

HAPPENINGS

STONY BROOK

STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK

FACULTY / STAFF / FRIENDS NEWSLETTER

VOLUME 12 NO. 3 September 22, 2004

Fall Pride Patrol

Wednesday, October 6

The University's 10th Annual Fall Pride Patrol will take place on Wednesday, October 6. For those unfamiliar with this event, it occurs twice a year, in the spring and fall, and is dedicated to beautifying the campus grounds. It is a volunteer effort that asks only a few hours during the normal work day. You can choose to participate from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. or from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

All volunteers are invited to attend the Apple Festival, sponsored by the Faculty Student Association and Campus Dining Services, scheduled for 3:30 p.m. in the main lobby of the Wang Center. There will be many prizes and also giveaways for everyone. Those who have worked five or ten years of Fall Pride Patrol will be given thank-you gifts during the Festival.

For a sign-up sheet, stop by the Office of Conferences and Special Events, 301 Wang Center, or call the office at 632-6320.

Universal Healthcare: Is It a Reality?

Symposium on October 14

The University's new Graduate Program in Public Health will be holding an inaugural symposium, "Universal Health Coverage: Can It Be Achieved?" on Thursday, October 14, from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the Health Sciences Center Galleria, Level 3. The symposium is free, open to everyone, and it includes lunch.

The keynote speaker is Paul Ginsburg, Ph.D., President of the Center for Studying Health System Change. Other speakers include Oliver Fein, M.D., Weill Medical College of Cornell University; David Himmelstein, M.D., Harvard Medical School and co-founder of Physicians for a National Health Program; and Mark Schlesinger, Ph.D., Yale School of Public Health.

For more information and a registration form, go to www.hsc.stonybrook.edu/public_health_program or call Pat Villa at 444-2074.

Final Reminder!

Call for Nominations Due 9/23

Nomination forms for Distinguished Service Professor and Distinguished Teaching Professor need to be submitted by September 23. The full nomination packet is then due by November 18.

The deadline for the five Chancellor's/President's Awards for Excellence in: Faculty Service, Librarianship, Professional Service, Scholarship and Creative Activities, and Teaching, is also Thursday, November 18.

For information, call 632-7016 or visit www.sunysb.edu/pres.

wolfstock2004

A Homecoming Tradition Friday, October 1, and Saturday, October 2

Schedule of Events

Friday, October 1

Special Alumni Lecture, 5:00 p.m., Charles B. Wang Center Auditorium. Marvel at the wonders of Saturn at this special event with alumna Carolyn Porco (B.A. 1974), leader of the Imaging Science Team for NASA's Cassini mission, who will discuss "In Orbit! The Voyage of Cassini to Saturn."

Parade, 8:00 p.m., Toll Drive. Experience "Medieval Times" as students parade their floats and banners.

Saturday, October 2

Wolfstock Village, 11:00 a.m.–2:00 p.m., Fields next to LaValle Stadium.

Kids Zone with petting zoo, face and pumpkin painting, magicians, arts and crafts, and more. Alumni Food Pavilion features tastes from some of Long Island's best restaurants, wineries, and breweries (opens at 12:00 p.m.). Make valuable connections at the Career and Alumni Networking tent and see what's new on campus by visiting the University Expo Center. Meet up with old friends at the Reunion Tent for "Five-Year" reunions (Classes of '64, '69, '74, '79, '84, '89, '94, and '99). A special Reunion Breakfast will be held at 10:00 a.m. prior to the opening of Wolfstock Village.

Homecoming Football Game, 2:00 p.m., LaValle Stadium.

Stony Brook Seawolves vs. Robert Morris University's Colonials. Gala Halftime Show features the presentation of Homecoming King and Queen and the winning student floats and banners.

After Game Party, 5:00 p.m.–8:00 p.m., Wolfstock Village.

The post-game Wolfstock Barbeque features great food and live music.

For more information, please visit the Alumni Association's Web site at www.stonybrookalumni.edu.

All Six Undergraduate Colleges Are Underway

The final three professors have been selected as faculty directors of the Undergraduate Colleges. Paul Bingham, Associate Professor of Biochemistry, will oversee the College of Human Development; Manuel London, Professor of Business Management and Associate Provost, will direct the College of Leadership and Service; and Michael Schwartz, Professor of Sociology, will lead the College of Global Studies.

Bingham has been on the faculty of the Department of Biochemistry for more than 20 years. He is known for his commitment to innovative undergraduate education. Bingham's research activities are diverse, including cancer chemotherapy and the scientific problems of human evolution and human history.

London has served as Associate Provost for Enrollment and Retention Management for the last seven years and is a member of the Harriman School faculty. Before coming to Stony Brook 15 years ago, he held research and management positions with AT&T and was on the faculty of the College of Business at the University of Illinois at Champaign. His research interests are in the areas of performance assessment, career development, and group dynamics.

Schwartz has taught at Stony Brook since 1970. He has written extensively on the war in Iraq and more broadly on business structure, political sociology, and the dynamics of popular protest and insurgency. His books include Radical Politics and Social Structure, The Power Structure of American Business, and The Business Elite as a Ruling Class. He has been part of many pioneering educational innovations and is a recipient of the Chancellors Award for Excellence in Teaching.

The directors of the other three colleges were announced previously. The College of Arts, Culture, and Humanities is directed by Perry Goldstein, Associate Professor of Music; the College of Information and Technology Studies is led by Imin Kao, Associate Professor of Mechanical Engineering; and the College of Science and Society is directed by Jeffrey Levinton, Professor of Ecology and Evolution. The Undergraduate Colleges are an important part of creating an undergraduate education program competitive with the best of Stony Brook's public research university peers.

University Convocation

All students, faculty, and staff are invited to attend.

Wednesday, September 22
4:00 p.m.

Charles B. Wang Center
Theatre

Reception Immediately
Following in the Wang Center
Theatre Lobby

Join President Kenny for Her Annual State of the University Address and
Introduction of Stony Brook's
New Faculty Members

Iain Matthews at the University Café

Sunday, October 3

Opening the Sunday Concert Series this fall at the University Café is a rare U.S. appearance by Iain Matthews on Sunday, October 3, at 2:00 p.m. (doors open at 1:00 p.m.).

Since his emergence as a founding member of the Fairport Convention in 1968, Matthews has been one of the most innovative and active artists on the contemporary folk scene. His work with Fairport, his own Matthews Southern Comfort (and their U.K. hit recording of Joni Mitchell's "Woodstock"), the quartet Plainsong, and his solo albums reveal Matthews to be a very prolific artist who is at home in a variety of musical genres.

He also experimented with new wave and techno pop in the late 70's, followed by a decade recording in Texas, with some highly acclaimed solo albums. Matthews then relocated to Europe. His latest CD, Zumbach's Coat, has just been released in the United States, adding to his catalogue of more than 30 solo releases.

For his University Café gig, Matthews will be accompanied by guitarist/songwriter Al Vanderveen. James O'Malley will open. His new CD is If Only in My Dreams.

Tickets are $15 at the door. For reservations, call 632-6027. Future shows in the series include Terence Martin on November 14 and Eric Andersen on December 5. Watch Happenings for more details.

Chamber Music Workshop Auditions

Monday, September 27

Auditions for the Stony Brook Pre-College and Community Music Programs Adult Chamber Music Workshop will be held on Monday, September 27, at 7:00 p.m. The workshops are open to dedicated adult musicians of all levels of ability.

Ensembles for strings, woodwinds, brass, piano, and voice will be formed based on performance level and the best possible instrumentation. Pre-existing groups are also welcome. Ensembles will be coached by well-known and experienced musicians. The workshops will be eight weeks in length and include six 90-minute coaching sessions, culminating in a recital in the Staller Center Recital Hall on December 5. The fee is $225 for the eight-week session.

Please call Edith Auner at 632-7328 or e-mail Edith.Auner@stonybrook.edu to schedule an appointment and for more information.

The "Rising Stars Talent Show"

Sunday, October 2

The Sunrise Fund, in conjunction with the Department of Pediatric Hematology/Oncology at Stony Brook University Hospital, will be presenting the "Rising Stars Talent Show," on Sunday, October 2, at 2:00 p.m. in the Student Activities Center. The program is free, no tickets are needed, and seating is open.

The show will feature a variety of acts by children with cancer and blood disorders, their family members, staff, and community members. "Rising Stars" provides an opportunity for these children to express themselves through theatre arts while enhancing their sense of accomplishment and helping them regain their confidence. There will be a special guest appearance by pianist, composer, and speaker Matthew Zachary.

For more information, please contact B.J. Isaacson at 444-7206.

5K Run/Walk for Children

Sunday, October 17

The 16th Annual Run/Walk for Children will be held on Sunday, October 17, at Gelinas Junior High in Setauket. The race begins at 9:30 a.m., with registration starting at 7:30 a.m.

The event will benefit the Child Life Program at Stony Brook University Hospital, with all proceeds going directly to the Pediatric Playroom. All are welcome to participate.

To pre-register, please visit www.Active.com. For information, call 444-3840.

Become a LISVH Volunteer

The Long Island State Veterans Home (LISVH), located on campus, is always in need of volunteers to help with therapeutic recreation, especially evenings and weekends. Spend some time helping a veteran enjoy life or assist a department to provide services for a veteran. Contact Susan Helmus at 444-8590 for more information.

Achievement Award Named after Sister Margaret

When Sister Margaret Ann Landry, RSHM, Catholic Campus Ministry program leader, was honored with the University's Lifetime Achievement Advisor Award in 2003, she was the first such person on campus to be singled out for the accomplishment. This year, at the Campus Life Awards ceremony, the award was named after her.

Norm Prusslin and Sister Margaret Landry with their awards.

What most pleases the tireless leader, counselor, and friend of thousands of students is that she was nominated and selected for the award by the students themselves. President Kenny put it this way: "It is rare to attend a University function and not see Sister Margaret. I often hear people say, 'Sister seems to be everywhere.'"

Her involvement with students spans a wide range of activities, including an honorary member of the Golden Key, co-coordinator of the Student Ambassador Program, advisor for the Oxfam America Committee, founder and coordinator of the Peer Minister Program, and advisors to two fraternities and a sorority.

This year's honoree of the Sister Margaret Ann Landry Lifetime Achievement Award was Norman Prusslin, who marked his 30th year of service at Stony Brook in 2003.

"I am particularly humbled to learn that the award was tied into a campus recognition of my three decades of service to Stony Brook. Receiving it from the students made it extra special," said Prusslin, who oversees all of the various media organizations for students on campus. He was completely surprised by the award nomination. Prusslin served on the planning committee, so a colleague agreed to substitute her name until the award ceremony. Prusslin said that as Dean Stein described the nominee, it dawned on him that they were actually describing his achievements.

Come and Enjoy the New SAC Courtyard

The new SAC courtyard is an inviting place to sit, relax, and enjoy the scenery.

When he first walked into his new office in the summer of 2002, Dean of Students Jerry Stein looked down at the courtyard that stood between the first and second phases of the Student Activities Center and thought that the SAC courtyard could be like the courtyard gardens that grace the Residential Colleges at Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

That's when he turned to Rich Wolcott, Director of Facilities Operations for the SAC, and Jack Franqui, Facilities Manager of the SAC, and asked them to create a place where students, faculty, and staff could relax, converse, and dine. Their response was overwhelmingly positive, and it was only a matter of time before Franqui was able to assemble a group of about 15 dedicated staff and student volunteers to begin planting a wide variety of perennials and annuals. With the support and guidance of Mike Axelrod, Curator of the Life Sciences Greenhouse, Franqui and his volunteers created a picturesque garden. Wolcott then proposed moving the teak benches to the grassy area and ordered several round tables, chairs, and green market umbrellas for the bluestone patio.

Looking down from his window, Dean Stein now sees the pride of the students, faculty, and staff who enjoy this colorful garden daily. Many visitors and community members use it as a backdrop for their photographs when they come to the SAC.

"This garden and the beautification of the courtyard have not only made a difference for the people who use it, but it has had a tremendous impact on the people who created it. They are proud of their work and we should be proud of them," said Dean Stein.

Career Center Celebrates Awards

Marianna Savoca

On Thursday, September 9, the Career Center held its second "Career Center Partnership Celebration" at the Wang Center to thank its employer and faculty partners and recognize outstanding contributions to student career development.

Marianna Savoca, Director of the Career Center, addressed the 130 guests with opening remarks outlining the Center's accomplishments in 2003-2004. Kudos the Center received this year included:

- Recognized by JP Morgan Chase as a model school for recruitment in their application delivery program.
- Recognized by Citigroup as a major partner in their recruitment success at Stony Brook.
- Received Program of the Year 2004 for "Peer Career Advising Internship Program" by the Long Island College Student Personnel Association, which designates one recipient each year from among all colleges and universities on Long Island.
- Received partnership awards from two student organizations: the Society of Hispanic Professional Engineers and the Society of Women Engineers.
- Staffer Patricia Hayes received the 200% Award from the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs for her outstanding contribution to the division and to Stony Brook.
- Received the award for Best Faculty Staff Garden with faculty partner Michelle Millar from the Chemistry Department.

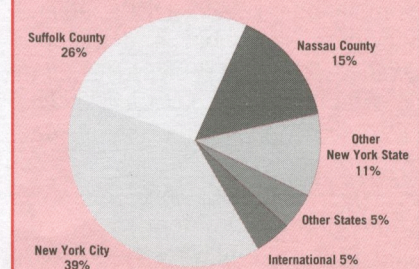

Major award recipients were presented to these outstanding partners:

- Faculty Partner of the Year: Robert Ettl, College of Business.
- Staff Partner of the Year: Diana Voss, Instructional Computing.
- Non-Profit Partner of the Year: YAI: National Institute for People with Disabilities.
- Corporate Partner of the Year: Citigroup.

Receiving the award for Citigroup was alumnus Peter Remch ('72), Director of Client Services Technology, who has worked tirelessly on Stony Brook's behalf.

SB STAT

Geographic Origin of Full-Time Freshmen

*Fall 2004

Prepared by the Office of Institutional Research

Lunchtime Learning

October 5, 7, 8, and 15

The Employee Assistance Program (EAP) is offering three Lunchtime Learning workshops. To register, call EAP at 632-6085. Please feel free to bring your lunch.

"When Love Hurts" will help you identify warning signs of potentially dangerous relationships and will provide ways in which to respond to these signs. It will be held on Tuesday, October 5, from 12:00 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. in SAC Room 311.

"Empty Nest Syndrome" will look at the top issues and challenges in the empty nest years, when children have left the home and parents often deal with stress, anxiety, identity crisis, and heartache. It will be held on Thursday, October 7, from 12:00 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. in SAC Room 311.

"Maintaining Healthy Relationships" is a two-part workshop, with Part I on Friday, October 8, and Part II on Friday, October 15. Both will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in HSC Classroom 272. Topics include effective listening techniques, enhancing communication, and guidelines for fair fighting.

Family Literacy Day Comes to SB

Volunteer for October 16

SCOPE Education Services, a non-profit organization, has joined with the University to provide an alternative solution to the growing epidemic of a decline in literacy reading. On Saturday, October 16, at the Sports Complex, SCOPE will hold its third annual Family Reading Fun Fest from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Suffolk County Executive Steve Levy has declared October 16 Family Literacy Day.

The Family Reading Fun Fest will be host to literary authors reading their books, celebrity guests, a performance from "Seussical the Musical," arts and crafts, and a book fair. Free books will be distributed to the first 1,000 registrants. ESL assistance will be provided at this multicultural event, which will demonstrate to families that reading can be fun and to get them involved in literacy.

To register for the Fun Fest, call (877) 616-3478. If you are interested in volunteering for this event, please contact Terri Abruzzo at SCOPE at (631) 360-0800 or by e-mail at TAbruzzo@scopeonline.us.

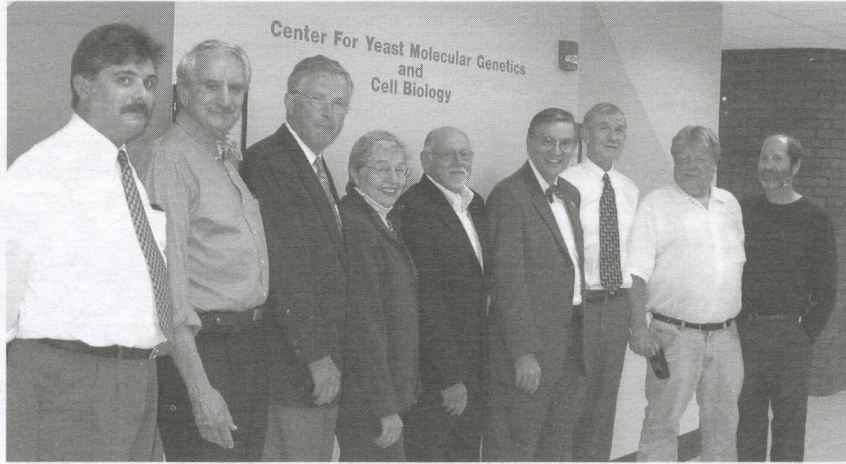

Library Spotlight

Friends of the Library Events

On Tuesday, October 5, Dr. Herbert Leupold from General Technical Services will discuss "The Magnetics Revolution" at 7:30 p.m. in the Javits Room on the second floor of the Melville Library. Co-sponsored by the Science Club of Long Island.

On Tuesday, October 19, Dr. Michael Bell, Professor from the Department of Ecology and Evolution at Stony Brook, will lecture on "Bridging the Gap Between Genetics and Paleontology" at 7:30 p.m. in the Javits Room on the second floor of the Melville Library. Co-sponsored by the Science Club of Long Island.

Center for Yeast Molecular Genetics Gets a Makeover

(L-R): Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Edward McFadden III; architect Gerald Schiff; Provost Robert McGrath; President Kenny; Department of Biochemistry and Cell Biology Chair Dr. Bill Lennarz; Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences Jim Staros; Center Director Rolf Sternglanz; Project Manager Robert Woods; and Professor Dale Deutsch.

The Center for Yeast Molecular Genetics and Cell Biology has just benefited from a total makeover, mirroring the importance of the work that takes place within its four quadrants, which contain 24 labs and multiple adjunct facilities. The Center also houses a microarray facility, which examines gene processes, and an autoclave, used for sterilization.

The renovation culminated in a celebratory ceremony on September 1 in the Center's new home on the third floor of the Life Sciences Building. Guests were treated to a tour of some of the spaces where groundbreaking research will be conducted in the years to come. "I know that great and important work will be done here," said President Kenny.

During the year that the overhaul of its spaces was taking place, federal grants necessitated that research continue uninterrupted. Twenty-five moves were made, according to Biochemistry Professor Dale Deutsch, who directed the project.

Why does the study of the organism that helps make beer and bread deserve its very own center? According to Rolf Sternglanz, the Director of the Yeast Center, the studies using three different kinds of yeast containing 5,000 genes have therapeutic potential for new drugs for cancer and other diseases. "A lot of basic processes are the same between ourselves and yeast," he said. "It's many times faster to conduct experiments with yeast than people."

For Professor Nancy Hollingsworth, the new center means more than just a physical upgrade. "There's the synergism of many more interactions with colleagues now, not just on the faculty level but with our post-doctorate and undergraduate students."

"Yeast has a nucleus like human cells have," said Hollingsworth. "What we learn about yeast is true for human cells. And unlike, [experimenting with] mice, no one cares if you use yeast."

The Center was completed with $2 million in funding from the National Institutes of Health and the Office of the Vice President for Research at Stony Brook. Dr. William Lennarz, Chair of the Department of Biochemistry and Cell Biology, said that the seven investigators in the Yeast Center already have $4 million in federal grants. The University generates roughly $150 million annually in research funding.

SB Libraries to Host Automatic ID Conference

Wednesday, October 20, at Charles B. Wang Center

Stony Brook—home to a unique collection of archival materials relating to the history and growth of the Automatic Identification/Data Capture (AIDC) industry, the AIDC 100, and the Center of Excellence in Wireless and Information Technology—will host a conference on Wednesday, October 20, to provide users, suppliers, and technology vendors in the Automatic ID industry with a clear vision of the contentious issues arising between RFID and Bar Coding.

"Truth in Technologies 2004: RFID and Bar Codes" will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Charles B. Wang Center and will feature leading figures from the industry. Major organizations have announced that their suppliers must provide products at various levels with RFID tags. Misleading press articles have stated that Bar Codes are nearing the end of their useful life. This forum is designed to clarify issues and improve relations between users and suppliers so that the implementation process becomes smoother, quicker, and mutually beneficial.

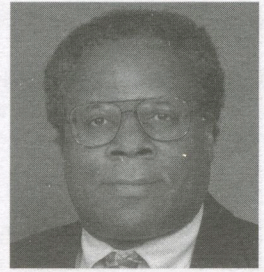

This international event will include speakers from the "user" community who will clarify the real facts about those companies who are dictating the implementation of RFID. A panel of European representatives will provide insight as to the state of RFID implementation in that part of the world. Senior Technology Provider executives will serve on a panel and address "state of readiness" positions and respond to the participant's questions.

The Melville Library houses the AIDC 100 Archive, which includes documents, financial reports, market studies, and other papers related to the industry. These materials are available as a resource to be used by students, scholars, financial analysts, reporters, and the industry.

The cost for the forum is $125 prior to October 1 and $175 after October 1. Lunch is included. A special $50 rate is available for students who register before October 1 ($60 thereafter). For registration and more information, please visit www.aidc.org.

PROVOST'S LECTURE SERIES

Thursday, September 23
4:00 p.m.
Charles B. Wang Center
Lecture Hall 2

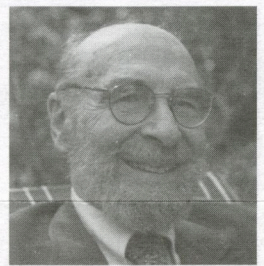

David L. Ferguson

"Inclusivity and Excellence in Science and Engineering Education: Stony Brook University as a Rising Star"

Distinguished Service Professor and Chair of the Department of Technology and Society, Stony Brook University

1997 Recipient of the U.S. Presidential Award for Excellence in Science, Mathematics, and Engineering Mentoring

Wednesday, September 29
4:00 p.m.
Charles B. Wang Center
Lecture Hall 2

Bruce Mazlish

"Globalization: An Endless Frontier?"

Professor of History Emeritus, Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Author of The Uncertain Sciences and The Co-Evolution of Humans and Machines

Friday, October 1
5:00 p.m.
Charles B. Wang Center
Theatre

Carolyn Porco

"In Orbit! The Voyage of Cassini to Saturn"

Cassini Imaging Team Leader and Director, Cassini Imaging Central Laboratory for Operations, Space Science Institute, Boulder, Colorado
Stony Brook University Alumna (B.S. 1974)

Co-sponsored by the Department of Physics and Astronomy

Learn How to Handle Stress

A series of four workshops will focus on meditation as a core experience for stress management. Participants will be introduced to several forms of meditation, including breathing techniques, the stress relaxation response, mindfulness meditation, walking meditations, and heart-centered meditations.

Other aspects of stress management that will be discussed are sound nutrition, movement, sleep practices, time management and prioritization, awareness of thought patterns, and related emotions.

The workshops will be held on the following Wednesdays: October 20, November 3, 10, and 17, from 5:30 p.m. to 6:45 p.m. at 33 Research Way, East Setauket.

The cost to attend the stress management workshops is $80 for all four sessions, which must be paid in full at the time of registration. For information on any of the above programs, please call the Division of Wellness and Chronic Illness at 444-9815.

Office of Diversity & Affirmative Action

Upcoming Events

Thursday, September 23

Sexual Harassment Prevention, 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., HSC (room to be announced). Call Pat at 632-4501 to register.

Thursday, September 23

A special showing of Farmingville, the award-winning documentary about Long Island hate crimes, will be presented from 4:00 p.m.-6:00 p.m., Wang Center, Room 102. Call Jean at 632-6280 to register. The attempted murders of two Mexican day laborers catapulted a Long Island town into national headlines. Farmingville is more than a story about illegal immigration; it challenges us to ask what the "American dream" really means.

Upcoming Events

"A Place for Edward Said in Asian America"
Wednesday, September 22, 12:45 p.m., Lecture Hall 1. Admission is free. In commemoration of the first anniversary of the death of cultural analyst and activist Edward Said, excerpts of On Orientalism will be shown with a discussion on how this controversial masterwork radically influenced the current understanding of Asianness and its relationship to the West.

Film: Control Room

Tuesday, September 28, 7:00 p.m., Wang Theatre. Admission: $5 general, students free. A chronicle of the inner-workings of Al Jazeera, the Arab world's most popular news agency, this documentary provides a counterpoint to mainstream American coverage of the Iraq war.

Art Opening and Reception for "Asian Latin America: New Photos from Cuba by Ayame Mizutome"

Wednesday, September 29, 5:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m., Latin American and Caribbean Studies (LACS) Gallery, Social and Behavioral Sciences Building, Room N-320. The exhibit runs until Friday, December 10. Japanese photographer Ayame Mizutome evokes the complex lives of this little-known diaspora in the Americas. Sponsored by LACS.

Japanese Animation Film Series

All showings 7:00 p.m., Wang Theatre. Co-sponsored with the Japan Center. Each film will be preceded by introductory remarks and followed by discussion. Admission is free. For more details about these films, please visit the Wang Center Web site, listed below.

Thursday, October 7: Spirited Away

Wednesday, October 13: Princess Mononoke

Thursday, October 21: Millennium Actress

Tuesday, October 26: Ramayana: The Legend of Prince Rama

For a complete listing of Wang events, visit www.stonybrook.edu/wang.

SHTM Alumni Lecture Series

Friday, October 1

The 11th Annual School of Health Technology and Management (SHTM) Distinguished Alumni Lecture Series and Awards Presentation will be held on Friday, October 1, at 12:00 p.m. in Lecture Hall 1, Level 2, HSC.

This yearly Homecoming event recognizes the accomplishments, activities, and service of several SHTM alumni who have become leaders in their profession and community. For more information, call 444-3621.

Correction

In the article "Giving Inner Peace a Chance on Campus," which ran in the September 8 issue of Happenings, United University Professions (UUP) should have been listed as one of the sponsors of the new labyrinth on campus.

HAPPENINGS

September 22, 2004, Volume 12, No. 3

Assistant Vice President for Communications:

Yvette St. Jacques

Director of Editorial Services:

Joanne Morici

Editor:

Lynne Roth

Writers:

Pat Calabria, Glenn Jochum, Lynne Roth

Art Director:

Karen Leibowitz

Happenings is published biweekly during the academic year by the Office of Communications, 144 Administration, Stony Brook University, Stony Brook, NY 11794-0605. Requests to include items should be submitted at least two weeks prior to print date. Phone: (631) 632-4217. Fax: (631) 632-4093. Reprint permission on request. © 2004

Stony Brook University is an affirmative action/equal opportunity educator and employer. This publication is available in alternative format on request.

SEAWOLVES

For more information about Seawolves events, please call 632-WOLF or visit www.goseawolves.org. All games are at Kenneth P. LaValle Stadium.

Men's Soccer

Wednesday, September 29
vs. Adelphi, 7:00 p.m.

Sunday, October 3
vs. UMBC, 1:00 p.m.

Women's Soccer

Friday, September 24
vs. Howard, 7:00 p.m.

Sunday, September 26
vs. Fairfield, 2:30 p.m.

Upcoming Seawolves Football

Saturday, October 2
vs. Robert Morris, 2:00 p.m.

Saturday, October 9
vs. Hofstra, 6:00 p.m.

CALENDAR SEPTEMBER 22 TO OCTOBER 15

ART/MUSIC/THEATRE

Now to 10/16, Saturday. Faculty Artists Exhibit. "Recent Visions" features the work of Stephanie Dinkins, Christa Erickson, Grady Gerbracht, and Nobuho Nagasawa. For more information, call 632-7240. University Art Gallery, Staller Center.

10/3, Sunday. Michael Feinstein. The talented cabaret singer and piano man opens the Staller season. For tickets, call 632-ARTS. 7:00 p.m. Main Stage, Staller Center. Tickets: $38.

10/9, Saturday. Stony Brook Symphony Orchestra. For more information, call the Music Department at 632-7330.

10/10, Sunday. Baroque Sundays at Three. For more information, call 632-7330. 3:00 p.m. Recital Hall, Staller Center.

SEMINARS/LECTURES

9/22, Wednesday. A Place for Edward Said in Asian America. See above for description. 12:45 p.m. Lecture Hall 1, Wang Center. Admission is free.

9/22, Wednesday. Humanities Institute Lecture. Julia Meier, Comparative Studies Department, discusses "Painting Forces and Detecting Them: An Approach to the Cinematic Oeuvre of David Lynch Based on Gilles Deleuze's work, Francis Bacon: Logic of Sensation." For more information, call 632-7765. 4:30 p.m. E-4340 Melville Library.

9/23, Thursday. Humanities Institute Lecture. Mary Jo Bona, Italian American Studies Department, gives a talk as part of the Feminist Campus Colloquium (title to be announced). For more information, call 632-7765. 4:30 p.m. E-4340 Melville Library.

9/30, Thursday. Neurobiology and Behavior Seminar. Dr. Serge Rossignol, University of Montreal, discusses "Spinal Locomotion in Animal Models." 12:00 p.m. Room 038, Life Sciences.

9/30, Thursday. Humanities Institute Symposium. "Public Feelings/Affective Difference: A Conference on Ethnicity and Emotion" will be held at Stony Brook Manhattan; symposium continues on 10/1. For more information, call 632-7765.

10/1, Friday. Astronomy Open Night. Professor Fred Walter, Department of Physics and Astronomy, discusses "SMARTS: New Vistas from Small Telescopes." For more information, call 632-8757. 7:30 p.m. Room 001, ESS Building.

10/6, Wednesday. Humanities Institute Lecture. Wolf Schäfer, Director of the Center for Global History, discusses "Towards Global Contemporaneity: On the Rise and Fall of Temporal Discrimination." For more information, call 632-7765. 4:30 p.m. E-4340 Melville Library.

10/7, Thursday. Biochemistry and Cell Biology Seminar. Dr. Margaret Chou, University of Pennsylvania, discusses "The Tre17 Proto-Oncogene: A Novel Rho GTPase Effector That Encodes a Ubiquitin-Specific Protease and Regulates Actin Remodeling and Vesicular Trafficking." 4:00 p.m. Room 038, Life Sciences.

10/7, Thursday. Humanities Institute Lecture. Catherine Belling, Preventive Medicine, Division of Medicine in Society, gives a talk as part of the Feminist Campus Colloquium (title to be announced). For more information, call 632-7765. 4:30 p.m. E-4340 Melville Library.

10/8, Friday. The Worlds of Physics. Professor Laszlo Mihaly, Department of Physics and Astronomy, discusses "Spin Resonance and Spin Echo." For more information, call 632-8757. 7:30 p.m. Room 001, ESS Building.

10/14, Thursday. Biochemistry and Cell Biology Seminar. Dr. Kevin H. Gardner from University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center discusses "PAS Domains: A Sensitive Class of Biological Switches." 4:00 p.m. Room 038, Life Sciences.

10/14, Thursday. Feminism Film and Culture Symposium. For information, call the Humanities Institute at 632-7765.

10/15, Friday. The Living World. Professor Al Carlson, Department of Neurobiology, and Dr. Michael Doall, Department of Ecology and Evolution, discuss "Talking to Fireflies." For more information, call 632-8600. 7:30 p.m. Room 001, ESS Building.

SPECIAL EVENTS

9/22, Wednesday. University Convocation. President Kenny gives her annual Address and introduces new faculty; reception to follow. 4:00 p.m. Wang Center Theatre.

STALLER CENTER FILMS

Tickets: $6 general; $5 students, seniors, and children 12 and under. For tickets and information, call 632-ARTS.

Friday, October 1. Valentin. A touching and humorous story set in turbulent 1969 Argentina about one boy's friendships and his dream to be an astronaut. In Spanish with subtitles. 7:00 p.m.

Friday, October 1. Harry Potter and the Prisoner of Azkaban. It's Harry's third year at Hogwart's School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, and he learns that a convicted murderer has escaped Azkaban prison and could be coming after him. 9:00 p.m.

Friday, October 8. Shrek 2. Picking up where the first movie left off, Shrek 2 takes us to the kingdom of Far, Far Away as Shrek and Fiona return to her homeland to tell her parents the good news. 7:00 p.m.

Friday, October 8. I'm Not Scared. This suspense/thriller is a startling loss-of-innocence story involving a village that is hiding shocking secrets. In Italian with subtitles. 9:00 p.m.

Friday, October 15. Strayed. A widowed schoolteacher fleeing Nazi-occupied Paris with her children seeks refuge in the forest. In French with subtitles. 7:00 p.m.

Friday, October 15. Fahrenheit 9/11. Michael Moore's take on what happened to the U.S. after 9/11 and how the Bush administration used the tragic event to push its agenda. 9:00 p.m.