In the summer of 2008 Eileen S. Chanza and Rachel Ellis, Ph.D. students in the Department of English traveled to Seville Spain to conduct research at the "Archivo General De Indias," arguably the largest library in the world pertaining to the history of Spanish colonization of the Caribbean. Their research, funded by the Turner Summer Research Grant Program, varied in topic of scrutiny but shared the common resource of the Archivo. Please join us for this event as these students present their findings. A more detailed explanation can be found on our event flyer, available for viewing at
