

Hotline Stays Alive Despite Resignation

By ELIZABETH MOUSSAS

Polity Hotline, the 24 hour student emergency service, has been maintaining most of its normal functions despite the resignation of its recently appointed coordinator, John Tater.

Tater resigned Thursday night, after holding the position for several controversial weeks. He said that his reason for resigning was that "matters of higher priorities have taken my time and effort away from my coordinator position."

A controversy over who holds the coordinator position that has existed since the beginning of the semester has still not been resolved. Scarmato claimed that Tater was the official coordinator while last year's coordinator Roger Rivera said that he still holds the position. Scarmato's and Rivera's differing views on how the hotline should be run had been causing conflicts within the Polity hotline system.

Scarmato would like Hotline and Polity to be working together more closely. He feels that a separation between the two "clouds the purpose" and that "the new people that are there now are not quite sure what they're working towards." On the other hand, Rivera is afraid that if Hotline comes under the control of Polity, Polity officials could eventually use the Hotline for their own political purposes.

Coming Together

"I don't know if it's all coming together at the hotline. Some of the complaints aren't being dealt with," said Scarmato.

According to Hotline worker Cecelia Yuen, most of the problems occur when complaints must be followed up and an informed spokesman is needed to communicate with the higher authorities of the university. She said that Roger Rivera is still active with the Hotline even

Prime Time Luncheon Brings Students, Faculty Together

Statesman/Curt Willis

ROBERT MARCUS

By LISA CURCI

As part of the new Prime Time program which was initiated to keep freshman and sophomores from leaving Stony Brook, the University invited students and their parents to a luncheon with faculty and administrators yesterday.

"Prime Time is aimed at making students feel welcome to come to speak with faculty," Dean of Undergraduate Studies Robert Marcus said, in a speech during the luncheon. Marcus added that the students' parents were asked to attend to lend support to the program.

According to Marcus, parents play an important role in new students' education because freshmen are more likely to ask them for advice than any other adult. However he said, "Parents are more directly worried with their child's career than is necessary."

The program is also designed to help students' parents adjust to their new environment. "The parent's major concern is the frustrated child who receives Cs and not As despite long hours of study," a member of last summer's Orientation staff said, "Hopefully we can help parents deal with it."

Marcus said that parents' anxiety only serves to make students more anxious.

In response to the problems of commuters, Toni Bosco noted that by "living at home, parents find it difficult to realize students are growing up." Furthermore, Bosco added that "commuters don't feel as though they fit in, they feel uncomfortable in the dorms".

Commuters are inconvenienced by the parking situation at Stony Brook. "Due to the closing of Stony Brook Road, it takes more time in commuting," Toni Bosco said. The scheduling of classes for the commuter is another problem.

One freshman student, Dale Kretschmann, who attended the luncheon with her parents, was satisfied with the program of Prime Time for Students. At the Biology Open House sponsored by Prime Time, Kretschmann said "I received recommendations for future courses. I found the faculty very amiable when I did talk to them."

Kretschmann's parents said they came to the luncheon to "see what's cooking. . . We want to make sure she is taking advantage of what is offered and how we as parents can help her."

"Prime Time is the beginning — something to be done each semester. It is the best time for students to air things with faculty and administration."

ANIMATOR RALPH BAKSHI will have his animated version of J.R.R. Tolkien's "The Lord of the Rings" released on Wednesday, November 16 in Manhattan at the Ziegfeld Theater on 54th Street. Bakshi, known for his other animated full length films "Fritz the Cat," "Heavy Traffic" and most popular, "Wizards," has been acclaimed as founding the future of animation. His techniques involved live-action filming before the animation even begins. A review of the film will be in Wednesday's Statesman.

Washington (AP) — The Mideast peace talks were said to be moving forward again Sunday after a lengthy late-night meeting between Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan over the latest hangup.

George Sherman, State Department spokesman for the talks, said Vance and Dayan met for 3½ hours, with the meeting breaking up about 1 AM Sunday. Vance and Dayan were to fly to

New York Sunday night to meet with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, who was en route to Israel from Canada.

Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania (AP) — Tanzanian troops trying to cross the Kagera River to launch their first major strike against Ugandan invaders were swept away in the rain-swollen stream and the assault failed, Uganda Radio said Sunday.

National

New York (AP) — Economist Milton Friedman said Sunday that a recession in the United States is inevitable and could come as early as the first quarter of next year.

"There is only one thing I am sure of," Friedman said. "We're going to have a recession and the later it happens, the deeper it will be."

A recession is a temporary falling off of business activity and growth, usually after a period of rapid growth.

New York (AP) — A study in suburban San Francisco has turned up a possible link between the use of birth control pills and skin cancer, but an expert says the finding may be a "false alarm."

Malignant Cancer

Women who had used the pill for four years or more were about 70 percent more likely than non-users to develop malignant melanoma, an often fatal cancer of the pigment cells of the skin which kills 4,300 Americans a year.

State and Local

New York (AP) — An anonymous tipster sent police to Jamaica Bay early yesterday where they seized a fishing boat with a cargo of marijuana with a street value of approximately $25 million and sedative pills valued at $8 million.

The 20 tons of marijuana and eight million Quaaludes were recovered from "Terry's Dream," a 65-foot trawler registered in Mobile, Alabama. Some of the cargo also was in five trucks, two vans and a car parked near the Summerville Basin at Beach 63rd St., authorities said.

There were signs of hasty departure, but no one was aboard when the raiders arrived. Federal drug officials said they were combing the area for suspects.

Iran's Oil Workers Continue Strike

Tehran, Iran (AP) — Clashes between troops and anti-government protesters claimed nine lives in Iran's oil belt, the Iranian news agency reported Sunday, and oil workers defied a government deadline for ending their crippling 13 day old strike.

A key anti-government Moslem religious leader, meanwhile, blamed President Carter for "complicating" the Iranian crisis with his support of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

The reported violence was the bloodiest since the shah appointed a military-led government last Monday.

The Pars news agency said six persons, including an army sergeant, were killed and 23 demonstrators were wounded Saturday in Khorramshahr, about 410 miles southwest of Tehran.

Protesters set fire to 15 banks and a number of shops before troops moved in to disperse them, Pars said.

Demonstration

In Ahwaz, about 70 miles north of Khorramshahr, soldiers shot and killed three persons Saturday when a group organizing a demonstration refused to disperse, Pars reported.

The months-long anti-shah campaign has been led by Moslem clergymen opposed to the shah's westernization of this traditional Islamic society and has been joined by political dissidents demanding democratic reforms of his authoritarian rule.

The exiled Moslem leader Ayatullah Khomeini, a central figure in the opposition, said in an interview in Paris that Carter's "protection of the shah is complicating the current crisis in Iran."

The oil workers launched their strike Oct. 31 amid swelling opposition to the shah's rule. They also demanded a 22.5 percent pay hike, which was approved by the shah last week in a bid to prevent the collapse of the oil industry. But as bloody rioting continued throughout the country, the strikers refused to go back to work.

Walkout

The walkout has all but shut down the oil industry in Iran, the world's second-largest oil exporter and a major supplier of Western Europe, Israel and South Africa. Production dropped from the normal 6 million barrels a day to under one million.

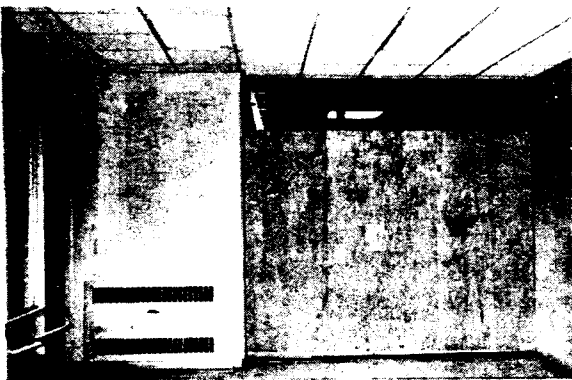

About 2,000 American, British and other foreign experts have prevented a total shutdown. The government also drafted 400 Iranian naval and army technicians, and officials said they had cranked production back up to 1.98 million barrels a day and hope to reach 3 million by the end of this week. But most of the output is for domestic consumption. The cutback in exports is costing Iran more than $60 million a day.

The 78 year old Khomeini, leader of Iran's 32 million Shiite Moslems, the majority sect, has implored his followers to overthrow the shah.

Severe Blow

Political dissent within Iran suffered a severe blow when Karim Sanjaby, leader of the opposition National Front Party, was arrested before a scheduled meeting with foreign journalists.

A PARTITION built in the lounge between Irving and O'Neill Colleges has caused inconveniences for residents.

Wall Between Dorms New Inconvenience

By ELLEN LANDER

The Irving-O'Neill main college lounge, the large hall that served as a party room, dance hall and busy thoroughfare for the residents of both buildings has been closed for the past two months for construction, causing many inconveniences for the residents and staff there. They don't like it one bit.

According to Irving College resident, Perriane Lurie the wall is an inconvenience and she, like many other students, must go over to Gray College to use the pay telephones. O'Neill College resident Shari Kirshner said that her parents could not contact her because they took the number of a pay phone in the lounge and the room was closed off.

Renovation

According to newly appointed G-Quad Director Harold Mendelson, the lounge will now house a new quad office, student lounge with small study rooms, and an information booth. It will be recarpeted and will be furnished with tables and decorated with plants. The renovation of the lounge, according to Mendelson, is part of the overall rehabilitation of G and H Quads.

The Quad Office will cover only a small corner on the Irving College side of the room. Mendelson said that the old Quad Office, which is now located in Irving College, will be used as the Irving College Office.

Director of Facilities Utilization Steven Kowalik, stated that $295,000 was allocated by the State Dormitory authority for the complete rehabilitation of G and H Quads. "It is the responsibility of these authorities to see that the cost of construction does not exceed the allotment," Kowalik said. According to Mendelson, the cost of the new lounge and Quad Office should surpass the allotment and that committees from the two colleges might possibly be formed to raise money to induce completion.

Art Exhibit

Nine Long Island painters who have worked with Marjorie Bishop, Old Field artist, and are known as the "Bishop Art Group" will exhibit their paintings from November 12 to December 22 in the Informal Studies Community Gallery of the Center for Continuing and Developing Education in the Old Chemistry Building at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Exhibiting are Anne Burton and Sidney Stafford, both of Stony Brook, Marjorie Delano, Doris Merriam and Lafay Whitsit of Setauket, Sharon Cowles of Saint James, Dorothy Curtis of Shoreham, Mildred Lanman of Bellport, and Dorothea Costigan of Bay Shore.

Gallery Coordinator, Sheila Solomon, points out that although the artists show frequently as a group, each has maintained her own style. "Several have had their own shows. They have been winning prizes all over Long Island," Solomon said.

Concert

Joy Kim-Slote, lyric soprano, Ronald Roseman, oboist, and David Glazer, clarinetist, will be soloists for the benefit concert which will be presented by the Friends of Sunwood next Sunday, 5 PM in the Recital Hall of the Fine Arts Center. George Malloy will be at the piano.

Kim-Slote, who has sung in major opera houses in the United States and abroad, has also toured extensively as a recitalist and concert artist. In a recital review, the New York Times praised her "considerable charm and musical sensitivity." The San Francisco Chronicle said of her Madame Butterfly, "Miss Kim-Slote goes right to the heart of the play with music and makes it live."

Ronald Roseman, an artist-in-residence at Stony Brook, is acting co-principal oboist with the New York Philharmonic and has been a member of the New York Woodwind Quintet since 1961.

David Glazer, also an artist-in-residence at Stony Brook, is also a member of the New York Woodwind Quintet. In frequent tours abroad, he has been soloist with leading orchestras and guest artist with leading string quartets and trios.

The program will include works by Bach, Schubert, Mahler, Spohr, Debussy and Ravel. Admission is $3.00 for students, $5.50 General Admission. Inquiries may be directed to the Fine Arts Center Box Office, 246-5678.

New Dept. Head

Martin Stone, former Professor and Chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at New York Medical College, has been appointed Professor and Chairman of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology in Stony Brook School of Medicine.

Stone will serve also as Chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Stony Brook's University Hospital when it opens next year.

During his tenure at New York Medical College, which began in 1956, Stone was attending physician at the Bird Coler Hospital and Home and at Metropolitan Hospital Center. Since 1966, he has been consulting physician at Southampton Hospital and at several other metropolitan hospitals. He was Director of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals in 1948 and 1949.

Stone views his appointment at Stony Brook, he says, "as an opportunity to establish a department of obstetrics and gynecology that can translate research activities into better patient care."

Opening

Noting that Suffolk County has been the largest county in the United States without a university-operated or public general hospital, Dr. Stone points out that with the opening of the University Hospital, patients in Suffolk County will have a central teaching and clinical resource facility close by with the capability to deliver the high level tertiary medical care of a metropolitan medical center. "In a total sense, this benefits the patient, her family and her physician," he says.

A Columbia University graduate, Dr. Stone earned the M.D. and the Master of Medical Science degrees at New York Medical College, where he was named alumnus of the year in 1960, and interned at Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals.

Reconsideration

The top administrators at Stony Brook will never give up their dream of becoming the "Berkeley of the East" no matter how impractical or detrimental it may be for the general campus welfare.

According to an article in yesterday's Newsday, "Stony Brook's drive to become a major research center is a race against time." The article stated that Governor Carey's tax cut promises and the intense SUNY-wide competition for funding would impede Stony Brook's famous attempted Five-year-plan-type growth into a top flight center for scientific research.

Therefore, it is time for the administration to face reality. While most administrators realized that growth will never be as it was during the Rockefeller era, they still seem to hold some notion in the back of their minds that this campus will emerge as one of the country's top ten research centers in the near future. But it took Berkeley 109 years. How could Stony Brook possibly accumulate as much talent, money or prestige in a mere 25 or 30 years?

Stony Brook must reconsider its ultimate mission. Instead of blindly beefing up its scientific and technological expertise, Stony Brook should allocate more money toward improving all of its undergraduate and graduate programs as well as the general campus atmosphere. A steady, paced but realistic growth rate would make this campus a much better place in the future.

Question of Control

During the past few weeks the question has been raised as to whether college run businesses should in fact be turned over to the control of FSA (Faculty Student Association) or to SCOOP (Student Business Cooperative).

Let us look at the record.

So far this semester the University Health Shop, a student operated business, was taken over by FSA. After several weeks of difficulties earlier this year the Health Shop reopened and seems to be running as effectively as it did in the past. The Hero Inn, an affiliate of SCOOP, was forced to close this semester. Harpo's Ice Cream Parlor, another SCOOP business, has been closed all semester. The Ice Box originally run by FSA has also ceased to exist.

These businesses all provided a unique service or sell items which can be found nowhere on campus. The loss of these businesses is a loss to the campus community.

FSA, SCOOP and the individual colleges have provided us with their successes and this semester, a few failures. The questions seem to be which organization is the most effective, and under what circumstances should that organization be allowed to step in and take over an ineffective business?

Statesman welcomes your opinions.

24 Hour Union

The Stony Brook Union building is the focal point of student activity for this university. However, the building has several failings in the services it provides:

- 1) There are absolutely no working on-campus phones for public use.
- 2) The change machine is constantly broken, and the businesses within the Union provide change only with a purchase.
- 3) The information booth closes at 10 PM, several hours before the Union itself closes.
- 4) The cafeteria closes even earlier and those wishing to purchase a hot meal must go off campus.

Statesman feels that the University should install vandal proof phones in the main lobby of the Union alongside the pay phones. Though they may cost more than the present type, they will prove to be cheaper in the long run. Pay phones are nearly vandal proof and they have a less frequent incidence of abuse.

The change machine should be inspected more often, and the Union businesses should be encouraged to provide change for people other than clientele.

Finally the Union should be a 24 hour facility. The information booth as well as the cafeteria should be available around the clock.

Statesman realizes these ideas are costly to implement. The purpose of the Union, though, is to serve the students and with these inadequacies it fails to do so.

Staff Infection

To the Editor:

It is my understanding that Statesman serves as one of the most important communication resources that the Stony Brook community has. Why then, does it contain such a small portion of news that concerns the everyday activities of campus and community life?

The amount of Associated Press copy that appears seems to be growing with every issue. I'm beginning to wonder if Statesman really has the staff it claims to have in its Staffbox.

Maybe the paper is really put out by the Associated Press machine. Are my state taxes going to support the electrical output of an Associated Press machine?

I want to see a Student Newspaper that represents the issues and concerns of the Stony Brook Community, not just a replication of any paper I can pick up at the newsstand. Statesman - I challenge you to upgrade the quality of your copy. It needs it.

Discrimination Against the Dead

By Neil H. Butterklee

With the Bakke reverse discrimination case behind us, I am reminded of a speech I heard last year about another type of discrimination. Discrimination against the dead, or deceased Americans as they prefer to be called, is quite prevalent in today's society. Although the speech briefly touched the subject, I would like to delve further into it.

For hundreds of years, and I think it's longer, the rights of deceased Americans have been callously overlooked by the living sector of our American society. Even our founding fathers had nothing to say on the idea of dead rights. Nowhere does our constitution say that the rights of the dead shall not be infringed upon.

One of the blatant examples of discrimination against them occurs with the admission of deceased Americans into medical schools for the explicit purpose of fulfilling the required corpse quota. It is quite obvious that deceased Americans are overrepresented as corpses in medical schools. In fact the overwhelming majority of corpses are dead. Deceased Americans are tired of being treated as just another pretty corpse.

Admission into medical school is not the only area in which the dead are repeatedly discriminated against. When was the last time that a dead person has been allowed to buy a home in Beverly Hills? How about in your neighborhood — are there any DAs next door to you? All too often the dead are forced to live separately from society in special areas called cemeteries. Now, I don't know about anyone else but a cemetery is not my idea of the American dream.

One of the most frequent acts of discrimination has occurred in the area of jobs. Sure there are many jobs currently held by deadheads, but that is just token representation. The problem is that once a person becomes a deceased person, many people feel that he can no longer stand up to the job. However the dead have made many contributions to society that have been overlooked. For example; The dead have voted; they have run for political office; and in some cases they have been elected.

Whereas deceased Americans fill a vital roll in America they are still denied their basic human rights. The right to free speech has not often been accorded to the dead. When was the last time you heard a dead person speak?

Deceased Americans have also been denied the right to marry one another. It is even harder for them to marry someone who is still living. And just try to get a divorce if you're dead; the officials won't even talk to you.

So you see, life isn't easy even for the deceased American. However, in recent months it has been improving. Slanderous phrases such as: "Dead as a Doorknob," and "Boy, what a deadhead" are slowly being phased out of the English language.

Yes, things are looking up for the dead. President Millard Fillmore recently declared that next month will serve as "National Deceased Americans Month." All over the country famous Deceased Americans of the past will be promoting the rights (or rites) of the dead. They even have a new slogan which will be displayed on millions of bumper stickers starting next month. It reads, "Honk, if you're dead."

How would Freud relate to O'Keefe?

Cold. Yet warming.
Hearty, full-bodied flavor. Yet smooth and easy going down.
And, O'Keefe develops a big head on contact.
Conflict. Conflict. Trauma. Trauma. Freud's diagnosis?
We think he would have said, "It's too good to gulp." And you will, too.
In the final analysis.

Icemen Take Advantage of Rutgers

By TOM MORESCO

Old Bridge, New Jersey — The Stony Brook hockey club improved its record to 1-0-1 with a 5-3 victory over Rutgers last Wednesday night here. Rutgers, which is playing in the Metropolitan College Hockey Conference for the first year, had the reputation of being equally matched with Stony Brook. Therefore Stony Brook knew that the winning team would be the one that could best take advantage of the others' mistakes.

The game was only 30 seconds old when Rutgers was called for a penalty. Their eagerness to play physical resulted in an interference call. Stony Brook, trying to capitalize on the situation, sent out their power-play unit. It didn't take long to get results, as Mike Shapey tipped in a Tom D'Orsi pass to put the Patriots up, 1-0.

PATRIOT GOALKEEPER Tom Havens, a Freshman, played Wednesday against Rutgers.

After Rutgers tied it up at 1-1, it was Shapey again with his second goal of the game to take a 2-1 lead.

The lead which Stony Brook took into the second period was wiped out by a hard-working Rutgers team. But with only two seconds left in the period, John Keigharn scored a power-play goal to tie it up 3-3. The goal went a long way toward dissipating the momentum that the Knights had built during their comeback. Now the Patriots had the edge.

Stony Brook took the lead for good mid-way

Statesman/Billy Berger an outstanding game last through the third period when Chris Callagy scored on a 2-on-1 break with Ron Beale. It was one of two insurance goals Callagy would get. Rutgers hurt its chances by taking more than twice as many penalties as Stony Brook. The penalties not only gave the Patriots a chance to add to their lead, but also decreased the amount of time that the Knights had to come back.

Freshman goaltender Tom Havens played an outstanding game, and is improving. Some of his success, though, must be attributed to the defense, which limited Rutgers to only 19 shots on goal. The whole Patriot team was satisfied with the effort. "Everybody played well," said co-captain Bill Schultheiss, "It was our best effort in a long time."

The team hopes this game was a sign of things to come as the Patriots play Nassau Community and Southern Connecticut State, two of the toughest teams on their schedule. With their continued improvement, the Patriots can expect numerous wins and a berth in the playoffs, a long time away.

STATESMAN NEEDS SPORTS WRITERS, EDITORS AND PHOTOGRAPHERS.

The winter sports season will be underway soon. Statesman needs people to cover Intercollegiate basketball, hockey and swimming as well as various intramural sports. If you want to cover games and write features about the players and the teams, come down to Statesman in room 058 in the Union or call Lenn or Peter Sunday, Tuesday or Thursday nights.

But do it soon because the season starts in only a few weeks.
