THEME UP, UNDER AND OUT

Hi, everybody.

There's a good deal of patriotism going around the country these days. You may have noticed. Some of that has to do with the very obvious---like the Americans winning medals at the ~~WXX~~ Winter Olympics. Some is somewhat more subtle---like the celebration of American music as evidenced with Michael Jackson's sensational album, "Thriller." Today we're going to join that celebration of American spirit.

With us is Teri Tiso, who has qualified for the United States Olympic team's women's marathon trials in Olympia, Wash., this spring.

Joining us later will be Dennis Britten, an American balladeer who, eight years after the nation's bicentennial, is still celebrating with a special musical program he has put together.

Teri Tiso is in the tradition of American amateur athletics. She earns a living as a teacher---she's a physical education instructor and volleyball coach at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. But her non-work time is given over almost exclusively these days to running. Coach Tiso, how many miles do you run in an average week?

INTERVIEW TERI TISO:

- Training
- Olympic qualifications
- Women athletes in general
- Recommendations for other women

PaGe 2 - HERE AT STONY BROOK Monday, Feb. 20, 1984

Music has always been important to Americans. Dennis Britten celebrates this musical patriotism in a show he gives called "An Evening of American Song." And he subtitles it, "from Stephen Foster to Stephen Sondheim." That doesn't quite take us back to the fife and ~~drum~~ of Washington's time but it covers a full century, Dennis.

INTERVIEW DENNIS BRITTEN: --- His musical program...how it started
--- What's in it 11:42.10
19:00 - Cassette tape - 000-056 - "Mood Indigo"

ED BECKER: Around 040 make it music under and I'll talk through 056 (applause) 3:10

28:30 BRIDGE THEME UP AND UNDER

I hope you've enjoyed our conversation today. Next week, we'll talk with a sociologist who says New York State's industrial economy is badly in need of help. In weeks ahead, we'll visit with an expert on Ireland---for St. Patrick's Day, of course--- and talk with a psychologist about ~~be~~avior modification. Un til then, this is Al Oickle. So long, everybody.
