"IRON MOUNTAIN"

Iron Mountain is the world's recognized leader in providing climate controlled, secure off-site storage. Emphasizing the importance of records security, Iron Mountain operates over 800 records centers, including six high-security underground sites in both urban and rural locations. The New York State Archives, in listing attributes of a good records management program, states that an organization must store its records, especially archival ones, safely and securely. Join us on Friday, June 8, 2007, for a discussion on the advantages of off-site storage as both a solution to disaster preparedness, as well as a solution for disaster recovery.
