Dear Members of the University Senate Library Committee,

I have just been contacted by Andrew White, the library director, who has informed me that he has arranged to have another set of consultants arrive very soon to give him advice on Monday, May 17. He has asked me to see if at least some of us could attend a meeting with the consultants. Unfortunately, this is right after an exam that I have to give to a large freshman physics class that I help to teach, with several hundred students, and I may not be able to get away from the grading to meet with the consultants. Even if I cannot be there, I am informing you of this request so that at least some of you could attend, assuming that you are not in the same position that I am concerning grading of final exams. Andrew has asked me to get from you the information as to when, on Monday, May 17, you might be free to meet with the consultants.

This is also a reminder that our final library committee meeting will be at 10 am in the usual place, Rm. 126 of Psych. B, on Thursday, May 13. Again, I realize that this is during the final exam period, so if some faculty members are unable to attend because of other obligations, I certainly understand. As you know, a major piece of news is the termination of the Stony Brook Southampton campus and associated library development there. I am told that some of the books, etc., that were purchased for that library will be transferred to our campus.

With best regards,

Bob
