Former SB Fire Marshall Gets Six to Twelve Years for Arson

By Mitch Wagner

Convicted arsonist John Maglione, 21, who worked as a fire marshal at Stony Brook and a volunteer fire-fighter in Terryville, was sent to the maximum security juvenile detention hall in Elmira yesterday on a sentence of 6 to 12 years, said Maglione's attorney.

Maglione was charged with setting eight fires, including a fire in Stony Brook's Physical Plant Commissary that caused $3 million in damages on Dec. 9, 1982. He pleaded guilty to one count of second-degree arson, plea-bargained down from the eight-count indictment handed down Jan. 11.

The attorney, Michael Tierney, said he will ask State Supreme Court Justice George McInerney, who sentenced Maglione, to request that the State Department of Corrections transfer Maglione to a psychiatric facility. McInerney recommended that Maglione be sent for treatment when Maglione was sentenced Tuesday.

Newsday reported that McInerney said, "Arson not of profit is a deep psychiatric problem," when handling down the sentence Tuesday, and that Maglione requested "help to get my life back together."

Tierney said a psychiatric report showed that Maglione has "severe psychiatric problems," but is "not insane in the legal sense." He said the psychiatric and legal definitions of insanity often differ widely, and that this case is an instance of that difference.

Newsday reported that Assistant District Attorney James Paar argued for a longer term of 7 1/2 to 15 years. Newsday said Paar characterized Maglione as apathetic to other people's welfare, including the welfare of the people he loves.

Maglione served 18 months in prison in 1980 after being convicted of arson. "Nobody in the course of that entire prosecution made him seek psychiatric help," said Tierney.

No lives were lost in any of the blazed Maglione is charged with setting. Aside from the commissary fire, which raged for 15 hours, Maglione was charged with setting a fire on Dec. 30, 1982 in a Stage XVI apartment building that caused $20,000 in damages and forced many residents to flee their buildings.

Statesman / Kenny Rockwell

The Dec. 9, 1982 Stony Brook warehouse fire, with damages totalling to about $3 million, was one of the fires convicted arson John Maglione was charged with setting. At the time of the fire Maglione was employed by the university as a fire marshal.

Study Shows 20% Education Cut

Washington, D.C. (CPS)— Spending on education and social service programs has dropped almost 20 percent since the Reagan administration took office in 1981, a Congressional Budget Office (CBO) report has found.

And in a new American Federation of Teachers (AFT) analysis of federal education spending, AFT President Albert Shanker charges President Ronald Reagan with "a cover-up" of administration funding requests for education programs.

The AFT has been friendlier to the president than other education groups in the past. It gave President Reagan a respectful welcome at its June, 1983 convention and willingly participated in his White House conference in the wake of last spring's release of several reports criticising the quality of American education.

By contrast, the National Education Association -- the AFT's larger teachers' union rival -- refused to join the White House conference or invite the president to speak at its convention, claiming Reagan had failed to support education since his days as governor of California.

The AFT also has been more willing to entertain the notion of merit pay for primary and secondary school teachers, a measure President Reagan supports. But the new AFT "analysis" noted President Reagan had asked Congress to cut federal public education by 25 percent for 1982 and 48.3 percent for this fiscal year. Congress eventually granted the president an 18 percent cut for 1982 and an 18.6 percent cut for 1983.

"Barnstorming around the country, the president has embraced the 'Back to Basics' theme of the National Commission on Excellence in Education with a fervor he once reserved for his 'New Federalism' initiative," Shanker wrote in a summary accompanying a breakdown of how much federal education money each state lost in the first two Reagan budgets. "But this crusade is a cover-up," he added.

The CBO -- the office that does most of the financial budget analysis for Congress -- found the government is spending about 20 percent less on some education programs than it promised to back in 1981. For example, the government will spend some 27.5 percent less on Guaranteed Student Loans between 1982 and 1985 than Congress ordered it to in laws passed in 1980.

All student aid programs are falling short of spending mandates, the CBO said in its report to House Speaker Tip O'Neill (D-Ma) last week. The CBO reported Congress brought on the shortfalls by passing new and changing old education laws in the years since it passed its spending orders in 1980.

The orders were in the Higher Education Reauthorization Act of 1980. Congress must "reauthorize" the federal government to spend money on education every five years, and generally sets new spending targets when it does. Congress will start shaping a new reauthorization law next January.

French Warplanes Bomb Druse, PLO

Beirut Lebanon- French warplanes bombed Druse and Palestinian batteries yesterday after artillery fire wounded four Foreign Legionnaires, and the Lebanese army fought off another Druse attack on Souk el-Gharb.

The bombing run, which a Lebanese military source said involved eight Super Etendard jet fighters, was the first air attack by a member of the four-nation peacekeeping force in Beirut. U.S. warships have been firing all week at Druse and Palestinian positions, but American carrier jets have been confined to reconnaissance flights so far.

Two other French soldiers were wounded by a grenade yesterday, and the shelling which triggered the air attack also blew up an Italian ammunition dump. But no Italian casualties were reported.

U.S. Navy F-14 Tomcats from the carrier Eisenhower made reconnaissance passes over Beirut and the nearby mountain battle area. But the guns of the U.S. Navy task force off the Beirut beaches were silent following barrages at midnight and 3 a.m. in retaliation for the second night of shelling around the residences of U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon and President Amin Gemayel in the eastern suburb of Baadba.

The United States has backed the Lebanese army in its flight to hang on to Souk el-Gharb. Loss of the city would be severe setback for the embattled army and for the Gemayel government. The battleship New Jersey is scheduled to join the U.S. armada today.

Some 2,000 Druse rallied near the seaside ruins of the American Embassy in a Druse neighborhood of west Beirut. Some of them carried banners proclaiming, "Druse are not your enemies, don't make us your targets."

A four-man delegation met with Robert Pugh, Dillon's chief deputy, and presented an appeal to the "the mightiest nuclear power in the world" not to "wage war against the smallest religious community in the arab world."

On the diplomatic front, Saudi Prince Bandar ben Sultan and U.S. presidential envoy Robert C. McFarlane flew from Saudi Arabia to Damascus, continuing their attempt to mediate a cease-fire in the 19-day-old renewal of the Lebanese civil war.

A Lebanese army communique said the daily attacks on Souk el-Gharb, the strategic hilltop town overlooking Beirut, resumed with an armored assault by Druse and Palestinian guerrillas before dawn. But the U.S.-trained 8th Brigade repulsed the onslaught, killing 25 of the attackers and destroying seven of the armored vehicles, the communique said.

As the fighting raged on the heights, batteries in Syrian-occupied territory farther back in the mountains opened fired on Beirut.

U.S. Ships Complain Of Soviet Harassment

Aboard The USS Sterett— Soviet ships in the Sea of Japan have been harassing the U.S. flotilla in the hunt for the flight recorder of the downed South Korean airline - a search the Americans say is "like trying to locate a pencil in the desert at night from an altitude of 1,000 feet."

The Soviet fleet has interfered with the U.S. operation by forcing ships to change course to avoid collision, Rear Adm. William A. Cockell Jr., commander of the search, told reporters who were flown to the Sterett by U.S. Navy helicopter yesterday.

When the Sterett moved within a few hundred feet of a Soviet ship earlier in the week, according to one U.S. officer who asked not to be named, a Soviet sailor yelled "We are friends" in English, to which a U.S. sailor replied, "No we're not."

Cockell said there were no signs of Soviet electronic interference with listening or sonar devices, but there were signs the Soviets have been jamming U.S. communications. He did not elaborate.

Searching for a "pencil in the desert" was how Capt. Charles L. MacLin described the challenge faced by seven U.S. Navy and Coast Guard vessels to locate the flight data recorder that lies as much as 2,308 feet beneath the chilly waters off tiny Moneron Island.

MacLin, supervisor of the operation under Cockell, made the comment to reporters on this guided missile destroyer that is serving as flagship for the seven ships involved in the American search effort. The Korean Air Lines jumbo jet was shot down by a Soviet interceptor Sept. 1 after it flew into restricted Soviet territory. All 269 people aboard, including 61 Americans, were killed.

The undersea search is concentrated on finding and retrieving the so-called "black box" in flight recording system whose records might shed light on why Flight 007 was off course and what happened in the last minutes.

The Soviet navy has about 25 ships of its own in a separate search operation about five nautical miles east of where the Americans are probing. Cockell indicated in a shipboard news conference that he was somewhat optimistic about his mission succeeding.

He said there were "reasonable prospects for localizing some parts of the aircraft," and added that the American search ships "hope to have enough contacts with the pinger...to get a location and follow that up with other equipment."

'War Is Such a Hell of A Thing,' Kovic Tells Listeners

By Mitch Wagner

I've been paralyzed and in a wheelchair for 16 years and I'm happy to be alive," said Vietnam veteran and Ron Kovic during the first of a planned series of readings he gave Wednesday. "Many of my friends who went to Vietnam and came home aren't alive anymore."

Kovic, 37, is the author of Born on the Fourth of July, a book about his experiences as a Marine and recuperating in a veterans hospital, which spent two weeks on the New York Times' bestseller list in 1976. He has won renown as an activist against war and in favor of veterans' rights.

"More Vietnam veterans killed themselves after the war than were killed during the war. I'd like you to remember that. Fifteen of my friends committed suicide in fifteen years. I'd like you to remember that."

Kovic said, as he stared out at the silent faces that stared gravely back at him. Then he grinned, "Want to hear something lighter?"

There was no time for the lighter material Kovic planned to read, however, as the audience kept returning to the subjects of Vietnam, the disabled, and the chances of the United States becoming involved in a war in the Middle East or Central America. "America is going to go to war again within forty-eight months. Forty-eight months. Remember that I told you that today," Kovic said.

Kovic read passages from "Born on the Fourth of July", and his Vietnam diary, which he kept up until the time he was wounded. "Listen to my voice," Kovic said, while introducing the diary entries. "Listen to the voice of a twenty-one year old boy who at the time still believed the war in Vietnam was right."

On Sept. 23, 1967, going on two weeks into his first tour of duty in Vietnam, Kovic wrote: "I'm on edge; wish there was something to do.... Haste sitting around!" Then, he added, "I sleep with my flack jacket, rifle and cartridges close to my side in case of attack."

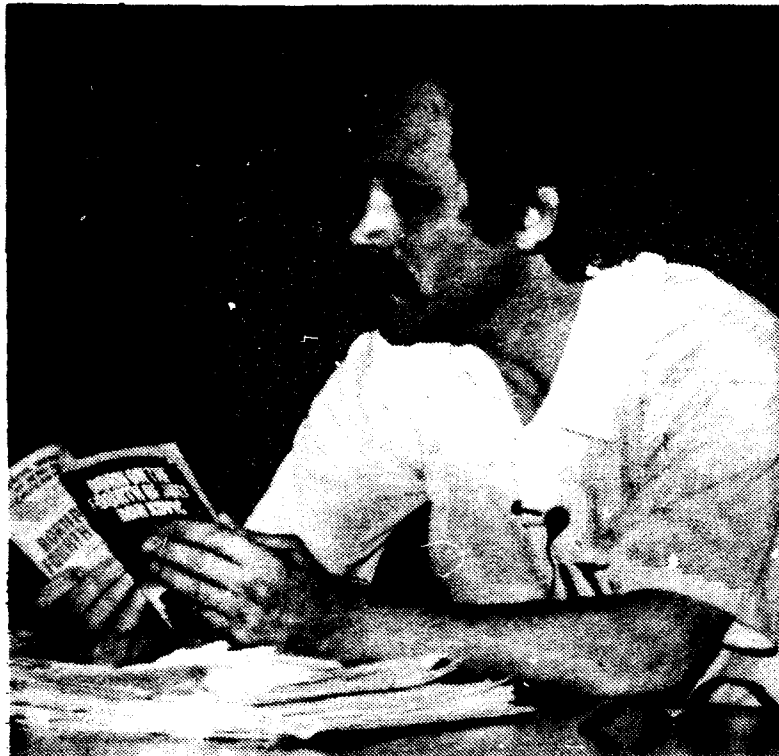

He closed that entry with this: "I feel a great sense of purpose and great feeling that other men as myself have defended and died for a thing called liberty. Courage surges through me when I think of our beloved President John F. Kennedy."

On Dec. 16, 1967, Kovic's unit was ambushed, and they took heavy losses. Many of his friends were killed. He wrote: "I felt so helpless. War is such a hell of a thing. I've seen so much dying these past three months but I've got to keep pushing and I hope I live to be twenty-two."

Sylvia Crane, 67, was in Kovic's audience. She said he is "just terrific. I think that he renews faith in what a human person can accomplish by being humane."

"I feel whole again and it's taken me sixteen years to feel whole," Kovic said. But being disabled still depresses him at times. "It's a trip," he said. Kovic arrived late to the reading because one of the elevators in the Stony Brook Union was out of order, and he had to take the other one up to the second floor, and be carried up and down two short flights of stairs to reach room 231. "If the elevator isn't working, that can ruin your whole day."

KAL Shooting Sours Soviet-U.S. Academic Exchanges

By the College Press Service

The Soviet Union's shooting down of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 has scuttled for the time being a series of scholarly and athletic exchanges between American universities and Russia only weeks after educators from both superpowers had agreed to develop new, more open exchange programs.

Colleges have cancelled events and staged rallies protesting the Aug. 28 killing of 269 passengers on the commercial airliner. It appears that more substantive academic contacts between the countries, worked out slowly and carefully over three years, may also be lost as campuses look for ways to lodge meaningful reactions to the incident.

Several weeks before, Soviet and U.S. officials had announced plans to resume academic exchanges for the first time since 1979. Later, the U.S. withheld exchanges as a way to protest the Russian invasion of Afghanistan.

Several days before the Russians shot down the Korean plane, U.S. State Department officials announced talks to formalize academic exchanges between the two nations could begin by late September or early October. But now "we have no idea when or if the exchange talks will begin," said a State Department spokeswoman. "The State Department is neither encouraging nor discouraging private exchanges at this point," she added.

Official academic exchanges ended in 1979, when a 20-year agreement expired. The U.S. quit negotiations to extend the agreement when the Soviet Union invaded Afghanistan in 1980.

The National Academy of Sciences (NAS), which sponsors and coordinates exchange visits with the Soviet Academy of Sciences, also suspended all seminars and workshops with Russia in 1980 to record its anger over Afghanistan and the arrest of Soviet Professor Andrei D. Sakharov, a pioneer in nuclear research.

Although the NAS only recently decided to lift its ban on exchanges, "I can't say when or if anything is going to happen right now," NAS spokeswoman Barbara Jorgenson said. The NAS will continue to have "A small but ongoing exchange program with the Soviet Academy of Sciences" but will not lift its restrictions on workshops and seminars anytime soon, she explained. For now, moreover, "there are no exchanges taking place due to our problems with Aeroflot."

The U.S.'s retaliatory 60-day embargo of the Russian airline, she said, had momentarily ended the exchanges "by default."

The Korean airliner incident hit two campuses closer to home. Among the 269 people killed was Chung Soo Yoo, an assistant chemistry professor at the University of Pittsburgh. He had been on his way to Seoul for a one-year teaching assignment at Korea's Kangwan National College. Iowa State visiting Professor Syo-Iti Kobayashi was taking the plane home after a three-month stint with the Ames Laboratory.

Students at both schools staged small rallies to mourn the dead and lodge the protests. At Illinois State, 35 students showed up to demonstrate the killings.

The University of Texas' video game arcade protested by re-programming its games to demand apologies from Soviet leader Yuri Andropov. Vanderbilt University and the University of Maryland protested by cancelling their mid-November games with the touring Soviet national basketball team.

"The culpability of the Soviet Union in shooting down an unarmed commercial passenger plane" rendered the event "inappropriate" for now, Maryland Athletic Director Dick Dull explained.

Several Campus Buildings Renamed

By Steve Kahn

Several buildings on South Campus and main campus have been renamed, upon the recommendation of the Stony Brook Council and approval of President John Marburger.

On Main Campus, Social Sciences A and B have been changed to Psychology A and B, Old Biology to Central Hall, Graduate Biology becomes the Life Sciences Building, the Physical Laboratory and Math Tower are now the Physics Building and Mathematics Building, and the Chemistry Laboratory has been changed to the Chemistry Building.

According to a memorandum from Marburger to Provost Homer Neal and Robert Francis, vice-president for Campus Operations, dated August 23, the following changes have been made of buildings on South Campus: Surge A to Suffolk Hall; Surge B to Nassau Hall; Surge C to Putnam Hall; Surge D to Marine Sciences Research Center/Dana Hall; Surge E to Dutchess Hall; Surge F to Marine Science Research Center (MSRC)/Challenger Hall; Surge G to MSRC/Endeavor Hall; Surge H to MSRC/Discovery Hall; Surge J to Rockland Hall; Surge K to Sullivan Hall and Surge L to Westchester Hall.

Francis said, "Two years ago, an effort was started to change the building names because many of our building names were not right for the times. Many building uses have changed. For example, we have an Old Biology building. However, Biology moved out of that several years ago."

Francis cited the example of the Graduate Biology Building as an example of the ambiguity of building names. "Graduate Biology" did not explain what is going on in the building. "Life Sciences Building" does.

Signs displaying new names will not be put on the buildings until at least the summer of 1984, Francis said because of budgetary pressures. In the meantime, he said university publications will use the new names, and people working in these buildings are being notified of the changes.

Make Yourself Be Heard

If you've ever been unfairly billed for three library books whose titles you never even heard of this is the time to get even. If you're still getting closed out of that introductory computer course nows the time for you to fight back. If you've ever said to yourself, "Why doesn't somebody do something about all the things that are wrong around here," the time has come for you to do more than talk. Petitions for candidacies in the October Polity elections were made available last week — so make yourself heard.

Getting on the ballot is not an arduous task; for most positions the necessary signatures can be acquired in one day at places like the Main Library Lobby, Stony Brook Union, Academic Mall or Lecture Center. In fact, petitioning is a good way to meet people you normally wouldn't, to engage in that conversation that you might not get into by just hanging out in a lounge. Much can be learned about the campus community and its members by going out and confronting them.

Then there are the benefits that go with actually winning a Polity position. There's a viable opportunity to take action where you think its needed. Is the issue of whether or not Public Safety should be issued guns bothering you? A Polity position is just what's needed for anyone who is at least concerned about the decision making that goes on. It's one of the best ways to get in on decisions as well.

The next time you feel like complaining, think about it. Although Polity is just one of the ways to make yourself known on this campus, and certainly an organization in need of improvement, your presence could effect the lives of every one of your peers.

'IT DOESN'T MEAN A BITTER WINTER — BUT THERE IS AN EIGHTY PERCENT CHANCE YOU COULD GET DEVoured BY BIG, HAIRY CATERPILLARS.'

The Race To Avoid the Truth

To the Editor:

I wish to express my condolences to all families and friends of those 269 killed on an airplane over Russia on Sept. 1.

It's a shame the Soviets had to see an innocent passenger plane as "the enemy." It's a shame when the U.S. looks at other peoples as "the enemy," and when some protestors see police officers as "the enemy." Always, it is a dangerous shame when humans become paranoid and see different humans as "the dangerous ones on the other side," rather than as mortals trying to work out their lives.

I also wish to express the extreme sorrow and guilt I feel for the 40,000 people killed in El Salvador over the past three years by military oppressors. Human rights organizations associated with the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of San Salvador have counted government "security force" murders of over 35,000 children, women and non-combatant men since Oct. 1979. This dictatorship keeps the majority in El Salvador from operating their own developed form of government and from working against the poverty forced upon them for generations by a small, wealthy minority. Thirty-seven percent of El Salvadoran children die before they age of five. The U.S. Gives millions in dollars and arms to this violent, exploitive dictatorship, killing thousands in the name of "human rights," and now in the same stroke demands the Soviets apologize for their "barbaric" action.

Of course President Ronald Reagan's public scolding of the Soviets is natural for a country wanting to divert attention from its own extensive slaughter. But it is unrealistic that the Soviet Union would have anything to gain by deliberately shooting a harmless passenger aircraft. Whatever the details of the event, it's a dangerous shame that the Soviets had to be so suspicious of the aircraft and that we have to be so ridiculously suspicious of the Soviets.

This name-calling of the Soviet accident is more than a maneuver to divert attention from, and dollars to, U.S. military in Central America. It also comes at a perfect time for Reagan to manipulate public support before he plants the Cruise and Pershing II nuclear missiles in Europe this winter. The Cruise missile is small enough to ride on a truck, and is able to fly 2,200 miles unseen by radar at only 50 feet above ground. The Pershing II is the fastest missile developed. Because these missiles are so fast and accurate, any adversary would have to destroy them in their silos before they are launched. Therefore these weapons decrease national security and spell danger for Europe and the world. It's easy to see why Reagan is anxious to divert public attention, and stir up massive paranoia about the Soviets, before he deploys these missiles.

The U.S. arsenal is already overblown. The U.S. owns approximately 32,000 of the world's 50,000 nuclear weapons, and the average U.S. missile is three times as deadly as any Soviet missile. The Soviets have three times as many vulnerable land-based missiles as the U.S., and less than half as many weapons.

The U.S. nuclear arsenal is dangerously more than adequate, and the U.S. slaughter of children on foreign shores is more than 10 times as large as the recent Soviet incident. It is important that Americans don't let Reagan fool the public, divert attention by unrealistically painting the Soviets as monsters, or try to hide the facts. This publicity ploy has been used before and Americans should now be wise enough to catch it. In 1979 Noam Chomsky and Edward Herman wrote: "In the summer of 1978, the traits of Alexander Ginzburg and Anatoly Shcheranetsky in the Soviet Union received far more news coverage in the...United States than was accorded the last 20,000 cases of severe torture and murder by U.S. satellite governments in Latin America....the New York Times featured attacks on Secretary of State [Cyrus] Vance for not calling off strategic arms talks with the Soviet Union because of the trial of the two dissidents...Nothing is more obvious than that...the alleged concern for human rights was strictly a strategic ploy." (The Washington Connection and Third World Fascism, Boston, 1989, pages 24 and 23.)

Now is too dangerous a time to repeat history and to let Reagan pull wool over the eyes of his citizens as if they were sheep. The Soviets certainly aren't perfect. But while Reagan is pointing an accusing finger at "them out there," Americans should be wise enough to look first within at their own government's policy of killing thousands of civilians in El Salvador, and deploying undetectable nuclear weapons that destroy any possible Soviet trust in the U.S., and increase the chance that we will all perish in a race to avoid the truth.

Callous And Inhuman Response

To the Editor:

I feel Mitch Cohen's reply to last week's "Let's Face It" was quite callous and inhuman. It seems this campus is inundated with his long scenarios, pamphlets, petitions and protests whenever the capitalist system appears unjust. Being that he is so verbally adept, why didn't he give an honest viewpoint on the downing of the Korean plane? Instead he belittles the whole situation forgetting the masses of people who have suffered directly from the incident. Sarcasm is never acceptable when discussing the deaths of 269 civilians. Let's Face It, Mitch, you blew it.

Role Reversal At Its Best

by Ailsa Belanger

Let's examine the following theory: the more commercials there are promoting a film, the more likely it's a flop. The first step in disproving a theory is to find evidence against it. Mr. Mom is this evidence.

Mr. Mom is a delightful comical look at the changing times. The recent, overplayed theme of role reversal is handled in a sensitive, humorous manner.

Michael Keaton and Teri Garr are Jack and Caroline Butler. Like every other family in suburban Detroit, Jack goes off to work and leaves Caroline behind to watch their three kids (Alek, Kenny, and Megan) and take care of the house. It's a nice, typical scene until Jack gets laid off by a conniving boss.

Both Caroline and Jack look for jobs, but Caroline is more successful than Jack. She gets a position as an executive at the Richardson-Frankel Advertising

Enjoy Fall Fest This Weekend

By Barry Elkayam

Yesterday the final preparations were all but complete and the university athletic field has been turned into a huge carnival ground, appropriately termed Fall Fest 1983. And, as the student body awaits what will probably be the biggest two-day event of the year, many still ask, "What is Fall Fest?"

"It is the most important event that begins the year," said Kallio Poulianos, the producer for Fall Fest 1983. "It expresses the cooperation of students to put together a tradition unlike any other in any university."

This, the third annual Fall Fest and the fourth in Stony Brook's history, promises to be the biggest yet. With an increased budget and seven months of preparation, Poulianos and her staff promise "much more" of everything.

For the first time, Fall Fest is sponsoring a campus-wide student olympics, including such events as beer chugging, Simon Says, and Mud Wrestling. All participants will receive T-shirts and the winning quads will get kegs of beer.

The traditional events have also been improved. Ten carnival rides have been scheduled, including a hot air balloon, moon walk and a dunking booth. Students will be able to test their skills at games along 200 to 250 feet of midway. Over two dozen vendors will be selling their goods at the flea market.

Eight different food suppliers will be selling international foods from Italy, Greece and Mexico.

Over 10,000 students, faculty, staff and community residents are expected to attend the festival.

The main attraction, as every year, will be the music. Nine bands are scheduled to perform. Stony Brook regulars such as the Immortal Primitives and Resonance, and master musicians MTM and the pop group Red Rockers are expected. All music will be free, and the bands and crowds will be videotaped. "We are filming everything," Poulianos said.

Richard Pryor Live and Kentucky Fried Movie, are tentatively scheduled to close each night's activities. In addition, cartoons will be shown between bands.

The Grucci family, noted for their Brooklyn Bridge fireworks display, are providing the fireworks this year. They promise a bigger, better and longer show than last year's.

Turn Your Trivial Knowledge Into Cash

by Glenn Tavema

Okay, so last week's questions were tough...well, here's your chance to redeem yourself and maybe even win some cash. Following are five of the easiest questions ever asked. They aren't just easy questions—they are questions which should severely insult your intelligence. If they don't insult your intelligence, then hang it up, trivia fan. Come on, show the music world what you're really made of—try your hand at these questions. Answer as many as you can and write down your answers on a piece of paper. Include your name and phone number and bring it to Union room 075 by 5 PM Thursday, Sept. 29. The person who answers the most questions correctly will win $10; the second best entry will receive $5. Correct answers are left to the discretion of the judges, and all decisions are final. In case of ties, winners will be selected through a random drawing. Well...what are you waiting for?

1. Billy Joel's latest hit, "Tell Her About It," is only his second number one single. Can you name the first?

2. As lead vocalist of The Guess Who, he scored with such hits as "American Woman," "These Eyes" and "Clap for the Wolfman." As a solo artist he is remembered for his top 10 hit "Stand Tall" from 1976. Can you name this artist?

3. Though Kenny Loggins may be best remembered as a solo artist, his career really got rolling when he was part of an early '70s duo. Can you name his duo sidekick and their only top 10 single?

4. Can you name Buddy Holly's only top 10 hit?

5. The biggest song of the '60s should be of no surprise to anyone. It is a song from the late '60s and was performed by the biggest group ever to hit the charts. Can you name this song and the supergroup that performed it?

Last Week's Answers

1. "I Hear You Knocking"
2. "Speak to the Sky" (top 20 single from 1972)
3. They all recorded with the "little" prefix, i.e. Little Anthony, Little Eva and Little Richard
4. M was the name Robin Scott recorded under when he charted with the single "Pop Muzik" in 1979
5. Van Morrison, who was once part of the Irish quartet Them

| 1 pkg. (6-oz.) butterscotch flavored bits | ¼ cup sugar              |
| 5 tablespoons butter                      | 2 eggs                   |
| 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs             | 2 tablespoons flour      |
| 1 pkg. (8-oz.) cream cheese softened      | 1 tablespoon lemon juice |

Preheat Toast-R-Oven toaster to 350 F. for 2-3 mins. Over low heat, melt together butterscotch flavored bits and butter. Remove from heat; stir in graham cracker crumbs. Set aside ½ cup of this mixture. Press remaining into ungreased 1½ qt. rectangular baking dish. Bake at 350 F. for 10-15 mins.

Combine cream cheese and sugar; beat until smooth. Blend in eggs, flour, and lemon juice. Spread over hot baked crust. Sprinkle reserved crumb mixture over top. Return dish to oven and bake 20-25 mins. Cool and cut into squares. Store in refrigerator.

A New Look at Fatherhood

Agency. Her boss, Ron Richardson, played by Martin Mull, is immediately attracted to Caroline and starts working very closely with her.

Meanwhile, Jack learns what it is like to be a housewife. He tangles with a vacuum cleaner called "Jaws," a washing machine that comes alive, and a baby who has just eaten chili. During his first trip to the supermarket Jack meets Joan, a good friend of Caroline's. Joan is a divorcee played by Ann Jillian; need we say more?

During the days that pass Jack becomes a bum and Caroline a typical member of the "rat race." Jack has started to grow a beard and now wears a gross flannel shirt. He has stopped cleaning the house and taking care of the kids in favor of watching soap operas. After a fight with Caroline about his decline in attitude, Jack settles down to watch his soaps. He starts to daydream and sees himself fooling around with Joan, who in reality has made it clear she would like to get it on with him. Caroline walks in and sees them kissing. She pulls out a gun and shoots Jack. Jack suddenly awakens and realizes that he has become a bum. He shaves his beard and cleans the house. In a ceremony, Jack burns his flannel shirt, which has become his security blanket. His son, Kenny, is supposed to throw his security blanket into the fireplace, too, but he chickens out. Shortly after that, Jack and Kenny compromise and Kenny gives up his blanket on a trial-basis — if it doesn't work he can have it back.

Meanwhile, Caroline has started to work long hours. She rarely sees her kids or Jack. She is so wrapped up in her work that she flies to Los Angeles on business, leaving her very upset family behind. A few days later Jack and the boys try to call Caroline. Instead of reaching her they get Mr. Richardson, her boss. He had sneaked into her room while she was taking a bath. Unfortunately Jack doesn't realize this. He is distraught and devastated. Caroline realizes that something's wrong and goes home to patch things up. She walks into their bedroom and finds Joan sitting with a bottle of Jack Daniels and two glasses. What happens next? That would ruin all the fun!

"Mr. Mom" is a delightful, underrated film. It's very well casted and acted. A better person could not have played the gorgeous divorcee, Ann Jillian. Michael Keaton is a fresh, new comedian with a lot of talent. This energy brings special quality and enjoyment to the film.

"Mr. Mom" is well written with a lot of believable dialogue. "Mr. Mom" is not at all what its commercials imply. It's a lot of fun and worth the cost of a movie ticket.

The Fine Arts Center's New Production Is 'Smashing'.

By Helen Przewuzman

The Fine Arts Center's Theatre III will have a student presentation of Thomas Bernard's Force of Habit.

The play is a hilarious comedy widely performed in Europe, but little known in this country. It will be presented as a work in progress, which is an open dress rehearsal.

This will be presented as a part of the Theatre Department's new Highlight Theatre, which is a professional company within the university. John Russel Brown, the former dramaturg at the National Theatre of Great Britain, is now at Stony Brook as a professor and artistic director of the Highlight Theatre.

"The purpose of the theatre is to expose the community to plays and to expose theatre to a group of people," said Robert Alpaugh, executive producer of Highlight Theatre.

"Force of Habit" will be presented on Sept. 27, 28 and 30 at 7:30 PM in Theatre Three. There will be no admission charge.

Et Tu Dube? — Marburger Defends Professor

By Robert Zenilman

On Tuesday, Sept. 6, President John Marburger released his long awaited statement on the Dube issue. In his statement the President defends Professor Dube's right to academic freedom, but at the same time he finds the comparison of Zionism to racism "abhorrent." Professor Dube as you may recall is the teacher of AFS/POL 319, The Politics of Race. In the course he teaches that Zionism is a form of reactive racism. Complaints about these teachings have erupted into the recent controversy.

In his statement, President Marburger referred to a memo he sent out nearly a year ago stating the unacceptability of racism at Stony Brook. It is a sad state of affairs when a university, a place to further one's intellectual pursuits, needs to be reminded of such a simple law of humanity.

It is this year-old memo, and the Dube case which raises a question: Et tu Dube? Is your teaching that Zionism is racism inherently racist itself?

Zionism, be it religious or secular is simply a desire for a homeland. Zionism to the observant Jew is an integral part of his religion. It involves a certain reverence for the "Holy Land," the ultimate place to observe Judaism. Secular Zionism is a movement that was started over one hundred years ago. The goal was the re-establishment of the state of Israel, to allow self-determination for the Jewish people.

Professor Dube, when you assert that Zionism is an example of "reactive racism," I am outraged at this attack on my observance of Judaism. How dare you define my yearning for a homeland as being racist! This Zionism has been practiced in my family for an uncountable number of generations. Yes, I find your teachings racist when they offend my religious and ethnic heritage.

Connecting Jewish Nat'lism With Nazism Is Pernicious

By Ari Knell

A controversial professor, a silent administration, and an outspoken governor have caused the university at Stony Brook to be cast in an unfortunate focus of attention. Ernest Dube's description of Zionism as a form of racism, implicit in his summer session course syllabus, cannot easily be accepted as a person's misconception of Jewish nationalism, especially taking into account Dr. Dube's distinguished academic background. The suggestion that Jewish nationalism is no different from Nazism, or is racist, is to say the least, twisted and pernicious.

Having a familiarity with many members of Jewish clubs on campus, I feel I can safely say that most Jewish students do not challenge Ernest Dube's right to teach his course as he pleases. The area of academic freedom is broad. It is not the first time a professor has injected personal prejudices in a classroom and I doubt a solution exists that would prevent such academic irresponsibility in the future. The Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the Long Island community at large are right in expressing shock at what was revealed as course material at this university, but they should also realize that the evaluation of a professor must take place on a university level without interference from outside influences.

I agree with Joe Topek, the Hillel Director, whose opinion is that a simple statement should be issued by President John Marburger to the effect that the university disassociate itself with any teaching that would imply an equation between Zionism and racism. Up to this time the only official administrative statement made concerning the Dube affair has been his exoneration from overstepping the limits of academic freedom. The failure of President Marburger's office to issue an immediate follow up statement made it necessary for SUNY and state officials outside our campus to answer for this university. In November of last year President Marburger declared that actions that promote racial bigotry and hatred would not be tolerated. It is hoped that when President Marburger finally does release his statement it would tactfully disassociate the university from what may simply be one professor's regrettable use of slanderous terminology and failure to stay within the realm of reasonable objectivity. We all would like to see this controversy settled without detriment to either truth or academic freedom.

The Author is an undergraduate and is an associate editor of The Shining Star

Et tu Dube? Are you going to be another thorn in my already scarred side? Should I let you hide behind the shield of academic freedom when you are injecting racist ideology into the curriculum of your course? I do not think academic freedom was meant to protect the teaching of racism itself.

Granted, there are Jewish individuals, be they in America, Israel, or any other country who are racists. There are racist individuals in all ethnic groups. This is an unfortunate fact of life. However it is extremely dangerous to label an entire movement as such.

Are the policies of the Israeli government perfect? Of course not. The democratic process is alive and well in Israel, and it is through this process that the laws and policies are changed.

As an American Jew I do not have to automatically support all of the Israeli government policies. That would be naive and uneducated. Support for any Israeli government is not a prerequisite to be a Zionist. Governments are temporary. Zionism is eternal. (The Author is an undergraduate and President of the Hillel Student Organization)

Time for Stony Brook To Make Atonement

By Rabbi Barton A. Shallat

In this, the season of atonement, we the Suffolk Board of Rabbis representing 600,000 Jews on Long Island, call upon the administration and faculty of the State University at Stony Brook to make atonement.

The outrageous teachings of a university professor in a public state university course equating Zionism, the national liberation movement of the Jewish people to return to their homeland in Eretz Yisrael, with Nazism, the genocidal fascist ideology behind the Holocaust and World War II, is obscene and offensive not only to the Jewish people, but also to the community of scholars throughout academe and all the people of every race and color who value truth and who object to racist slander.

To the university faculty we say:

The vote of the five member executive committee of the Faculty Senate, during the summer and now the vote of the full senate exonerating the professor makes it imperative that those of the 1,100 other faculty who are outraged by this stain on the good name of the university stand up and be counted. Make your moral opposition known now!

To the university administration we say:

Your public assent to the report of the executive committee of the faculty senate, and your unwillingness to have issued any statement of compassion empathy or regret over a month after the story was reported in the press can only lead us to the conclusion that at the very least the university administration of a major public university which many of our children and your children attend is insensitive to the pain and concerns of the Jewish community. No doctrine of academic freedom frees you, the highest leadership of the university, from the responsibility to publicly and forthrightly condemn lies and slanders. We await your belated public official response to this grave incident.

To the governor of the state of New York we say:

Your courageous and powerful denunciation of this incident is an inspiration to us all. You, by your moral stature and leadership, have shown that this is not just a "Jewish issue" but that the propagation of big lies in the very institution dedicated to the pursuit of truth is an offense to every good person. We commend and congratulate you on your saying the words that every decent person feels in their hearts. May God grant your hands continued strength for your service. Your heart is already strong.

(The Author is President of the Suffolk Board of Rabbis)

Bills and Oilers go Head to Head

Orchard Park, N.Y.— Coaches for the Buffalo Bills and the Houston Oilers agree the trade that Pat Archie Manning out and Gifford Nielsen in as Oiler quarterback won't change the Houston attack for Sunday's football game. "Number one is the big horse, Earl Campbell," said Bills Coach Ray Stephenson, who brings his 2-1 team into Rich Stadium against an Oiler team that has lost ten straight regular season games and went 0-4 in the preseason. "That's the age-old question as long as he's been around," said Stephenson. "How do you defense Earl Campbell? Quite frankly, I don't know." According to Houston Coach Ed Biles, "You don't change your basic thinking when you change quarterbacks. You're pretty much committed to what your offensive thinking is, in our case - the running game and predominantly Earl Campbell. Campbell, the 11th leading rusher in pro football history, has four touchdowns and 163 yards in 40 carries this season. "I don't know how you tackle him," said Stephenson. "It's like stopping a Sherman tank. Will a hand grenade do it? A bazooka? I don't know." Calling out the artillery to neutralize the six-year running back is the Bills' big concern, but adapting their defensive strategy to stop Nielsen instead of Manning, who was traded to Minnesota this week along with tight end Dave Casper, is another.

Manning started all three games so far this season for the Oilers, but Nielsen has started in the past and Stephens on said his experience is a plus for Houston. "Nielsen is an excellent passer with a good touch on the ball," he said. "He's been around." Passing is Nielsen's strongpoint, while Manning was more known for his scrambling ability. "The main difference is the experience and maneuverability of a Manning," said Stephenson. "He's always been able to run out of the pocket if he gets in trouble."

Since Nielsen is essentially a pocket passer, the first-year Bills coach said the trick will be to balance his defense's ability to pressure Nielsen with it's foremost desire to stop Campbell. "Does your pressure on Nielsen detract from your ability to stop Earl Campbell?" Stephenson asked himself. "There are a few things that Manning wouldn't have, and alert our people to that." Offense has not been a big problem for the Oilers this year. They've scored 72 points in three games. "There's only one team in the National Football League that's scored more points."

X-Country Takes
First at Fairfield

By Silvana Darini

Both the Men's and Women's Cross-Country Track Teams attended a meet at Fairfield University in Connecticut last Saturday.

The Women's Track Team shut out Fairfield by a score of 15-50 in the 5000 Meter (3.1 mile) race. The Patriots ran impressively, taking the first 11 spots before any of the Fairfield track members came in.

Sophomore Megan Brown and Junior Donna Lyons came in first and second place respectively with times of 20:35. Taking the third and fourth place spots were Juniors Maureen Keyes in 20:47, and Sue Corrado, who is also the team captain, in 20:48.

Freshman Mary Dolan and Sophomore Jeanine Carroll came in with a time of 20:50 to take the fifth and sixth place spots respectively. They were followed by team members Lisa Zagury (21:06), Marie Benard (21:20), Liz Kreinsen (21:37), Lisa Pisano (22:02), and Diahann Kelly (22:15) in the next five places.

Women's Cross-Country Track Coach, Paul Dudzick said, "I was impressed with the 31 second spread of time between our first and seventh runners. Nearly everyone improved on their time from the week before at the Fall Fields Festival in Manhattanville." Dudzick added, "There was an overall feeling of domination experienced against this team. Fairfield wasn't very strong, and sometimes a low-pressure race before a meet like the upcoming Trenton Invitational on Sunday, (Sept. 25th) is just what the team needs for a good performance. We're hoping for our best-ever performance there. Winning the Division III race is not out of the question."

The Men's Track Team participated in a multi-dual meet against Southampton College, Fairfield University, Mercy College and SUNY at Old Westbury.

The Patriots again ran very impressively, beating Southampton College by a score of 21-38, beating Fairfield with a score of 18-45, and beating Mercy College by a score of 17-46. There was no score against SUNY at Old Westbury because they did not finish a team.

Junior Steve Brown, a transfer from Pima Junior College in Tucson, Ariz. led from the mile and appeared to run easily in the 4.7 mile race, as he pulled away from the field, coming in first place overall with a time of 24:48. It was his first race.

Freshman Jon Pahta had a competitive race for a second place overall, taking command with one mile to go. He came in 25:21. Co-Captain and 1982 MVP, Sophomore Charlie Ropes came in fifth place in 25:29. Co-Captain and

The Patriots in action.

Statesman/Corey Van der Linde

1981 MVP, Senior Mike Winter came in eighth place overall with a time of 26:41. Both co-captains are continuing to run much stronger than they did last year at this time.

Men's Track Coach Gary Westerfield said "Brown and Pahta are making everyone else run faster. The whole team is up and psyched." He added, "Against this level of competition we're running against, the other teams just can't stay with us. I think we'll finish a lot faster than we did last year. I'm excited about it and so are the guys - we'll see what happens.

Both the Men's and Women's next track meet is at the King's College Invitational in Briarcliff on Sept. 24th.

Men's Soccer Team Loses to C.W. Post 3-1

By Jim Passano

The Men's Soccer Team was host to C.W. Post College last Wednesday. Despite six saves by Patriot goalie Matt McDade, Stony Brook came out on the short end of a 3-1 score.

John Goff, presently a senior, scored Stony Brook's lone goal. Goff has been said to be an important influence in the Patriot midfield this year. Other team members who have contributed significantly and consistently are junior Tony Mazze, another midfielder, and sophomore defender Mike Skotzo. This year's team is also made up of numerous freshmen.

C.W. Post had thirteen shots, which resulted in three goals coming at 16:47, 17:33, and 57:16 respectively. The scores came from Joe Merconte, assisted by Rick Vichrosk. Shortly after that Jorge Pardo put another one in the net with a little help from teammate Mark Kuststannu. Kuststannu himself came up with the opponent's final score. He was aided by Nick Sinclair.

The loss brings Stony Brook's season record to 1-2. Assistant soccer coach Jean-Marc O'Brien felt that although the Patriots were defeated they played a good game. O'Brien felt that although the Patriots were defeated they played a good game. O'Brien said, "On the whole we dominated the game, but for ten minutes we lacked concentration. The result was two quick goals by the opposition, which put us behind." When asked if this affected the team's outlook for the season, O'Brien said, "No, not at all. We know we played well, and had good possession. We're not hanging our heads and thinking we will continue to lose."

The Patriots seem very psychologically up for their game tomorrow at home against Baruck College. The game starts at 1 PM on the athletic field.
