

HAPPENINGS

FACULTY / STAFF / FRIENDS NEWSLETTER

STONY BROOK
STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK

VOLUME 7 NO. 8 DECEMBER 8, 1999

The campus community is invited to a memorial service

Celebrate Sylvia

in honor of the life of our friend and colleague
Sylvia Geoghegan

Tuesday,
December 14, 1999

4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.
Student Activities Center
Auditorium

'Tis the Season for Holiday Giving

For the last six years, through the generosity of University administrators, faculty, staff, and students, Winthrop Memorial Hospital staff, local schools, and community residents, the University's Holiday Gift Program was able to provide gifts and food to over 2,500 children and their families who live near or below the poverty level in Suffolk County.

Four years ago, the program established a pantry in Port Jefferson (Grt. Port Jefferson Food Pantry) to help those the program sponsors year round as they struggle to provide nutritionally balanced meals for their families. The Pantry now provides for over 800 households a month, translating into food for over 6,000 individuals.

If you would be interested in participating in this year's program, please contact Maryann Bell, Director of the Holiday Gift Program via e-mail at mbell@notes.cc.sunysb.edu.

Let's make this season of giving a truly meaningful one.

Centers for Molecular Medicine Dedicated

On November 12, the new Centers for Molecular Medicine and Biology Learning Laboratories was dedicated during a day-long celebration that attracted some of the leading scientific figures from across the nation. The $40 million facility, the first new academic building constructed at Stony Brook in 20 years, will house research centers featuring state-of-the-art equipment to aid breakthrough discoveries in biomedical research. The Biology Learning Laboratories, housed in the same building as the research centers, promotes frequent, direct contact between undergraduate students, graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, and faculty. The close juxtaposition of these state-of-the-art research and training facilities allows our next generation of leading scientists to get involved in biomedical research at an early stage in their careers.

Lt. Governor Mary O. Donohue (third from left) cuts the ribbon with help from (left to right) Vice President Norman Edelman, Assemblyman Steven Englebright, President Kenny, Vice President Gail Habicht, Suffolk County Legislator Vivian Fisher, and Richard Nasti, Chair of the Stony Brook Council.

"The Centers for Molecular Medicine and Biology Learning Laboratories embodies the Stony Brook spirit of ingenuity and inventiveness—to think unconventionally and creatively, to make the discoveries that will make life better, and to help our students realize their dreams," said President Kenny.

The dedication of the CMM/BLL began in the Student Activities Center with a morning program of scientific seminars introduced by Vice President of Research Gail Habicht. Speakers included: Thomas A. Seitz, Professor in the Department of Molecular Biophysics and Biochemistry at Yale University; Richard Axel, Professor at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute at Columbia University; Samuel C. Silverstein, the John C. Dalton Professor and Chairman of the Department of Physiology and Cellular Biophysics and Professor of Medicine at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons; and Bruce Stillman, the Director of the Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory.

An honorary degree was awarded to Bruce Alberts, President of the continued on page 3.

Football Team Wins TV Game

James Crawford rushed for 104 yards and scored two touchdowns as Stony Brook posted a 28-6 win in its season finale over St. John's Friday, November 26 at Seawolves Field. The game was televised live on Fox Cable Net TV. The Seawolves finished the 1999 campaign with a 5-5 record while the Red Storm fell to 7-4 on the year.

On Stony Brook's first play from scrimmage, the Seawolves ran a reverse pass with wide receiver Lucas Niskanen taking the reverse and then firing a strike downfield to fellow wideout Kevin Csoka for a 39-yard gain to the Red Storm 41-yard line. The team gained another 25 yards before Crawford caught a screen pass from Brian Stanley and rumbled 21 yards for a touchdown. The point after attempt was good and the Seawolves led 7-0. The score marked the first time this season that the Seawolves scored on their first possession of the game.

Stony Brook's final 5-5 record marked the first time the team has finished .500 or better since the 1996 season when it went 6-4 on the year.

Basketball Crowd Sets Record

It was a festive atmosphere at the Sports Complex on Tuesday, November 23 as the Stony Brook men's basketball team opened up the home campaign of its inaugural Division I season. Over 4100 fans — a new Sports Complex record — watched the Seawolves take on the St. John's Red Storm. The game received national media attention and was featured in all local New York daily newspapers, including Newsday, the New York Times, and the Daily News.

Stony Brook played tough but were eventually defeated in their home debut, 88-43. The Seawolves actually led three different times during the game's first six minutes — the last lead an 11-10 advantage with 14:16 remaining in the first half. Josh Little hit two three-pointers to help Stony Brook take the early lead.

Leading the Seawolves were Little and Chris Balliro, who each had 11 points in the loss. Following the St. John's game, the Seawolves have continued to face tough competition from Hofstra, Utah, and Drake.

Don't Forget!

December Commencement

Sunday, December 12

1:00 p.m.

Sports Complex

If you would like to volunteer for Commencement, please contact the Office of Conferences and Special Events at 632-6320.

Incoming Medical Students Welcomed

The incoming medical students in the School of Medicine (Class of 2003) were recently welcomed into the medical profession with a special white coat ceremony. The ceremony was emceed by Dr. Ann Richmond, Vice Dean for Academic Affairs and Faculty Development. Dr. Norman Edelman, Vice President of the Health Sciences Center and Dean of the School of Medicine, addressed the standing room only attendees that included the students, their families, and guests in the newly renovated lecture hall 1.

Dr. Edelman remarked on the privilege of entering the honored profession of medicine, the responsibility it bears and the unique position in which physicians find themselves being able to make a difference and of touching peoples' lives. Meredith McDowell, Class of 2002, next offered advice on the first and subsequent years of medical school. Following her address, students were coated by Dr. Jack Fuhrer, Associate Dean for Admissions, and Dr. Pierce Gardner, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. The students then took the Hippocratic Oath administered by Dr. Edelman.

Dr. Norman Edelman welcomes the Class of 2003 medical students.

Messiah Sing-Along Set for December 11

The Music Department at Stony Brook will present its annual Messiah Sing-Along on Saturday, December 11 at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall at the Staller Center for the Arts.

One of the few sing-alongs anywhere in the country that is accompanied by a full orchestra, this popular event has become a standing-room-only tradition at Stony Brook. The university Orchestra, with music director, Miriam Burns, will accompany the audience as they sing all of the choruses from the Christmas portion of the Messiah as well as the Amen and Hallelujah choruses. Voice students from the Music Department will sing the solos. Bring your own score or purchase one at the door. Admission is free, but donations to support the choral programs at Stony Brook are welcome.

For more information, call the Music department at 632-7330.

Student/Faculty/Staff Retreat Explores Community

How is Stony Brook a community? What else can it do to become an even more effective one? These and other questions were explored November 5 and November 6 at the University's 15th annual Student-Faculty-Staff Retreat, "Rising to a New Sense of Community."

The 60 retreat participants forged their own community, as they drew inspiration from Stony Brook's "Year of Community" activities—in spirit and in tangible ways. Retreat workshops focused on each of the six affirmations (see box, right) released earlier this year by the campus's "Year of Community" committee, devising concrete examples of how these six statements could become integrated into campus life.

The retreat participants show their community spirit.

The feedback was tabulated and organized into short-term and long-term recommendations. Among the long-term recommendations, notes Kevin Keenan, graduate student co-chair of the retreat, were offering faculty incentives to encourage innovative teaching, creating "service-based learning" (making community service a requirement of the undergraduate Diversified Education Curriculum), and increasing the physical and programmatic links between main campus and Health Sciences Center. Short-term recommendations included extending "Campus Lifetime" (the class-free period now set aside on Wednesdays for interaction and extracurricular activities) to two days a week; and the creation of "Safe Zones." (After receiving sensitivity training, University personnel would designate their office as a "Safe Zone," where students seeking haven from ethnic, gender, or other discrimination could go for help.)

"We focused on actions, not just ideas," said senior Claudine Stuart, the retreat's undergraduate student co-chair. One of her favorites was the proposed creation of a "Community Involvement Center," a centralized registry of all campus clubs, departments, and offices seeking interns, volunteers, or members. "This way a student who wants to get involved doesn't have to wander around looking for a place to put their talents to use. The information will be there for them, in one place."

The retreat's recommendations will be forwarded to the Year of Community committee and to committee chairs of the Five Year Plan, said Norm Prusslin, assistant director of the Department of Student Union and Activities and the Retreat Planning Committee's staff co-chair. "Our intention is to make the proceedings of the retreat available as a resource for these individuals, to use in any way that is helpful to them." Other members of the Retreat Planning Committee include David Ferguson, faculty co-chair; Mary Kritzer, faculty member; Lisa Labarbera, Polity representative; Yvette St. Jacques, administration member; and Marcia Wiener, advisor.

Patrick Calabria, director of media relations, attended the retreat from the vantage point of a new employee. "I got the sense, very quickly, that this was a topic people felt strongly about, and it was good to see the passion and seriousness that was invested during the weekend," he said. "What stuck with me was the idea that the campus community has to more than expect effective communication. We have to work together to create it."

Vice President for Student Affairs Fred Preston, whose office sponsors the Student-Faculty-Staff retreat, noted, "The retreat has made people sensitive to the fact that cultivating community is an ongoing and evolving effort that requires constant attention and planning." And, of the people who came together this year to explore "Rising to a New Sense of Community," Preston commented, "One of the key aspects of community is nurturing relationships between the many and varied campus groups. The retreat itself really does foster those kinds of lasting relationships."

Participants play "Stony Brook Jeopardy" as a way to learn about the University. From left to right: Howard Gimple, staff; Barbara Weinstein, faculty; Lisa Labarbera, Polity (at board); Erika Grumet, graduate assistant; Dan Weymouth, faculty; Brian McConnell, staff; and Jen Tokash, student.

Statement on Campus Community

As members of the University at Stony Brook, we acknowledge that the primary purpose of this community is education, including academic achievement, social development, and personal growth.

In committing ourselves to study and work at Stony Brook, we agree to promote equality, civility, caring, responsibility, accountability, and respect. We also recognize the importance of understanding and appreciating our differences and similarities.

As members of a respectful community, we will not encroach on the rights of others, either as individuals or as groups. We recognize that freedom of expression and opinion entails an obligation to listen to and understand the beliefs and opinions of others, and to treat others fairly.

We strive to be a responsible community. We are accountable individually for our personal behavior and development, and collectively for the welfare of the community itself.

We encourage all Stony Brook community members to celebrate and express pride in our community's academic, athletic, and social accomplishments, and to involve themselves in the surrounding local communities.

In affirming this statement, we commit ourselves to becoming dedicated, active, and full members of the University at Stony Brook in each and every role we assume.

University Hospital Needs Interpreters

University Hospital serves a diverse cultural population and good communication is essential in order to treat patients properly. A language barrier between a patient and a health care professional can stand in the way of providing proper medical care. To help address this issue, University Hospital maintains an in-house language bank of interpreters. The primary purpose is to provide non-English speaking patients and their families with an interpreter.

The hospital is appealing to our friends in the University community who are fluent in a foreign language to join us in this effort and volunteer for this service. Since illness is unpredictable and can occur at any time, evenings and weekends are also needed. This is the information we request: name, language of fluency, phone number, and hours/days of availability.

We urge you to share this request with staff, and students and help us in our efforts to provide a comprehensive interpretation service for patients and families at University Hospital.

If you have any questions, please call 444-2880. Thanks for your support.

CMM Dedication

continued from page 1.

National Academy of Sciences, whose remarks addressed the future of science education in the U.S. The official ribbon-cutting took place at 2:00 p.m. Lt. Governor Mary O. Donohue was present and gave a speech. In addition, Stony Brook celbrated the dedication of the "Pentagonal Column," a sculpture donated by the artist, Norman J. Mercer, which sits in the lobby of the new building.

Dr. Kenny and Dr. Bruce Alberts, Honorary Degree Recipient.

Each of the research centers—Structural Biology, Infectious Diseases, Developmental Genetics, and Cancer and Cancer Genetics—is designed to promote interdisciplinary interaction and collaboration among undergraduate students, graduate students, postdoctoral fellows, and faculty. Each center is headed by a director. Jorge L. Benach is Director of the Center for Infectious Diseases; Peter Gergen is Director of the Center for Development Genetics, a component of the Institute for Cell and Developmental Biology, which is headed by William J. Lennarz; Steven O. Smith is Director of the Center for Structural Biology; and Craig C. Malbon is the Interim Director of the Cancer Institute of Long Island, which is responsible for the Cancer and Cancer Genetics programs. William F. Collins III is Director of the Biological Learning Laboratories.

The six-story structure covers 120,000 square feet and is connected to the Life Sciences Building at the ground floor level and through two sky bridges, at the second and fourth floors. Each floor contains a conference room/library/lounge area for seminars, and the building is fully equipped for state-of-the-art telecommunications and computer use.

In the Spirit of Community

"All work is meant to be heart work: it comes out of our heart and goes to the heart. All authentic work is an effort to move other people's hearts... Work is the way adults return the blessing of being here to the next generation. Work is relationship. And other relationships such as friendship and mutuality and community and intimacy, I hope also come out of the same center."

— Matthew Fox, author.

Happenings would like to thank Suzanne Sullivan, Commuter Student Services, for sharing these inspiring quotes with us this semester.

Cornerstone Donors Honored at Reception

On November 18, some very special people were honored at a reception in the University Club. Members of the University's "Cornerstone Club" were honored for their generous donations to Stony Brook Cares, the University's combined fundraising campaign of the State Employees Federated Appeal and the United Way. Stony Brook Cares provides employees with the opportunity to assist others in the community who need the support of the health and human services agencies that benefit from the campaign. Cornerstone donors are those members of the campus community who have contributed $500 or more to the campaign. Dr. Frederick Preston, Vice President of Student Affairs and the Cornerstone Club Chair, and Dr. Gail Habicht, Vice President for Research and Chair of the 1999/2000 Stony Brook Cares campaign, hosted the reception to express their gratitude and appreciation to the Cornerstone donors.

Willie B. Edlow, Jr., President and CPO of Long Island's United Way, was the reception's keynote speaker. He took the opportunity to thank the University community in general, and the Cornerstone donors in particular, for their very important role in the SEFA/United Way campaign. Edlow talked about Success by Six, the United Way's initiative to promote the health and welfare of young children in the community. He indicated that it is the generosity of the community that has made such programs possible. He went on to express his personal appreciation to Stony Brook's Cornerstone donors. "The Cornerstone Club has, over the years, distinguished itself by being exceptionally generous to help those who have legitimate needs," Edlow emphasized. "I'd just like to thank each and every one of them for helping to sustain the quality of Life on Long Island."

Both Drs. Preston and Habicht thanked the Cornerstone donors for their support. "I can't over-accent how important the Cornerstones are," said Dr. Preston. He informed the group that as of November 18, contributions from Cornerstone members accounted for more than 40 percent of the total funds raised in the 1999/2000 Stony Brook Cares campaign. As a token of appreciation, Cornerstone members were presented with a commemorative pen, and offered their choice of complimentary tickets to one of three Staller Center presentations.

The 1999/2000 Stony Brook Cares campaign continues through December 17. If you would like to support this important effort, please contact Kristin Hilbert at 632-9347 for a participation packet.

Former Governor Unveils Monument Site

Former Governor of New York Hugh L. Carey, President Shirley Strum Kenny, Assemblyman Steven C. Englebright, Legislator Vivian Fisher, and Sergeant L. Ray Colon of the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs helped the Veterans Monument Task Force officially unveil the site for the Veterans Monument at Stony Brook at a special ceremony on November 10. The monument, which will honor all Long Island veterans, will be built in the courtyard in front of the Earth and Space Sciences building.

Governor Carey, a veteran of World War II, is the honorary chair of the Veterans Monument Task Force. During his keynote address, Carey urged the crowd to never forget about the veterans who "gave their last full measure of devotion and their lives so we could enjoy today in total freedom, peace, and justice."

Also speaking at the event were Englebright, Fisher, and Professor Sheldon Reaven, who conceived the idea for a monument at last year's Veterans Day celebration on campus. Christel Colón, chair of the Task Force, offered closing remarks. The Task Force hopes to complete the monument by Veterans Day, 2000.

Assemblyman Englebright, Deputy Chief of Police Douglas F. Little, Former Governor Hugh Carey, and Christel Colón, Veterans Affairs, at the ceremony.

Campaign Update

The 1999 Stony Brook Cares Campaign winds down its annual drive this month. The University thanks all who have contributed to the campaign, and encourages everyone to get involved in helping to raise money for the State Employees Federated Appeal and Long Island's United Way. The goal of this year's campaign is 100 percent employee participation. Last year, nearly 13 percent of our employees contributed $145,900 in funds.

To date, approximately 10.4 percent of our employees have contributed $130,280.

For more information on the campaign, visit the Stony Brook Cares Web site at <http://fsnt.gis.sunysb.edu/stonybrookcares/>.

HAPPENINGS

December 8, 1999 Volume 7, No. 8

Assistant Vice President for Communications:
Yvette St. Jacques

Director of Creative Services:
Joan Dickinson

Editor: Shelley Colwell

Writers: Shelley Colwell, Howard Gimple, Sue Risoli

Stony Brook Happenings is published biweekly during the academic year by the Office of Communications, 144 Administration, State University at Stony Brook, Stony Brook, NY 11794-0605. Requests to include items should be submitted at least two weeks prior to print date. Phone: 631-632-6334. Fax: 631-632-6313. Reprint permission on request. © 1999.

The State University at Stony Brook is an affirmative action/equal opportunity educator and employer. This publication is available in alternative format on request.

The New Phone Book is Here!

The faculty/staff phone directories have arrived. Books will be distributed to all departments between December 6 and December 17. Please check with your department administrator for your copy. If you need to request additional copies, please contact Tom LaRusso, Mail Services Manager, at 632-6231.

Winter Holiday Reminders

In case of inclement weather, remember to call 632-SNOW or 444-SNOW for information on possible school closings.

Celebrating Recycling

On November 15th, the University participated in "America Recycles Day." This national contest, now in its third year, has inspired millions of people to participate by voluntarily signing a pledge that they will recycle more at work, at home, and will buy products made out of recycled content. The winner will be chosen December 15, 2000. Additional prizes for youths and adults will be awarded by New York State as well.

The theme this year has been "For Our Children's Future...Buy Recycled Today." The goal of the contest is to increase purchases of recycled products and recycling throughout America so that we conserve resources for future generations. In addition, this will help "close the loop" on recycling by generating the demand for secondary materials. For our efforts on November 15th, Stony Brook received approximately 1,000 pledges. In appreciation for participating, pencils made out of recycled currency and recycled denim were handed out to participants with the University 4R's printed on them — Reduce, Reuse, Recycle, and Rethink. In addition, large three foot biodegradable Earth balloons were site attractions.

President Shirley Strum Kenny is flanked by (from left to right), Judy Gregory, Gary Matthews, Bernie Giloni, Maureen Kottlas, and Michael Youdelman at the Administration Pledge Booth (one of seven locations on campus that day).

Opera Scenes Set for December 14

On Tuesday, December 14, the Stony Brook Opera Ensemble will present "An Evening of Opera Scenes." Featured in the program are scenes from two different settings of the Cinderella story, the first by the Italian composer Gioachino Rossini and the second by the Frenchman Jules Massenet.

The rest of the program includes the Card Scene from Bizet's Carmen, the Spinning Scene from Benjamin Britten's The Rape of Lucretia, and the Act I, scene II of Mozart's Le nozze di Figaro.

The program features graduate and undergraduate voice students in the Department of Music. The scenes will be sung in the original languages, and accompanied by piano. David Lawton, Chair of the Music Department, is the Music Director, and Richard Cross, Performing Artist in Residence, the Stage Director.

The performance will be held at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Staller Center. Tickets are $6 for general admission, $3 for students and seniors. Call the Staller Center Box Office at 632-ARTS to order tickets. For more information about the performance, call the Music department at 632-7330.

CALENDAR December 8 - December 22

ART/MUSIC/THEATRE

12/9, Thursday. Jazz. Directed by Dan Faulk. Faulk is a rising young star in the tenor saxophone world; he has appeared with J.J. Johnson, Wynton Marsalis, Rufus Reid, and many others, and has released two CDs under his own leadership. Dan also apprenticed with jazz legends Barry Harris and Benny Golson. Recital Hall, Staller Center. 8 p.m. Main Stage, Staller Center. Tickets: $6/ Students and seniors $4. For information, call 632-ARTS.

12/11, Sunday. Messiah Sing-Along. A Stony Brook seasonal tradition. "Part One" features University Orchestra, guest soloists, and conductors. Scores will be available for purchase at the door. For more information about the choral ensembles, call Dr. Timothy Mount 632-7329 or 632-7330. For ticket information, call 632-ARTS. Free. 8 p.m. Recital Hall, Staller Center.

12/14, Tuesday. Opera Scenes. Staged scenes from standard operas featuring singers pursuing studies in the University's vocal programs. Music is performed in the original languages with piano accompaniment. David Lawton, Conductor; Richard Cross, Director. General admission, $6, students and senior citizens, $4. 8 p.m. Recital Hall, Staller Center For information, call 632-ARTS.

12/13, Monday; 12/15, Monday. Chamber Music Festival. Nights of outstanding performances by music department students, featuring chamber music from the Baroque to the present. 8 p.m. Recital Hall, Staller Center. For ticket information, call 632-ARTS. For additional information, please call 632-7330.

SPECIAL EVENTS

12/7, Tuesday to 12/9, Thursday. Plant Sale. 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Stony Brook Union Lobby, Stony Brook Union. Free. For information, call 632-6823.

12/8, Wednesday. 2nd Annual Holiday Song Festival—Celebrating Campus Cultural Diversity. 12:45 p.m. to 2 p.m. University Bookstore, Melville Library. Free. For information, call 632-9747.

12/12, Sunday. December Graduation. 1 p.m. Main Arena, Sports Complex. Call 632-6320 if you would like to volunteer.

SEMINARS/LECTURES

12/8, Wednesday. Women's Health Series: Dealing with Obesity. This lecture is part of an ongoing public lecture series sponsored by Department of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Medicine, University Hospital and Medical Center. Dr. Stephen Salmieri will review the cause of obesity and realistic approaches to weight loss. The wide dimension of the approaches will include medical, behavioral, physical and complementary medicine. 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Middle Country Public Library Cultural Center, 575 Middle Country Road, Selden, NY 11784. Call 583-9393 extension 4 to register.

12/9, Thursday. Pain Series Seminar. Dr. Ronald Dubner, University of Maryland, will discuss "Activity-dependent plasticity and phenotypic changes in descending pain-modulatory circuits after inflammation." Room 038, Life Sciences Building. Call the Department of Neurobiology and Behavior at 632-8616 for more information.

12/9, Thursday. Geosciences Fall 1999 Colloquia. Peter Schulz, Brown University, "Late Cenozoic Impacts in Argentina: Evidence and Implications." Host Dan Davis. 4 p.m., Room 123, Earth and Space Sciences Building. For more information, contact Donald Lindsley (dlindsley@ccmail.sunysb.edu).

12/9, Thursday. Department of Biochemistry and Cell Biology Seminar Series. Dr. Mary Ann Osley, Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, will discuss "Chromatin Remodeling and the Regulation of Gene." 4 p.m., Room 038, Life Sciences Building.

12/9, Thursday. Nutrition and Wellness Seminar. A talk on the "Prevention of Cardiovascular Diseases" will be held from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Long Island High Tech Incubator. Information will be discussed on how to use lifestyle and nutrition to reduce the risk of heart attack, diabetes, and all other chronic diseases. Admission is $7 if pre-registered, $10 at the door. Call 751-4267 or 698-8831 for more information.

12/10, Friday. Input Distribution and Transformation of Organic Radiocarbon in the Coastal Ocean. Speaker: Jim Bauer, Virginia Institute of Marine Sciences. Host: Cyndy Lee. 12:30 p.m. Endeavour Hall 120, Marine Sciences Research Center. Free. For information, call 632-8678.

12/13, Monday. Skin Wellness and Cancer Awareness. Skin care specialist Ellen M. Vanacore will educate and share information on how women can take care of their skin. Part of the Menopause Support Group's Monthly Meetings. All meetings are held at 14 Research Way, Technology Park. 6:45 p.m. to 8:15 p.m. Call 444-4393 to register.

Caring, Sharing, Giving Help Make Our Giving Tree Flourish!

Make a donation and have your personalized ornament hung on the Giving Tree, located in University Hospital's lobby.

Support an area of your choice:

- Babies and Children Memorial Garden
- Cancer Center
- Hospital/Medical Center Designated Department
- Patient Care
- Research Gift Program
- Sunrise Fund

For more information, please call the Hospital's Alumni and Development Office at 444-2899.

Everyone making a donation to the Giving Tree will be entered in a special drawing to win a Millennium Basket. Drawing will be held on January 10, 2000.

Employee Assistance Program December Workshop

Caring for Caregivers

Friday, December 17
11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.
Health Sciences Center
L3, Room 171.

Please contact the EAP for further information and reservations at 632-6085. For more details and a list of upcoming seminars, visit our Web site at: www.sunysb.edu/eap.