

End of Semester Roll-Call of Journalists killed

Here is a summary of the CPJ reports on journalists killed from Jan. 1 forward, taken from the CPJ Website. The hyperlinks permit you to easily investigate further.

At Stony Brook, we used to print each summary out on a separate sheet of paper and hand them out to students as they come in.

Upon the signal, each stands up in order and reads the summary, remaining standing.

The number of standing students is something they remember.

I have found, however, that less is more. Students mumble the longer the entry is. This year I'm just going to have them loudly state the date, place and name
