Stony Brook's Fifth Annual International Theatre Festival Begins June 12

Since the New York City International Arts Festival will not be held this year, Stony Brook's Fifth Annual International Theatre Festival will be the only one of its kind this summer. This festival is the most diverse to date, offering productions that are both classic and contemporary, from a modern retelling of Ibsen addressing AIDS to rock star Roland Gift in Shakespeare's most popular tragedy.

The blend of classic and contemporary begins with a production of Henrik Ibsen's Ghosts, June 12 - 16. Ibsen's work was considered controversial in its day because of its forthright treatment of social issues. Updated by Irish playwright Tom Kilroy, Ghosts now confronts the issue of AIDS. This new version of the play makes its exclusive North American premiere at the festival, staged by the world renowned Abbey Theatre of Ireland.

The entire family will enjoy the summer's second production, Cirque Imaginaire, making its only area appearance June 19 - 23. Called "the greatest small show on Earth," this French chamber comedy/circus stars Victoria Chaplin, daughter of Charlie Chaplin, and her husband, Jean-Baptiste Thierre and features the couple's children and many unusual animals.

The third festival production is a collaboration between the Sarafina team and the Crossroads Theatre Company, New Jersey's leading African-American/South African theatre group. A portrayal of two young black women, one American and one South African, Sheila's Day will be at Stony Brook June 26 - 30. After its New York premiere at the festival, the musical will play on Broadway in September.

The festival schedule includes a special Fourth of July show from China, Golden Dragon Acrobats and Musicians. The performers offer an evening of comedy, magic, balancing acts and a glimpse into the traditions of China, July 5 - 7.

Singer Roland Gift takes the lead in a new British production of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, July 10 - 14. He makes his American stage debut in the play's only United States performance. In addition to fronting the Fine Young Cannibals, Gift has appeared in several films, including Barry Levinson's "Tin Men" and, more recently, "Scandal." The production marks the return of the Hull Truck Theatre Company to Stony Brook, following their successful performance of John Godber's Salt of the Earth last season.

An ensemble piece from Czecholovakia, the final production of the summer is the work of Czech star Bolek Polivka. Seance makes its American premiere at the festival July 17 - 21 and marks the first North American performance by any Czech theatre company since the new government assumed power. Polivka's The Jester and the Queen was a hit at the 1986 International Theatre Festival.

Festival organizers are proud of this year's lineup, pointing to the mix of classic and contemporary productions. Festival director Alan Inkles notes that the schedule "is well balanced, featuring works which are important and still entertaining."

Tickets for the series are $67.50 for Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday performances and $76.50 for Friday and Saturday performances. Individual tickets may be purchased for $15 (Tuesday through Thursday performances) and $17 (Friday and Saturday performances). Senior citizen individual tickets are $13 and $15, and Stony Brook student tickets are half price. For information, call 632-7233.

Nobel Prize-Winning Physicist Considers the Next Decade

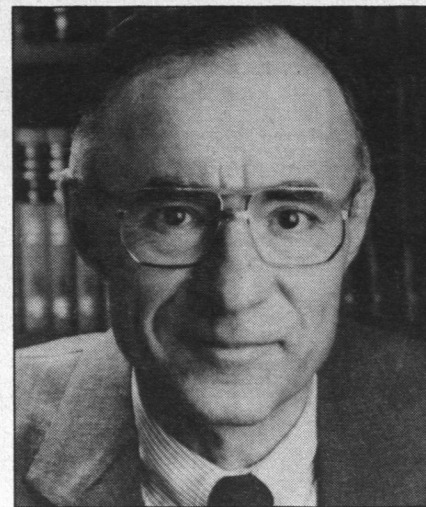

As we enter the last decade of the twentieth century, thoughts turn to the year 2000 and what the future may hold. Arno Penzias, vice president of research at AT&T Bell Laboratories, physicist and astronomer, will address this theme in his talk, "Thinking about the '00s." The lecture, part of the University Distinguished Lecture Series, takes place April 3.

Best known for his work in radio astronomy, Penzias was awarded a Nobel Prize in physics in 1978 for establishing evidence supporting the "big bang" theory of the origin of the universe. He has conducted research in radio communication and participated in the Echo and Telstar satellite experiments.

From 1974 to 1984 Penzias was an adjunct professor of earth and space sciences at Stony Brook. He has received 14 honorary doctoral degrees and is the only American to hold an honorary doctorate from the Paris Observatory. His highly acclaimed book, Ideas and Information: Managing in a High-Tech World, was recently published by W.W. Norton.

Admission to "Thinking About the '00s" is free. The talk, sponsored by the Office of the Provost and Newsday, will begin at 4:00 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Staller Center for the Arts. For information call 632-7000.

WUSB's Radiothon '90 on the Air

WUSB 90.1 FM is inviting the campus community to participate in Radiothon '90, running through April 14th. And according to general manager Norman Prusslin, there's no need to do more than tune in for 10 days of exciting programming as the university's radio station continues its fund raising drive for a signal upgrade and technical improvements.

During this year's Radiothon, WUSB is offering merchandise and goods donated by local businesses as premiums to encourage donations to the WUSB/Stony Brook Foundation account. Radiothon '90 concludes with two special benefit concerts. The first, on April 15, features legendary folk-rock artists Aztec Two Step. Tickets, $10 in advance, are available through the station and at the Stony Brook Union box office. The second, on April 29, features new artists Poi Dog Pondering, whose first album has received wide critical acclaim.

Anyone who wants to learn more about WUSB's Radiothon '90 or to volunteer their time during the pledge drive can call Norman Prusslin at 632-6500.
