

HERE AT STONY BROOK - Monday, Oct. 17, 1983

THEME UP AND OUT

Hi, everybody. We'll be talking today about "More Work for Mother." That's the name of a new book by Ruth Cowan, associate professor of history at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Later in the program, we'll hear from Ralph Nader, perhaps the best known consumer advocate in the United States. Mr. Nader has been in New York this fall talking with students about their role in higher education. In a few minutes, you'll hear Ralph Nader urging ~~a~~ students to get out and work for improved educational opportunities. But first, let's talk with author Ruth Cowan about ~~h~~er new book.

Dr. Cowan, "More Work for Mother" is a title that sounds, well, rueful. Is it meant that way?

INTERVIEW COWAN:

- Recount history of housework- flour
- Technology, ~~and~~ and leisure time
- Sex role divisions
- Her background: genetics, biostatistics
- Her book:
- "A scholarly approach to feminism" - SBP headline

OUTRO

That's it for another week. Next week we will talk with a psychologist who is described by a colleague as the best in the country at what he does. What he does is to conduct sex therapy clinics. You'll meet Dr. Joseph LoPiccolo next week. Until then, this is Al Oickle. So long, everybody.
