AL OICKLE'S SEGMENT ON "VILLAGE COMMON," WUSB-FM, Oct. 4, 1981

Hi, everybody, this is Al Oickle. And I'm here to invite you to this busy campus at the State University of New York at Stony Brook during October. There should be something for everyone.

Homecoming weekend is beginning to wind down right now, but a major event remains for alumni. And that is the Alumni College Day on Saturday, Oct. 24...a full day of classes conducted by Stony Brook professors. ^{just for Alumni} Denise Coleman at the Alumni office has information on that event.

The Symphony Orchestras Series will be under way at the Fine Arts Center on Saturday, Oct. 17, at 8 p.m. with a concert ~~by~~ by the Festival Orchestra. This is the former Graduate Orchestra, and the concert this month will include works by Copland and Brahms. Call the Box Office for details.

Free to everyone will be a major ~~series~~ ^{symposium} symposium on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16-17, called "Germany in the 19th Century---Cultural Aspects of an Age." Stony Brook professors from 14 different disciplines will ~~give~~ give lectures, some of them illustrated, in fields ranging from ~~the arts~~ ^{SCIENCE} Department of and music to mathematics and politics. Call the Germanic and Slavic Languages and Literatures ^{Department} for information.

And beginning Oct. 15 is another major activity, ~~also~~ also free. This is a series called "Talks on Books," organized by Nancy Mullen of Setauket's Corner Book Store. Each talk--- and they will continue almost weekly into December and beyond--- will be given at 5 p.m. by an author, or publisher, or editor...

talks of interest to students, faculty and anyone who has ever considered writing a book. ~~Call~~ This series will launch the new University-Community Fellowship Program. For more information on the program, or on the book series, call the Center for continuing Education.

Stony Brook's club football team has two home games remaining on the October schedule. On the 17th, the Patriots will play Brooklyn College and on the 24th, Manhattan College. Both games will be played at the athletic field at 1:30 p.m. and, as always, there is no charge for admission.

Much, much more is happening at Stony Brook during October. The University welcomes visitors to all public events. If you have questions, or would like more information, you can call me at the Office of University News Services, telephone 246-3580. I'll be back on the Village Common in November. Until then, this is Al Oickle. So long, everybody.
