials of unplanned parenthood.

After an exhausting but very proud four years, the Class of 1966 delights in presenting this comingout party. We dedicate this publication to the young, but ever-growing Stony Brook campus.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

So it ends, a year at Stony Brook. There has been hardship and unhappiness and lonely moments for everyone, but it has been a good year, too, and one in which we came just a bit closer to everything we have strived for. The silence of these halls, the lonely wastepaper baskets, the dim lights -all of these have seen a full spectrum of a very full year. Stony Brook '66 ends.

With the fall came the shedding of the trees, the fading of tans, and inevitably, the start of a new school year. Goals were high, and the past was pushed into a world of retrospect, while the future was ideally anticipated. Old friends were happily welcomed back, and new ones were enthusiastically made.

S tion-the long lines-the confusion-the push home to academia-and everything that went with it.

$\mathrm{F}_{\text {reshmen were given one of the most vital in- }}$ troductions to the school-a Saga picnic. They ate, they discussed, and they reacted.

The semester started picking up speed. A lively competition was held, the Soph-Frosh Challenge, and the sophomore class emerged as the proved victor, the score standing at 240 to 160 . The surprise of the day, however, was not only the superlative talent exhibited by the Frosh in the talent competition, but the wisdom and insights incorporated into it.

In the chaotic spirit Stony Brook is famous for, yearbooks were distributed. Upperclasmen united in the feeling of nostalgia that hung heavily in the air, and oblivious to anything else, searched for their own faces and those of friends, laughed together at the good times and the silly times, and, as they relived it all, were like children looking at it for the first time.

Before anyone knew it, midse- $^{\text {ent }}$ mester exams arrived. And in this, the first frantic period, ... what happened? Impossible, we said, not now! Please, not now! Characteristically, most exams were not cancelled. Many decided to take advantage of the phenomena that hit one half of the East Coast.

Two nights later, the University Theatre Group opened the theater season with "Circenzes" an evening of three one-act plays. Under the direction of John Newfield, Chairman of the Fine Arts department, "Sweeney Agonistes", by T. S. Eliot, "Shakes vs. Shav," by George Bernard Shaw, and "The Love of Don Perlimplin and Belisa in the Garden", by Garcia Lorca were presented.

A Imost simultaneously, music filled the air with the SAB "Spectrum of Folk" concert featuring the Charles River Valley Boys, the Reverend Gary Davis and Jackie Washington. Three separate approaches to folk music were presented with imagination and success.

After a four day break for Thanksgiving, no one had the energy to study, but there was plenty to relax and enjoy, enjoy. The New Campus Theatre Group presented its first offering of the season, "A Child's Christmas in Wales", an adaptation of the short story by Dylan Thomas. The key word to this production was warmth, and this was felt in the language of Thomas directed by John Herr, the rich harmony of the Christmas Carolers, led by William Godfrey, and the crackling fire lit in each of the seven lounges that the group toured at.

Christmas was on its way, even though it didn't look as if it were to be a white one. Improvised Nicholases didn't seem to mind the weight of the "little girls" on their laps, and everything that had a branch was dressed in the finery of this happiest of seasons.

$\mathrm{M}_{\text {ore }}$ music, but this time the beat of Dave Brubeck and his group, and then ...

finally it happened. This is what everyone had been waiting for. The snow fell like giant mothballs and covered the parking lot, the people, and happily the buildings and the ditches.

The creative instinct caught hold like the plague. This, while a lovely tribute to womanhood, did not even begin to compare with other unique, but unfortunately unprintable art objects.

The problem was that it came, as did the blackout, at the wrong time: final exams, and the frenzied attempt to pack knowledge into a hitherto unwilling recipient of a mind. We took our books and studied in any free and private spot we could find. For some, it turned out well; for otherswell, anyway, intersession, that precious week of nothing to do, was here.

The first thing after intersession was the second offering of the New Campus Theatre Group, "Shadow of a Gunman," by Sean O’Casey, and directed by John Herr.

The semester was racing along now like Spring semesters always manage to do. This may look like a junior summit conference, but in actuality, it is the final competition of the Trivia Contest, made famous by JS, C-3 in their ever-driving search for true knowledge.

S pring fever hits hard, and as they do each year, the JSO gave the girls the chance to hook the man of their choice in the Annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. It is always interesting to note that this dance is the only semi-formal that is a guaranteed sell-out.

Activity bustled. There were dances, both planned and impromptu. There was political screaming and bickering, much of it manifested in a publication called the UNIVERSITY JOURNAL brought out to rival the STATESMAN. Unfortunately, its tongue was so firmly in its cheek that it just about was swallowed.

And there was more entertainment. The University Theatre presented Pirandello's "Henry IV".

And the SAB presented the Fugs, a singing group whose material is as controversial as its talent is debatable.

But the SAB made up for it with Simon and Garfunkel and Paul Butterfield's Blue's Band, whose talent happily enough is unquestionable.

After Easter, the first buds of Spring popped out of their little shells, and looked down on something that was as fresh and as new as they were. April 16th was the day for the University to take a President, and John S. Toll was inaugurated with the traditional and beautiful ceremony befitting his office.

And then came the first weekend in May. Books were slapped closed and shoved away. Phone calls were made frantically. Faces glowed. Mysterious things were going on in the Gym Parking Lot as vagabonds and gypsies hammered away at tents flapping in the breeze. Lights were hung from the ceiling of the basketball courts. Inside the University Playhouse students ran back and forth with not a faculty member to be seen. Feverishly H Cafeteria was being transformed into a casino. Paint splashed everywhere, especially on cars, posters, and people. This was Spring Weekend. It opened with a production that set a precedent at Stony Brook theatre. A merger between the Fine Arts Department and the New Campus Theatre Group. An evening of total student theatre was presented. "The Marriage Proposal" directed by Judith Brickel and Neil Louison, "The Case of the Crushed Petunias" directed by Katharine Howath, "The Nine O'Clock Mail" directed by Norman Golden, and "The Zoo Story", directed by Elaine Cress, marked the start of student direction and production. The evening spanned from farce to fantasy and finally, to tragedy in a completely professional atmosphere.

Niight life brought a whole new world to Stony Brook. Laughter and joy whirled around in a kaleidescope of activity, color, and flashing lights.

The Casino Mood made "Lady Luck" look like an amateur chorus girl as everyday type people turned into debonair gambling gentlemen and ladies. Money flowed like wine from table to table. The losses might have been frequent, but the gains were worth it all.

Carnival gave people more than cotton candy and a ride on a ferris wheel-it was a trip into youth-real youth, and dreamed of fantasy. One could scan the world from the top of the ferris wheel, or prove he was the strongest man in the world, or get married to the girl of his dreams.

On Saturday night, the humor of Dick Gregory and the music of Mongo Santamaria excited and moved the audience-and Sunday? Everyone was too tired and happily exhausted to move.

But plans for something were in the air. Shortly after Spring Weekend we marched for five hours in front of the Library, in protest of an impending disaster-tripling. Wellorganized and taken seriously, the demonstration brought publicity and the attention of Albany to a crisis we did not consider a laughing matter: all the disadvantages of a large university with none of the advantages.

Basketball

Last season the Varsity Basketball Team compiled a record of 5 wins and 14 losses. Although the team did not play up to par, the losses can somewhat be accounted for by the quality of the opposition. In addition, two star players played only half a season. Joel Pitagorsky played only the first half, but despite this, "Pitt" scored 197 points and made the Knickerbocker Conference second team, the first SUSB player so honored. Jack Mandel missed the first half of the season, but came back to spark the team with 167 points including a record 28 vs. Ft. Schuyler and 57 assists.

Freshman starter Bill Stokes, the team's Most Valuable Player, proved to be invaluable with his consistency. Another starter, Jeff Kagel, also a freshman, led the team in rebounding while playing solid all around ball. High scorer ( 240 points) Ted Eppenstein was voted the Most Improved Player by his teammates and was an indispensable scorer and rebounder.

Captain Larry Hirschenbaum sparked the team with his hustle and defense as he played clutch basketball in the last five games. Dave Schiffer provided needed scoring in the second half of the year including three twenty point performances. Mike Leahy, Dave Burstein, and Larry Neuschaefer all added depth to the team with clutch performances.

Next year's prospects for Coach Herb Brown's squad look good since seven returnees scored over 100 points.

The team's best performances were in their last three games. In their best display of teamwork to that point the Warriors routed Fort Schuyler 89-65! Following that, the Warriors handily defeated favored Brooklyn College 85-67 with a balanced attack. In the season's last game against New York Institute of Technology, the Warriors determinedly fought back from a 15 point half-time deficit with a 55 point second half to lose by only 4 points, $84-80$, getting twenty point performances from Jack Mandel, Ted Eppenstein, and Larry Hischenbaum.

First row: C. Lee, A. Gordon, F. Smith, B. Skura, A. Jones. Second row: N. Lawer, B. Shapiro, D. Blake, J. Weitz, B. Nougardoff, C. Drubin, R. Sherman. Third row: L. Mondshein, C. Sadowsky, R. Galuchi, H. Posner, M. Lamb, A. Patterson, R. Wagner, Mr. Dunlavey, advisor.

The 1965-66 season was the first year of active intercollegiate competition for the Stony Brook Judo Team. The team competed in matches against Grumman Aircraft Company, Fort Schuyler, Colombia, Princeton, and West Point. The highlight of the season was participation in the Eastern Collegiate Judo Association Championship. The team had a 2-3 record for the year, defeating Grumman and Colombia and losing two very close matches, one to West Point and the other to Princeton.

The team was fortunate in having Mr. Richard Dunlavey serve as coach and advisor, and Mr. Mas Hisataka, a fourth degree black belt, as instructor.

Wrestling

Making its debut on the Stony Brook sports program, this past winter, State's Wrestling Team started a new era in intercollegiate competition. Under the direction of Coach John Ramsey, the team realized triumph, defeat, and more importantly a growing enthusiasm for true athletic competition.

Although many personal accomplishments were to be found this year, as a whole, due to lack of experience and sufficient organization, the team fell short of a winning season having a record of 1-2-1. However, along with Coach Ramsey, the team is looking forward to the return next season of men like Doug Happ, Jack Esposito, Fred Goodstein, Richard Moss, Bob Flor, and many others.

Many a spectator, and of course all non-followers of wrestling itself fail to realize that the actual match represents a very very small fraction of the time involved in this sport. What stands to be shown is that wrestling involves 15 to 20 team hours of practice a week, but even more, a strong personal dedication and respect for individual practice, and for controlling weight. It is here in these unseen areas that a wrestler is most clearly portrayed.

Swimming

Swimming is an art as well as a sport, involving strength, endurance, coordination, and precision. The boys on the Swimming Team devote much of their time, their energy, and enthusiasm mastering these skills. Under the direction of Coach Ken Lee and Captains Paul Epstein and John Robertson the boys "worked out" pushing themselves to the point of exhaustion. The team was composed of Paul Epstein, John Robertson, Arnold Polver, Ken Peters, Jim Welling, Rocky Cohen, Fred Lifshey, Fred Brustein, Ken Shapiro, Marc Rothstein, Elliot Cohn, Howard Strauss, Hank Levy, Mike Levinson, and Sam Swanson. While not largely victorious this year, the boys became men and these men became a team. In addition to speed, style, and team spirit, each man had to develop self confidence.

From the moment the gun sounds until he touches the finish line the swimmer is alone. The reward for all his effort and devotion is victory; more than that, it is a deep sense of accomplishment and satisfaction.

This year saw the beginning of women's intercollegiate sports, and despite a few set-backs, the women's teams have proved themselves strong and have set an enviable precedent. Although the Girl's Softball Team met with weather problems, they were victors of the one game they played, defeating C. W. Post 33-7. The Women's Intercollegiate Volleyball Team participated in two play-days, with Adel-phi-Suffolk College and Suffolk Community College. This proved to be a highly successful first season, defeating both teams at Adelphi-Suffolk in Oakdale. On home courts, against Adelphi, the first team won, although the second team was defeated by the visitors.
The coach for both these teams, Miss Mildred Wehrly, has promised an expanded and active schedule for next year. A successful season is anticipated for 196667.

Varsity Cheerleaders

Starting in September and on through the season these girls have the double responsibility of boosting the morale of the team and spectators, and drowning out their reactions after a point has been scored by the other team. This year, they proved their ability in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Cheering Competition by taking fourth place and earning the distinction of being the first school group to win an award sponsored by a non-Stony Brook organization. Plans are now being made to hold this Competition here at S.U.S.B. next year.

SPECULA is the student yearbook, a kaleidescope of activity and reaction in which the personality of the University is captured and recorded with creativity and feeling. It is a full year's work of watching, waiting and pouncing on the right mood, the unique expression, and at the end, gathering all of it into a meaningful and imaginative work. In addition, it points to concerts, plays, athletics, dances, clubs and depicts each of these as a direction of University Community activity.

Abounding in talent and energy, the New Campus Theatre Group is one of the most popular sources of entertainment on campus. This year, the groups presented "A Child's Christmas in Wales," "Shadow of a Gunman," and, concurrent with Spring Weekend, four one-act plays directed by students themselves. Since these were such a success, plans for the future involve more student-directed productions, as well as a musical.

The Jewish Student Organization is the campus group devoted to serving the spiritual, social, and intellectual needs of the Jewish students. To meet this goal, it has sponsored a full calendar of activities. The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance was once again a sell-out. The popular series of Bagels and Lox Breakfasts featured guest speakers representing Orthodox, Conservative, Reconstructionist, and Reform Judaism. Also on this year's program were a lecture series on the Talmud, an Israeli Hootenanny, a swim party, Channuka party, and a drive for UNICEF.

Rabbi Elliott Spar, chaplain, has spent many hours on campus working with the organization, leading programs, and providing individual counseling.

The J.S.O. is now in the process of affiliating with the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations.

he History of the Class of 1966-or

T he Making of Tradition at Stony Brook-or $\mathrm{T}_{\text {he soroy foforydeveses }}$

NOW $_{\text {thata mest thins back }}$ it was only proper that Stony Brook's virginity be violated by the 400 some members of the Class of 1966. This happened on a Sunday in mid-September 1962 as the first Stony Brook orientation began. The upperclassmen, present, could be counted on two pairs of hands. Yes, it was truly our campus. Tours of the campus were constantly going on all week, equipped with handbooks during the day and blankets at night. The upperclassmen's image was introduced to us in the form of Alex Censor, Polity Moderator. We elected a four man "Freshman Advisory Board" and it functioned until October elections.

Dr. Goldberg, I still say that "The Love Song of J. Alfred Proofrock" is about a house of prostitution.

Bio 101-102 in the Chem building and breaking in at midnight to isolate the virgin fruitflies (Looking back on it, we were probably the last Freshman class to actually do the fruitfly experiment. They have been fudged ever since!!) Math 111-112 with Mr. Fox and his target practice, as well as his fantastic lecture on the History of Rock and Roll, equipped with old

By October one member swore never to go near politics again, the second soon flunked out with a 0.00 average, the third wore orange socks-constantly, and the fourth required two and one-half years to realize what school politics was really like. During Orientation week some nicknames were quickly established: "Jared the Toe", "Lennie the Lush", "Fats", "The Hick," "The Super Hick", "Legs Forbes", "Chief."

Ahh-we loved the school. School!-You mean Hotel St. Tilley. Who will ever forget games like "Oh Hell"? We soon learned that a steamroller does not require a key to start, as well as learning how easily some signs and a particular machine gun could be re-located-say in G-cafeteria. We were the last Freshman class to have a fairly large percentage over 18 years old so that the "Corners" and the "Cave" were soon thoroughly investigated. In fact, for the students under 18, an evening's entertainment consisted of sitting in G lobby and watching the drunks come back. We were soon exposed to those immortal words that every class is exposed to: It's Hoppy! Yes, this certainly was OUR campus.

If It Couldn't be found in the Hum or Chem building or G Dormit didn't exist.

Then, invaders. Upperclassmen, they lacked self-assurance. Of course, they too were FRESHMEN at Stony Brook. Therefore, we proceeded to come to their rescue, helped them get settled and conducted tours for the upperclassmen. This simple gesture seemed to set the tone for the entire year-one of close harmony and understanding between the classes. But there was still a Freshman class, and we were determined to make ourselves known. We quickly banded together, be it because of our common curriculum or just due to our numbers. Stan Levin was President that year and Steve Zornetzer our Representative. D. Gerber became notorious because of . . . well . . . he . . . you name it . . . he did it. Who else could make R. Lawrence famous?

The Smithtown bull was finally painted. "Hey Red, what color was it again?" Thank the Lord for the Snackbar that year to get us past Slader food. Together, the class of '66 toiled through Soc. 101-102 (Mr. Prouty's sections were subtitled-Sex in Soc. 101-102), English 101-102.

records, sideburns, and red shorts. The good times when Becker's Raiders of C -wing and the B-wing Bombers both were against the notorious A -wing. Time and time again they tried to break their unitybut always failing. Who else but A-wing sponsored "The Donkey Serenade Nite", the "A-1st Marithon shirt", and the C-wing in fairy shirts. Hal Holzman once said, "Stop calling us C-wingers fairies and we will take the bricks out of our pocketbooks. We were exposed to our first big-time concert, the Art Farmer Quartet, a sell out crowd of 175 in $A B C$ lounge. That same night Mrs. B. entered the dorm.

Finst Ampual Spring Weekend became a reality. Crew was truth. And then there was the construction. On Monday they cemented a walk and on Wednesday they ripped it up to install pipes and wires. We left for morning classes and returned to find all the trees gone from the back of A-B wings of G-dorm. "Hey Mr. Constructionman, why did you knock down those trees?" "Because South Hall is going to be built here fellows." "Oh, South Hall, what a funny name for a dorm. Why doesn't someone name the buildings?" And when it rained, those wooden planks sure came in handy-whoever heard of a roller coaster for a sidewalk. The little grass we had, was cut the day before construction was started for a new building on that same site.

Blackouts and fire alarms were "in" that year. The year ended on a very high note. We won the interclass track meet and set the first of several traditions, an off-campus Spring Formal that was successful. Who will ever forget the famous upperclassmen's proverb-"Look to your left, one of you will not be here next year." Who ever heard of a $50 \%$ drop-out rate? Everyone's summer was occupied with explaining to our friends how we were NOT a branch of Post or L.I.U., or no longer SUNYLICUS-simply the State University of New York at Stony Brook, not Stoney Brook!

Half in Numbers but doubled in spirit, we started our Sophomore year. Immediately we sponsored "Sophomore Saturday" A basketball victory over Harpur by one point set the day's mood. George Krasilovsky, coordinated the day with Nancy Panagokos directing the best talent show ever presented at this school-songs, love scenes, and the famous Stonybrookettes. A bonfire afterwards with the Sophs and Juniors challenging the Frosh and Seniors to a tug-o-war. We were winning but the rope broke. Finally-wrecking the piano in record time for Stony Brook: 18 minutes and 42 seconds. Zorn and O'Connor were our class officers. There was plenty of snow that year. "Sladers Sliding" reached its peak in popularity. Christmas was the most beautiful ever, and the "Bird" was the word. Moral Censure Day came into existence as C -wing again tried to prove they were not fairies.

D. Gerber Day was also celebrated marking the day of the famous jump. Soon fellows were jumping from the third floor minus their B.V.D.'s. If none of the above interested you, you could always take a blinking red light out to Nichol Road, and wait, and wait. The 1st annual I.B.M. Dance was a success because no one knew what it was.

The Engineering Party was the last Beer Bash until our Senior Year due to the flooding conditions in the V.W. Hall. The Coach House opened and we decided their hangovers were more elegant because of the atmosphere. The lack of a boathouse marked the decline of crew. This was also the year of knifing everyone in, as well as the first organized panty raid. Secrecy was of the utmost importance. Target time was one minute after midnight with Whitey leading the first assault. However, at 7:30 P.M., a student leader received a phone call-"Hello - -, this is Dean Tilley."

I Understand Yout are going to have a panty raid tonight and I would appreciate ..." All plans were abandoned and it was every man for himself; or should we say-for the panties. To quote the "I": "Boys will be boys."

The S.M.O. was organized that year, leaving their emblem on the library and in the foundation of South Hall. South Hall needed a student crew to get it into shape. Construction on the gym proceeded according to scheduleseven months behind. The unfinished pool was christened one evening by a group of seven brave males. Bob's key collection increased as more and more buildings were opened. Security was minus a bubble, besides being under heavy attack one evening. Under Hal Holzman, the J.S.O. members ran the Sadie Hawkins Dance, making it the most successful dance of the University's short history. Second Annual Spring Weekend went very smoothly, highlighted by the First Annual Carnival-a Sophomore class endeavor coordinated by George Krasilovsky. R. Meltzer was instrumental in our obtaining ""Monk" in concert. Stony Brook was looking like a college more and more every day. The $S A B$ was organized to make sure Stony Brook had a social life its students could boast of when talking to friends. AImost $80 \%$ of the Board were members of the class of ' 66 and Joel Kleinberg became its chairman in September, 1964.

02 the Academucs we remember D. Lieberman and his colored chalk, Dr. Peguigney, the best of the Humanities teachers, we were still sneaking into the Biology labs to isolate virgin flies. Math at 8:00 A.M. with "Flash"-Playboy pictures on Dr. Pond's sliding blackboards-Dr. Alexander and his non-New England drawl.

Our saddest recollection is the tragic death of President Kennedy in November. His love of life and his beliefs influenced many students that weekend in many types of personal meditation as a unifying hush fell over the campus and the nation.

Qun firmior leaf saw the last of the "undecided" become "decided". Many ' 66 'ers were in active and important positions in student government, the residential halls, and the various departmental offices.
Frosh-Soph Challenge almost wrecked the school-Second Annual Sophomore Saturday was highlighted by assorted kidnappings. The Second Annual IBM Dance was successful because a large number of Froshes thought it was a required activity. Several feeble attempts were made by the males to acquire feminine apparel, but they were foiled everytime by the everalert RA's (who were also last year's panty raid leaders and who knew all the tricks). Josh White Jr. was excellent in concert, as was Max RoachCrew, still without a boathouse, ran a successful Yuletide Ball from which Santa was kidnapped. The New Campus Theater Group was created by Elaine Cress under the guidance of Dean Herr. Many enjoyed themselves at Grossinger's that intersession. Gene Tinnee broke the school's basketball scoring record. With the permission of F.J.H., Stony Brook females executed the First Annual Jock Raid and much to the embarrassment of the males-succeeded!

Alat tol the Wictors go the spoils. But in our Senior year we also felt the greatest pressures of our four years-decisions, applications, G.R.E.'s, was there to be no end?

Meanwhile, the Third Annual IBM Dance was another success because there seemed to be a large number of cute freshman girls, there was the usual number of unsuccessful panty raids, and the Gold Coast became the place-for about five weeks. The big fall concerts were "Folk Spectrum" and the Dave Brubeck Quartet, and the big dance was H-Quad's Christmas Party.
Many enjoyed intersession at Grossinger's as the Senior Class' bankbook was increased (thanks to Susan Brasser).

One freshman became known to all: President John S. Toll, a man who very quickly gained the respect and admiration of the University Community. Seniors participated in President Toll's Inauguration and the Campus dedication, an occasion we were all very pleased to see before we left, now knowing that the university was left in the best of hands.

Whe Scmuge Oloss Cumber was under the direction of April Starke and Clem Crea; Dick Gregory and Mongo Santamaria in concert. Unfortunately, many were not that impressed by the names of the performers, but the feedback from those who did attend caused many to be sorry that they had not attended. Mongo had a sound and beat that brought down the roof, especially with his "Watermelon Man" and "Yeah, Yeah"

Dick Gregory had the audience laughing for over an hour.

In the Second Annual SeniorFaculty Basketball Game and Beer Bash, organized by Krasil and Zorn, we had a score to settle, as last year's seniors had lost. A capacity crowd saw an eight squad senior team encounter twelve determined faculty members. Each senior squad had its own costume (even the Nursery School was represented). No casualties occurred due to the efficient Senior Medical Team.

The Seniors were able to maintain the lead during the first half, but lost it in the second half. With one minute to go, the '66er's team of ringers came in-our Cheerleaders! Persistence and cheating enabled the cheerleaders to score three baskets, ending the game in a fie: Seniors 70 , Faculty 70.

The evening festivities were not over, as 150 seniors and faculty members furned toward the Coach House to participate in the most successful Beer Bash in the university's history. Tony and his guitar blasted out "Woolie Boolie" and Richie sang "I'm saved" and "Hoochie Koochie Man". All in all, a total of four half-kegs were consumed, a record that will probably stand for many a year.

Well, we'd made it. That was really us wearing those caps and gowns. And there we sat, hearing Supreme Court Justice White, applauding the first PHD candidate, Ray McKay, marching across the platform moving our tassels to the left side of our caps. We were graduates of the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

And so we leave Stony Brook, taking with us thoughts and experiences accumulated over a momentous four year period, and leaving behind a foundation of beliefs and traditions which future classes will strengthen.

Editor's Note

IJuly, 1966
In this edition of SPECULA we have attempted to represent the essence of not one, but four years at Stony Brook. These four years have witnessed the first stages in the growth of a soon-to-be-great universify.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those people who, although not on the SPECULA staff, have made valuable contributions to this publication.

Thanks go to George Krasilovsky for single-handedly taking upon the task of writing the senior class history.

I am deeply grateful to Elaine Cress for writing the copy in the "Events" section and for editing most of the other copy in the book.

I would also like to extend my appreciation to Mr. Sernard Friedman and Mr. Aaron Jarit, for their aid, patience, and cooperation. The fine quality of their portraits and group shots is in every way indicative of the type of work done at Carol Studios.

Most of all, I would like to thank Mr. George Olsen and Mr. Jim Simmonds of Taylor Publishing Company for the many hours they spent with us in the yearbook office working on this publication. Without their assistance, this book might still be in the planning stages.
