70 Custodians Receive Housekeeping Degrees

Next Thursday, December 12, is graduation day for seventy members of Stony Brook's custodial staff.

The seventy men and women have just completed an intensive 48-hour course in modern housekeeping.

The graduating class is the fourth since the University's Custodial Training School was established in Spring 1973. The School offers the only continuous program for custodians in New York State.

The School utilizes audio-visual aids and field exercises in order to acquaint both new and experienced custodians with such diverse subjects as carpet and floor care and the proper use of chemicals and janitorial equipment.

Milton Morrow, the school's director, said that the school had proved quite successful and that he has received numerous inquiries from local colleges and school districts who are interested in establishing similar programs.

The graduates will receive certificates during a ceremony scheduled for next Thursday at 1 p.m. in the Physics Lecture Hall, room 137. The graduates will hear an address from John Buckhoff, Assistant Vice Chancellor of the SUNY system for Plant Management, or his designee.

Senior Takes 1st Place in Harness Competition

When Linda Smith sat down to choose a college, her prime consideration was not academics, cost or social life.

"I came to Stony Brook because of its riding club," the effervescent 21 year-old senior from Great River says.

A former president and vice president of the Stony Brook Riding Club, Ms. Smith has won about 50 ribbons and 10 trophies since she first began riding at the age of 5.

She has participated in numerous intercollegiate competitions, most recently last Friday at Roosevelt Raceway, when Ms. Smith took first place in a field of six in the first Canadian-American college student harness racing championship.

What prompted Ms. Smith to take up riding? "My sister rode, and she was my idol," she says.

Her mother at first attempted to discourage her from riding because she feared for her safety. But Ms. Smith succeeded in allaying her mother's concern. Both her parents now are avid fans of the SB Riding Club and attend most of the competitions in which their daughter participates.

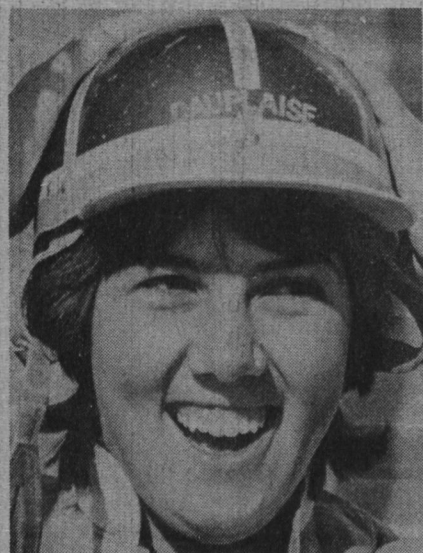

Ms. Smith has fallen off horses "more times than I can count." She once fell and fractured her pelvis, but resumed riding 8 days later. "I wasn't supposed to, but I couldn't stay away," she explained.

Ms. Smith's dream is to become a member of the U.S. Olympic Equestrian Team. She plans to try out for the team in 1976. If selected, she would tour with the team across the U.S. and Europe and would represent the U.S. at the 1980 Olympics.

Does Ms. Smith believe that her femininity is a factor in competition? Not in the least, she says. Men and women compete in the same competition and no distinction is made in judging the winners.

Nevertheless, Ms. Smith does not think that the sex of the rider is without any significance.

"Women tend to be safer and quieter with horses," she says.

SB Senior Linda Smith took first place last Friday in the first running of the Canadian-American college student harness racing championship.

Lunar Researcher Wins Mineralogical Award

A leading researcher in lunar rock samples, Dr. James J. Papike, Chairman of the Department of Earth and Space Sciences, was named recipient of the Annual Award of the Mineralogical Society of America.

Presented once each year to an outstanding young scientist, the award was given to Dr. Papike on November 19 at the annual meeting of the Mineralogical Society of America held in Miami, Florida. He was cited for his work in applying crystallography (the study of the atomic structure of minerals) to the petrological problems in lunar and terrestrial rocks.

Dr. Papike, 37, a Professor of Crystallography, has devoted much of his research to the interaction between crystallography and petrology. By studying the atomic structure of the minerals within rocks, he hopes to gain a better understanding of the temperature and pressure conditions which caused particular rocks to form.

Since 1970 his efforts have been concentrated on the lunar samples brought back from the moon by the Apollo missions, and last year he received an Exceptional Scientific Achievement Medal from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in recognition of his work. Dr. Papike has also been involved in the space program through work on three NASA committees in addition to his own research: the Lunar Sample Analysis Planning Team, the Science Working Panel, and the Lunar Site Selection Committee.

Dr. Papike joined the faculty at Stony Brook in 1969 after 5 years with the U.S. Geological Survey in Washington, D.C. He and his wife Pauline live in East Setauket with their four children.

Dr. James J. Papike, Chairman of the Earth and Space Sciences Department.

3 Profs Assume Faculty Liaison Responsibilities

Professors Ruth Cowan, Ruth Miller and Monica Riley have added some administrative responsibilities to their regular faculty duties this year.

All three, in varying ways, are involved in faculty-administration liaison activities. Professors Cowan and Miller are working with Academic Vice President Sidney Gelber and Professor Riley with President John S. Toll.

Professor Miller of the Department of English and formerly Chairman of the Program in Comparative Literature, is serving as Assistant Academic Vice President, working with faculty throughout the University to identify and encourage the development of new academic programs.

Professor Riley has assumed, for the 1974-75 academic year, the role of faculty advisor to the President in addition to her normal teaching and research duties. She will be working with the President and other members of the administration to help initiate constructive changes in areas of concern to both faculty and administration. Professor Riley views her new role as supplementing other forms of faculty-administration consultation by serving as a catalyst to improve the effectiveness of communication between the faculty and administration while assisting in the development of University processes and policies.

Professor Cowan of the Department of History is performing a similar function in the Academic Vice President's office.

So far this fall, she has concentrated her efforts on faculty-administration interaction in the area of undergraduate admissions and personnel policy. Like Professor Riley, Professor Cowan has assumed these duties on a part-time basis in addition to her normal teaching and research.

Professors Cowan, Miller and Riley together represent a total of 29 years of faculty service at Stony Brook. Professor Cowan has been a faculty member since 1967, Professor Miller since 1960 and Professor Riley since 1966.

United Way Donations Exceed $10,000 Mark

Nearly $11,000 has been contributed or pledged thus far by the University Community to the 1974 fund raising campaign of the United Way of Long Island.

The contributions and pledges made thus far exceed by more than $2,000 the amount collected by this time last year.

Employees who wish to contribute may do so by returning the payroll deduction card which has been distributed, to the President's office, room 310 Administration Building. Employees who have not received the card may procure one from the United Way coordinator in their office or from Stephen Siteman in the President's office.

Students who wish to contribute may do so by sending a check or money order, payable to the United Way of Long Island, to the President's office.

Volunteers ★

Vital, a student volunteer service, has a number of volunteer positions available in many fields. Why not stop by Vital headquarters in the Stony Brook Union, Room 248. For further information contact Lenny Walsh at 6-4990.

Emergency Phones ★

Additional people are now manning the telephones to ensure that around-the-clock emergency telephone answering service will be available for your calls and reports of physical plant troubles and maintenance problems. Monday through Friday between the hours of 8 and 5 p.m. the number is 6-5906. Between the hours of 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. Monday through Friday and all day Saturday, Sunday and Holidays the number is 6-5910. Anyone on campus who needs to dial these numbers should state clearly the nature of the difficulty (heat or hot water problems, electrical outages, etc.). The emergency phone operator will record the complaint and relay it to the proper authorities, who will see that the problem is remedied as soon as humanly possible.

Handicapped ★

The Co-chairman of the President's Committee on the Handicapped, Leonard Rothermel, has asked that handicapped persons who have experienced hassles with the Committee on Academic Standing to report such incidents to him at 751-3480.

WNCN ★

Representatives of the Listener's Guild and staff members of radio station WNCN will join members of the university community on the occasion of the second Faculty Club party to be held on Thursday afternoon and evening, December 5, 1974. The installation of a permanent Bar will be completed on that date and faculty members are invited to join in the celebration of this event. At 8 p.m., Ralph Lowenstein, announcer of the Morning Concert, and others from station WNCN will present the latest information on the continuing efforts to reinstate the serious classical and modern music format that was terminated on November 7. The evening event is jointly sponsored by members of the Departments of Chemistry, Physics, and Music, and will feature, in addition to the representatives from WNCN, music played by Olga Irvine, cello, and Tamara Slobodkin, harpsichord. All interested persons—student, faculty, staff, and members of the Three Village area are cordially invited to attend.

University Chorus ★

The first full concert of the University Chorus will be presented on Saturday, December 7, at 8:30 p.m. in the Administration building lobby. The concert is free and open to the public.

The program will include two contrasting major works by Italian composers Ottorino Respighi, Laud to the Nativity, and Antonio Vivaldi, Gloria. The chorus, under the direction of Amy Kaiser, will be joined by an ensemble of woodwind and percussion instruments for the Respighi and by members of the University Orchestra for the Vivaldi. Vocal soloists for both pieces will be graduate voice students in the Department of Music.

SB Assembly ★

The Stony Brook Assembly Association will sponsor a party to baptize the newly installed bar in the Senior Commons Room on December 5 at 4 p.m. Members of the faculty and non-teaching professional staff, and their wives, are invited. The party will occur in the Senior Commons Room, located on the second floor of the Graduate Chemistry building.

Moses Biographer Exchange Programs ★

Robert Caro, author of "The Power Broker," the best-selling biography of Robert Moses, will give an informal lecture today, December 5, at 2 p.m. in the Stony Brook Union Auditorium. The lecture is open to all and is sponsored by the Frank Melville Jr. Library and the Program for Urban and Policy Sciences.

Students are invited to apply now for the summer and fall exchange programs in Russia and Poland. The summer program in Russia is open to all candidates with one year of Russian. The fall program in Russia is open to advanced students with proficiency in Russian language equal to three years of training. The summer and fall programs in Poland are open to all students with minimum of one year in Polish language. Students majoring in Theatre Arts and Music are particularly encouraged to apply.

For further information on these programs call the Department of Germanic and Slavic Languages at 6-6830 or Dr. Lucy Vogel at 6-6030. Literature on careers and opportunities for Russian language majors is available at the department offices, located on the third floor of the Library.

Unless Otherwise Noted, All Events Are Free and Everyone Is Welcome To Attend.

Personnel News The following message is addressed to all University employees from Lee Yasumura, Director of Personnel. This memorandum is intended to summarize various provisions relating to holidays in lieu of our releasing a separate memorandum just prior to each holiday. The Civil Service rules as well as the agreements between the State and CSEA, Council 82, and UUP, specify eleven legal holidays. On those legal holidays when classes are not in session Department Heads are strongly urged to grant all their employees time off. When classes are in session services essential to the operation of the academic program should be provided and Department Heads may schedule those employees to work whose services are deemed to be essential to the academic program. For employees who are required to work on a day observed as a holiday the following rules will apply: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. If they are classified service employees they will receive either Holiday Pay or Compensatory Time as they have previously elected. 2. If they are non-teaching unclassified service professionals they will be granted an equivalent day off to be scheduled at times mutually convenient to the employee and the University. 3. If they are Research Foundation employees either No. 1 or No. 2 above will apply depending upon the title of the employee (i.e. whether the employee is considered to be a classified equivalent employee or an unclassified professional).
NOTICE If you would like your event to appear in The University Calendar please fill out a Calendar/Scheduling Event Form available in the Stony Brook Union, Room 266 or at the Union Main Information Desk. Forms must be completed two weeks before the event in most cases.

Pinter Plays

Three works by the noted playwright Harold Pinter will be presented on campus during the first two weeks in December.

"The Homecoming," directed by Steven Inghima, is Pinter's almost chilling, not quite absurd look at a family. It will be performed five times on the evenings of December 4, 6, 8, 11, and 13.

"The Collection," a one-acter, directed by William Cohen, about sexual needs and sexual games, and "The Dumbwaiter," a one-act tale of two men and "the organization" directed by Arthur Masella, will be presented together on the evenings of December 5, 7, 10, 12, and 14.

The plays, presented in repertory by Theatre Arts students at the University, will begin at 8 p.m. in the Fanny Brice Theatre at the Stage XII residential colleges. Tickets are 25 cents and can be reserved in advance by calling 246,5681.
