Time spent at a University can hardly be accounted for by minutes or hours gone by

Time, here . . . is elastic
Unmeasurable in any terms
. . . Except perhaps experience.

Short sweet seconds of laughter

Long hours of commitment . . .
to the academic effort,

To another human being,
to a cause.

Times for debate,
questions,
listening,
taking nothing
for granted.

A few moments — sometimes hours or more — spent exploring,

the campus,
the universe,
yourself.

Fleeting glimpses of inspiration yielding creativity and insight.

Longer periods of day to day
concerns with no goals or aspirations

Sleepless nights
Crowded days . . .

Extending into months,
years
of existence,
experience,
life.

DEDICATION

We, as a class and as a generation, have known little peace. The past twenty years have been a time of wars and enslavement. Korea, Hungary, Watts, Vietnam, Harlem were milestones in our lives. The 11 o'clock news-obituary was our nutrition, there was no escape.

Now, we must address ourselves to the future. To the future that we as individuals and as a generation must create.

We learned at Stony Brook the problems and sickness of our society on a small scale. We know that the solutions to these problems will be proposed by courageous men. We also know that courage is a virtue recognized posthumously.

To the future, to peace in a free world, we must commit ourselves. We cannot allow the milestones of our children's lives to be the same as ours were. Whether or not they grow measuring themselves by a history of the freedom of the oppressed, the elimination of poverty and the end of war will depend on our commitment and our moral courage.

We must bear in mind that we have the intellect, the maturity, and the status to solve the social problems of our adolescence. We need only the commitment, the dedication to peace in a free world. As Jacqueline Kennedy said of her late husband, . . . "He believed that one man can make a difference and that every man must try."

In this spirit we dedicate Specula '68 and ourselves to the hope for and to the creation of a free and peaceful world.

We arrived on campus to find Tabler unfinished once again, and tripling as prevalent as ever.

Beneficial occupancy of Roth Quad furnished heat-less, phone-less, washer- and dryer-less accommodations, and the same circumstances in the Social Science Building enabled students to receive the full benefit of their professors' pedagogic abilities unhampered by blackboards, chalk, or classroom furniture.

It was back to nature for everyone, including Roth's only co-ed triple headed by Leon the duck who made his appearance, fortuitously enough, just as Stony Brook declared itself a wet campus.

The false alarms in G and the hopeful notes struck by Dr. Toll and Peter Nack in their welcome address to the freshmen were drowned out by the cries of "hippy plot" raised after the Doors and Tim Buckley appeared in concert. Psychedelic Rock proved unfortunately limited in appeal as the "straights" demanded equal representation in concert selection. The IBM dance provided the malcontents with an equal-time concert featuring the Chambers Brothers.

OCTOBER also foreshadowed the major trends of intellectual involvement for the year. The death of Woody Guthrie who sang the ideals of another college generation reminded some of us that for this land to be our land its values had to reflect the integrity of the best of its citizens. While the problem of commitment was an academic one for most of us, for many it assumed an immediacy on the March to Washington as they faced arrest for their protest of the war. Phil Ochs appeared in concert to give voice to the restless dissatisfaction and move to commitment sweeping the nation.

Commitment on campus appeared sorely lacking to the Executive Committee as the first of the elections which were to become a liet-motif in campus affairs highlighted student apathy. Despite the diversity of the ballot listing referendums on the war and fraternity recognition, the turnout was a severe disappointment to student leaders. The Amendment Amendment, which permitted the E.C. to operate without being bogged down by the albatross of the student body, was passed only after polls were left open for three days. Disgust, channeled by the sophomore class officers, eddied into E.C. debate on motions to dissolve itself, but the rock of Stony Brook inertia prevailed, and the E.C. turned to the discussion of recruitment and Polity hired faculty as the Sophs slaughtered the Freshmen in their annual athletic and thespian challenge.

NOVEMBER brought relandscaping to G and H, but thanks to the relatively dry winter, dust was more prevalent than mud. The academic environment was further enhanced by the stripping of the pine tree on the library mall.

Speculas were distributed to remind everyone about the good ole days but student reaction was vehement as a quick perusal informed us that the editors didn't think the good ole days were very good at all. Stony Brook's November election was an exercise in futility, as the Free College Referendum drew an overwhelming negative and Ed Salsberg was elected to the position of Senior Rep only to have his election invalidated three months later. However, such is the intrepidity of Stony Brook students and institutions, that despite these minor setbacks they both continued to function even without official sanction.

With the discovery that the student activities fee had been voluntary after all, for these many years, Mike Molloy tightened his belt and the budget, and Stony Brook prepared for austerity programs. As a result, discussion on Polity-hired faculty was abortive, but the issue of the students' role in university operations was a ghost which haunted students and administrators alike in the months to follow.

The question of Vietnam permeated all aspects of Stony Brook activities, and even the theater department presented an anti-war production "The Silver Tassie". Escape on the Jefferson Airplane or with Muddy Waters was available to those who preferred to work out their tensions on a dance floor. Ravi Shankar and the Sophomore Class presented two other ways, offering the choice of the oriental serenity of the sitar, or the occidental merry-go-round of "Stop The World, I Want To Get Off."

FALL SPORTS

In anguish we uplift
A new unhallowed song:
The race is to the swift;
The battle to the strong.

SOCCKER

For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name,
He marks—not that you won or lost—
but how you played the game.

Grantland Rice

The 1967 varsity soccer team registered the finest season since the inception of the sport in 1963. The team finished with an 8-1-2 record, losing its only game to Fort Schuyler 2-1 in overtime. The 1967 team will be best remembered for its determination and spirit.

To a man, each patriot contributed significantly throughout the entire season. Seniors Mike Molby, Jack Esposito, Roy Funch, Ed Frick and Joe VanDenburg all played key roles in this their final season.

In addition, sophomores Harry Prince and Danny Kaye bolstered the work of their senior mates. Price, in eleven games yielded only 4 goals, 2 of them coming on penalty kicks. He received M.V.P. for the team and was also recognized in SPORTS ILLUSTRATED. Kaye led the team in scoring with six goals and six assists.

CROSS COUNTRY
The swiftest traveller is he that goes afoot
(Thoreau)

Cross Country in many ways had its best season ever. While its 11-3 record was an outstanding one, even more outstanding was the depth which past teams have not shown. Bolstered by last year's fine frosh team, Captain Ray Gutoski led the team through its best season of dual competition.

In the two major meets the team finished 7th in the Albany Invitational and 6th in the Collegiate Track Conference Championships. In both instances it was Stony Brook's best showing in these events.

WOMEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE SPORTS

How rare, how precious, is frivolity. edward m forster

Women's sports had a very good season, improving in all respects. Stony Brook competed against thirteen different colleges this year and will play against more next year. Such teams to be played against include Hunter, Pratt, N.Y.U. The intercollegiate sports include basketball, field hockey, volleyball, tennis, synchronized swimming, and gymnastics. Next year's season will be complimented with the Metropolitan Swimming Championship to be hosted by Stony Brook.

DECEMBER began the crisis-a-month tradition at Stony Brook, with The Incident of December Seventh. In ironic confirmation of the Ombudsmen's report that the university is faced with "serious continuing problems", SDS chairman, Neil Frumkin was punched in the mouth while exercising free speech on the Library Mall. His assailant was an evanescent but nonetheless burly construction worker, whose attitude furthered the cause of student-administration cooperation by demonstrating an equal disdain of both groups. Ramifications led to faculty meetings and an all-night sit-in in the library, patrolled by members of the E.C. who had been auctioned off just the week before in the annual Gal-Sale. The world situation was central to campus affairs this month as it became evident that the Whitehall Street/Smithtown draft resistance demonstrations helped to inflame the construction workers against campus protesters.

Olatunji counselled world brotherhood as the administration attempted, with all deliberate speed, to take action against the offending workers.

Meanwhile, the theater production of "The Connection" foreshadowed January's contribution to the monthly crisis with the story of a group of drug addicts.

Christmas vacation, heralded by the University Chorus's carols and The New Campus Theatre Group's production of "A Child's Christmas in Wales", brought the administration a welcome, if temporary, release from student pressure.

For two weeks following our return from vacation, most of us were pre-occupied with reviewing for, or at least worrying about finals. Academic tension was up and the outside world seemed to recede.

We hardly noticed when Stan Getz cancelled, or when our own Modern Dancers blossomed in their semi-annual splendor.

Our guard was down, and Commissioner Barry feinted in the shadows and kept his eye on us. Finally, sneaking stealthily up on us in the pre-dawn gloom (and protected by 198 cops and 30 reporters) he took careful aim and delivered a right hook smack in the middle of finals week where it really hurt. He even managed a series of left jabs at Dr. Toll that caught him full in the headlines.

Barry's first-round TKO gave way to the wrestling team of Hepper and Macher whose amorphous roles presumed to protect us from ourselves with Encounter sessions, and deliver us over to Civil Authorities if we were caught smoking. We were out of the frying pot and into the fire, you might say.

While our heads (sic) were still spinning, intercession interposed itself, and the preliminary session of the study series in Political Realities I, II, and III got underway at 14 Vesey Street. The simultaneous investigation of Stony Brook by Kottler's Commission on Higher Education and Hughes' Crime Commission provided a valuable distinction between responsibility and rape. Our University was ravaged by a Crime Commission hungry for headlines, and the future of the university rested precariously in the careless hands of a Syracuse Senator and his hatchetman from the Bronx.

The Administration knuckled under pressure and imposed its own stringent rules, bypassing the duly appointed Rules Committee which had been working to revise the rules and regs since September. The Rules Committee resigned, students organized Praxis as their own response to drug abuse, and Dr. Bentley Glass was elected to the American Association of the Advancement of Science.

Stony Brook got down to the nitty-gritty and began to react. The atmosphere was never the same after the raid; a paranoid fear of headlines (we were like a woman undressing in a darkened auditorium . . . we never knew who was watching), and a newly sobered outlook replaced the careless, almost frivolous approach to problems we demonstrated during the fall semester.

The Organization for Progressive Thought attempted to usurp SDS and encompass the entire left-of-center spectrum in a grassroots approach to the 'real issues', but encountered the wall of apathy which student government battered only moderately successfully.

The war received its share of attention in a Military Service Information presentation which was passed off as the answer to the recruitment problem and the elections, which like the poor, were always with us, offered freshman council reps and polity-hired faculty referendum to an indifferent electorate.

The dedications of O'Neill and Amman colleges, Tom Drysdale's discovery of a Claez painting and Sadie Hawkins day, proved we looked at life from both sides now, corroborated by Judy Collins who appeared in concert.

March was evaluation month, when student leaders tried to consolidate student dissatisfaction into an articulate and meaningful movement. Peter Nack stressed Intellectual Confrontation at our annual Spring Rally, and on the anniversary of Marty Dorio's mass meeting last year, students staged a mud-in in Dr. Toll's office which proved, if nothing else, that we weren't ready to relinquish the symbology of mud and lights which Peter Nack said we had transcended the week before.

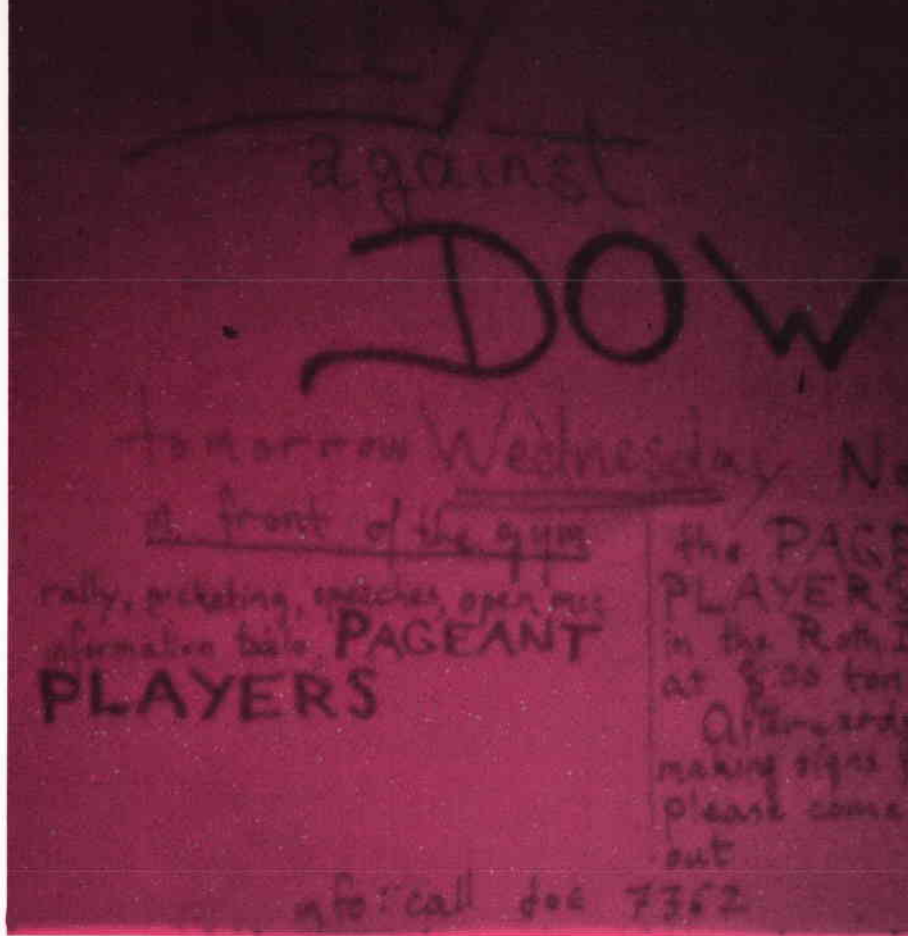

March Madness reigned, and not for just a weekend, either. Peter Adams resigned from his office of Soph President (or did he?) and another election was held in which No Vote was elected to fill Adam's boots. The election was invalid because No Vote wasn't running and the blank ballots got a majority anyway.

The Yippies staged a mock raid, Alan Ginsberg called us dirty names, and Jimi Hendrix demolished his guitar for us in the gym.

The Free University rose from the ashes, and let us know that despite the evidence of the student concert Stony Brook students could so do something well.

Geoffrey Brogan resigned and left 300 students with no other option than to work for their grades, and Dr. Toll and Commissioner Barry re-enacted the Munich Sellout.

Students and Faculty joined in the protest of the month effort to impede Dow Chemical recruiting, and succeeded in tracking mud all over the gym.

Lyndon (call me God) Johnson pulled out of the presidential race and made noises like a dove.

The Replacement Coffee House gave us a place to think it all out, and the Latin American Conference proved that we were still an academic university

The College Program was still operative also, as evidenced by the Amman sponsorship of Isham Latimer's art works and the O'Neill rules and regs proposal.

In their 1st game of the season Coach Brown's hoopsters came from behind and defeated Brockport 74-70. It was this never-say-die attitude which got the Patriots through an otherwise disappointing season and provided them with a final victory.

Next year's team looks to be more promising. With improvements from returnees Glassberg, Shulman, Neushaefer, and Kirschner, along with the development of new talent, Coach Brown expects to have the depth needed to cope with tougher opposition. Along with unending support from Stony Brook's dauntless fans, the coming season hopes to bring forth a taste of victory.

SPRING

APRIL was our most constructive month this year, what with campus clean up squads which cleared the Hum Path and Social Science areas, new student initiated rules including parietal hour and drug reform put into effect, and Vietnam Week culminating in a two-day strike in protest of the war which featured a day of teach-ins and a festival of life.

Muhammed (call me God) Ali entertained us, and a professional tennis match right here in our own gym welcomed us back from Spring Vacation. The Modern Dance presentation of "Games People Play", and the theater production of "Waiting for Godot" expressed our views of ourselves, but we escaped into International Weekend and the Spencer Davis Concert.

Try as we might, though, we were pulled back into reality as Suffolk Grand Jury subpoenas of faculty members and the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King forced upon us personal re-evaluation.

Somehow we knew that fine phrases weren't enough to counteract brutality, ignorance, and hate, on our campus or in the nation.

We sat-in to MAY with a double-edged protest in sympathy with Columbia and in dissatisfaction with our own conditions, but after hard-line negotiations, protesters cleared the business office as Dr. Toll apparently acceded to demands.

Carnival weekend was fair for the first time in two years, and there was nothing more imposing on the horizon than finals.

Then Leon sickened and died, leaving behind him a legacy of a lake bearing his name, and eight (count 'em) mourners.

May ended the final movement of the election concerto, with full orchestration of 25 (count 'em) candidates and a divinely inspired score reverently called "The Constitution."

Finals passed uneventfully for a change, and graduation, for those seniors whose library records were clear, proved that all things come to he who sits and waits.

That one man, scorned and covered with scars,
Still strove with his last ounce of courage
To fight the unbeatable foe,
To reach the unreachable star.

Whatever happened to your SENIOR YEAR and the memories.

Thanks to the musical and lyrical genius of two seniors, Frank Maresca and Sandy Meiselman, Specula '68 is proud to present an original class Alma Mater. The composers have vividly recalled a number of events and people we have encountered during our four years at The Brook, especially those of our senior year. Kindly sing it with much enthusiasm to the tune of "Let's get away from it all."

This song I sing tells a story
Of mud as deep as I'm tall
Of a campus so bleak
Of hallways that reek
Let's get away from it all.

When John Toll came we were happy
Our love for him would never fall
Now Hartzell's our man
We'll put him back if we can
We'll get John Toll away from it all.

SAGA we heard was much better
Than Slater who left our first fall
Now my mouth has ten splinters
That I got from the blintzes
Let's get away from it all.

They let us keep our good doctor
Of Marsh we'll always recall
The corpse that he sedated
And the head he amputated
Let's get away from it all.

I remember hearing him screaming
Up on the library mall
As a gift we now bequeath
Neal Frumpkin's two front teeth
Neal got away from it all.

We went to the Coach House each evening
Each winter, each spring and each fall
The bar-keep was mean
But now he's a Dean
Let's get Bud away from it all.

Dean Tilley's work was relentless
I. Andre helped him with it all
They'd meet each day at four
By the old Coach House door
They tried to get away from it all.

STONY BROOK AFTER THE BUST

We had a minor drug problem
The cops grew mad at us all
The heads used the stuff
Bu the cops they were tough
They took the heads away from it all.

The State grew ever so restless
To Senator Hughs they did call
We got a police blotter
Were made known by Liz Trotta
Let's get away from it all.

Dean Tilley is at the grand jury
Uncle Fred also got the call
De Francesco goes to jail
But Toll's not posting bail
Let's get away from it all.

We went to the Liberty diner
Each night that we can recall
While the scrambled eggs were fryin'
We got grilled by O'Brian
Let's get away from it all.

The Security wagon came charging
To the panty-raid outside North Hall
We were just out for some fun
Till Potsy pulled his gun
They took those guns away from them all.

The townies are ever so pleasant
Their kids often pay us a call
While some of them start fires
The others slash our tires
Let's get away from them all.

The Stony Brook girls are such winners
Remember the night I had the gall
After six rye and sevens
To ask our Zaidee Evans
Christ!! Let's get away from it all.

We learned in English Composition
Big words don't mean a thing at all
Dee Bee is the master
He can throw it faster:

It may or may not be that the onus contingent upon the concomitant deleterious effects ancillary to any benign exploitation will have ramifications that may or may not be.

Let's get away from it all.

It seems that although we are leaving
Our four years here were a ball
Stony Brook was swell
We poked fun—what the hell
We're getting away from it all.

FLY THE FRIENDLY SKIES OF D.A.P.E.C.

And what about you?

Yes.
Whatever happened to you . . .

PERSPECTIVE

"To criticize my own faults in others seems to me no more unreasonable than to criticize as I often do, others' faults in myself. We should denounce them everywhere and leave them no place of refuge.

Michel Eyqueme de Montaigne

Four years at this University is at least a unique and hopefully at most a learning experience. Strangely enough it is often the individual who determines what and how much he learns. Surely there is an obvious problem when all the available mechanisms for learning are not employed by an educational center or by the students at that center. Ideally, all the members of a university community are deeply committed to a search for knowledge . . . all are impossible dreamers embarking on an impossible quest. Despite the phenomena of institutionalization and bleak red brick at this university there should be room for growth by every participant.

Many of us, on all levels of participation, seem to have lost sight of our purported ideals. Where are the dreamers, the seekers of knowledge? Why don't we question . . . and when we do, why are the answers so often encased in non-thinking, bureaucratic, one-dimensional jargon? Why have all of us stopped trying to understand, to see beyond the tips of our noses?

To experience learning more is needed than a large variety of textbooks and professors. To be a true university, we need much more than we have here . . . but the need is caused not only by a dysfunctional system but by dysfunctional human beings. Somehow, somewhere we have mislaid the concepts of understanding and empathy. To become educated or to educate, we must be able to comprehend the goals of our educators and our students, to see them as unique human beings with viewpoints and perspectives of their own.

Just this simple realization of the differences between individuals does not suffice for the building of an excellent learning experience but it is a beginning. We can and must go beyond this, so that every member of the university is both teacher and student, constantly searching through listening and understanding for that vague and perhaps unattainable goal of knowledge.

THE EDITORS

FROM THE EDITOR

Specula '68 has been more than an experience for those of us involved in its publication. It is more accurately described as a true endeavor, a monumental task involving endless hours of commitment and hard work. It has been "doing our thing" as best we could. Certainly, we have made errors, but we hope that they can be overlooked in favor of the more valuable aspects of the book. We have struggled to reach the delicate balance between romance and reality, humor and sarcasm, tradition and innovation. All of us hope that simply reading Specula '68 will be as rewarding for you as creating it was for us.

As always happens, there are some people behind the scenes who often go without recognition for their contributions. We would like to extend our very deepest gratitude to these people now: to Mr. George Olsen for his endless patience and many hours of work with us, to Mr. Bernie Friedman and Carol Studios who came to our rescue again, to Diane Sharon for her much needed contributions to the "events of the year" copy, to Michael Peretz who always appears when we need him, to Jane Murphy for pure dedication to insurmountable tasks, to Sandy Mieselman and Frank Maresca for their special musical talents, and to a very understanding Dean.

Sincerely,

Maureen Shea
