U Hospital to House Radiation Treatment Unit

By Keiko Wakeshima

Plans involving the renovation of the University Hospital to facilitate victims of radioactive contamination at the Shoreham Nuclear Power Plant should be finalized by next month, said Jeffrey Margulies, head of the emergency room staff.

Negotiations between the Long Island Lighting Company (LILCO) and University Hospital officials concern the design features of a section of the emergency room to be used as the radiation and medical treatment facility.

Structural changes include the construction of a separate entrance to the designated area, shut-off valves in the ventilation system, alterations in the water system and installation of showers for decontamination.

In a letter of agreement last year, LILCO and University Hospital officials designated the hospital to the back-up treatment center to Central Suffolk Hospital in Riverhead, the primary treatment center for Shoreham.

According to LILCO representative Charles Salit, the Federal Regulatory Commission requires two hospitals available to treat injured workers who may be contaminated at a nuclear plant such as Shoreham. There are decontamination facilities at Shoreham but there are no medical personnel to treat industrial injuries. In the event of serious contamination, the victim would be transported to University of Pennsylvania Hospital, which specializes in radiation burns.

The program was initiated by the Radiation Management Company (RMC) in Philadelphia, a corpora-

Patriots Lose First Div III Home Game, 29-13

By Geoffrey Reiss

On a bright Indian summer afternoon the Stony Brook football Patriots lost their first NCAA Division III home game to the Trenton State Fightin' Lions, 29-13. Defensive coordinator Ed Urban summed up the game when he said, "Experience means so much in football", in reference to the loss. A veteran Trenton squad came back from a 13-0 deficit to score 29 unanswered points on four touchdown passes to spoil the Pats afternoon. Trenton was led on offense by senior quarterback Flip Faherty, who is one of the best passers in 280 of Trenton's 317 passing yards as he passed at will against Stony Brook's inexperienced defensive unit.

Stony Brook head coach Fred Kemp knew "that we needed to play a perfect game to beat them", and for a while it looked as if Kemp's hopes would be met. Stony Brook drove 83 yards on 18 plays after receiving the opening kickoff, but was forced to settle for Mike Quirk's eighteen yard field goal when the drive sputtered. That possession used nine and a half minutes of time as the Patri-

Watt Resigns; Prez Accepts It

Washington—Interior Secretary James Watt resigned yesterday, ending three weeks of uproar over his latest verbal gaffe and a stormy 2 1/2 career as manager of the nation's land and natural resources. President Reagan reluctantly accepted the resignation and said Watt would remain on the job until a successor is chosen.

Watt rode into a cow pasture to announce his resignation and then mounted his horse again, joking that he wanted to ride off quickly if questions from reporters got too tough.

"I think I'll mount up again so I can ride out when I need to ride out," Watt said after reading the resignation letter he sent to President Reagan from the Santa Ynez Valley ranch where he has vacationed since late last week.

Watt's announcement came on short notice after his spokesman, Doug Baldwin, walked down the driveway of Barrack Ranch at about 2:45 PM and told reporters waiting outside a fence along a nearby road that the Interior Secretary soon would talk with them.

About a half hour later, Watt, his wife Leilani, and Thomas Barrack, the ranch owner and former Interior Department official, rode up to the fence on horseback and dismounted. Wearing a cowboy hat as a small herd of cattle grazed behind him, Watt read his resignation letter, remounted, then answered questions for about 20 minutes.

Watts smiled as he talked to reporters, but his voice quavered from time to time.

Then Watt, his wife and Barrack rode off toward the waning sun. Baldwin said Watt probably will stay at the ranch through the week. Watt came under criticism for his remark Sept. 21 that characterized members of a coal advisory panel as "a black...a woman, two Jews and a cripple." The Senate was due to return Oct. 17 to vote on a Democratic-sponsored "sense of the Senate" resolution urging Watt's dismissal.

Watt, asked whether controversy over those comments spurred his resignation, said, "It did accelerate it."

Two U.S. Marines Hurt By Small Arms Fire

Beirut, Lebanon—Two U.S. Marines were slightly wounded and a U.S. helicopter was hit by small arms fire yesterday at the Marine encampment near Beirut International Airport.

Some of the American units were put on alert as sporadic exchanges of fire between Shiite Moleh militiamen and the Lebanese army continued in nearby neighborhoods despite the cease-fire in Lebanon's civil war.

U.S. Middle East envoy Robert McFarlane met in Damascus with Syria's foreign minister in an effort to strengthen the cease-fire. Maj. Robert Jordan, a Marine spokesman, said one soldier was hit in the heel Saturday night by a stray round near the main entrance to the Marines' airport encampment.

The other American was shot in the shoulder Sunday morning at the Marine position near the Lebanese Scientific University east of the airport, he said. The two Marines, who were not immediately identified, were treated at the Marine base and released.

Jordan described the shooting as a possible effort to "goad the Marines into action." He said the Marines did not shoot back in either incident.

Also Sunday morning, a U.S. helicopter parked near the Marine camp was struck by small-arms fire, but there were no injuries, Jordan said. Warrant Officer Charles Rowe said several Marine units remained on alert as "some random shots" were fired throughout the day near the U.S. position at the university.

Bomb Kills Top Aides; Meant for Korean Prez

Rangoon, Burma —A terrorist bomb apparently meant for South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan ripped through a memorial site yesterday, killing four of his Cabinet ministers, the ambassador to Burma and several top aides.

The governments of Burma and South Korea said 16 South Koreans and three Burmese journalists were killed by the explosion at the Martyr's Mausoleum in Rangoon minutes before Chun arrived for the ceremony. They said at least 48 people were wounded, including two Burmese Cabinet ministers and 15 high-ranking South Koreans.

South Korean officials accused North

Korea of engineering the explosion, which devastated the senior leadership of Chun's government. It came on the first day of a scheduled 18-day presidential goodwill tour.

Burmese and South Korean officials said Chun and his wife immediately flew back to Seoul, cancelling the remainder of the trip. In Seoul, police sealed off the airport before the arrival and stopped reporters from entering.

South Korean Prime Minister Kim Sang-hyup held two emergency Cabinet meetings, decreed a nationwide alert for the armed forces and dispatched an emergency medical team to Rangoon to care for the South Korean wounded.

Students Are Denied Class-Action Status In Suit Against NYPIRG

By Tim Sheil
State Press Service

Eight students who sued the New York Public Research Group last spring, in hopes of getting back activity money given to the consumer awareness group, have been denied class action status in the case, thereby removing a nearly $1 million liability against NYPIRG.

U.S. District Court Judge Lloyd McMahon denied the eight class action status, which would have had them suing NYPIRG on behalf of all SUNY students, because they filed for that status a month after the deadline, about two weeks ago, according to NYPIRG Director Marilyn Ondrasik.

Why the plaintiffs, represented by corporate-subsidized Mid-Atlantic Legal Foundation, did not make the filing deadline is presently unknown. Mid-Atlantic attorney John Collins, representing the plaintiffs, refused comment on the issues.

Ondrasik said seven SUNY Campuses were also named in the suit, all with NYPIRG chapters, and the NYPIRG attorneys will try to remove three of those as dependents because the eight students come from only three campuses.

The student plaintiffs, from Albany, New Paltz and Stony Brook, claimed that forced contributions, viz activity fee payments allocated to NYPIRG after campus referendums, violated constitutional rights to free speech and due process of law.

Ondrasik said last spring that if NYPIRG lost, other issue oriented groups like gay and lesbian and black student unions, and SASU, could conceivably come under attack. Still, she said because the judge "based his decision not on the merits of the case, but on the basis of being a month late, students could sue other groups on a similar bases."

The class action suit, had it been granted by the judge, would have sought repayment of all activity money NYPIRG had collected since 1972, approximately $1 million.

Begins Lecture Series Peace Studies Center

Five fall programs have been scheduled by the Arms Control, Disarmament and Peace Studies Resource Center at Stony Brook.

Les Paldy of the Department of Technology and Society, the center's founder and head, will open the series Monday, Oct. 10, at 8 PM with a lecture, "The Elusive Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban." Professor Paldy will discuss the issues behind the failure of the United States and the U.S.S.R. to negotiate a complete ban on the testing of nuclear weapons and explain why such a ban is a key step in ending the nuclear arms race.

On Wednesday, Oct. 12, "Central America: A Military Solution?" will be the subject of a talk by William Wood of the Policy Planning Bureau of the U.S. Department of State's Bureau of Inter-

American Affairs. Wood served as human rights officer in Uruguay 1970-80 and as economic counselor in El Salvador 1980-82.

Other programs in the fall series include the following: Nov. 1, "A School of Soldiers—The West Point Experience," Clifford Swartz, Stony Brook's Department of Physics; Nov. 15, "Understanding, Resisting and Surviving 'Evil' Nations in a Nuclear World," Karl Bottingheimer, Stony Brook's Department of History; and Dec. 8, "People, Resources and Prognostications," Armen Zemanian, Stony Brook's Department of Electrical Engineering.

All programs will be given at 8 PM in the Resource Center in the Old Chemistry Lecture Hall, free and open to the public.

Alcohol Awareness Week Designated at SB

By Donna Marino

This week has been designated Alcohol Awareness Week by University President John Marburger. In doing so, Stony Brook joins other colleges and universities in a national program designed to "increase our understanding about alcohol use and its effects," said Marburger in a memo released last week.

Toward this end, the university will sponsor various activities and programs throughout the week. Each day, from noon until 3 PM in the Stony Brook Student Union Fireside Lounge, there will be tables set up with information available about alcoholism, and lectures will also be given on alcohol abuse.

On Thursday and Friday the Department of Public Safety's DWI program will give breathalyzer demonstrations and the Professional Alcoholism Counseling and Education Center (PACE) will be available for any questions students may have.

In support of Alcohol Awareness Week various organizations are sponsoring non-alcohol activities promoting its theme. The End of the Bridge will feature non-alcoholic exotic drinks all week; Whitman Pub will feature a talent show Wednesday night; a dart tournament will be sponsored by the Graduate Student Organization Friday night.

Marburger said he has been concerned about the problems associated with alcohol since he came to Stony Brook. He called the week "a good idea so that other people can become aware of the problems that do exist and receive important information about them."

Sam Taube, assistant vice-president for Student Affairs, said he is very excited about the week's activities. "I've received excellent cooperation from the students, [the Faculty Student Association] and good support all around. This is the first time Stony Brook is participating in something like this and I'm sure it will be successful. It is important to increase the whole community awareness of alcohol and its consequences and to let students know there are ways of having a good time without alcohol."

Brian Kohn Candidate for Treasurer

Brian Kohn's platform rests on three basic university issues that he said are of upper most concern to the students.

The waning option of meal plan versus dorm cooking program is one of his major concerns. As spokesman for the Dorm Cooking Advisory Committee and student coordinator of the Dorm Cooking Program he said he is adequately informed and in the position to affect changes on the students behalf. Combining his present influence with his student council vote as treasurer, he intends to fight to keep the cooking options available.

Kohn argues that the P/NC grading system is an important avenue for allowing students to experiment in a field outside of their major. As the Polity Treasurer he said, he will work to keep this program intact.

Another aspect of Kohn's platform is his concern over the collection of fees for damage done to the rooms in the dorms. Kohn said he has seen many instances where fees have been collected and yet no repairs have been done. Kohn said that the fees should be collected, but it must be assured that services paid for be done.

Kohn stated that his strengths lie not only in the concerns he will represent, but also in his experiences that will make him an able treasurer. Kohn has been actively involved in Polity in the past. His experience last year as vice-treasurer has been the best experience, he said in preparing him for the position of treasurer.

Kohn also said that he thinks it is very important that the students are aware of his plans to complete a full year in office. Continuity is essential, he said, to assure that the job be done effectively. In the past this has not happened, he said.

Summary:

- For dorm-cooking option
- Retain P/NC grading option
- Assure room repairs are done.

Michael Doroski Candidate for Treasurer

Michael Doroski said he would best be representing the students by opposing the arming of Public Safety. Because, he said, there has never been a great need in the past for Public Safety to utilize firearms, he does not foresee needing them in the future.

Doroski also said that the students are sensing a push from the university administration to force all students to join the meal plan, run by DAKA. The first unjust push, which he said he hopes will be repealed, is the law requiring that no student be allowed a refrigerator larger than 2.5 cubic feet. The 37 percent increase in the optional dorm cooking program is also a factor which he said is taking all options away. Doroski's platform emphasizes the need to keep the optional program available.

Having completed four years of study at Stony Brook, Doroski said he has felt the affects of the new grading system and said he has found this new method impractical. Since it is impossible to receive a grade of A plus, the new system adds a greater possibility of receiving a minus grade.

Also included in Doroski's platform is the matter of locking the dorms at night. While he said this is an important procedure for student safety, there should be slight alterations to enhance its effectiveness.

Doroski does not have previous experience in student government, but said, "I believe every student should be involved in Polity." Doroski stressed his intent to keep in constant contact with the students and said, "Being active is important, but contact with the students is equally important."

As a message to the students, Doroski said, "I'll give my all to the job. I'll be hard working and try my best. I'm not going to make any extraordinary promises, but I'll do my best to be hard working and trustworthy."

Summary:

- For dorm-cooking option
- Against plus/minus grading system
- Against arming of Public Safety
- For improvement of locked dorm program

Michael Naglieri Fresh Rep Candidate

Michael Naglieri said that he realizes that many of the issues are the same in most of the campaign platforms. But, he said, "I know that I am hard working," and he said that is what counts the most. "My campaign is going to consist of personal contacts," he said.

Naglieri said that he is concerned that the monies in Polity be equally distributed between academic and social events. Naglieri said that since it is the students who support the university, they should have a say in where the money is spent. "I don't think that carrying guns would gain respect for the university [Department of Public Safety.] Guns were purchased against the wishes of the students." This, he said, is an example of how the university does things behind the backs of the students. The taking down of the ivy from the dorm walls is another example of this, he said.

Naglieri said he is heard from the freshman complaints concerning their inability to understand the teachers and the teaching assistants. Because of this he said a tutoring program should be implemented so that students will be better prepared before exams.

Paul Carsch Fresh Rep Candidate

Paul Carsch, after actively seeking student complaints has comprised a platform based on what, he said, are the freshman's needs. The major resentment of the freshman class that Carsch said he hopes to represent is the fear of the forthcoming mandatory meal plan. With the addition of the 2.5 foot refrigerator rule, and a 37% increase in the dorm cooking plan, the students, he said are feeling cornered. Carsh said that there are alternatives to this. "By using the grandfather clause, all of the incoming students would have to obey it, while the present students would be allowed to keep theirs." An even better approach, Carsch said, would be to inform the students on how to repair the circuits if they should break because of the overloading from the refrigerators. Also, he said, "If there is a mandatory meal plan, the food must get better."

Carsch is against the arming of the Public Safety officers, "They don't need the guns, and students don't want to see the guns." He also said he feels that students life could be improved if there were more weekend activities on campus. Carsch suggested such events as, ski trips and day outings.

Carsch said that there are also problems with the campus bus service, commenting that the students think that not only is it an inconvenience but also a hazard not to have the buses running after a certain hour. On a campus this big, he said, you don't want the students walking around alone at night.

Carsch has club experience as the acting president of his High School Law Club and also as his class representative. He states his reasons for running as "Less and less is being offered that used to be offered. I want to get a voice, but I need the student's okay."

Neal Drobenare Fresh Rep Candidate

Neal Drobenare explained why he is running for Freshman Representative. "I think there are issues to be addressed that aren't being addressed. I want to be an active representative rather than one who disappears behind the doors of Polity. He said he feels very strongly about certain issues but that "Polity has not taken a strong enough stand."

Drobenare said that one reason why a lot of student complaints remain unanswered is because the students don't know where they can go to be heard and because they don't think they can make a difference. "Students can only use the powers they have if they know what they have a right to know." Drobenare said that he plans to be available for the students to inform them on what is happening on campus and where they can go to be heard.

Drobenare has been in frequent contact with administrators, Polity and the campus newspapers so that he is well-informed and prepared to take on the job as Freshman Representative, he said.

The answer to the meal plan, Drobenare said, is to provide competition. This way, he said, instead of forcing the students to eat DAKA food, DAKA should be forced to improve their service.

"If we had the resources to make the weekends worthwhile, we could make the students want to stay, he said. "College is not just five days a week, it is seven." That is why, Drobenare said, it is very important that the social activities on weekends be improved.

Tuition increases are another area where Drobenare said the students feel voiceless. Because he was active in his student government in High School, he said, he has the knowledge to work with Polity to stop these increases.

Michael Berkowitz
Fresh Rep Candidate

Michael Berkowitz calls himself, "one of those," a person who likes not only to see improvement, but who goes and makes sure it gets done. As freshman representative he said that he plans to let the university administration know that freshmen are opposed to many recent actions by the school. Freshmen make up one-quarter of the undergraduates, he said, but sometimes they are forgotten. "A good representative is going to fight for the freshman class, I plan to do that," Berkowitz said.

The freshmen, as well as other students, he said, are against the arming of Public Safety. "It creates more of a hazard than a help; it should be left to the Suffolk County Police." The increased pressure this year towards forcing students to join the Dining and Kitchen Administration meal plan (DAKA), is also a problem. "There are better ways to get people to eat DAKA food than by forcing them." But, he said the basis for going to school is not just eating.

Instead, Berkowitz said he is more concerned with the present academic curriculum. He said that the curriculum should be reviewed and revised so that the students can be assured that the classes they are taking are as up to date as possible.

Berkowitz has been actively involved in politics. "At 18 I ran for a seat on the school board in Farmingdale." Although he did not win, he said, he did work with the board and helped to create a citizen's action committee. While he hopes to win this election, he said even if he does not he will still take an active part in Polity.

Two Referenda on Ballot

By Andrea Rosenberg

Stony Brook students will have the opportunity to vote on two referenda in the Polity elections to be held tomorrow. The first, a Polity referendum, seeks to increase the student activity fee by $5 per student per semester. The second referendum is for continued NYPIRG funding at an increase of 90¢ per student per semester.

"This is the first unencumbered student activity increase in [several] years," said Polity Vice-President Barry Ritholtz. Although there have been increases in the past few years, they have been by referendum, for specific groups and not a general student activity fee increase.

While funding requests by clubs and organizations totaled over $1.1 million, the budget for this year was less than $824,000. A student activity fee increase of $5.00 per student per semester would generate an additional $95,000.

Ritholtz said that due to budget restrictions, many groups are underfunded, especially the residence halls. He said that over the past four-five years, the funding to the residence halls has been cut in half. He added that a new policy, which requires dormitories to acquire video machines through the Faculty Student Association (FSA) is also hurting the dorms. "It's a longer, slower process, and, therefore "the dorms aren't getting all the video money they need," he said. Ritholtz said that some colleges were getting up to $100 per week from video games.

Ritholtz said that many groups in media services were underfunded, including the Student Activities Board (SAB), and Fallfest. According to Ritholtz, other groups that are especially in need of funds are minority clubs, the football team and the Programming Services Council (PSC), which funds approximately 200 groups with budgets under $1200.

If the referendum is passed, Stony Brook's student activity fee will increase to $92.50 per student per year. This will make it comparable to other SUNY schools, according to Ritholtz. He said that SUNY Albany has a student activity fee of $92.00, SUNY Binghamton - $95.00, SUNY Potsdam - $90.00 and SUNY Plattsburgh - $93.00.

Polity President Dave Gamberg said that the proposed increase would better the campus socially. "There is an absolute need to improve programming," said Gamberg. "Virtually every organization would receive a portion of this increase."

However, Remika Chainani, a junior, is opposed to the fee increase. "It's crazy," she said.

"There are already enough hikes in the fees."

The second referendum on the ballot is a request by NYPIRG for a funding increase from $2.10 to $3.00 per student per semester.

There is a NYPIRG referendum every two years to see if the campus wishes to continue to support the group. Because of the wording of tomorrow's referendum, if the proposed increase is denied, NYPIRG will not be funded at all.

Much of the need for the 90 cent increase is inflation, according to Mike DeMartino, local board chairperson for the Stony Brook NYPIRG chapter. The money is needed to help fund NYPIRG's present staff, including lawyers, scientists, researchers and lobbyists, he said. Dave Kalish, project coordinator for NYPIRG said that an increase would enable NYPIRG to hire another full time project coordinator. "We're coordinating more than half a dozen projects this year and it's just too much to handle," he said. "Stony Brook is a very large campus. It needs two project coordinators."

NYPIRG's current projects include voter registration and a small claims court action center. DeMartino expects to get student support for the referendum. "We've proven ourselves," he said. "We think it's worth it."

It's Not the Right Time

One of the two referenda that will appear on tomorrow's ballot during the Polity elections is one which concerns a $5 per student per semester increase in the student activity fee for Polity, Stony Brook's undergraduate student government. While one can easily find as many advantages as disadvantages in such an increase, the bottom line still contains the same two words: Bad timing.

Students have passed an almost insurmountable variety of financial pressures over the last few years, including record tuition hikes, dorm rent hikes, dorm cooking fee hikes and the expected increases of general living expenses. The last organization victimized students expect to be handed an increase from is indeed an organization of fellow students. Haven't we had enough of increases already?

Surely, most will say a $10 increase for the academic year will not be very burdensome to most students. However, here's a very familiar scenario: tuition goes up by $50 one year, $100 another year and $150 yet another year—each time the student is led to believe that it is necessary to put SUNY back on its feet, and many more are assured each time there won't be another increase for a while. However, the same promises are made where dorm rent is concerned, and so on. Before you know it, the cost has already doubled. The student is cajoled into accepting small increase after small increase, and one day he wakes up and realizes he can't afford that once affordable school anymore....sound familiar?

This is by no means a dramatization. This has happened where both tuition and dorm rent is concerned. It can (and will) happen if we accept small activity fee increase after small activity fee increase.

It doesn't really matter if this increase is the first increase in several years. A vote in favor of it will allow Polity to broaden its purse strings until the next budget comes around and...well, you know what happens next...we live in a country where deficit spending and growing budgets seem to be in fashion.

Instead, it's time to say no to more increases, and furthermore, it's time to work within the constraints of a budget. There are some organizations which either receive less money or no money from Polity—where has this money gone? Shouldn't this be answered first before we say yes to any increase at all? It's only fair to the one who must part with this money—the students.

Dismayed With Criticism of EZ Note Service

To the Editor:

I would like to thank your reporter for what I felt was a fair report on such a controversial issue. We, at EZ Note, try extremely hard to provide what we feel is an excellent service for the students here at SUSB. Although we can't change the overcrowded conditions or the complexity of the courses, we attempt to make them more bearable. Our notes were never intended to replace course attendance, and never will be. However, we feel that the service we provide allows the student to learn much more by enabling them to listen and think about what's being taught, rather than scribbling like mad in order to get it written down. This service is especially beneficial for foreign students who find the English language difficult.

Although I am not surprised at the clamor raised by the administration, I am dismayed at their reasoning. They claim that our notes will encourage the cutting of classes. Need they be reminded that class cutting is quite prevalent already. A good student will attend classes regularly regardless of this service. For the student that doesn't, we are at least providing a source of notes that we feel will be beneficial to them. They may claim that we encourage class cutting but perhaps they should look at the true roots of the problem, such as poor motivation and interest, which to a large extent lies with the course and instructor. The issues of both copy-right infringement and the fact that we are trying to make a profit, were also biased. A university professor is paid, in part, to perform a service which is the presentation of information, along with doing the necessary paperwork involved. He is to organize the information and present it in such a way that others can learn it. But the information, for the most part, is not his, rather it is based on the findings of countless other scientists and researchers who have discovered it. This is especially true for the introductory courses. We at EZ Note are providing a similar service. We are attempting to organize the vast body of information that is a course, into a clear, meaningful format. We have not taken credit for any of the material we have written and we make sure that for every course we offer, we identify the current lecturer. We are simply providing a clear, formatted transcription as a service.

One last critique that we find amusing is the complaints about our spelling and other errors. There isn't a student on campus who hasn't been in a class where the instructor made a mistake while presenting the material and there isn't a student who hasn't made a mistake while jotting down notes. We freely admit that we do make some mistakes. However, to suggest that using Cliff or Monarch Notes in order to pass such a course as BIO 151 is not only ludicrous, it is also misleading. Even if such notes were available, they would not be able to follow each semester's syllabus and would present information that might differ from what is being taught. As far as our spelling mistakes go, we aren't the only ones to make mistakes. To raise a point, and not be critical, the article written on Oct. 3 contained eight spelling mistakes, including my name.

In closing, I would like to point out that you're missing the most important viewpoint, that of the students. Since both the administration and myself claim to have the students' best interest in mind, I feel we should hear from them either in a referendum, or in the pages of the Statesman.

U Hospital To House Radiation Treatment Unit

...ion that specializes in establishing facilities to handle radiation injuries. LILCO will be funding the program which Margulies estimated to be about $9,000 in renovations. The program also includes training sessions for all emergency personnel, including the Department of Safety and the housekeeping staff of the hospital.

There have been two training sessions thus far with members of the RMC. More sessions are planned in addition to drills which will be held twice a year to practice emergency procedures.

According to Salit, University Hospital was chosen for its proximity and its reputation. "LILCO is seeking out the best in medical care," Salit said. Margulies believed that the hospital was chosen because it is the "referral center for all other hospitals in Suffolk County."

University Hospital's involvement in the program in no way reflects their stand on the Shoreham plant, Margulies said. As the director of the emergency room and chairman of the Hospital Disaster Plan Committee, Margulies said the hospital emergency room could never turn away an injured person. By having these facilities, the hospital could treat injured persons who are also radioactively contaminated.

Group Formed To Study Police Abuse

The Polity Council has established a task force to gather and review information on instances of abuse by Department of Public Safety officers. The task force, coordinated by undergraduate George DeFazio, is called the Persons Entitled to Action for Conscientious Enforcement (PEACE).

According to a memo from Polity, students and others will have the opportunity to relate personal accounts and voice discontent with enforcement policies of Public Safety. "DeFazio has asked that anyone connected with the administration of Public Safety not attend the [meetings] so that an atmosphere of confidentiality may be achieved," the memo says. Polity attorney Camillo Giannitassio will also be present to provide legal guidance on matters of enforcement procedure.

The task force will hold its first meeting Wednesday, Oct. 12 at 9 PM, in room 214 of the Stony Brook Student Union.

Before We Put You In Charge Of The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Equipment,

We Put You Through The World's Most Sophisticated Nuclear Training.

It takes more than 16 months of intensive training to become a fully qualified officer in the Nuclear Navy. You begin with four months of leadership training. Then as a Navy officer you get a full year of graduate-level training unavailable anywhere else at any price.

Navy training is based on more than 1900 reactor-years of experience. Right now the Navy operates over half the nuclear reactors in America. And the Navy's nuclear equipment is the most sophisticated in the world. That's why your Navy training is and must be the most sophisticated in the world.

As an officer in the Nuclear Navy, you have decision-making authority immediately. You get important management responsibility fast. Because in the Navy, as your knowledge grows, so does your responsibility.

Your training and experience place you among the country's most qualified professionals. (No surprise that most of the men who operate the reactors in private industry started in the Nuclear Navy.)

It takes more time and more effort to become an officer in the Nuclear Navy. But the rewards are greater, too.

The rewards can begin as early as your junior year in college. Qualify, and the Navy will pay you approximately $1000/month while you finish school.

After four years, with regular promotions and salary increases, you can be earning as much as $40,500. That's on top of a benefits package that includes medical and dental care, and 30 days' vacation earned every year. More responsibility, more money, more future. So, if you're majoring in math, engineering or the physical sciences, and you want to know more about a future in nuclear power, fill in the coupon.

Today's Nuclear Navy is an opportunity like no other in the world.

For All Your Photographic Needs

Paul Gruvman Tabler Quad/Douglass College

As Polity Senator, my main objectives would be as follows:

A) To establish a greater interaction between the Polity Senator and the building he represents. In the past I personally have had little or no contact with my building senator and thus no means of voicing my opinions to the student government.

B) To represent the students in Douglass College in all decisions on policy. I would in effect act as a sounding board for my constituents.

C) To form committees which would investigate and act on various topics of importance, including the funding of campus clubs and organizations, as well as building activities, and lastly to bridge the gap which presently exists between the student body and Polity.

Gerald Seegars Kelly Quad/Kelly E

I am running for the position of Building Senator for Kelly E. I hope to ensure that the basic rights and privileges of the student body are fully carried out, and I see the Senate as a vehicle to carry out my wishes. I am committed toward progression and I am confident I can perform the chores of the Senate satisfactorily.

I welcome my fellow students to speak to me about their views and wishes about their Stony Brook experiences. I feel that this will be a rewarding experience for me and I know I can contribute valuable insights to the Senate and Polity in general.

Brian Kurland Tabler Quad/Douglass College

I am interested in holding the position of Senator. I would do an outstanding job, due to past experience as Senator, my open mindedness and the fact that I will always be available to my constituents.

Neil Caren G Quad/Irving College

I, Neil Caren, am running for Irving College Senator to represent the residents of my building.

One of my goals is to maintain the dorm cooking program.

Linda Dritt Roth Quad/Hendrix College

I feel that one of the main problems at Stony Brook is that the students get limited exposure to each other. As Senator, I would like to see more activities that will introduce the students to diverse social and political outlooks on campus. I would also like to see a more unified student body and will strive to make sure that the students are aware of what is happening on campus so that I can make their opinions on the issues known in Polity. In short, what I want to promote as Senator, is getting the student body to be more active by making Stony Brook a more interesting and fun place to live.

John Weiburg Kelly Quad/Kelly D

I have decided to seek the position of Building Senator because of my interest in government and the need I feel to get involved in the student affairs at this university.

As Senator, I will make a point of it to see where Polity funds are going and that Kelly D gets its share. I will make myself available to listen to the students needs and to make it known to Polity.

I am against the university's plans for a 37 percent increase in the dorm cooking fee and a mandatory meal plan for freshmen. I will do what I can to [make certain] that they do not get approved. I will also do all I can to join the fight against the planned rise in tuition. What we get, and what we pay for are two different things. The cutback in services that this university has already seen has been too much. On a final note, I will do whatever lies within the best interest of the students which I wish to represent and to keep this university one of the finest learning centers in the country.

David M. Durst Tabler Quad/Dreiser College

If elected to the position of Senator I hope to ensure that all decisions made in the Senate are in the best interests of the residents of Dreiser College. Furthermore, I hope to see to it that every racial, ethnic, religious and social group is treated equally in all facets of life in Stony Brook.

Egan Gerrity Tabler Quad/Dreiser College

I, Egan Gerrity, if elected will work for my building. I will support any activities that will benefit my building. I will support my building and strive to enhance it.

Christine Casey Tabler Quad/Sanger College

I am running for the position of Polity Senator of Sanger College because I care a great deal about the needs and wishes of the residents in my building and feel that I would do well in representing them.

During my three years at Stony Brook, I have been an active member of the campus community and have a variety of experiences in dealing with student life. For example, I was a resident assistant for two years in Irving College, an active member of the college's legislature and programming committee, a board member and acting secretary for SSAB (1983) and was the Assistant Producer of Programming for the 1983 Fall Fest. I have also participated in other campus activities and enjoy helping students a great deal.

If I become the Polity Senator for Sanger College, I feel that I will keep the residents in the building well informed about issues in their student government as well as do my best to meet their needs.

Susan Schoenfrank H Quad/James College

Are you angry because some of the doors to this building are locked? I am, and that's why I decided to run for the Senate, representing James College. If given the chance to have my voice heard, I will let everyone know what to think about this issue which directly concerns all of us as well as our friends.

My name is Susan Schoenfrank. I am a sophomore at Stony Brook and a James College resident. If elected, I will do my best to see that the doors are not locked and our friends can be welcome to and visit with no inconvenience.

Anthony Tesoriero H Quad/James Coll.

As James College Senator, I would like to see the Dorm Cooking Program left as a reasonable option for students instead of the meal plan. I also think Polity should protest the new limitations on refrigerator space.

I am also opposed to the closing of any campus bars at least until a new drinking establishment is constructed to replace the Henry James Pub.

PREVIEW ELECTION PREVIEW

Joseph Schnur

Commuter

I Joseph Schnur am running for the office of Polity commuter senator with the goal of increasing the role and input of commuters in the student government and campus affairs.

Commuter issues to be addressed: Parking regulations, bus service, funding of Commuter College, overall services for commuters.

In addition: A re-evaluation of academic standings, the arming of Public Safety.

Roy Itzkowitz

G Quad/Gray College

Our voting group (18-24) is in the lowest in participating in state and national elections. Our school gets budget cuts because we do not voice our opinions collectively in the vote. We must hold our representative accountable in order that we are known when budget cuts are discussed. The same apathy applies to Polity elections. We must all vote and put people in office who will be held accountable. I am one of those people. As Gray College senator, I will strive to answer your questions and ask questions for you. I will strive to get Gray College the things it needs.

Dawn M. Heitmann

G Quad/Ammann College

I feel that as Polity Senator of Amman College I could do a good job. I am very active in the dorm legislature and would like to expand the scope of my activities to the entire campus. I believe that it is important for students to speak out and be represented throughout the entire campus. I know that I can represent my building well. Please accept my petition for Polity Senator.

Lisa Sugrue

Roth Quad/Mount College

Mount College needs a representative who is open, honest and outspoken; someone who is actively involved in in the Mount College community through its legislature program board and Mr. Bill's committees; someone with leadership experience and ability such as having been yearbook editor at S.C.C.C. and a member of the General Institutional Search Committee for Spring of 1983 here at Stony Brook University; finally, someone who will speak out for the Mount College community. That someone is Lisa Sugrue. Step forward Mount College and vote for your best interests; vote for Linda.

Michael Botwin

Roth Quad/Gershwin College

I have been involved with Polity since my earliest days on campus. Last year I served as Gershwin representative to the Polity Senate. During that time I fought hard to ensure that the needs of Gershwin residents were heard in the Senate. In addition to just attending Senate meetings, I also served on the Special Senate Select Committee which had a large input to the final Polity budget.

I am also involved with other campus organizations and activities such as Polity Hotline, WUSB and I-CON.

If elected, I feel I can do even more for students this year. I will fight against new administration policies such as the refrigerator size reduction, arming of Public Safety and the increases in the dorm cooking fee.

Lydia Terry

Stage XII/Greeley College

My name is Lydia Terry. I am running for Senate. Since the day I arrived I have noticed a need for students to be represented in the student government.

I feel that Polity is not responsive enough to students' needs. If elected I promise to see that Greeley students are brought to the Senate. Additionally I will communicate the goings on of the Senate to the people I represent.

Mike Serres

H Quad/Benedict College

Hello, my name is Mike Serres and I am running for the Senate representing Benedict College. There are many issues concerning Benedict and its residents. It is my hope that I would be able to address these issues to Polity on the behalf of Benedict.

Some of these issues include:

1) Dorm cooking— in the past, individuals living in the dorms have had the choice of whether or not they wanted to do their own cooking or be part of the dining service. Next year a new rule will go into effect stating that students will not be allowed to have large refrigerators in their rooms. It is my belief, and the belief of many residents, that this is an unjust rule. The reason given for this rule is that the large refrigerators use too much electricity. I believe that this rule would force students to join the meal plan. The refrigerators that would be allowed are undersized and would be unable to hold the amount of food necessary to stay off the meal plan.

2) Video games— in the past, Benedict has had a contract where Benedict was allowed to keep 50 percent of the profits made by the machines. Last year Benedict made about $1,500 from these machines. This year FSA has taken over. Benedict is now given the flat sum of $1,000. I fail to see the reasoning behind this. Clearly this is an injustice to Benedict and its residents.

3) Student Activities Fees— the present distribution of the Students Activities Fees is such that Benedict and the rest of the dorms receive a very small portion of the fees. Most students don't even know where their activities fees are going to. If the fees are raised again this year chances are that Benedict will receive little or none of these fees. At this point there are not too many things that I can promise. There is one thing that I am confident of— if I am elected Benedict Senator I will make it my job to keep the people living in Benedict informed of the issues affecting them. I will make it a point to get the opinions and sentiments of the residents on an important issue before voting on it. After a decision has been rendered I will report it back to them, always trying to keep them in light of the issue.

Faron Lawrence

Roth Quad

I have decided to contest this position because I am of the opinion that Polity can perform a lot better with the right people with the right ideas active in its decision making process. I am one of those right people. I feel very confident about this. After making a critical observation of Polity, I see clearly areas which need to be improved and after very deep and careful thought on these areas, I am ready to put myself in a position to affect these improvements.

Among many other areas in which I plan to gear efforts, these are just a few:

1) The allocation of more funds to buildings for social and academic projects.

2) Equal opportunity and consideration in regards to funding for all clubs and organizations regardless of race, color, religious beliefs, etc.

3) Try to upgrade student services by strengthening presently existing ones and introducing others.

4) Try to find ways of creating a more together and sharing atmosphere for graduate with undergraduate students and vice-versa.

If I am elected senator, I promise to do my utmost best to contribute your—the student's— well-being and success here at Stony Brook.

Hal Goldberg

Stage XII

My name is Hal Goldberg. I am a sophomore currently living on campus in Stage XII, A. I lived in that same building when I was a Freshman and I care a lot about what happens to it. What my basic purpose is in representing my building to your senate is merely to attend meetings and report back to my ledge what is going on so that we as a group may act knowledgeably in helping ourselves as well as others towards the pursuit of happiness, well being, and prosperity that we as American citizens are obligated to.

I am also minoring in Political Science which makes me extremely interested in seeing how your legislature works in addition to becoming one of the cogs in the machine which make it work; and if in this process I find that there is something that I might do to help the senate to work more efficiently legitimately I will do my best to do that thing.

Joseph A. Moriarty Jr.

Commuter

If elected senator representing the commuters of this school, I pledge to abide by the rules under the Stony Brook constitution. I will be fair and just in my decision making process and strive to achieve excellence within Polity. As a senator, I hope to work successfully so we may attain the highest goals possible.

Dinnah Peng

Commuter

I run on a platform of increased involvement in the planning of campus activities by commuter students. With 6,000 commuters making Stony Brook a major part of their lives, it is the responsibility of the Stony Brook student government to recognize the needs of these people and acknowledge their commitment to student life. I also plan to devote myself to representing all members of the university community in every aspect in which the student voice is heard.

Meryl Lisa Wenig

Commuter

I promise if elected as commuter senator for the Fall 1983 to help improve commuter life on campus. I hope to not only involve a greater proportion of commuters in Stony Brook's activities, but to increase these activities as well.

William A. Crucilla

Commuter

In the past commuting students have been disenfranchised from the political processes of this university. By being a vocal and active member of the Polity Senate, I hope to make a significant change in this deplorable situation.

Dennis J. Callahan Jr.

Commuter

As a commuter senator, I, Dennis Callahan, hope to make the campus aware of the problems facing commuters of our campus such as parking facilities, (two hour waiting periods for monthly garage tickets which could easily be taken care of through the mail.) I also feel that the commuters need to have a greater voice on campus and I hope that I can help amplify this voice.

David Holtzman

Commuter

My name is David Holtzman and there are many things I will accomplish as a senator for the commuters. My primary goals are as follows:

1) Increase student awareness of Polity as an instrument to improve the education they are receiving and the conditions they are learning under.

2) Improve the food service by introducing competitive bidding for the variety of concessions in the Union.

3) Get the additional money for the improvement of the shelters for commuter students waiting on the Engineering Loop.

Ron Glick

Kelly Quad/Kelly A

My name is Ron Glick and I am running for Polity Senate. I am running because I:

am fed up with [the university] administration hassling people on the dorm cooking program.

am interested in seeing the students represented fairly in university issues.

want to see if we can get some fundamental absurdities changed so that the university can be a more livable place.

If you have any questions ask me Ron Glick, Kelly A Q26C.

Weekend Wrap-Up

By Michael Borg

The Stony Brooks cross country team hosted its own Invitational Saturday at Sunken Meadow State Park.

In womens competition, the Patriots were number one by a mile, Wagner College took second while Columbia University came in third.

Four Patriot women figured in the top 10: first place was Barbara Gubbins with a time of 19:07.5; third was Donna Lyons (19:44.6), one second behind her was Mary Dolan in third place (19:47.6) and in ninth place was Jeanine Carroll 20:40.2. Megan Brown (13th - 20:57.2), Susan Corrado (15th - 21:05.8) and Lisa Pisano (16th - 21:22) finished out the top 20 for the Patriots.

In mens competition, the Patriots took the "show" position behind winning Rider College and "placing" Long Island University.

Steve Brown who finished fifth with a time of 26:21.8 shattered a five year old Stony Brook record of 27:43.0 set by Paul Cabot. Four other Patriots finished in the top 30: #21 - John Pahta - 27:49.8; #22 Gerry O'Hara - 27:54.4; #24 - Charlie Ropes - 28:06.7 and #29 - Dan Riconda 28:22.8.

On Saturday, Oct. 15, both the men's and women's cross-country team will be at the Manhattanville Invitational.

Volleyball

The Patriot volleyball team upped its record to 8-4 Saturday as they demolished Molloy College 15-0, 15-3 and 15-7 in the Stony Brook gymnasium.

Lisa Hartman led the team in Killshots with six followed by Nancy Kuhlman with four. Lauren Beja, Tatiana Georgieff and Lisa Hartman each had four assists followed by Ellen Lambert with three. Team serving percentage was a 96, high-lighted by a pair of aces from Laura Felker, Lisa Hartman and Kerry Kehoe.

Next Saturday the Patriots will be at the Oneonta Invitational.

Soccer

The Stony Brook soccer team now has as many ties as wins (3-2-3) after tying with Dowling College, 2-2.

Roy Richards with an assist from Tony Magge accounted for the first SB score while an unassisted Frant Matos was responsible for the second.

Dowling scoring was by Mike Fitzgerald and Mike Lo Russo with assists from Steve Gades and Joe Curto respectively.

Stony Brook had 12 shots on goal while Dowling (a Division II team) had 14. Tuesday, Stony Brook hosts Medgar Evers at 3 PM.

PERSONALS

CINDY CONWAY. Your taste seems a bit off color lately. What's your excuse? I need a good laugh right now! -Howie

CINDY CONWAY. You killed Seth, but his alter ego is still alive and well and hiding in the darkroom in Statesman.

ATTENTION FOOT FANCIERS! You don't know how hard it was to write a straight news story about two psychopaths with a foot fetish that also have a thing for grave robbing. Do any of you readers out there in Stony Brook (or is it story book land) realize how many foot puns there are? I don't want to sound corny, but these thieves were really foot loose, huh? Not only that, but I've heard that Barnes and Noble charges an arm and a leg for books, but a foot? It's a shame we got cold feet and didn't write a really sick story about this amazing feat. Boy, we can really be a bunch of heels. From now on this paper had better learn to toe the line. As I said, the possibilities for this story are limitless, and you can trust me, I'm a Statesman writer. I would never pull your leg. I'm afraid I've said too much, so before I stick my foot in my mouth I will bid a fond farewell and hop along on my way. Oh, for the really demented people out there the damn foot looked to be about a size eight and a half.

WANDA RODRIGUEZ. you really bug us out when you change clothes in the closet so you don't have to close the door. Que Sangra! Happy 18th birthday. Your crazy friends Stephanie and Linda.

ATTENTION SIGMA BETA members, there will be a general meeting today at 7:30 PM in 237 in the Union. All must attend.

Jen - If only all the preps in the world were as nice as you! I must confess these Argyles are great. Maybe I'll join the club. And by the way, my cap (or is that 'car' - I can't read your handwriting at this late hour) is not preppy. -Love, Matt VALENTINE'S DAY in October! Sure, why not? Why wait till Feb? Tell him or her how you feel in a Statesman Valentines personal. It might be the best investment you ever made!

DEE. The love that we had was meant to last forever. It joined us in a way that our friends have yet to discover. We both held that love like a joining of body and spirit that even now still holds us together. It always will even though we must now learn to live without one another. I wish you all the peace and happiness that your life deserves. I'm only sorry that I can't share it with you. I Love You. T. xxx.

MR. MATT. to my favorite Mexican, we'll turn you into a prep yet! Rabbits are so preppy. (Let's not imitate them though.) Thanks for the studying habits. -It's off to Maine we go! -Love Jen

TELL HIM or her how you feel. After all, Valentine's Day only comes twice a year!

DOES SHE or does she not? Not sure? Well, find out through a Statesman Valentine classified - only $2.00! It will be the best $2.00 you had ever spent!

KELLY QUAD is hosting a Square Dance Sunday Night Oct. 16, from 7 to 11 PM in the Gym. Refreshments will be served. A professional caller will teach you each dance. Sneakers or rubber soles must be worn. Tickets are $2.00/students and $2.50/public and will be available at door. All are welcome. Put on your dancin shoes and HAVE FUN!

TELL HIM or her how you feel. After all, Valentine's Day only comes twice a year!

DEAR ROB This is to tell you that you are a very special part of my life and that these past 10 months have been the best ever. Here's to many more months of happiness. I love you. Beth. How's that for mushy?

WOULD YOU LIKE TO HAVE:

- Increased funding for dorm ledges?
- More Dollars for films, concerts, & speakers?

Tough Trenton Stops Patriots

ots dominated the line of scrimmage and gave quarterback Ray McKenna time to set up and find his receivers downfield.

Soon afterward, linebacker Frank Saladino stripped the ball out of Faherty's hands on a blitz and defensive end Mike Ingranco scooped up the ball, giving the Pat's excellent field position on Trenton's 23 yard line. The offense was only able to advance seven yards and on fourth down Quirk was summoned to attempt another field goal. Much to Trenton's surprise, holder McKenna kept the ball, rolled to his right, and connected with a wide open Chris Brown, giving Stony Brook a 10-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. Stony Brook put one more sustained drive together in the first half, this time moving 38 yards on 10 plays and advancing the ball within Quirk's range. He drilled a perfect kick 38 yards, and it looked as if the Pats were going to hand Trenton an upset.

Billy Smith, a starting offensive tackle, said that "We got a little complacent after we got ahead." Smith added that the Pats "forgot that in football you have to win both halves." The Pats would have taken a six point lead into the half if not for a 70 touchdown pass from Faherty to Matt Crehan with a minute left in the half. Stony Brook was caught unprepared for the deep post pattern that Creehan ran, and Faherty took advantage of the mistake by hitting him with a perfect strike. Throughout the game, Trenton used a variety of pass routes to move the ball upfield. They combined short patterns over the middle with deeper routes as the Pats struggled to contain Trenton's passing game. Three of Stony Brook's defensive backs are freshmen, and the one sophomore, Paul Emmanuel, was a running back last year. Although

Statesman/Corey Van der Linde

Urban believed "This secondary has the potential to be the best ever at Stony Brook" he conceded that the unit needs experience. Emmanuel added, "We are playing individually, we are really just learning about each other." Unfortunately for the backfield, Emmanuel will be sidelined at least one week after he pulled ligaments in a pot hole on the field during the pre-game warm up.

One team member who asked not be identified said, "We were intimidated by these guys [Trenton St.] all week long in practice, we were really psyched out today." That feeling could have led to three critical mental breakdowns that proved to be very costly. One occurred in the third quarter when the defense failed to react to a halfback option play that resulted in a 37-yard Fightin' Lions score that increased the Trenton lead to eight.

A second critical error led to Trenton's final score when the Patriots were penalized fifteen costly yards for having an extra man on the field while punting the ball from deep within their own territory. Lastly, the Patriots offense lined up in an illegal formation, calling back a 15 yard pass completion that would have moved Stony Brook inside the Trenton 30 yard line mid-way through the final period.

Stony Brook's record now stands at 3-1, and Saturday's defeat was the first one the Patriots have suffered at home since 1981. Though Trenton was a stronger and more experienced team, Stony Brook held the Fightin' Lions in check for most of the game. The Patriots lost because they couldn't stop Trenton's big play offense and take advantage of all four of Trenton's turnovers. Trenton's record was upped to 4-1 with the win and they have lost only twice in the past two seasons. Next week, Stony Brook faces what Kemp calls "A must win game" at Fairfield. Although the Patriots drubbed the "Staggs" last season, 43-6, Fairfield beat Stony Brook in two previous meetings.

Patriot 'Raquetteers' Beat SUNY at New Paltz

By Mary Lavinio

The Stony Brook women's tennis team scored a decisive 7-2 victory over New Paltz Saturday, improving their conference record to 2-6. Outstanding performances were again delivered by co-captains Candice Farrell and Chrissie Goodman, both of whom had little trouble in routing their opponents.

Goodman extended her winning streak to seven in a row as she defeated New Paltz's number one Susan D'Ammibole 6-2, 6-0. Her record is now an outstanding 8-1. At second singles, Farrell allowed her rival only three games as she cruised to her fourth consecutive win with an easy 6-1, 6-2 victory over Chantill Jean-Baptista. The only singles loss for Stony Brook came as Mary Lavinio went down 6-2, 6-4 to Elisa Freund at third singles.

Juliet DeLucia played a fast paced match against Norma Friedman at fourth singles. Serving exceptionally well, DeLucia recorded another Patriot win, defeating Friedman 6-1, 6-2. Stony Brook's Melissa Gerdtz toughened up and rallied from behind in the second set to win 6-1, 7-5, spoiling a determined comeback effort by New Paltz's Ebon Richard at fifth singles. Neeta Nusula's 6-2, 6-2 defeat of New Paltz's Dawn McAuff at sixth singles made certain an overall victory for the Patriots, leaving New Paltz no chance to catch up as the action turned to doubles with Stony Brook ahead five matches to one.

Farrell and Goodman teamed up at first doubles and had no problems in an easy 10-3 win over D'Ammibole and Jean-Baptista.

At second doubles, Delucia and Lavinio recovered from a somewhat shaky start to score a decisive 10-4 victory over Freund and Friedman. Gerdtz and Nueula were defeated at third doubles by Richard and McAuff 10-5.

Coach Steven Yurica was quite pleased with the team's performance. "I think we are at the point now where everyone is starting to reach their potential, and this is coming through in our matches. Hopefully this improvement will continue and be sustained for the duration of the season." With five matches remaining on the schedule, the team must win all of them to finish above .500 for the year. Their next match is tomorrow at home against St. John's at 3:30 PM.
