1. Get in The Game! RECYCLEMANIA 2007

Stony Brook University has joined 200 other Universities in a friendly, national recycling and waste minimization contest. In order for us to compete and do well, we are going to need EVERYONE's help. You Game?

What You Can Do:

- * Recycle all your mixed paper (incl. books, periodicals, magazines)
- * Recycle your bottles and cans
- * Organize an office or Department clean up Day! Clean out your files and contact the Dept. of Recycling/Resource Management at 2-9673 to order large bins and service.
- * Encourage others to get in the game and recycle!
- * Lug A Mug - use your own mug instead of disposable cups
- * Use email whenever feasible
- * Use intra-office envelopes and reuse them
- * Send your toner cartridges to the Dept at Z = 6551, or if in bulk, contact Jay Levenson at 2-6375 to request a pick up

THANK YOU!

6. New Exhibit Chronicles Stony Brook University

A new exhibit in the North Reading Room of the Main Library illustrates the growth of Stony Brook University through the use of images from the vast photographic collection maintained by Special Collections and University Archives. It is presented in celebration of Stony Brook

University's 50th Anniversary. The exhibit features as its centerpiece the original architectural model used by former University President John S. Toll in the 1960s and early 1970s to plan the campus. Accompanying the 1971 model are 14 aerial photographs and maps that illustrate the rapid growth of the campus and the forecasted impact the University would have on the region. The exhibit will be on display through May and was organized by Special Collections and University Archives.

15. Women's Studies Job Candidate Speaker Dr. CL Cole from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign, Tuesday, Feb. 27 4:00

Enchanting America: Sport, Sex & Race Americas fascination with extraordinary sport performances provides an overlooked opportunity to examine the cultural work that nationally sanctioned sporting bodies are asked to perform. Celebrated sporting bodies are heroicized vis-à-vis the imagined deviance sexual, racial, political of others. This interrelationship functions to revitalize Americas foundational claims by neutralizing the contradictions of American democracy/capitalism, and negotiating both domestic and international anxieties about sex and race relations. This talk is based on my manuscript: Good Sports? The Boundaries of American Democracy.

1. Student-Community Wellness Leadership Symposium: Challenges in Higher Education: The African-American Male Experience Tuesday, February 27th, 1:00-3:30 pm, SAC

Auditorium

The 2007 Leadership Symposium on Student-Community Wellness will be on February 27, 2007 from 1:00-3:30 p.m. in the Student Activities Center Auditorium. This years symposium topic, Challenges in Higher Education: The African-American Male Experience will address complex issue of access and retention of African American men in higher education. Featured speakers are Dr. Tyrone Bledsoe, Executive Director of Student African American Brotherhood (S.A.A.B.), and Dr. Ivory Achebe Toldson, Assistant Professor, Howard University and author of Black Sheep. Stony Brooks Dr. Olufemi Vaughan, Associate Provost, Professor of Africana Studies and History, will serve as moderator. In spite of strides achieved for women and populations of color, the current reality for African American men represents a state of emergency for our nation. The need is to understand the broader context in which this situation is rooted, while more fully appreciating the current reality, and identifying possible responses.
