

April 7, 1986

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CONTACT: Merrilie Brown

FOUR STONY BROOK ART FACULTY WORKS EXHIBITED THIS MONTH

STONY BROOK, N.Y. - Four faculty members in the art department at the State University of New York at Stony Brook are exhibiting their works at galleries during the month of April.

Landscapes by Mel Pekarsky, professor and chairman of the art department, will be on display at the G.W. Einstein Gallery in New York City through April 26. The seven pieces in the one-man show consist of larger works of the last three years, including an 8' by 12' desert landscape. Gallery owner Gil Einstein describes the mixed media and pencil-on-canvas works as realism with an abstract quality. The gallery is located at 1018 Madison Avenue (between 78 and 79 streets) and is open Tuesday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Professor Howardena Pindell's paintings are on exhibit at the Studio Museum in Harlem through June 8. "Howardena Pindell: Odyssey" consists of mixed-media works inspired by the artist's travels through India and Japan. The evocative images incorporate painting and collage materials such as sewn or pasted bits of canvas and postcards. The result are abstract images and complicated, elegant surfaces. The gallery, at 144 West 125 Street in New York, is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The oil paintings of Yee Jan Bao, assistant professor in Stony Brook's art department, are showing at the Stephen Rosenberg Gallery in Soho through April 19. The exhibit is described as a moving expressionistic treatment of landscapes with a moody, surreal quality. The gallery is located at 115 Wooster Street, and is open from noon to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday or by appointment.

Also on exhibit this month are twenty-five ceramic sculptures by Toby Buonagurio in the Art Gallery of the Fine Arts Center at Stony Brook. The unique pieces are a blend of elements of Art Deco, Surrealism, and Pop Art, with images of robots and animals juxtaposed in imaginative ways. The show is open until April 26, noon to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays and on some evenings before Main Stage performances.

INTERVIEW JUDGE DOYLE

The fourth member of our panel is Joseph F. Miller, who is a parole executive clemency officer for both Suffolk ~~County~~ ^{yes} and the governor's office. He resides in Setauket. Mr. Miller earned his degree at Stony Brook in 1984 in ~~economics~~ ^{public}. How did you get into parole work, Mr. Miller?

INTERVIEW MR. MILLER

There you have it: four professionals in the broad field of criminal justice. We'll take your calls now. This is "Your Career." The telephone number is 246-7901. What's your question? Call our panel with your questions about careers in the police, as an attorney, as a judge or as a parole officer. ~~246-7901~~ ⁹⁰¹. Please call and let us take your questions about careers in the fields of criminal justice. Perhaps you are wondering what career preparation is necessary. Call 246-7091. Are you wondering what the salaries are? Call 246-7091.

GENERAL INTERVIEW QUESTIONS:

Preparation: education philosophy
internships

Benefits: salary - vacation/sick leave - retirement

Pitfalls: what are the problems in the career?

Advice and counseling: where to go?

~~5:00~~ ^{58:00}
WRAPUP:

Thanks to: Andrea Brooks Young, director of Alumni Association at the State University of New York at Stony Brook

To Joe Cassidy, president of the Alumni

To our panelists: Assistant D.A. Sandi Brooks, Judge James Boyle and Parole Officer Joseph Miller.

To WUSB - Steve Miller, program director; and our engineering, Dave Vallone

--- MORE ---

YOUR CAREER -- Tuesday, April 8, 1986

INTRO UP AND UNDER

Hi, everybody. This is Al Oickle. Welcome to "Your Career," a call-in talk show sponsored by the Alumni Association at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. This evening, we'll be talking with four Stony Brook graduates whose professional careers are in the fields of criminal justice.

Have you ever thought about being a lawyer, or a judge? How about being a police officer, or a probation officer, or a parole officer? This evening, we'll try to answer your questions in these fields.

We'll start out by my introducing the panel of experts. Then we'll open up our telephone lines to take your calls, on the air. Make a note of the telephone number now so you will be ready to call us a few minutes. We're in the 516 area code. The number to call is 246-7901.

Now, let me introduce to you our panel. First, let me introduce to you Dr. Hugh J. B. Cassidy. He's president of the Alumni Association and the one who came up with the idea for this program, "Your Career." Joe Cassidy is a former police officer. Where did you serve, Dr. Cassidy?

INTERVIEW DR. CASSIDY

Sandi Brooks graduated from Stony Brook in 1978 with a degree in sociology. Now she lives in Huntington and is an assistant district attorney in the office of the Nassau County D.A. From sociology to the law. How did that happen?

INTERVIEW MS. BROOKS

James F. X. Doyle is a judge in the Suffolk County Family Court. He resides in Mt. Sinai. He earned a master of arts degree at Stony Brook in 1983, majoring in public affairs and political science. He has a law degree from Fordham and an undergraduate degree from Holy Cross College. I suspect, Judge Doyle, that you didn't start out to be a judge.

--- MORE ---

Please join us next time -- Tuesday, May 6, from 6 to 7 p.m. We'll be talking with a panel of Stony Brook alumni who are in the health professions. That's "Your Career," returning on May 6. I hope you'll be with us. Until then, this is Al Oickle at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. So long, everybody.

Over