Subject Student Housing Needed

This is a call to faculty and staff who have extra room in their homes and may be interested in housing an undergraduate or graduate student for the fall semester. Stony Brook is blessed with an abundance of excellent students, and this coming fall, the residence halls will be filled to capacity. Housing a student can be a rewarding experience for the host as well as the student, not just providing shelter close to campus, but developing a relationship that can enhance the student's feeling of welcome and start the student on the road to academic success. If you are able and willing to house a student, please complete the on-line form at:
