

SPEAKERS in the HUMANITIES

Alluring Androids and Robots in Film, Photography & Art

a lecture by

Dr. Julie Wosk

Professor, Department of Humanities at SUNY Maritime College

This illustrated slide-lecture showcases colorful images of female robots, androids, mannequins, video game heroines, and other artificial women ranging from early automatons to today's robots that look so real they easily fool the eye. These images tell a startling tale of changing attitudes toward science, technology, and toward women themselves.

This Speakers in the Humanities event, which is free and open to the public, is made possible through the support of the New York Council for the Humanities, a state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The Speakers in the Humanities program has linked distinguished scholars with diverse audiences since its launch in 1983, bringing the best in humanities scholarship to thousands of people at hundreds of cultural organizations in virtually every corner of New York State. This program is just one of the ways the New York Council for the Humanities helps all New Yorkers to lead vibrant intellectual lives by strengthening traditions of cultural literacy, critical inquiry, and civic participation.
