

SUNY SIDE UP - Nov. 11, 1981 - 6 p.m.

The music is "Sunny Side Up"; the name of the program:
SUNY Side Up.

Hi, everybody. This is Al Oickle. I'm with the University News Services at the State University of New York ~~at~~ <sup>here</sup> Stony Brook. Last week, in this series of broadcasts,
I introduced our WUSB listeners to Joyce Bichler, a 1975
Stony Brook graduate and <sup>the</sup> author of the new book, DES Daughter, and to Dr. William <sup>J. Jr.</sup> Mann, an assistant professor in ~~the~~ Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Stony Brook and director of the DES Screening Program at the University Hospital.

Tonight, they are with us again. Dr. Mann is in the studio with me and Joyce Bichler is at her home in Minnesota, ~~and~~ and participating by telephone. They are here for the next 28 minutes to take your telephone calls on the subject of women's health issues and especially on DES. The telephone number here is 246-7901. The rules for calling in are simple. First, of course, you must call us. We can't call you. The telephone number again: 246-7901.
Second, you need not identify yourself on the air when you ask a question of Ms. Bichler or Dr. Mann. We ask that you observe the usual ~~rules~~ rules of etiquette and good taste...and also that you turn down the volume on your radio set when your call is put on the air. ~~The~~ number is 246-7901. Your phone calls are invited. The subject: women's health issues, and especially DES.

Joyce, are you hearing us OK out there in Minnesota?

~~Suppression of information~~

Okay, while we wait for our first call, perhaps Dr. Mann will give our listeners a quick background briefing on DES. DES stands for di-ethyl-stil-BES-trol. What is that, Doctor Mann?

WRAPUP

1:00

We're running out of time for this evening. Thanks to Dr. Mann of the University Hospital and the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology, here at the WUSB studio, and to Joyce Bichler, connected to us by telephone in St. Louis Park, Minn.

Next week, we will be broadcasting SUNY Side Up live, once again. And, again, we will be welcoming your telephone calls. The subject next week will be the programs you hear on WUSB. We'd like to know what you like, and don't like, and to get any suggestions you have. Our guests will be Norman ~~Prusslin~~ Prusslin, the station's general manager, and Eric Corley, the program director. On the following week, Nov. 25, we will be hearing from the Long Island Brass Guild quintet... including some of their music. I hope you will be around to hear the <sup>SE</sup> SUNY Side Up programs, here at Stony Brook. Until next week, then, this is Al Oickle. So Long, everybody.
