The Premieres Series was the "brainchild" of Professor Emeritus John Lessard and the current directors of the Contemporary Chamber Players, Gilbert Kalish and Raymond DesRoches. In its fourteenth year, the Premieres Series features what the New York Times has called Stony Brook's "small army of musicians [of] consistent accomplishment." The program has contributed over sixty new pieces to the contemporary repertoire by some of the finest composers of our time, including Osvaldo Golijov, Wayne Peterson, Melinda Wagner, Bun-Ching Lam, Ralph Shapey, Donald Grantham, Steven Mackey, and Richard Feliciano.

This program was made possible in part by the Alice M. Ditson Fund of Columbia University. The Stony Brook Contemporary Chamber Players would like to acknowledge the generous contributions of the following people to tonight's concert: Joseph Bartolozzi, Martin Blessinger, Hsiu-Hsiu Chang, Lisa Coons, Joshua Feltman, Kent Gustavson, Alan Inkles, Francis Kayali, Emanouil Manolov, Raina Murnak, Nissim Schaul, and Matthew Ward.
