03. Workshops/Courses/Training

1. EAP Lunchtime Learning, Could My Child Have ADHD

Guest Speaker, Carolyn Colwell, LCSW-R

Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder is one of the most over diagnosed and under diagnosed conditions of childhood. Recent public debate about ADHD has made it sound like a fad. But ADHD was first described by a German physician in the late 1800s. ADHD appears in many guises and disguises. In fact one form of ADHD does not involve hyperactivity at all. It also has a wide variability, ranging from very mild to very severe. It can affect academic performance, success in sports, socialization, self-esteem and family harmony. This workshop will help you: Identify the symptoms of ADHD; Understand how the ADHD brain works, and Develop a roadmap for action.

April 13, 2007, HSC, CR 108, L2, 11:30-12:30

To register call EAP at 632-6085.

2. Metals, Environment and Human Health: Bridging the Gap April 27, 2007 Public Notice

Metals, Environment and Human Health: Bridging the Gap

Date: April 27, 2007, Wang Center Lecture Hall # 2, Stony Brook University 8:30am

This workshop is co-sponsored by the Center for Environmental Molecular Science (CEMS), the Consortium for Inter-Disciplinary Environmental Research (CIDER), and the Stony Brook 3MT Integrative Graduate Education and Research Training (IGERT) Program. Attendance is open to everyone.

This day-long workshop will feature six leading researchers from around the country, who will discuss the behavior of metals as they relate to environmental processes and human health. The goals are to facilitate interaction among scientists in environmental chemistry, toxicology, and epidemiology, and to identify future directions for research and collaboration. A round-table discussion will allow audience participation.

5. And Justice For All/Diversity 101 - The Combined Version

This full day program will provide supervisors with necessary information, resources and guidance about Federal and State regulations; University policies, around issues of discrimination; equal employment opportunity; complaint resolution and diversity. It will clarify and communicate the roles, rights and responsibilities of supervisors, managers, employees and the Office of Diversity and Affirmative Action in these matters and review appropriate methods for making referrals, the scope of confidentiality and the policy against retaliation. Through the use of case studies and other interactive exercises, this program will allow participants to explore and discuss dimensions of diversity and inclusion, approaches to managing diversity, the impact of stereotyping and bias in the workplace. Each participant will develop a personal action plan.

Target Audience: All employees

Date: April 18th; Time: 9:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m. Place: Administration Bldg., room 192; To register: click below

6. Mastering Performance Reviews

Just as faculty members evaluate students on their performance in courses through papers, tests, classroom discussion, etc., managers evaluate employees on the quality and quantity of their work performance. These evaluations are made every day, every week, every month, depending on how closely the manager works with or observes his/her employees. These informal ratings form the basis for what we now call the more formal "performance appraisal" or "performance review".

This program is designed to:

Clarify the manager's role as a communicator, counselor and mentor.

Guide the manager through the process: from preparing for and conducting the appraisal session, to concluding the appraisal session, with follow-up.

Target Audience: Managers and supervisors responsible for managing the performance of others.

Date: April 19th; Time: 9:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
