FSA Hopes Cue Ball Kelly Gives Billiards the Business

By SHARON DURST

Since he was 11 years old, Cue Ball Kelly has been playing pool, and has become one of the top billiards players in the world and a member of the hall of fame. Now, he has another task, to try to encourage students to use the newly-reopened Faculty Student Association's billiards room.

The Billiards Room, located in the basement of the Stony Brook Union, was closed last semester by FSA, which cited lack of usage and high operating costs, according to Board member Judy Livingston. Last month, the FSA rejected a proposal to give the room to the Commuter College and instead decided to reopen the room on a trial basis. Kelly's job is to make it a profitable decision.

Kelly, whose real name is Carl Zingale, is the second of 24 children. He claims to have been a referee "for every pool champion that ever lived." He has played with many celebrities and has been involved in several fund raisers.

Kelly said the room is gaining in popularity and students, both male and female, have come to him for advice in how to improve their game. He said, however, the room is in need of better ventilation and cleaning.

Kelly is in the pool room from 12PM to closing on weekdays. Use of the tables is $1.80 per hour when Kelly is present and $1.20 per hour all other times.

Debut for Baseball Team

THE STONY BROOK BASEBALL TEAMS' opening weekend proved to be a successful one as they won three straight games.

The Patriots' bats were booming as they averaged over 14 runs for the three games. The Pats beat City College of New York twice on Saturday 22-10, and 9-8 and then defeated New Paltz State College yesterday 12-11. During the course of the first CCNY game, pitcher Jesus Ramirez was struck in the eye with a batted ball and was taken to the infirmary where his baseball future will be decided. See stories on pages 11 and 12.

On Tuesday's Ballot Is an SB Student

By JONATHAN D. SALANT

She is only at Stony Brook three times a week now, just to attend classes. She moved out of her dormitory room in Hamilton (Kelly E) College because she wasn't staying on-campus much any more. Stony Brook senior Karyn Tutshen is a political candidate, and that has become her full-time profession.

Tutshen, a Social Science major, is running as an alternate delegate committed to Senator Henry Jackson of Washington in tomorrow's New York Primary. The 20-year-old Plainview resident will be on the ballot in the Third Congressional District, whose area includes the Town of Oyster Bay in Nassau County and the Town of Huntington in Suffolk.

"I go to school three days a week," she said. "My time away from school is spent at headquarters. I have not spent more than two nights a week on this campus since school started because of my commitments at home."

Those commitments include attending fund raisers, stuffing envelopes, conducting phone canvasses, and trying to recruit volunteers for the campaign. She is the Long Island student coordinator for Jackson. "Being on the slate, they hoped I could just draw in the young people, which, to some degree, I've been able to do," she said.

Good Timing

"I was in the right place at the right time," Tutshen said, explaining how she became a delegate. "I let it be known to local Democratic officials that I was interested in running as a delegate for Scoop Jackson. With the convention being in New York, I thought I had nothing to lose by trying. I had eight years of political experience, and I'm young and I'm a woman, which is part of the affirmative action program of the Democratic Party."

Tutshen said she found being a political candidate "very exciting." "I like being involved," she said. "If I want to change things, I have to be active. I have to do something. I would like other students to look at me and know that they too can contribute and participate in something as important as a Presidential election. I feel there's room in the Democratic Party for young people."

KARYN TUTSHEN

However, Tutshen said the students are not as active as they have been in past years. "This is the most apathetic campaign as far as young people go," she said. "Jackson has youth support [on campus] but I don't see much activity for the other candidates." Tutshen attributed the lack of activity to the absence of the Vietnam War as an issue and the scheduling of the primary, in the middle of the school year. The state primary has traditionally been held in June.

"Most Competent"

Tutshen said she felt Jackson was the best man for the Presidency. "He's the most competent" she said. "After 35 years on Capitol Hill, you can just look at his record to see what he's done. Most of what he has done and what he wants to do is what I see our country in great need of." Tutshen referred to Jackson's energy conservation bill, the so-called Jackson amendment trying trade concessions with the Soviet Union to better treatment of Russian Jews, and his "unrelenting support" of Israel.

Tutshen is an alternate, and, while she will be on the floor of the convention, she won't have a vote unless one of the other delegates is absent for some reason. Should she win tomorrow, she will be one of the youngest delegates at the convention in July.

She said that there was one other benefit to her being on the ballot. "It makes other young people think 'I, too, can accomplish something'."

Higher Gas Taxes Proposed

Higher gasoline taxes are being proposed in a dozen states this year as a way to cover the soaring costs of building and repairing highways. But an antitax mood among voters may hold down the number that are actually approved.

An Associated Press survey shows that while 12 plans are still pending, lawmakers in five other states have rejected higher gas taxes, and the chances of passage elsewhere are uncertain at best.

The outcome will affect future spending for highway construction and maintenance, which last year contribute about $10.8 billion to the national economy. The Federal Highway Administration estimates that 111,000 jobs were generated by each billion spent.

Without higher revenues, more states may be forced to postpone construction, stretch out maintenance over longer periods and reduce the size of road work crews.

Call for New Labeling Practices

When consumers buy a brand-name product off a store shelf, they should be given the name of the parent corporation which produced it, Senator James Abourezk (D-South Dakota) said yesterday. Abourezk said he and five other senators are asking the Federal Trade Commission to require such labeling on all consumer items and in advertising.

He said large corporations often try to mislead consumers into thinking a gigantic company is a small of family-run business.

"This is not only deceptive advertising, it also robs the small business of its most important asset," Abourezk said in a statement.

He said that requiring advertisers to identify parent corporations would allow consumers to know which items are actually competing products.

Rockefeller Returns

Vice President Nelson Rockefeller returned from his round-the-world tour yesterday, saying that the nations he visited wondered if they can still count on America.

"The thing that everybody was concerned about is, can they count on the United States," Rockefeller said after he stepped from Air Force Two which landed at Kennedy Airport.

Rockefeller was accompanied by his wife Happy.

"The United States has got a lot of friends who believe in freedom around the world," he said. He described his trip as marvelous. The diplomatic journey included stops in Tunisia, France, Iran, Malaysia, Australia and New Zealand.

Teamsters Strike Ends

Trucks were rolling across most of the nation's highways again yesterday following tentative agreement on a new labor contract between the Teamsters Union and the trucking industry ending a nationwide strike.

Union officials ordered picket lines removed Saturday afternoon after the last of the trucking groups and the union announced agreement on terms, and trucks started moving Saturday night.

The industry shifted into second gear yesterday and was expected to be cruising at about normal today, when almost all of the big rigs were to be back on the road with the return of the 400,000 drivers and warehousemen represented by the union.

Peaceful Transition in Rhodesia

There is still time to insure an orderly transfer of power to the black majority in Rhodesia if the whites "can come to terms with their situation," a British government official said yesterday.

David Ennals, a minister of state in the Foreign Office, said that if a settlement were reached now, Rhodesia's 273,000 whites would have "a vital role to play" in a nonracial society along with that country's nearly six million blacks.

But if no settlement is reached there probably would be prolonged racial warfare with the whites eventually losing, Ennals told newsmen at Heathrow Airport upon returning from Africa.

Ennals visited Tanzania and Mozambique for talks on the Rhodesian situation with Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere and Mozambique President Samora Machel.

South African Head to Visit Israel

South African Prime Minister John Vorster will visit Israel as guest of Premier Yitzhak Rabin, it was announced yesterday. No date was given.

The announcement did not say who initiated the state visit, but government officials said its wording could be taken to mean the invitation came from Israel.

Details were being kept secret for security reasons, officials said. But informed sources said Israel wants to keep the visit low-keyed because of possible damage abroad for hosting the leader of a white supremacist country.

Jackson Is Favored to Win Tuesday's New York Primary

New York State voters will not get a chance to vote for Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, Representative Morris Udall of Arizona, or former Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter in tomorrow's primary. There is no Presidential preference poll in New York.

However, voters will get a chance to vote for Representative Otis Pike (D-Riverhead), folksinger Harry Chapin or Stony Brook senior Karyn Tutshen on Tuesday. Those names will be on the ballot. Polls are open from 12 to 9PM, and 6AM to 9PM in New York City.

Delegates to the Democratic National Convention will be elected in congressional districts, of which there are 39 in the state. For the first time, delegates will be identified as to the candidate they are supporting; such designation was not on the ballot in 1968 and 1972. However, there is no way to vote for Jackson or Udall or Carter; a voter must cast a ballot for each delegate and alternate.

274 Delegates

New York will send 274 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in July; 206 will be elected tomorrow. The other 68 will be selected according to the results of the primary.

Jackson, who is generally seen as the front-runner, will field 184 delegates in 35 congressional districts. Udall picked up several slates that were originally committed to Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana and former Senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma, and will have 192 delegates running in 37 CDs. Carter is running 141 delegates in 29 CDs, Harris 104 delegates in 15 CDs, and Wallace will have 16 delegates in three districts. Ellen McCormack of Merrick, the antiabortion candidate, is fielding one slate of delegates, in her home district, the Fourth.

The State Democratic Committee is backing uncommitted slates, and there will be 218 delegates not committed to any of the announced candidates. Some of these are supporters of Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota; others will take their direction from Governor Hugh Carey and support any attempt by him to get on the national ticket.

OTIS PIKE

Pike and Assemblyman George Hochbrueckner (D-Coram, head the uncommitted slate in the First Congressional District, which includes Stony Brook even though Pike was sporting a Udall button at the 1974 Democratic Miniconvention in Kansas City. County Legislator Millie Steinberg (D-East Setauket) is on the Udall slate along with former County Legislator Angela Christensen (D-Nesconset). Carter and Jackson are also running delegate slates in the First District.

Republicans-144 Delegates

The Republicans will send 144 delegates, all uncommitted to the convention. Thirty-seven at-large delegates have already been selected, and 117 will be elected on Tuesday. Supporters of former California Governor Ronald Reagan will run four slates against the uncommitted ones.

Also on Tuesday is the Wisconsin primary, where Udall and Carter are concentrating most of their efforts. Udall must have good showings in both Wisconsin and New York to remain a credible candidate while Carter, who has no hope of winning here, is hoping for a win in Wisconsin.

—Jonathan D. Salant

Udall: I'll Win in Wisconsin

New York (AP)—Representative Morris Udall of Arizona, facing primaries crucial to his presidential hopes, flatly predicted on Sunday that he would win in Wisconsin and run a strong race in New York.

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Udall said: "If you want a story for Monday morning, put it down. Mo Udall's going to win in Wisconsin and we're going to give Scoop Jackson a real run for his money in New York."

Primaries in the two states are tomorrow, the latest round in the cumbersome weeding-out process that will end this summer at the national conventions. New York and Wisconsin are especially crucial to Udall and Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, who are trying to break Jimmy Carter's string of five wins in the first six contests for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Republican contestants, President Gerald Ford and former California Governor Ronald Reagan, spent Sunday relaxing, although Ford was in Wisconsin on Friday and Saturday. There is little interest in the Republican contest in New York, with Reagan delegates running in only four of the 39 Congressional districts and uncommitted slates thought

The following are the delegates and alternates that will appear on the ballot in tomorrow's primary in the First Congressional District:

JIMMY CARTER: Charles Adams, Edward Brown, William Schriever, Jacquelyn Thompson. Alternates—Michael Krosskick, Raymond Pynn.

HENRY JACKSON: Marie Adamovsky, John Donohue, Ann Lackowitz, Joseph Rosenthal. Alternates—Ralph Flint, Junius Wilson.

MORRIS UDALL: Angela Christensen, Robert MacKachlan, Nancy Mitzman, Mildred Steinberg. Alternates—Thomas Cornell, Sylvester Suda.

to be leaning to Ford with a clear field in the rest.

Udall, who says his polls show him catching Carter in Wisconsin, said he believed last week's campaigning there had moved him into a position to win the popular vote and a majority of the 68 Democratic delegates.

And while Udall strategists concede he must do just that to continue as a credible candidate, he insisted Sunday he will go to Pennsylvania to campaign for the April 27 primary there.

He noted that he had been endorsed by six of the state's seven Democratic congressmen and he said he had been helped by active campaigning on his behalf by former Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox and Georgia Senator Julian Bond.

Jackson, meanwhile, was on CBS' "Face the Nation," saying there is enough money to carry through his program to improve the economy. He predicted he will get a majority of the 206 delegates at stake in New York, downgraded from his earlier forecast of a landslide.

Carter held a news conference in Washington, then went on to Wisconsin. He said if he wins there and finishes a strong second in New York, he will be unbeatable for the nomination.

Jackson Gets 11

Jackson picked up all 11 delegates at stake in five district caucuses in Puerto Rico

Carter, meanwhile, picked up four delegates at the Oklahoma state convention, raising his total there to 12.

Polity Budget

The Polity Senate will resume budget deliberations on Wednesday, April 7, at 7PM in the Stony Brook Union. The Senate, meeting last week, tentatively approved the budgets of several groups, while referring many to the Program and Services Council, and tabling consideration of others.

The Polity Administrative budget had the biggest increase, from $70,000 last year to $96,550 this year. Hotline, which was all-volunteer last year, was given a budget of $6,374, mostly for salaries. The budget to suffer the greatest reduction was Statesman, the campus newspaper, which was cut from $74,000 in 1975-76 to $57,000 for 1976-77.

Groups tabled for later consideration include the New York Public Interest Research Group, Black Students Union, Bridge to Somewhere, and the Hockey Club.

Groups referred to the Program and Services Council include the Chinese Christian Fellowship, Committee against Racism, Biological Sciences Society, Biochemistry Society, Red Balloon, Undergraduate Chemical Society, Wider Horizons, Interservice Christian Fellowship, Sailing Club, Health Professions Society, The Brook, Day Care, Irving College Collegiate Center, Assassination Research Group, and the Art Coalition.

The groups who have been tentatively allocated funds by the Senate:

SUNY Is Target of Cuts

Republican State Chairman Richard Rosenbaum has told the Student Association of the State University that the State University of New York has been the target for the harshest cuts in Governor Hugh Carey's budget for next year.

The students and the educational community of this state have not been dealt with fairly by the present administration, and that's got to change, Rosenbaum said.

"Even before the 1976-77 state fiscal year has begun, the State University has undergone severe cutbacks at the same time enrollment in its centers and colleges is at an unexpectedly high level," Rosenbaum said.

Rosenbaum called Carey's budget proposals an "unfortunate retreat in the state's support for higher education."

Democrats Seek Delegates

State Democratic Chairman Patrick Cunningham announced that the New York State Democratic Committee is seeking enrolled Democrats who are interested in becoming at-large delegates and alternates to the Democratic National Convention.

Under New York State's approved delegate selection plan, the at-large delegation must include public and party officials and traditionally under-represented groups within the Democratic Party.

Following tomorrow's primary, the State Democratic Committee will elect 25 percent of the state delegation at-large—68 delegates and 29 alternates. The at-large delegates and alternates will be chosen so that they reflect proportionally the presidential preference or uncommitted status of the delegates and alternates elected in the April 6 primary.

A person wishing to be a member of the at-large delegation must be an enrolled Democrat. He or she should send a brief biographical sketch to George Whipple III, c/o Secretary of the Democratic State Committee, P.O. Box 5400, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017. The biographical sketch should include his or her name, address and presidential preference or uncommitted status. Presidential candidates have the right to approve any proposed at-large delegate or alternate supporting that presidential candidate.

London Program Expands

The current Cortland State College overseas study program in London, originally intended for Health, Recreation and Elementary and Early Secondary Education majors, has been expanded to accommodate Humanities, Social Science and Natural Science majors.

Students may earn from 12 to 15 credits per semester. The cost is $1,450, plus tuition for the State University of New York, for the fall semester and $900, plus SUNY tuition, for students who elect to remain for the spring semester.

For further information and application forms, write: Office of International Programs, State University of New York, Cortland, New York 13045. The telephone number is (607) 753-2209.

ON WARTS: INFORMATION AND OPPORTUNITY INFORMATION

Warts, one of the first recipients of our "Disease of the Month" award, continue to be a growing problem on campus.

Warts (non-genital) are caused by a DNA virus; it is thought that the same (or a similar) virus is the cause of anal and genital warts. Warts, like the common cold (also caused by a virus), tend to afflict some people more than others. Like a cold, warts can disappear without treatment. However, warts last longer than the common cold and that gives them time to spread to other areas or to another person. It is not unusual for a wart to survive for several years.

Given the right environment, warts can spread both on and between individuals. Again, not everybody who touches a wart will catch it; it helps to have a cut in the skin, a wet surface, and/or a body that has a low resistance to wart virus at the time of exposure.

What can be done for warts?

The philosophy of treating a wart is to be hard on the wart but gentle on the person, since warts, although annoying, are usually not dangerous; a wart that disappears spontaneously will leave no trace.

The virus lives in the upper layers of the skin, so any method which destroys these layers eliminates the virus too. The treatment can be accomplished with carefully selected acids, which dissolve the upper layers by physical means (such as freezing with liquid nitrogen), or by simple scraping (curettage) with or without electric current. A virus without a home is an unhappy virus (and dead).

OPPORTUNITY

A study is currently being conducted at the NYU School of Medicine by Dr. Mark Rush to investigate the DNA content of anal and genital warts.

During the coming weeks, students at Stony Brook will have the opportunity to participate in this study. To qualify, students must have previously untreated anal and/or genital warts. Infected partners are particularly welcome.

To participate, students must be willing to donate anal and/or genital wart specimens. In general, warts have a small base and an individual wart can be snipped off without anesthesia, with little discomfort. Occasionally the shape or location of the wart makes removal easier if a local anesthetic is used first. Discomfort in either event should be minimal. Each student participant will receive $20.

For those who wish it, in addition to the monetary reward for the donation of wart tissue, the remainder of the warts will be treated by an appropriate method.

For further information, please call Carol Stern at 444-2273. Volunteers will be screened in order of their calls; enrollment is limited.

LETTER:

Why isn't Ortho-Novum 150 on order for the Pharmacy? What is the sense of prescribing birth control pills if people can't get them.

Concerned

REPLY:

The "State" has been holding all monies collected by the Pharmacy while it debates whether or not it approves of the Health Service's plan. This plan would enable us to provide medications to students at low cost, without cost to the State.

Since the State has held our funds, there is little money left to restock the Pharmacy. Therefore, priority had to be given to restock medications needed for the treatment of acute illnesses. At least there is time (medically speaking) for other prescriptions (such as birth control pills) to be filled off-campus.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

1. Starting today, Monday, April 5, walk-in service between 11:30AM and 1PM will be limited to those who medically must be seen without delay.

This change in service should allow more complete coverage at other hours and was decided upon after polling students who had been using the Health Service during these hours. This is a test.

2. Avoid being charged; return borrowed canes and crutches to the Health Service.

3. To the anonymous plaintiff—the couches and upholstered chairs in the waiting room were thoroughly cleaned during spring vacation.

4. During the campus-wide high blood pressure screening program, sponsored by the Health Advisory Board (HAB), 2,940 people were screened, of whom 169 had an elevated blood pressure.

5. Classes on contraception are held at 11 AM each Monday morning in the Infirmary Conference room. Men and women invited.

P-lot Blues

To the Editor:

This is an angry letter in reply to Statesman's editorial of March 10.

I am a commuter, I've gone to this school eight semesters and have parked in the blacktopped Siberia of South-P 30 times.

I do not park there now and never will again.

Like the average commuter I use my car every day, at least twice. When I have a three-hour break and wish to leave I do not wish to spend an hour of it en route to and from P-lot.

Last semester I jokingly suggested to some friends a proposal. Jokingly, because I thought if it was a joke it would have a good chance of being adopted by the Administration.

Here is my joke:
Only commuters, exclusively, should be allowed to park on campus. As these are the people who need their cars the most. Staff, faculty and all on-campus students (except perhaps those who work off campus) should be parked in South-P.

This has the advantage of reducing all vandalism and crime to automobiles as a single officer in a tower could observe the entire lot (this would also give Security the ego boost they seem to need).

This would save money on buses as they would need only run every 20 minutes or so, except at 9 AM and 5 PM.

As students trickle on and off campus during the day this would eliminate the great race on and off campus at 9 and 5. Anyone on line to get out the northern Nicolls Road exit at 5 PM knows what I mean.

My suggestion should be laughed at by all commuters so it may have a chance at adoption. This way at least it would blend in with many of the other policies of the University.

Praise to Lynch

To the Editor:

During my two years in the School of Social Welfare, I have had the good fortune to have had Lincoln Lynch as my advisor, counselor and teacher.

The concern of this letter is to let you know how I, a student, feel about this man who I am privileged to have known. I feel it is necessary for me to make my indignation of his dismissal clearly known to you and other faculty members and students.

As Lincoln's advisee, I have come to know, respect and admire him. He has always treated me with kindness, understanding, respect and concern, and has been the motivating force behind much of the innovative work I have been able to accomplish during the past two years.

As my teacher, he created a climate of freedom and acceptance within the classroom that enabled me to voice my beliefs and ideas without shame or fear of ridicule. The combination of lectures and discussions in his class were stimulating sessions that awakened my values, beliefs and deepest feelings.

An important issue for undergraduate students has always been the lack of commitment by many faculty members to the undergraduate program. Contrary to other faculty members, Lincoln Lynch has committed himself to our program by accepting us as his advisees and teaching undergraduate courses.

Today I heard about the suicidal death of a fellow student. I am wondering if that has anything to say about the faculty members here that she did not turn to for help. I wonder why Lincoln Lynch, who has been there for me and other students to turn to instance after instance, is being dismissed.

My position as a student is certainly not a powerful one, but I would be remiss in my responsibility as a human being if I did not express my concern and disappointment over this dismissal.

FSA Control Is Paying Dividends

When the students took over control of the Faculty Student Association, we expected to see that organization become more receptive to the largest patronizer of its businesses—the students themselves.

Recently, the FSA made two decisions that showed a new concern for the welfare of the student population. The first was the extension of check cashing. Instead of waiting on horrendously long lines until 3PM, members of the University community can go to the Union main desk after 3 to get their checks cashed. This may not end the long lines outside check cashing, but it does offer an alternative to the students without cars or a local bank account who need to get checks cashed. This a move that was long overdue.

We also support the FSA's decision to lower bowling prices in the Union after 12 PM on Friday and Saturday evenings. As the student 'takeover' of the Union showed, there was a definite market for bowling if the prices were reasonable. That takeover featured a 2-for-1 sale at the alleys, which were crowded all night.

Both decisions show the willingness of the new FSA to make itself receptive to the needs of the campus, and to the students in particular. We hope this is only the beginning of a long and profitable relationship with a student-controlled, financially solvent Faculty Student Association.

An Important Time to Vote

Tomorrow is New York State Primary Day, in which voters will be selecting 206 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Classes will be held as scheduled, but the polls are open from 12 to 9 PM in Nassau County and from 6AM to 9PM in the city, which affords ample time for every member of the University community to vote.

Enough has been said on the importance of the Presidential elections, and we won't repeat the arguments here. It is sufficient to say that this November, we will be voting for the first elected President in two years, one who will determine the direction this country will take as it begins its 201st year.

In Wednesday's Statesman, we will be using three full pages for primary coverage, because the election of a new President will affect more Stony Brook Students more than anything else that may occur in the next 48 hours. Earlier this school year, President Gerald Ford's refusal to help out New York City killed the entire bond market and forced a moratorium on construction at the State University of New York, and therefore affected education and enrollments.

Vote tomorrow.

Reiner

Twice a day, the silence of the Stony Brook train station is broken by the sounds of the L.I.R.R. But what makes this day different than other days is that it brings one man, El Exigente... "The Demanding One..."

El Exigente is a dealer! He travels the world over to bring you the finest Columbian that money can buy, take after take!

The people are nervous! They know if El Exigente approves, He will buy their weed! And... EL EXIGENTE APPROVES!! AND THE PEOPLE REJOICE!!

So ask your dealer for smoother, richer flavor by asking for Columbian! Look for El Exigente on the bag!

A Sad Commentary on SB

By LANCE EDWARDS

I was told that the pool was going to open by the end of March. I remember reading about it in Statesman. I remember one of the administrators being quoted assuring me that although the final cost for reconstructing the showers was much more than was intentionally thought, the funds would appear and the pool would be open.

Now I hear the pool won't be open until the end of summer. I don't believe that one either. I'm beginning to think there is a plot not to open the Stony Brook swimming pool. I can't understand why, I mean it isn't such a great pool to begin with, not even olympic size, but nonetheless it was an important form of recreation and sport to the majority of the campus.

The Stony Brook swimming pool, the shower situation, the administrative lies and the student apathy here are a sad commentary on the situation at Stony Brook. Have students become so conditioned that they don't even demand the things so important to their health and enjoyment any more?

If Polity is looking for something to do, I suggest they look into getting our pool fixed. Call a demonstration or something. I'm just really sick of the lies and incompetence that abound at this University.

Bearing Witness

Remember M.L. King

Yesterday marked the eighth anniversary of the April 4, 1968 assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. Presented here are selections from his writings and speeches. Anything I could say would only detract from his eloquence.—S.B.

Pilgrimage to Nonviolence, 1960

More and more I have come to the conclusion that the potential destructiveness of modern weapons of war totally rules out the possibility of war ever serving again as a negative good. If we assume that mankind has a right to survive then we must find an alternative to war and destruction. . . . The choice today is no longer between violence and nonviolence. It is either nonviolence or nonexistence.

March on Washington, 1963

I have a dream—that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal."

I have a dream—that sons of former slaves and of former slave owners will be able to sit down together at the tables of brotherhood.

I have a dream—that my little children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character. . . .

This is our hope. . . . With this faith we will be able to hew out of the mountain of despair a soul of hope. With this faith we will be able to pray together, to struggle together, to go to jail together, knowing that we will be free one day. . . .

Free at last, free at last: thank God almighty, we're free at last!

Where Do We Go From Here, 1967

The ultimate weakness of violence is that it is a descending spiral, begetting the very thing it seeks to destroy. Instead of diminishing evil, it multiplies it. Through violence you may murder the liar, but you cannot murder the lie, or establish the truth. Through violence you may murder the hater, but you do not murder the hate. . . . So it goes. Returning violence for violence multiplies violence, adding deeper darkness to a night already devoid of stars. . . .

Of course you may say, nonviolence is not practical; life is a matter of getting even, of hitting back, of dog eat dog. Maybe in some distant utopia, you say, that idea will work, but not in the hard, cold world in which we live. My own answer is that mankind has followed the so called practical way for a long time now, and that it has led inexorably to deeper confusion and chaos. Time is cluttered with the wreckage of individuals and communities that surrendered to hatred and violence. For the salvation of our nation and the salvation of mankind, we must follow another way.

Declaration of Independence

from the War in Vietnam, April 4, 1967

Somehow this madness must cease. I speak as a child of God and brother to the suffering poor of Vietnam and the poor of America who are paying the double price of smashed hopes at home and death and corruption in Vietnam. I speak as a citizen of the world, for the world as it stands aghast at the path we have taken. I speak as an American to the leaders of my own nation. The great initiative in this war is ours. The initiative to stop it must be ours. . . .

These are revolutionary times. All over the globe men are revolting against old systems of exploitation and oppression, and out of the wombs of a frail world, new systems of justice and equality are being born. . . . We in the West must support these revolutions. . . .

We must move past indecision to action. We must find new ways to speak for peace in Vietnam and justice throughout the developing world—a world that borders on our doors. If we do not act we shall surely be dragged down the long, dark and shameful corridors of time reserved for those who possess power without compassion, might without morality, and strength without sight.

Now let us begin. Now let us rededicate ourselves to the long and bitter—but beautiful—struggle for a new world. This is the calling of the sons of God, and our brothers wait eagerly for our response. Shall we say the odds are too great? Shall we tell them the struggle is too hard? Will our message be that the forces of American life militate against their arrival as full men, and we send our deepest regrets? Or will there be another message of longing, of hope, of solidarity with their yearnings, of commitment to their cause, whatever the cost? The choice is ours, and though we might prefer it otherwise, we must choose in this crucial moment of human history.

Is it sick to love a pen?

Not if it's an extraordinary Pilot Razor Point marker pen.

A fiber-tipped pen so precisely balanced, it will always feel comfortable in your hand, even after hours of writing. Its sturdy plastic point, surrounded by a unique Pilot metal "collar" writes a distinctly smooth, sharp line.

In fact, it's the thinnest tipped pen you can buy. And that makes it just great for pages of notes or that one important love letter. Best of all, it's only 69¢ and is now available at your college book store.

So if your Pilot pen makes you lovesick, don't be ashamed to admit it. After all, it'll always be good to you.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Do-Nothing" Killer

Coming home drunk one wintry night, Ed and Janet barely made it to their front door. Ed managed to get in the house, but Janet collapsed outside in the snow.

When Ed awoke the next morning, he was in no hurry to check up on his wife's condition. By the time he finally got around to doing so, she was already dead of exposure.

Was Ed guilty of criminal homicide? Brought to trial on a charge of manslaughter, Ed protested that he had done nothing to harm his wife.

"It was the cold that killed her," he said, "not me."

Nonetheless, Ed was found guilty. The court said homicide may be committed not only by an affirmative act but also by doing nothing when there is a legal duty to do something. Ed owed Janet this duty, said the court, because she was his spouse and because she was helpless.

In each of these cases, the key to guilt was the legal duty to act. If there is no duty, there is no guilt in the eyes of the law. For example:

A man spent the evening with a woman whom he had just met. As he was leaving, she announced that she was taking poison—and gulped down a pill. Fearful of getting involved, the man walked out. And the woman did indeed succumb to the poison.

In due course the man was brought to trial for manslaughter. But the court decided that he could not be convicted. Finding that he owed the woman no legal duty, the court said his behavior "would draw upon himself the just reproach of good men"—but nothing more.

Can one good man really make a difference?

In this age of turmoil, young people are deeply concerned about making their lives more meaningful, and doing more to help others.

Through faith, prayer and action, each individual can help spread Christ's message of love in the world.

But by living and working with other like-minded men in the community of the Christian Brothers, there is a unique opportunity for spiritual growth and service to others.

The Christian Brothers indeed are helping to build a better world, especially through education.

So if you want to know how much of a difference one good man can really make, talk to the Christian Brothers.

We, the undersigned, feel the crisis of the university and sympathize with it. However, for the past two years we have learned that the life in the university could be really meaningful if a viable program in Judaic studies existed.

We have paid for this ad to plead and demand that all the instructors be reappointed especially Mira Rosenfeld who has enhanced our intellectual and personal life in her teaching within and outside the confines of this campus.

We cannot comprehend a viable program without a full faculty and we have made the commitment to fight. With your help we will continue to fulfill SUNY's potential in the Humanities now and in the future.

Ramirez Injured; Out Indefinitely

Two decades ago, a line drive ended the career of Herb Score, who was to be the flame throwing predecessor of Sandy Koufax. Last season, Bob Apodaca of the Mets missed over half the year for the same reason. It is every pitcher's nightmare: the line drive that returns to the mound as fast as it left. Saturday afternoon, the jinx hit home, circa 12:30PM. Jesus Ramirez of Stony Brook remembers, and for that he is lucky.

It was the bottom of the seventh. In his first inning of relief for Ray Helinski, Ramirez appeared to be at his best. The first CCNY batter, Angel Tapia, had gone down on three fast balls. The next batter, Jerry Calo, a muscular first baseman, was to deliver the shot that Ramirez would always remember.

He threw another fastball: strike one. "Jesus was throwing as hard as I've ever seen him throw," said senior catcher Carl Derenfeld. Second pitch: fastball, strike two. "He's really got it together. He's ready to make a significant contribution," added Derenfeld. A changeup curve was ignored: ball one. "We decided to throw a fastball," Derenfeld recalled. Crack: a sharply hit comebacker that initially seemed routine. "The fastball jammed him, the background was bad, the ball got lost in the glare," said Derenfeld. "A car passed by, and that's when I got hit," Ramirez explained. So does the infirmary.

"There's heavy swelling in his left eye," a nurse said. "It is possible that the retina may be partially detached." Despite the possible complications of the injury, Ramirez was more disappointed at not playing than being injured. "I was too angry to be unconscious. I wanted to play today," he said.

Ramirez's future is cloudy. He was scheduled to start against Hofstra on Tuesday. That's cancelled. When will his fastball return? Only the doctors can know, and even they're not sure. Chalk one up for lady luck, on the debit side.

Stony Brook Charges Into Season, Bats First

By JOHN QUINN

The grounds crew had to replace home plate three times. The freshmen were awed. The Big Red Machine was vintage Stony Brook. April showers picked another weekend. The Patriots swept the opening three baseball games of 1976. The Beavers of City College of New York succumbed twice, 22-10 and 9-8, on Saturday afternoon. Yesterday, without a day of rest, Gary McArdle's head-first slide in the bottom of the ninth inning enabled Stony Brook to cop a come-from-behind 12-11 victory.

Ramirez Injured—Page 11

Saturday's double-header with CCNY posed an interesting dilemma: "Who's up first?" CCNY has no home field. Their designated home games are played away. The field belonged to Suffolk Community College. Stony Brook's home field is unplayable. Therefore CCNY was the home team. Confused? No sweat, it was too cold for that anyway.

The first game was the official opener of the Knickerbocker Conference. The Patriots pounded out 17 hits, scored 22 runs and proved that in the early spring, the hitters are far ahead of the pitchers. Captain Mike Garofola and catcher McArdle each collected three hits and veteran righthander Ray Helinski was the winner.

The nightcap was a non-conference encounter and was suspended after five innings. The final score of 9-8 didn't include a six-run Patriot outburst in the top of the sixth inning. The quickly setting sun denied Carl Derenfeld of his maiden hit and RBI of the season. Paul Bernstein utilized the sunlight by smacking a double and triple, for four RBIs in only two at bats. The Red Machine was steamrolling.

The New Paltz State College game Thursday afternoon was postponed by rain. They returned Sunday and witnessed a climactic ending to an exciting game. The entire game became concentrated into the final deciding play.

The score was tied, 11-11. It was the bottom of the ninth inning. McArdle led off second base, Garofola led from first. There was one out and Andy Winfeld was at the plate. The ball was hit directly back to the pitcher, Al Roach, who wheeled and fired to second base for out No. 2. A momentary indecision between the shortstop and second baseman delayed the pivot. The relay to first base didn't catch the fleeting Winfeld. Angered by the safe call, New Paltz first baseman Tom Whittaker protested. McArdle rounded third base and never hesitated. The subsequent throw to home plate was not in time as McArdle's head-first slide eluded the tag. It was a fitting ending to a

10 Year Dream Comes True

STONY BROOK VARSITY HEAVYWEIGHT EIGHT is a half length ahead of Drexel University on its way to victory.

After 10 years and two rough weeks of double practice sessions, the dreams of the Stony Brook crew team finally came true when they beat Drexel University in the heavyweight four race in Philadelphia Saturday.

The Patriot crew team had never given Drexel any real competition spanning over 10 seasons until the combination of Captain Fred Starheim, John Brisson, Chris Haran, Steve Silks, and coxswain Marcia Weisburgh broke open a 1 1/2-length lead with 600 meters to go in the 2,000-meter race.

"Drexel is a legend," Silks said. "I can't believe we won it. You can lose to a team like Drexel and still have a great season."

Not only did the Patriots beat a legend, but they beat them twice. In the heavyweight-eight race, the bow four of Brian Quirk, Mark Herman, John Cayle, and Phil LeNoach helped beat Drexel by a slim 3/4 of a length. With 1,000 meters left, the Patriots built a full-length lead and couldn't be caught. Drexel came out of the dual meet with only a victory in the junior varsity eight.

The Patriots are enjoying a winning season with earlier victories in the Deering Cup and Lord Thompson Pell Cug Championships. In both races, the Patriots defeated St. John's University, Iona College, Maritime State College, and Kings Point.

Depth the Key Factor As Pats Win Opener

By ERIC WASSER

The weather was less than ideal for Saturday afternoon's tennis match with Southhampton College, and in fact, many of the spectators viewed the action from their cars. But the cold and wind didn't seem to affect the Stony Brook tennis team, as they won their opening game, six sets to three. The match, a best-of-nine series, consists of six games of singles, followed by three games of doubles. Five wins, in any combination, constitutes a victory.

In the singles, No. 1 Ron Schmeltzer and No. 2 John Silverstein took their opponents to three sets before going down in defeat. Southhampton's Bill Downing defeated Schmeltzer 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, and Mark Schwartz downed Silverstein 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

Lack of Depth

"Southhampton has no depth," said Stony Brook's No. 3 doubles player Steve Lewis, "that's their problem. Their No. 1 and 2 man are good enough. They beat Ron and John, didn't they? They just don't have depth."

Their lack of depth became evident in the other four singles matches as Stony Brook won all four in straight sets. Mike Edson, a transfer student from Nassau Community College, topped Roger Grayson 6-3, 6-1; Steve Aronowitz took Mike Bailey 6-3, 6-0; Mark Bakeman trounced Joe DeCristifaro 6-0, 6-0; and Harvey King also won 6-0, 6-0, beating Don Wach.

"I'm not worried about this team," said Stony Brook coach Les Thompson. They're all good. And I'm not worried about Schmeltzer or Silverstein; they're both very good. They just haven't played."

The Patriots' first match of the year, scheduled for last Thursday against St. John's University, was rained out. "The only practice they've had is against each other," said Thompson, "and that's like kissing your sister."

The victory was clinched when King and Lewis just overwhelmed DeCristifaro and Wach 6-0, 6-0, and Stony Brook, after a 3-8 season last year, had recorded their first victory.

In the other two doubles matches Schmeltzer and Aronowitz defeated Downing and Grayson 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, and Silverstein and Edson lost to Bailey and Schwartz 6-3, 3-6, 4-6.

"The big difference between this year's team and last year's team is the new talent. They certainly are gonna add depth. Guys like King, Aronowitz, Edson and Lewis are gonna help," Thompson said. They've made their presence felt already.
