TABLE OF CONTENTS.

PART I. PLATES I.—XXXV.

PLATE.

I.—X. THE Text of the decagon cylinder RM. 1, found in the Northern Palace at Kouyunjik and now in the British Museum. This cylinder is almost perfect, and the text, where defective, is restored from duplicates. The annals extend from 668 B.C. to about the year 635 B.C. The divisions of the text are as follows:—

The Introduction, containing an account of the accession of Assurbanipal, &c., Pl. I., lines 1 to 51.

The First Egyptian War, against Tirhakah, Pl. I., l. 52, to Pl. II., l. 27.

The Second Egyptian War, against Urdamanê, Pl. II., l. 28 to l. 48.

The Conquest of Tyre and the death of Ba'al, king of Tyre, Pl. II., l. 49 to l. 125.

The expedition against Ahsêri, king of Van, Pl. II., l. 126, to Pl. III., l. 26.

The expedition against Te-umman, king of Elam, Pl. III., l. 27 to l. 127.

The war with Samas-sum-ukîn or Saosduchinos, brother of Assurbanîpal, Pl. III., l. 128, to Pl. IV., l. 109.

The first war with Ummanaldas, king of Elam, Pl. IV., l. 110, to Pl. V., l. 62.

The second war with Ummanaldas, king of Elam, Pl. V., l. 63, to Pl. VII., l. 81.

The expedition against Uâte', king of Arabia, Pl. VII., l. 82, to Pl. X., l. 5.

The capture of Ummanaldas, king of Elam, Pl. X., l. 6 to l. 39.

The embassy from Istar-dûri, king of Ararat, Pl. X., l. 40 to l. 50.

The repair of the Palace of Sennacherib at Nineveh, the conclusion, and the date of the inscription, Pl. X., l. 51 to the end.

XI. Obverse of a bilingual text in three columns, completed from duplicates. The first column contains dialectic variants of the so-called Akkadian (compare W.A.I. II., Pl. 31, No. 1, & Pl. 40, No. 5).
