3. TLT is deleting all 2006 Blackboard courses on November 27, 2009.

If you taught a course in 2006 and used Blackboard, please read this important announcement! In order to conserve space on our servers, we are deleting all Blackboard courses from 2006 on Friday, November 27, 2009.

The only exceptions are:

1. Courses needed for department accreditation review.
2. Courses taught by instructors who are being reviewed for tenure.

If you fall into either of the above categories, you MUST fill out this form prior to November 27: <http://naples.cc.sunysb.edu/DoIT/bbreq.nsf/bbkeepcourse>

If we don't hear from you, your course will be permanently deleted.

For more on how to save information from your courses before they're deleted, please see our blog: <http://bit.ly/4gOyND>

Please let us know if you have any questions!

4. Winter/Spring/Summer 2009 Blackboard roster deletions scheduled for November 18, 2009!

On Wednesday, November 18, 2009, we will be deleting all rosters from Winter, Spring, and Summer 2009 Blackboard courses.

If your course falls into either of the following categories, you MUST fill out a request form prior to November 18:

1. Does not follow the West Campus schedule
3. Courses that overlap semesters
3. You still have students completing incomplete grades
4. You have a pending dishonesty case with the Academic Judiciary

Please see our blog for information on what happens when rosters are deleted and how to save your information: <http://bit.ly/3qW6Nx>

Please let us know if you have any questions!

5. Stony Brook University answers the call to recycle!

With its eye on the environment, Stony Brook University (SBU) has joined a national program called Call2Recycle(tm) to conveniently recycle used rechargeable batteries and old cell phones generated on Campus. This program will strengthen and enhance SBU's existing program by providing more convenient and safe disposal options to the Campus Community.

If it's rechargeable, it's recyclable! The following rechargeable battery chemistries can be recycled - Nickel Cadmium (Ni-Cd), Nickel Metal Hydride (Ni-MH), Lithium Ion (Li-ion), Nickel Zinc (Ni-Zn), and Small Sealed Lead Acid batteries weighing up to 11lbs/5kg per battery (Pb). Recycling not only conserves/reclaims these materials, but prevents air and water pollution and greenhouse gas emissions. Note: The Call2Recycle program does not accept alkaline, lithium, non-rechargeable, or wet-cell batteries.

To learn more about the Call2Recycle program or to find a drop off location on Campus, visit SBU's Environmental Health & Safety website at <http://www.stonybrook.edu/ehs/>.

3. The Mysteries of Microfilm Revealed!

Stony Brook Library contains over two million books, but did you know it also has over 4 million items on microfilm and related formats? Much of the material is unavailable on the internet or in online databases. Collections include historic newspapers from Long Island and around the world, 16th century documents from Spanish colonies in Mexico, pamphlets from the Women's Movement, underground papers from the 1960s, NASA reports, Four Centuries of Spanish and German Drama, and more! In this session learn: just what is microfilm anyway and if it is the same as microfiche, some of the interesting collections available at the library, how to locate microforms using STARS and print indexes & guides, how to find that exact roll of microfilm you want, and how to print from microfilm, microfiche and the other formats. Monday, November 9 @ 5:30 PM. Register @ <http://www.stonybrook.edu/library/services/instruction/workshops.htm>.

4. Research Skills for Graduate Level Education and Teaching

If any of the statements below sound familiar then you need to attend this workshop. "I've been at SBU for 5 years but I've never been to the stacks." "I'm starting to write my graduate thesis and I'm not sure where to start." "My professor gave back my thesis outline and told me I have to use scholarly sources. How do I find those?" "Can you please read over my paper to check it for spelling and grammar?" In this workshop learn how to: narrow your subject areas, review literature in your field, find books in STARS, use the library's education subject guide databases to find articles, do a super search of the above databases with a federated search engine called Galaxy, and find other library resources such as e-books, research guides by subject area.

Wednesday, November 11 @ 1:00 PM. Register @

7. Quick and Easy Way of Designing a Professional Looking Surveys by Using Survey Programs Available at Stony Brook

Monday, November 9, 12:50pm-2:10pm

Tired of manually entering your survey data and waiting for months to get your results analyzed? Cannot afford time and money to deliver paper-and-pencil surveys? Or worried about too much technical stuff involved in online survey design? Concerned about low response rate for online surveys? Here is the quick and easy solution to your questions: SelectSurvey, a web-based survey design tool, simplifies the process of doing surveys and improves the quality of the data collected. It just takes a few minutes to create a professional looking and professional acting survey without requiring any web design skills. This workshop will show you how you can save time and money in conducting a survey study in a totally stress-free way.

This workshop is offered in person at The Faculty Center in the Melville Library and also online as a webinar. Please email us if you plan on attending online.

10. You Don't Always Need a Computer or PowerPoint to Teach: Student-Centered Group Brainstorming and Discussion Activities

Wednesday, November 11, 3:50pm-5:10pm

You've been assigned to a drab classroom without a computer station and students desks from the 60's in neat, little columns and rows. This is going to be a long semester. Why not make it an active and exciting semester for your students and you? Katharina Schuhmann and Nancy Wozniak will demonstrate group brainstorming and discussion activities that will ignite student participation and learning in your classroom. Part I will be a demonstration of activities. Part II will be an active learning exchange and brainstorming session on transforming classroom learning from "sage on the stage" to "guide on the side".

This workshop is offered in person at The Faculty Center in the Melville Library and also online as a webinar. Please email us if you plan on attending online.

12. Stimulate Student Learning with the Use of Games in the Classroom

Friday, November 13, 12:50pm-2:10pm

Surveys show that students who use games find that difficult tasks can be engaging, intriguing and amusing when incorporated into a story and a meaningful context. In a May 2003 survey, students said that motivation and a sense of meaningfulness are aspects they appreciate about games, and these in turn make learning more efficient. Instructors report that games are useful tools for collaborative learning and that they enhance the learning process. Students solve assignments together. They discuss and suggest different strategies and solutions as they interact with the games' learning environment (Rydberg, 2003).

This workshop is offered in person at The Faculty Center in the Melville Library and also online as a webinar. Please email us if you plan on attending online.

12. Film: Hiding Divya on 11/17/09 at 7 PM

In Hiding Divya, writer/director Rehana Mirza tackles the taboo of mental illness in the South Asian community. Mirza's powerhouse feature film debut provides a rare, realistic, and poignant glimpse into the lives of three generations of women: the bipolar matriarch Divya Shah (played by revered actress Madhur Jaffrey); her estranged daughter Linny (starring former Miss USA India, Pooja Kumar); and Linny's 16-year-old daughter, Jia (newcomer Madelaine Massey), whose emotional turmoil is buried under a veil of secrecy. Combining the deft humor of Mirza's award-winning shorts with the philosophical twists of her acclaimed stage plays, Hiding Divya tells a story of denial, shame, guilt and, most of all, love.

5. What's Your Favorite Spot on Campus?

This is your last chance to make a video of your favorite place on campus for a chance to win $1,000 and other cash prizes.

The contest is open to all students, faculty, and staff and runs from October 5 to November 15. A panel of students, faculty, and other members of the Stony Brook University community will judge the winning videos.

Eligible videos should range from 30 to 120 seconds; professional equipment is not required. In fact, you may borrow a camcorder, webcam, or a video-recording phone by contacting enroll@stonybrook.edu.

Winning videos will be featured on the official SBUTube Web site.

The contest is sponsored by the Division of Student Affairs and Enrollment and Retention Management.

For complete rules and how to submit your video visit www.stonybrook.edu/sb/sbutube

8. Learning a Language? Plan to Travel? Flash Cards, Phrase Books, and more at Wang Center Gift Shop

Learning a language is so much easier with good tools, and traveling with a handy phrase book is a must. If you or someone on your gift list is tackling Hindi, Japanese, Korean, Chinese, or Arabic, we have flash card sets, the "Survival" series of phrase books, plus character-a-day pads, and dictionaries.

Who could resist "Uncensored Japanese Slang"? Or an autographed copy of "My First Japanese Kanji Book" by Stony Brook's own Dr. Eriko Sato?

You'll find these and lots of other goodies at the Wang Center Gift Shop, located right across from Jasmine Restaurant.

Regular hours are Monday - Friday, 12 noon to 5 pm.
