Subject: Southampton: WRITERS SPEAK

“WRITERS SPEAK” CONTINUES WITH A NOVELIST AND A MAGAZINE WRITER

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y., September 12, 2008— Novelist Zachary Lazar and The New Yorker magazine writer Adam Green will read from their work at Stony Brook Southampton on September 24.

The event is part of Southampton’s MFA in Writing and Literature program and its “Writers Speak” series of literary events, which all take place on Wednesdays at 7 p.m. in Duke Lecture Hall and are free and open to the public. For further information, call 631-632-5030.

A former Fellow at Provincetown’s Fine Arts Center, Zachary Lazar received the James Michener/Copernicus Society Prize from the Iowa Writers’ Workshop. A Colorado native, he now teaches at Hofstra. "Sway," his second novel, was a New York Times Book Review Editor’s Choice.

Adam Green is Vogue magazine’s theater critic and a regular New Yorker contributor. A Harvard graduate, he was an editor of The Harvard Lampoon, and later became a Saturday Night Live staff writer. His work has appeared in The New York Times Magazine, Vanity Fair, and Men’s Vogue. After a lifetime of indolence and avoidant behavior, he is finally at work on his first book.
