

Mary Messina/FSA
05/12/2003 01:57 PM

To: Angela Agnello/FSA@SUNYSB
cc:
bcc: F.Jason Torre/Lib
Subject: Politics of War and Remembrance May 13 Wang Center 7:00 pm

Politics of War and Remembrance 7:00 pm Wang Theater
Third in the series of With Liberty and Justice for All Symposium

Noam Chomsky, foremost media critic; Gary Okihiro, Director of the Center for the Study of Ethnicity and Race at Columbia University; Helen Zia, feminist activist and author and Loni Ding, award-winning documentary filmmaker explore the evolving state of democracy and civil liberties in America with special focus on how it affects Americans of Asian descent.

Concurrent with this event is an interactive kiosk featuring the work of Stony Brook students dealing with the history of the Angel Island Immigration Station, the subject of a current exhibit at the Ellis Island Immigration Museum.

Light refreshments will be served compliments of the Commuter Student Association

Beginning at 5:30 pm -- the following books will be available at discounted rates for signing:

Middle East Illusions by Noam Chomsky

Power & Terror Post 9/11 Talks & Interviews by Noam Chomsky

My Country Versus Me by Wen Ho Lee & Helen Zia

Common Ground by Gary Okihiro

For more information, contact Sunita S. Mukhi, Wang Center Director or visit the Center's web site at www.stonybrook.edu/sb/wang/events