

Polity Council Postpones Elections

New Date Set For Elections

Polity polls for the Senate and two Council positions will remain closed Wednesday, the original election date, because few students have submitted petitions. The elections have been rescheduled for October 16.

Petitioning for Treasurer, Freshman Representative, Freshman Class President, Senior Class President, Commuter Senators and Residential College Senators will end Tuesday. Petitions are still available in the Polity office.

According to Polity President David Herzog, the Election Board granted the postponement Wednesday after a Polity Council attempt to postpone the election failed the day before. The attempt was halted by an injunction granted by the Polity Judiciary.

The injunction was requested by Louis Epstein, a candidate for treasurer. "Maybe they'll extend the elections, but I see no justice in extending the petitioning," said Epstein. He feels that the postponement of the petition deadline is unfair to the students who submitted their petitions before the old deadline.

After the Council's decision to postpone the elections Polity Treasurer Rich Lanigan decided to run for re-election. "People were asked to run against me," charged Epstein.

Lanigan denied Epstein's charges, claiming that the reason for the postponement was because of a mix up involving advertisements in Statesman.

Another reason for the postponement is that the student directory, a list of all undergraduates, has not been printed up, said Ammann College Senator Owen Rumelt. He said there was therefore no way to validate the petitions.

The Council which is composed of the class representatives and Polity (student government) officers is responsible for the daily policy decision-making. The Senate reviews all Council decisions, writes legislation and approves the budget. It is comprised of one representative from each building (total of 27), two from the Health Sciences Center, and 29 commuters.

Chief Justice Anna Lewis said that the injunction against the postponement didn't necessarily mean that Epstein was correct. "We didn't say he was right or wrong. We wanted to hear both sides."

Exterminator's Actions Questioned

By NATHANIEL RABINOVICH

"The exterminator is coming! The exterminator is coming!" said a sign on the third floor of Stage XII C. To many residents of the cockroach-infested building, this was welcome news. But several did not want their rooms sprayed and when an exterminator paid them a visit last week, they were none too happy.

Chris Huhn said she heard a knock on her door at about 9:30. Since Huhn was not dressed, she didn't answer. Subramaniam Rangaswamy, an administrative assistant in the Stage XII Quad Office, then unlocked her door for the exterminator, who proceeded to spray the corners of the room, part of the rug, and "on top of my phone. I couldn't believe it," she said.

"They walked in on me," Huhn said, adding that Rangaswamy and the exterminator ignored her when she told them she did not want her room sprayed.

Other residents on the third floor also complained. Sukie Davis was outside her room when she saw the pair try to enter. Only with difficulty did she persuade them to leave, she said. "We had to be firm," said Davis. "That was the only way we got him not to do the rooms."

Stage XII C, like other buildings in the quad, has a severe roach problem, residents say. Huhn and Davis explained that Residential Assistants four weeks ago posted notices on the third floor saying that an exterminator would spray rooms on that floor one week later if requested. Residents in 11 of the 18 rooms on the floor said they did. However, the exterminator did not arrive the day he was scheduled, Davis said, and staff in the Stage XII quad office rescheduled his arrival for a later date.

But on Wednesday night last week, Stage XII C Residence Hall Director Ali Wadud announced at an emergency legislature meeting that the insect problem had become so severe that every third floor room would immediately be exterminated.

Rangaswami, however, said he did not allow the exterminator into the room of those who refused them entry. He said that he knocked on each door and, if there was no answer, he unlocked it and let the exterminator in. "There were a couple of rooms where they didn't want us to [exterminate], and we didn't do it," he said. "I don't remember to have done anything like this," he said of Huhn's charge.

"That's not how he came on," said Davis, when informed of Rangaswami's comments, "He came on like, we've got to exterminate, and that's it. I felt like I was being ordered."

Minority Students Rally Today At the Administration Building

By TOM CHAPPELL

A group of organizations representing minority students will rally in front of the Administration building at 11 AM today in support of the Africana Studies Program.

Officials from Black Students United (BSU), one of the rally's sponsors, expressed concern last night that the intent of the rally would be lost because of an article appearing in a four page newsletter entitled Statesperson (see related story). A story in the newsletter, which circulated on campus Wednesday, implied that BSU was part of the coalition which published the newsletter after disrupting Statesman production the previous night. BSU officials stated that the story was not true.

"At the time Statesman's facilities were taken over BSU was involved in a general body meeting. Thusly, we had nothing to do with the takeover of Statesman headquarters," BSU Vice President Gayl Shepard said.

According to its organizers, the purpose of the rally is to publicize the problems that the Africana Studies (AFS) program is facing.

Currently the department has inadequate office space with no room for a library. Also no funds are available to hire speakers and rent rooms.

The rally is sponsored by virtually every minority organization on campus including, BSU, the Black Faculty Staff Association, the AFS program, Advancement on Individual Merit, African Club, Haitian Club, and Student Chapter of the Association of Black Social Workers.

Tornado Injures Hundreds

Windsor Locks, Connecticut (AP) — Stunned families salvaged what they could yesterday from area homes left in shambles by a tornado that killed two people, injured hundreds and caused an estimated $179 million in damage.

"You just pick up what you can and that's it. After 20 years you start over," Louis Cermola said as he went through the remains of his home in Windsor.

"There ain't nothing there now. The roof's gone. It's all gone," the truck driver said. "Nobody was injured, thank God."

Governor Ella Grasso continued for a second night the 8 PM-to-5 AM cur-few in Windsor and Windsor Locks. Five hundred National Guardsmen were activated to prevent looting and to direct traffic.

Devastation

"I've never seen anything as bad," Grasso said after a helicopter tour of Windsor and her hometown of Windsor Locks. "To look through that swirl of fog and see some houses like matchsticks swept from their foundations... you think that in those houses were families and their lives, I'm sure, are shattered," she said.

The funnel cloud caught residents by surprise Wednesday afternoon. Weather service radar did not even pick up the twister, which spun out of a wave of thunderstorms that lashed north-central Connecticut with winds of up to 86 miles an hour.

A Manchester man, William Kowalsky, 24, was killed Wednesday when flying lumber hit his pickup truck, authorities said.

The body of a 43-year-old Windsor woman was found yesterday 25 feet from her wrecked home. Authorities said they had not yet confirmed her name.

State Health Commissioner Douglas Lloyd said 143 people were hospitalized and at least 180 others were treated for injuries.

NEWS DIGEST

International

Beirut, Lebanon — Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat met with the Reverend Jesse Jackson yesterday and a guerrilla spokesman later declared a unilateral cease-fire in embattled southern Lebanon.

The two men met for nearly two hours at Arafat's headquarters here.

Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO) spokesman Mahmoud Labady announced the truce and read a statement condemning the Camp David peace accords between Israel and Egypt. He also offered an interpretation of a clause in the PLO national charter that calls for replacing the Jewish state with a secular, democratic state.

"The PLO pledges to cease fire in Southern Lebanon due to its deep concern for the security, the stability, safety and integrity of Lebanon," Labady said.

Asked how this differed from the U.N. truce, Labady replied, "We will now respect it more."

He claimed the current cease-fire had been violated by the Israelis with jet reconnaissance flights over Lebanon and alleged shelling of the southern area.

Jackson described the PLO's cease-fire declaration as a "start" and said Congress should restrain the Israelis by enforcing restrictions on the use of U.S. arms for "aggressive purposes."

Washington — President Jimmy Carter accepted the resignation of Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps yesterday "with the greatest reluctance and regret."

Kreps, the first economist and first woman to hold the top Commerce post, wrote Carter on Wednesday of her decision to resign as of October 31, saying "my reasons are entirely personal."

The White House made public a warm exchange of letters between Carter and Kreps that made no direct reference to Kreps' desire to return to North Carolina and her family. Her husband, Clifton Kreps Jr., a professor of business at the University of North Carolina, attempted suicide in June.

Norfolk, Virginia — While drinking and flying airplanes are not particularly compatible, the Navy says the combination is especially dangerous if the drink is a gin and tonic—mainly because of the tonic.

A Navy doctor said Wednesday there is evidence the quinine in tonic water can upset equilibrium and produce night blindness, blurred vision, double vision and abnormal color vision.

Captain M.J. Dunne, a Navy doctor with Armed Forces Institute of Pathology, said there are clear indications that even low doses of quinine can impair equilibrium and interfere with vision—effects that could be disastrous for jet pilots who suffer some normal disorientation in flight anyway.

Lake Placid — Construction workers accidentally blew a boulder 75 feet through the air, smashing into the Olympic bobsled run here and causing an estimated $50,000 damage, it was confirmed yesterday.

Authorities said a work crew set off a dynamite charge about quitting time a week ago as they worked on an access road to the half-mile start line.

A three-foot-diameter boulder, dislodged by the blast, sailed about 75 feet through the air, lopped off the top of a pine tree and dropped onto the bobsled track, smashing the run's side wall and bottom, officials said.

New York — The honeymoon trip of a Uruguayan couple ended in horror yesterday when the bride fell to her death in what police described as a "freak accident." Sylvania Maninirios, 20, lost her balance and fell from a window of the Taft Hotel as she bounced on the bed in horse-play with her husband, Bruno, 29, police said.

"They were just kidding around like a honeymoon couple might. It's just a real tragic accident," said a police investigator, who asked not to be identified.

Responsibility should be the name of the game in your first job. Whether you are managing the millions of dollars worth of equipment assigned to you or landing your jet on the deck of an aircraft carrier, the responsibility you receive as a Navy Officer will provide you with a unique opportunity for personal growth and future success.

Obviously, this type of job is not for everyone. But if you have the self-motivation to handle challenging situations and make on-the-spot decisions, then you are the kind of person who will find this job to be a rewarding experience. An interview with a Navy Officer representative may be the best investment you could make with a half-hour of your time.

Placement interviews will be held on 16 October and 17 November. Contact the Career Development Office, Library Building, room W0550, phone - 246-7024 for an appointment.

Let Us Know

Campus organizations, including student government, have often complained that Statesman has not done an adequate job of covering campus events (particularly their own).

More often than not, they're right.

The best way to explain why, and what can be done, would be to begin with an explanation of how stories get into Statesman. The campus newspaper is run by a board of editors with distinct responsibilities. Among them are several assignment editors responsible for dispatching reporters and photographers to cover campus and sometimes off-campus events. For each of Statesman's editorial departments (News, Sports, Photo, Arts and Feature) a department director serves as the assignment editor for the area his staff covers. If a protest is planned or a Polity club has an event of interest to the campus community, our news director, Mitchell Murov, is responsible for seeing that it is covered. In the case of new play openings on campus, Richard Wald, our arts editor, would assign a review.

Unfortunately, because these individuals are full-time students working at Statesman on their own time, as volunteers, and more importantly, because their photographers and reporters work on the same basis, sometimes noteworthy events are not covered. At times, because the abilities of our staff members are not up to par, a story is sometimes assigned and written, but because it may be incomplete, biased or unintelligible, an editor might decide that the story cannot be used without further work.

Another problem arises when Statesman cannot find a reporter interested in covering a particular story. A perfect example this year, is Polity meetings, for which we have not been able to get reporters interested in attending.

For this reason, our coverage of Polity Senate, Council and Judiciary meetings has not been good.

There is a way to combat these problems. Just as Statesman attempts to act as a professional newspaper, organizations and individuals interested in seeing that campus (or off-campus but student related) events, are covered should use the technique used by professionals. Contact the newspaper.

A simple press release containing the essential facts can easily be written and delivered to Statesman. Then, even if no story is assigned, the release can be used to get out the bare facts. Also, a call or visit to the assignment editor who covers that area would help assure that coverage is assigned.

Statesman editors work hard to try and serve this campus' informational needs, but at times even the best of intentions falls short. Still, we will do an even better job with your press releases, phone calls and visits with assignment editors. Statesman is situated in the basement of the Stony Brook Union, and its telephone number is 246-3690.

Say No to Nukes

When one thinks of the 60s, what often comes to mind is the Vietnam War—a war which caused such controversy and turmoil in this nation that it took over a decade before we realized our error. But there were those who knew how wrong that war was and they protested, were arrested, and some even were killed.

Sunday there will be a rally against nuclear power in Hauppauge, and again many will be there who know just how dangerous nuclear power is? They will protest, perhaps be arrested, and without a doubt try to protect your safety.

So again, we are faced with an issue that is so potentially catastrophic that we just don't have 10 years to realize our error. We are dealing with something so deadly, so extremely harmful to ourselves and our environment that 10 years from now everyone will suffer. But this can be averted if we decide right now to fight, decide right now that it won't take 10 years to resolve, decide right now that our own health and safety is much more important than anything Long Island Lighting Company is forcing us to buy. We strongly urge everyone to get involved, go to the demonstrations, write your elected officials, and vote against those who support nuclear power. Join the anti-nuclear organization and get involved!

Busing Hazards

To the Editor:

We, the Commuter Drivers of South P-Lot, wish to bring to the attention of the commuters, the campus community and the Public Safety Department, some of the problems we are having.

Each day in the process of driving, we are faced with hazards. Now we are faced with the hazard of the parking in South P-Lot. Cars are parked illegally on all the safety zones and along the fence. Buses cannot go up and down these lanes or make our turns safely. We have notified Security numerous times of this situation. If for some reason South P-Lot had to be evacuated, it could not be done safely.

The parking in the back of South P-lot and the over-flow parking lot is not used to its full capacity.

When you board the bus, we ask that you stand behind the white line. This is done for your safety, and also because we have to see out our door and side mirrors. Please do not board the bus from the back door. You could jam the door and we could not move the bus. Also it is not fair to the people that were there before you.

When the amber flashers on the front and back of the bus are on, this means for traffic coming from both directions to stop, so that the passengers can cross safely. Most vehicles coming from both directions do go through the amber light. Security has also been notified of this numerous times.

When passengers ask us for directions we will try and help them in the right direction, but it would help if the names of the buildings and quad were posted in front of them so that the students knew they got there.

It seems that the taxis that come on campus do not know the traffic laws. A few times they have cut the buses off. Security was notified on this too.

It is for everyone's safety that we pick passengers up and drop them off at bus stops only.

To help with some of these problems we suggest that signs be posted where you cannot park. That the law be changed to let the university buses use red flashing lights instead of amber. That signs be posted on campus to stop for the buses when lights are flashing. Last but not least, if the commuter driving into South P-Lot during the rush hours would give lead way to the buses to get into South P-Lot, those long lines you end up standing on might not be so long. At times it takes us two to three minutes to get off South Drive into South P-Lot. We can load a bus in that time and be on our way and back to campus.

It also would help to prevent accidents if a stop sign was put at the end of Social Science driveway entering Engineering Circle.

If we all cooperate, including Security, we would get the passengers a lot safer to where they are going.

Orioles Edge Angels; Lead Series 2-0

Baltimore (AP) — Brian Downing got just what he wanted on Thursday from Baltimore relief pitcher Don Stanhouse. But the California Angels' catcher didn't do what he wanted with it.

With two out, the bases loaded and his team trailing by a run in the ninth inning, Downing anticipated a slider from Stanhouse and the right-hander delivered just that pitch on a 1-0 count.

Instead of lining a hit that would have capped an incredible comeback, Downing chopped the ball to third baseman Doug DeCinces, who tagged Dan Ford for the final out, preserving Baltimore's 9-8 victory and giving the Orioles a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five American League championship series.

"He threw me a slider on the first pitch and it was just off the plate," Downing said in a tomb-like California locker room. "The next pitch, he threw me another slider, and I was looking for it. But I didn't get it solid. I just got on top of it. The Angels had rallied from a 9-1 deficit and appeared on the verge of pulling out a victory against Stanhouse. The Oriole reliever's slow mound tactics and inability to retire batters before reaching a full count had the Memorial Stadium fans squirming in their seats.

While the crowd may have doubted the outcome, Stanhouse said he was in control all the way.

"I think my shirt says it all," said Stanhouse, pointing to the orange T-shirt bearing the legend "Stan The Man Unusual," an endearment handed out by his teammates for the pitcher's non-conformist off-the-wall activities.

Stanhouse has been known to drive Manager Earl Weaver into the dugout tunnel for a quick smoke because of his tedious ways, but this time Weaver stayed to watch as the veteran loaded the bases and faced Downing.

"Earl was rooting for me today," said Stanhouse. "Usually, he doesn't see me pitch."

Weaver said he stayed around because "the runway didn't work today. Every time I went there, the Angels did something, so I decided to stay in the dugout at the end."

Besides, Weaver added, he had a long way to go before reaching the point of no return with Stanhouse pitching. Explained the manager: "I still had three cigarettes left."

California Manager Jim Fregosi said that the second consecutive loss doesn't mean the Angels are out of the running for the league championship.

"This club has battled back from a lot of adversity all year and I think they'll do it again," Fregosi said. "I think we'll win three in a row in California."

Meeting Fregosi's prediction will mean a stay on the West Coast a little longer than most of the Orioles anticipate.

BRIAN DOWNING

"I'm from California," said DeCinces, "but I only want to stay there one day."

Today the Pirates, also up two games to none in their playoff series, will attempt to eliminate the Cincinnati Reds at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh. In three previous playoff series against the Reds, Pittsburgh has failed all three times to beat the Reds. Tomorrow, rookie Mike LaCoss will pitch for the Reds against Bert Blyleven. If Cincinnati wins this game, Fred Norman will pitch game four for the Reds, and Bruce Kison will go for Pittsburgh.

Tonight the Angels will be at home to attempt their first ever post-season victory against the Orioles who lead two games to none. Frank Tanana will pitch for the Angels while Dennis Martinez will go for Baltimore. If this series continues to a fourth game, Angel manager Jim Fregosi will go with Chris Knapp, while Earl Weaver will use Scott McGregor. Both the Orioles and Angels will be very tired after playing yesterday and flying home last night.

WOMEN'S TENNIS TEAM appears to be in good shape for the Eastern Tennis Tournament in New Paltz this weekend.
