

Colleagues,

I am pleased to announce the next event in the Provost's Lecture Series: The Seventh Annual George Goodman Memorial Symposium.

On Thursday, November 3rd, Phil Donahue and Michael Ratner will present "Terrorism and Dissent" beginning at 4:00 pm in the SAC Auditorium.

Donahue is the former Emmy-winning host of the "Donahue Show." He is a frequent contributor to the "New York Times" and the "Washington Post". He has hosted numerous television specials tackling issues such as parenting, AIDS, politics and health care. Ratner is President of the Center for Constitutional Rights, a non-profit human rights organization in New York City. He co-represented the Guantanamo detainees in the Supreme Court and is the author of "Guantanamo: What the World Should Know."

This program is co-sponsored by the Round Table and will feature a reception immediately following the event.

Please pass along an invitation to attend to any students and community members you feel may be interested.

- Robert McGrath, Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs
